Plans Advance for Observing of Centennial

Steering Committee Met with Field Man to Plan 1958 Event

Progress toward assigning duties in connection with Pennington county's participation in the Minnesota statehood centennial observance in 1958 was made Friday afternoon at a meeting of the county steering committee in the probate court room in the court house.

Judge Herman A. Kjos, committee chairman, conducted the session, at which the group conferred with Wm. Stohr, field man for the state centennial commission. He pointed out the need for setting up county organizations to insure the observance being of statewide significance, and added that to date groups have been formed in all but eight counties.

Stohr emphasized the importance of the steering committee enlisting the cooperation of all existing organizations in the county. As special fields of activity, he suggested that events of a historical nature might be arranged in connection with the county fair, and that the historical society might be asked to sponsor a display of relics of the past.

At the meeting chairmanships of the various committees were tentatively assigned to members of the group, subject to revision at the next meeting to be held Friday, February 1, following which the names will be made public. Included to date are committees on business, industry, women's affairs, religion, history, agriculture, schools, pageants, county fair and civic and fraternal organizations.

1956 Banner Year in Job Placements by State Service

Total Placements for Year Were 181,081, Says Commr. Frank Starkey

The 33 field offices of the State Employment Service, including Thief River Falls, supplied people to fill more jobs than in any other peacetime year in its history.

This announcement is a high light in a preliminary report as to 1956 operations issued this week by Commissioner Frank T. Starkey, of the department of employment security.

Total placements for the year were 181,081. Only during 1951, during the Korean War, were more placements made—186,500.

Starkey's report shows that the 1956 placements were 11,772 more than in 1955, an increase of 7%. Non-farm placements were 11,092 more than last year, while farm placements increased 680. Of the non-farm jobs filled, 33,483 or 29% were for women, as compared with 30,824 female placements in '55. This year veterans took 45,205 or 29% of the jobs filled.

There was an increase of 11% in the number of professional and managerial jobs filled; a decrease of 2% in unskilled and "other" classifications.

VFW Post Sponsors Explorer Scouts

Organization Meeting Slated Next Thursday

The local VFW Post Explorer Scout committee today invited all boys interested in "Exploring" to meet at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 20 in the upstairs meeting room of the VFW Post. Exploring is for boys 14 years old and up.

Explorer scouting consists largely of advanced outdoor activities. Instead of hikes, or just camping trips, explorers engage in "expeditions", which involve hiking and camping, but in addition, there is usually some objective to be attained such as visiting leading industries and finding out just what makes them tick.

Youths joining the explorer post can look forward to expert instruction in such things as archery, hunters' safety instructions, hot rodding, safe driving practices, boating, photography, conservation practices, lifesaving, plus various trade training.

In addition, explorers also participate in various community projects, and hold social activities of their own.

It is not necessary to have been a cub or boy scout to join an explorer post.

All boys interested in scouting are welcome and invited to attend the meeting.

Bob St. Lawrence, scout executive of this district will attend.

Pennington Residents Have Bought 76 Per Cent of Quota Thru November

U. S. Savings Bond purchases in Pennington county through November have now reached $226,566, or 76.8 per cent of the 1956 goal, J. M. Roche, chairman of the county savings bond committee, reported today.

They are as easy to buy as a visit to your bank."

Gov. Freeman to Ask Bigger Aid to Schools

Announces His Plans Thursday at Meeting of State Officials

Gov. Freeman said Thursday he will ask the 1957 legislature for increased state school aids and for adoption of an administrative reorganization program.

He told some 200 top state agency people that he has not decided how much he will ask in school aids, or in what formula the aids will be based.

The 1955 legislature boosted basic aids from $80 to $82 per pupil. An interim commission has since been studying possible formula changes.

A reorganization bill was passed in 1955, but later was declared invalid by the supreme court because of a technical error.

Both Freeman and his commissioner of administration, Arthur Naftalin, have indicated the 1957 proposal—on the basis of experience gained in the past two years — will differ somewhat from its predecessor.

Thursday, following what the governor termed an "unprecedented" open-to-the-public meeting with his department heads, the administration turned over to them sealed envelopes containing final budget maximums to be presented to the legislature as the governor's budget requests.

Freeman asked agency chiefs to readjust their budget programs in the light of his trims which are 14 million dollars beneath departmental requests.

The governor, re-elected last month to his second term, said his budget message will seek an increase in every department nonetheless.

Department heads asked for 204 million dollars in general revenue funds for the coming biennium. Freeman said he will cut their bids to 190 million dollars, but that this still represents

State Supreme Court Rejects Dr. Axilrod's Plea for Rehearing

The Minnesota Supreme Court Friday denied a rehearing in the case of Dr. A. Arnold Axilrod.

A month ago the court upheld the conviction of the Minneapolis dentist on a charge of first degree manslaughter in the strangulation death of a young woman patient, Mrs. Mary Moonen, formerly of Thief River Falls and Plummer and a graduate of Lincoln high school.

Dr. Axilrod was taken to Stillwater Prison to begin serving a 5 to 20-year term and his attorneys petitioned the Supreme Court for a rehearing on the appeal.

In an opinion written by Chief Justice Dell, the court said today the points raised in the rehearing petition "were fully considered by the court and disposed of" in the opinion upholding Dr. Axilrod's conviction.

One of these points was that the trial court erred in "refusing and failing to properly instruct the jury that the burden rested upon the state to establish beyond a reasonable doubt that the killing was not excusable and not justifiable."

With respect to this, the court said, "We deem it advisable to correct what might be considered a misleading statement" in the

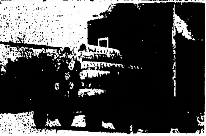
Hauling Was Big Problem at Grygla



Hauling butter to market and getting necessary supplies in was a problem at all times in the early days of the Grygla community, and at times an almost impossible problem. Floods were not unusual in that area and by present standards there were no roads. Old timers recall that it was not unusual to move freight by boats and barges when roads were impassable.

In the picture above we have a view of the transportation problem as it was in 1921. There still was a road problem 30 years ago and trucks were not as dependable as they are now, but they did represent great progress. John Maney is the trucker hauling this load of butter tubs and a bulky load it was too. Seated on the hood of the truck is Maney's eldest son, Douglas.

Grygla Creamery to Celebrate Its 50th Anniversary Dec. 20

The fiftieth anniversary of the Grygla cooperative creamery will be observed Thursday, December 20, with an open house from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Refreshments will include pancakes, ice cream and coffee, Amos Thompson, manager, announced today.

The Grygla creamery was organized early in 1906, the articles of incorporation being filed February 24 of that year. Officers of the incorporation were Aaron Anderson, president; I. O. Ringham, vice president; H. T. Peterson, treasurer, and A. O. Fladeland, secretary-manager. Directors were Henry Nygaard, J. Landro and Cornel Thompson. Albert Lloyd was the first operator and continued in that position until 1921.

During the fifty years of its operation the creamery has been a dependable source of revenue and the economic base upon which the community has built. The present building was erected in 1936 and a locker plant was added in 1948, providing 458 storage lockers. The creamery is modern in every way and has the best of equipment. Last year 372,3[illegible] pounds of butter were manufactured and 157,289 pounds of meat were processed.

Fred Cuno and Peter Levang are the only original stockholders still living, Mr. and Mrs. Cuno and Mr. and Mrs. Levang being residents of Grygla at the present time. Several widows of the original stockholders are also living in Grygla including Mrs. A. O. Fladeland and Mrs. Henry Nygaard. Mrs. B. O. Dalos is living on the farm.

The operation of a creamery at a point so far distant from a railroad and served by roads that were often impassable had many special problems. According to the old timers there was much opposition to the idea of building a creamery at so remote an inland point, but the optimists prevailed and the success of the venture justified their confidence in the community.

In 1921 Albert Lloyd was succeeded as operator by Halvor Magnuson who served in that capacity for ten years. Sam Belerson was operator from 1931 to 1935; Eric Berg from 1935 to 1937; I. M. Magnuson from 1937 to 1941; M. K. Ellingston from 1941 to 1951; Robert Qual from 1951 to 1955; and since April of 1955 by the present manager, Amos Thompson.

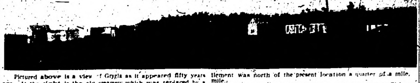
Grygla As It Appeared Fifty Years Ago, North of Present Location



Pictured above is a view of Grygla as it appeared fifty years ago. At the right is the old creamery which was replaced by a new structure in 1936, and the home provided for the operator. At the left are some of the original stores and homes when the settlement was north of the present location a quarter of a mile.

In commemoration of its fifty years of service there will be an open house at the creamery next Thursday, December 20. Pancakes, ice cream and coffee will be served.

Welfare Costs in Pennington Near $500,000

60 Per Cent of Total Outlay Is Spent for Old-age Assistance

About one out of every 10 persons in Pennington county received some direct service in the way of either financial assistance or social service from the Pennington county welfare board in 1956, the majority of them receiving financial aid.

Expenditures by the board during the year are not yet totalled in detail, but they will approach the half million mark when the books are closed. Old age assistance recipients received about 60 per cent of the total, said John X. Lynskey, executive secretary of the board.

A breakdown of the individual programs shows that during the calender year, 356 people received aid to dependent children; there were 19 aid to the disabled cases and 22 aid to the blind recipients; 142 children were included in the child welfare count, including cases of neglect, dependency, illegitimacy, mental retardation, delinquency, and epilepsy.

A total of 43 persons received aid in mental institutions; and 15 in institutions for the mentally retarded; 17 cases receiving public assistance from other counties but living in Pennington were serviced by the board; there were about 20 cases receiving local hospital care, Gillette Hospital care and University Hospital care of direct relief, cases of war veterans relief, and about 150 minor [illegible] cases.

Recoveries made by the board during the year were higher than usual, amounting to almost $20,000. About half of this amount was OAA lien recoveries, the rest coming from refunds and collections on the mentally ill, mentally retarded, insurance recoveries, and various recoveries on all of the other programs administered by the board.

There was little or no change in the case load during the year, and most of the increased costs were due to either the county having to pay an increased share of the total cost, or increased medical costs due to a statewide medical fee schedule, or due to liberalization of laws.

Beginning January 1, 1956, the county had to pay 55 per cent of anything over federal ceiling with the state paying 45 per cent, whereas in the past the county and state had divided such cost

$300 Damage from Three Collisions in City Thursday

No Serious Accidents Are Reported in Area by Highway Patrol or Sheriff

A rash of minor accidents Thursday resulted in approximately $300 property damage but no injuries to persons involved, according to the city police department.

In one accident near Northern Woodwork Co., a car driven by Benny Miramontes who was driving south on Knight av. was hit in the left rear fender by Gail L. Langlie, also going south. Miramontes was making a left turn into an alley when the mishap occurred. Total damage to both cars was estimated at $90. Both men are from the city.

In another mishap, this one caused by icy street conditions, David Hanson, city, hit a utility pole at 1st. st. and Arnold av., breaking the pole off. Damage to pole $20, damage to Hanson's car $45.

Thursday's most serious accident occurred when Walter Pulczinski, Greenbush, pulled from the curb on Main av. S. and was hit by a truck driven by Lester Nordhagen, city. Nordhagen was going south when he hit Pulczinski. Damage to Pulczinski's car was estimated at $115, with no damage to Nordhagen truck. Pulczinski was charged with failing to yeild right-of-way.

The state highway patrol reports several cars have been run into ditches along area highways but no serious damages or injuries were caused by the mishaps, which were caused by icy roads.

Paved highways in the area are reported very slippery and all motorists are warned to use extreme caution when traveling.

The Pennington county sheriff's office reported a very quiet weekend in the county.

Have You Tried. . .

any of the recipes in our Christmas recipe booklet sent to Homemakers last week? Several women have called to give "family-tested" comments, about how much they enjoy trying the different recipes.

But, please do this: make a change in the Skillet Cookie recipe on the first page, sent in by Mrs. Hans Drotts, President of the Extension Home Council. It should read:

¾ cups sugar instead of 3 cups sugar.

Will you make this change in your recipe sheet, please?

You Can Expect. . .

. . .even better family living for 1957, if family incomes continue to rise. Even if the gradual rise in the total cost of living continues into 1957, you can still continue to live 'the better way' you've been doing the past few years. Best Buys

Plan to use December's Best Buys in Food as much as you can for your holiday meals. You'll save money by using these plentiful foods this month: young chickens, canned corn, heavy turkeys, lard, low and medium grade beef, large eggs, and canned purple plums. You can expect lower prices on all these items this month, and so plan to use these foods.

Here are some tips on buying your Christmas trees from Glenn Prickett, safety specialist at the University of Minnesota.

•Buy a small or medium-size fresh tree. Run your hands over the boughs to see if the needles feel moist.

•Keep the tree in water. Water is the best thing you can use to flame proof your tree. Keep plenty of water in your tree stand.

•When you bring the tree home, cut off the but end about an inch, with a slanting cut. This opens up the pores and allows the tree to draw up water.

•Be sure to set your tree away from radiators, heaters and fireplaces.

•Last tip, take down your tree as soon as the needles begin to shed.

Add Facilities at Itasca State Park

Work Reported at About 40 Per Cent Complete

The construction program in the state park system during the past year has added many accommodation and service facilities for state park visitors. The construction work was in addition to active operation and service work.

Three tourist camp service buildings provided with toilets, showers and laundry facilities have been completed at Lake Bemidji, Lake Carlos and McCarthy Beach State Parks.

The modernization program has been about 40% completed in Itasca state park where a new modern guest cabin has replaced two over-age cabins and a major remodeling job has provided 18 guest rooms with private baths in the Douglas Lodge area. The Itasca tourist campground has been provided with 12 additional campsites and a new modern toilet building has been erected.

The preparations for the 1957 summer season continues during the winter months with general equipment overhaul. Ice production and firewood production by-product of forest cleanup, and the production centers are constructing picnic tables, signs, portable pit toilets, needed for outlaying areas and even refuse cans converted from discarded oil and chemical drums.

Production schedules require the construction of 200 picnic tables, 400 signs, 12 portable toilets, 100 signs and miscellaneous furniture items for guest housing.

Right Around Town

BY V. M. "MACK" DRAPER

Things are really hummin' around town these days with the Christmas rush in full swing. Business seems to be good, too, and from what we hear it's at least as good as a year ago, if not better.

Wonder how much better off everyone in the area would be if we hadn't had all those heavy rains and hailstorms last summer and fall. County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk told us back in the fall that this year's crop might have been the best ever if nature hadn't taken a hand. However, the crop was about average despite the adverse weather, so Paul says.

The weatherman hasn't been batting anywhere near .1000 in his forecasts these days. Saturday was one of the most beautiful winter days we've ever seen—although the forecast for that day in the five-day forecast had been for just the opposite.

We forgot to mention that Boy Scout Troop 57 of St. Bernard's is also selling Christmas trees this year. We didn't mean to leave you out, boys—it was just an oversight that you weren't mentioned in Thursday's column.

With inflation being what it is, a proper name for the minimum wage law would be "Starvation wage law." What are our legislators trying to prove . . . that a worker's family will or won't starve to death on $1 an hour?

We hear that Ike may say something about helping the whitecollar worker in his state of the union speech early next year. Well, the least he could do is suggest that some of 'em be put in an institution for taking up that kind of work.

And to think that it has been only a few years ago that a man with business school or liberal arts training was thought of as being extremely well off. Nowadays he's just off—period.

Inflation, we fear, is here to stay so long as congress has all that money the Internal Revenue bureau withholds from workers' paychecks to play Santa Claus with.

Or, perhaps the people will at long last realize that after all, that money they pay as income tax is still theirs (even though Uncle Sam is handling it) and demand that it be spent more carefully!

Seems that we've been having an uncommon amount of sleet this year. There was a dangerous glaze to streets and highways in the area last Saturday morning.

According to local traffic authorities we've been very fortunate in having so few accidents lately. Here's hoping things stay that way—it all depends on you and me, you know!

We wonder what it would be like to sit down at the typewriter and have more material than we need to write a column. Who knows—it might even happen some day! So long!

Ingratitude is a mask of selfishness.—Anonymous.

Sugar Beet Assn. Meets in Stephen

Harry Oen and J. M. Roche Shared in Discussion

A meeting of the North Dakota-Minnesota Sugar Beet Growers Development association was held in Stephen, Saturday, December 15th, with Grant Trenbath, president, of Neche, North Dakota, presiding. In attendance were Amos Larson and J. H. Myhre of Stephen; Art Fleckton, Drayton; Bob Dappen, Wallace Nelson, and Art Johnson of Halljock; Art Peterson and Axel Gormson of Gatzke; Leroy Bergeron, Argyle; and Harry Oen and J. M. Roche of Thief River Falls.

The group discussed resolutions in regard to the acreage for the 1957 sugar beet program. Recommendations made were that the 2%-recommended allocations for new growers be equally divided between new growers and old growers who had received acreage reductions, and are now operating acreages of less than 40 acres.

It was also recommended that the balance of the acreage allocations of the approximately 7,500 acres, to be restored to those who had previously received the greatest reduction, back to their original acreage, and that new growers be given not less than 20 acres, nor more than 40.

Finally, it was recommended that the Department of Agriculture control of acreage be released and restored to the responsibility of the processors.

Mercury Slumps to 28 Below Zero Today

Local weather watchers got a big windfall from the weatherman over the past weekend as winter really bared its icy fangs. The area received considerable snow, with the fall starting early Sunday morning.

By Sunday afternoon the mercury started a downward plunge that finally registered a frigid 28 Monday morning. There's a good reason why there seems to be fewer cars on the streets these mornings!

For the first time this winter all the low readings were below zero, although all highs were above. Here is the record for the past reporting period, Thursday through Monday morning:

Date	High	Low
Thurs., Dec. 13	9	-3
Friday, Dec. 14	16	-2
Saturday, Dec. 15	15	-9
Sunday, Dec. 16	8	-9
Monday, Dec. 17		-28

Precipitation measurements are not available now that moisture here fall as snow. The snow cover was estimated at between six and eight inches as of Monday morning.

The immediate forecast from KTRF calls for light snow and occasional drifting and blowing snow and colder with northerly winds through tonight. Lows will be 10 to 15 below zero and highs zero to 10 below.

It will be partly cloudy, fair and cold Tuesday with the winds diminishing by evening.

The five-day forecast for Minnesota, courtesy North Central Airlines, calls for temperatures 3 to 6 degrees below normal in the state for the period from Tuesday through Saturday. Normal maximums are 16-22 and minimums are 0 to 8 above.

A slow warming trend will begin late Tuesday and there will be minor temperature variations Thursday and Saturday.

Precipitation will be light to moderate, falling as snow (how else could it fall, these days?) Wednesday, Friday or Saturday. Amounts will be .10 to .25 inches.

Governor to Ask Legislature for Bigger School Aid a boost of 25 million dollars over the 165 million appropriations for the current two-year period.

He said that for the first time in history the governor was asking agency heads for advice on spreading their revised allotments within their departments. He set a deadline of next Friday for new distribution figures.

Freeman said a "substantial part" of the 25-million increase will go into state employe pay raises. He said these will be "built into" the civil service department budget on the basis of a comparability study made by a self-survey task force.

The objective, he said, is to bring state pay more nearly into line with private industry, and thus reduce worker turnover.

Both Freeman and Naftalin cautioned against unauthorized employe lobbying. The later said special departmental appeals to legislators are often harmful.

Supreme Court Denies Rehearing n Axilrod Case

opinion in which the conviction was affirmed.

"We said, in effect," the court said, "that the trial court instructed the jury that the state must prove the essential elements of the offense, one of which was that the killing was done without excuse or justification.

"The trial court specifically so instructed the jury only with reference to the offense of murder in the first degree. The court then went on to point out the differences in the elements of lesser included offenses.

"Although perhaps not expressly spelled out, the instructions considered as a whole make it clear that the lack of 'excuse or justification' element was also a necessary ingredient of the lesser offenses. If there was any technical error in the court's charge respecting this element, it was clearly error without prejudice since, as pointed out in the opinion, the state's evidence established that the killing here was without excuse or justification."

Welfare Costs in County Approach $500,000 Mark

on a fifty—fifty basis. All counties and the state did receive a financial windfall when the federal congress increased its share effective October 1, 1956.

This year was the first full year that the county had to pay any share of aid to the blind. Previously, the county paid no part of the cost but now its share amounts to $5,500 a year.

The board began the year with a $20,000 surplus, and will end the year with a deficit of a few thousand dollars.

The board also handles the disbursement of funds for the Oakland Park Nursing Home, and an additional $93,000.00 was disbursed from that fund.

Another extra fund administered by the board, the social welfare fund, consisting of mostly the collection of court orders in illegitimacy and divorce cases, had collections and disbursements of $8,000.

Sunshine Club Have Christmas Party

The Sunshine Club had their Christmas party at Henfred Bernhardson's home Friday evening. Christmas carols were sung and gifts exchanged afterwhich lunch was served to the members who were all present.

Pinnochle Party at Florian

The pinochle party at Florian held during the evening of Dec. 12 was well attended. Forty-eight players making up 16 tables of play, represented Strandquist, Karlstad and Florian areas. Prizes were awarded to players having high scores. N. J. Sundberg received top honors with a score of 777. Ted Chwialkowski, 2nd with 768 and Tommy Borowicz 3rd with 735. A delicious lunch was served during intermission after four rounds of play.

Santa Claus Day Was Well Attended

Santa Claus day was well attended Saturday and 300 bags of candy were distributed. The business people and the Commercial Club contribute to this day which is to gladden the hearts of children and it's too bad we ran short of bags for the adults. Mrs. A. Stallock, Mrs. Oscar Carlson, Mrs. Ella Thun, Mrs. Otto Paulson, Mrs. Carl Johnson, Mrs. Wm. Hanson and Mrs. Ed Stennes helped old Santa fill bags and distribute them. John Blaze's little girl came to town too late to see Santa and give him a special message, to thank him for sending uncle Hjalmer back to her in time for Christmas. The real Christmas spirit, I'd say.

Funeral Services for Mrs. Caroline Stennes Held

The funeral services for Mrs. Caroline Stennes were held Tuesday morning Dec. 11, 1956 at 10 o'clock in the Bethesda Lutheran Church with Rev. A. H. Larson officiating. Mrs. A. H. Larson accompanied the soloist Mrs. Philip Boen and the duet, Mrs. Wm. Hanson and Mrs. Leroy Anderson.

The pallbearers were Holger Hougard, Ole Lousness, Erick Hendrickson, Carl Johnson and Clarence and Helmer Hanson, old friends and neighbors. Interment was in the Strandquist cemetery.

Mr. Stennes was born in Norway Dec. 8, 1868 to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christine Hilstad and came with her parents and sister to this country at 13 years of age. Here they settled at Shelly, Min. and she continued her confirmation instruction. About this time she worked for the sheriff's family in Caledonia, who were of Irish descent, where she learned to speak the English language fluently. She told of how she asked one of the children for firesticks one morning as she couldn't find the matches to build a fire.

In 1894 grandma married Ole Stennes at Shelly and to this union five sons and one daughter were born. Grandpa was engaged mostly in well digging and drilling. About 1910 they moved to the Strandquist area to farm. They brought horses with them but they died so they bought oxen. This was pretty slow transportation to attend the services in the West Valley Lutheran Church where they were active members. The ministers who came on bicycle or drove with horses from Holt enjoyed the hospitality of the Stennes family many a day.

After retiring they moved to town and lived until grandpa passed away March 20, 1944 from cancer. Grandma then moved into a little house along side of Ed's and also spent some time with the rest of the children and due to old age and ill health entered the Good Samaritan home in Warren around two years ago where she resided until she was hospitalized for a heart condition. She was 88 years and 1 day at the time of her death.

She is survived by five sons, Ed Roy and Gilman of Strandquist; Curtis of Hopkins, Min.; Kenneth of Kent, Wash.; one daughter, Mrs. Harold Hope of Stephen, Minn.; thirteen grandchildren and six great grandchildren. They were all home during her illness and rites except Kenneth Stennes children, grandson Willys and family of Seattle, Wash. and two little great granddaughters of Stephen.

Relatives and friends who came from afar were Kenneth Stennes of Kent, Wash., Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Stennes and family and Miss Carol Hope of Hopkins, Minn., Mrs. Anna Hope, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hope, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Thibodo and Bryce all of Stephen, Miss Doris Isaacson of Fargo, N. Dak. and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Baker of Sabin, Minn.

A chance discovery in 1856 led to the establishment of the synthetic dye industry, when William Henry Perkin in search of a synthetic quinine hit instead upon coal tar dyes.

Prowler Six, State Champion, Opens Play vs. G. Forks Tuesday

The state high school hockey champion Prowlers, under the direction of a new coach, John Matchefts, and with a new squad and lineup, will open its arduous 1956-57 schedule on Tuesday night when, on the Arena ice, they meet coach Sergio Gambucci's Grand Forks Central Redskins.

Since 1948, the Prowlers and the Redskins have engaged in eleven hockey games, and during that span the locals have recorded nine wins and lost twice. Last season's tilt between the two teams, which was also the schedule-opener, found the Prowlers eking out a 3 to 2 victory. Coach Gambucci is well-supplied with veterans, and consequently the Redskins will be slight favorites tomorrow night.

While Coach Matchefts hasn't made any definite commitments as to the lineup that will take the ice at the game-opening face-able that Ken Sauve will be in able that Ken Sauve will be in the nets, letterman Fred [illegible] and Don Litstrom on defense, with a second blue-line pair being letterman Darryl Smith and Jimmy Nelson.

Letterman Jimmy Hall will center the number one line, having letterman Wendy Johnson and sophomore Jerry Jorgenson at the wing positions. The number two line will be centered by Jorgenson, with freshmen Arlone Iljelle and Dale Wennberg at the wings. The third line will be centered by Mike Poole, and with Bill Walker, Curt Ness or Bruce Ranum at the wings.

Fosston Edges Prowler Quint Friday 56-47

Greyhounds Scored 21 Points in Final Quarter of Contest

Scoring twenty-one points in the fourth period, the Fosston Greyhounds galloped to a 56 to 47 win over the Prowlers in an inter-district basketball game played at Fosston Friday night. The game, entering the final period, was a near-even tilt, with the Greyhounds holding a five-point lead, 35 to 30.

In the preliminary game, coach Joe Mrkonich's Prowler 'B' team, revealing a well-balanced scoring squad, defeated the Greyhound 'B' team, 53 to 33. The Prowler 'B's held a 26 to 15 advantage at the intermission.

After trailing by a 13 to 10 score at the end of the first period, the locals, with Dave Hanson looping in three field goals, gained a 16 to 13 lead. Darryl Foster, who proved to be the Greyhounds' sharpest marksman, scored on a jump shot, to pare the lead to one point; but Hanson hit on a fielder, and the Prowlers led, 18 to 15. A free throw, and a field goal by Foster, evened the score at 18-all.

Dave Rasmussen, on a fast break, dumped in a field goal, and then added a free throw. A free throw by Bob Evans, and a pair of gift shots by Foster, knotted the score at 21-all. With less than a minute to play in the period, Evans hit on a jump shot, giving the Greyhounds a 23 to 21 lead; but the Prowlers' Hanson, scoring his fifth goal of the period, evening up the score at 23 to 23. With seconds of play remaining, Foster scored a field goal giving Fosston a 25 to 23 half-time lead.

Scoring ten points in the third period, with Foster and John Danielson each getting a pair of fielders, the Greyhounds moved ahead to a 35 to 30 lead in the third period. And in the final period, Fosston, with six-point efforts by Foster and Dave Carlin, and with center Bill Lindberg adding five points, pulled away to a 56 to 47 victory.

The Prowlers' Dave Hanson, although held scoreless in the third period, gained the high-point honors, looping in ten field goals and four free throws for twenty-four points. Fosston's Foster, with eight field goals and five free throws, had a 21-point game for runner-up honors.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

The Hockey Opener

On Tuesday night, with the doors at the Arena being opened at 7:30 p. m., local hockey fans will be making their first trek of the season to the hockey rink. It's hockey time again, with the state champion Prowlers opening their 1956-57 schedule by meeting Sergio Gambucci's always-welcome Grand Forks Central Redskins.

"The Redskins, with the fine program of Grand Forks park hockey system serving as a "feeder," comes up with strong pep teams every year. Last year, it will be recalled, the Prowlers, who went on to win the state championship, were hard-pressed to edge out the Redskins, 3 to 2.

This year's Prowler club, will, from all pre-season predictions and indications, need all the crowd support and morale-building that they can get. They have the hardest tasks, and as tough a schedule, as have ever faced a Prowler hockey team since the sport was recognized as a high school activity in 1945.

Not only was the Prowler squad shattered by graduation; but disciplinary actions and ineligibility troubles have plagued the club. As a result, the team that coach Johnny Matchefts will send out on the ice against the veterans Redskins will be, except for Jimmy Hall, Wendy Johnson, Freddy Dablow, and Darryl Smith, an untested and inexperienced outfit.

Come out on Tuesday night, but please leave your critical set of eyes at home, and bring your "eyes for the future, for that's the way to watch the young Prowlers.

No Surprise

Did you notice the score of that Bemidji Lumberjacks vs. Detroit Lakers basketball game? The Lumberjacks were beaten, by a solid 80 to 60 score, by the Lakers, in a game played on the narrow Detroit Lakes court.

That was no surprise, especially since the game was played in the cramped quarters at Detroit Lakes (A new school and gymnasium is to be built down there next year). The Lumberjacks are a mobile outfit, and they need a spacious floor so that their press and running game can be utilized to its full effect. Not that the result of the game would have been much different had the two teams met on the Bemidji floor, for the Lakers are a rugged and well-balanced basketball squad and they are capable of defeating the eighth region's best. The Lakers are particularly effective in controlling the backboards, and at Detroit Lakes their ability to clear the boards verges on the uncanny.

We can well imagine that the Jacks' lanky Ray Cronk had his troubles in trying to score on rebounds and tip ins, what with the Lakers' Jim Johnson, Walt Tollefson, and Marv Anderson setting up their "wedge" around the Detroit Lakes basket.

Nervous Orvis

We were tolling up Horace avenue on Friday when we came upon a road block. And what do you know, there was Orvis Oien holding up traffic by waving what appeared to be a cordwood stick. On closer inspection that "cordwood stick" turned out to be a nine-pounds plus walleyed pike that he had caught, on Thursday, while ice-fishing on Lake of the Woods.

Orvis, along with Web Maves, Tommy Fuller, and John Peterson, ice-fished the Burton Island territory on Lake of the Woods. Burton Island is on the Ontario side of the lake, about seven miles from the Oak Island light at the mouth of the Rainy river. And the quartet had good luck, for they caught twenty-four walleyes and sixteen saugers.

Orvis, in catching his lunker, had the experience of bringing the walleye to the surface and then having the fragile leader he was using, break. Orvis plunged his arm into the icy water and managed to grab the pike, and haul the walleye out of the water. Not a bit excited about it at all, either, for he turned to Tommy and said 'Albert, would you re-tie my leader?' And "Albert" would, and did.

Miscellany

Buddy Bjornaraa, who appears to be destined to be the Oklee and Trail community's gift to the Minnesota football team, earned a Gopher freshman football numeral this fall. Frosh coach, Wally Johnson, recommended that 41 members of the 1956 yearling squad be given numerals, and Buddy was included in that group. In fact, the Gopher coaches think highly of the all-round ability of the former Oklee athlete.—And we see that Bemidji's Clark Corky Johnson has survived the final "cut" of the Minnesota freshman basketball squad. Corky was an all-state selection on last season's Bemidji Lumberjack club. Of course, Corky's best sport is baseball and it's on a baseball scholarship that he is attending the University. He'll be a great one. — Bradley "Pud" Teal, a former Prowler hockey player, and now one of the city's contingent of players who are performing for the Rochester Mustangs hockey club, is recovering from a serious leg injury. Pud received a severe bruise in a hockey game, and the injury developed into quite serious complications when an embolus, or blood clot, formed in the thigh. He was forced to undergo surgery, and as a result he will be hospitalized for a couple of weeks. — John Chommie, captain and all-state guard on the state high school basketball champions of 1932, is now a professor of law at Miami University.

NEW ROOF OVER OLD SAVES TIME, MONEY

When a house needs a new roof, one way to save money on the job is to have asphalt shingles applied directly over the old rofing.

This not only saves time and labor, but avoids an unsightly mess as well. The new roofing, in one of many colors available, will perk up the looks of the house and give it years of protection from all kinds of weather.

Roseau Rams Bow to Prowler Quint 74-56

Coach Al Adams' Prowler cagers broke a three-game losing streak on Saturday night when, in a game played on the local court, they defeated an ever-trying Roseau Rams team, 74 to 56, in an interdistrict basketball game. On Friday night, Dec. 21st, the Prowlers will meet their traditional rivals, the Crookston Central Pirates, in an important 31st district conference game on the Lincoln high school gymnasium floor.

A spectacular one-man scoring performance by Roseau's nimble guard, Larry Ness, kept the visitors "in the game" until midway in the final period on Saturday night, when the Prowlers were able to build up a "comfortable" lead.

The Prowlers, showing considerable more aggressiveness and spirit than they had exhibited in the previous three games, pulled away to an 18 to 10 lead at the end of the opening period of play. A pair of field goals and a free throw boosted the locals' lead to 23 to 10 in the opening minutes of the second period, and the game appeared destined to be a "rout".

With the score reading 27 to 12 for the Prowlers, Roseau's Tyrone Erickson hit on a hook shot, Obert Lillo ringed a jump shot, and Larry Ness pumped in the first of four shots. The Rams continued to pare the Prowler lead, and with but a minute of half remaining, the green-and-white clad visitors had narrowed the margin to 33 to 32 for the locals. A free throw by Dave Rasmussen and a field goal by Dave Hanson gave the Prowlers a 36 to 32 advantage at the intermission.

Tom Olson opened the second half's scoring by dropping in a pair of Roseau gift shots, and the Prowler lead was down to two points, 36 to 34. Keith Johnson flipped in a pair of Prowler free throws, and Roseau's Ness, on a fine underhand drive-in shot, hit for a two-pointer. That was the end of the Roseau threat, for Hanson notched a pair of field goals and Johnson added two points from the free throw line, with the Prowlers moving on to gain a 56 to 45 third period lead.

In the final stanza, the Prowlers outpointed the visitors, 18 to 11, to post a well-deserved 74 to 56 triumph.

Coach Joe Mrkonich's Prowler 'B' team, after building up a 39 to 9 lead at the half-time, defeated the Roseau 'B' team, 63 to 21.

1956 Golden Wedding Couple Is Honored by Christmas Seal Unit

A Hill City, Minnesota, couple who celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary this year, are being honored this week at a special observance of the Minnesota Tuberculosis and Health association's 50th anniversary year and the 50th Christmas Seal sale in the nation.

The couple named as "Mr. and Mrs. Golden Year Christmas Seal" are Mr. and Mrs. Lew Berry, who live on a farm at Spang just outside Hill City.

Selected from among 46 golden anniversary pairs who were nominated as leaders in their communities, the Berrys were chosen by the judges because of their personal efforts for the health and welfare of people in a pioneer community and because of continuing interest and activity, the state Christmas Seal organization reports. They were to arrive in the Twin Cities on Tuesday night. Events planned for Wednesday included an interview with Governor Orville Freeman and a luncheon at state Christmas Seal headquarters, St. Paul.

On Oct. 4, 1906, Berry and Minette Jane Green were married at the Excelsior Methodist church. It took four years for him to persuade his wife to spend a winter near Hill lake. A year later they bought 80 acres of land and moved north permanently.

The Berrys were soon playing a major role in their pioneer community across Hill lake from Hill City. There were no doctors and no undertakers. Whenever a baby was born, Mrs. Berry was called. If a family had illness or financial trouble, the Berrys arrived with baskets of food, and Mrs. Berry frequently nursed the ill person for months. When there was a death, it was the Berrys who prepared the body for burial and took charge of the funeral.

Mr. Berry helped build the first log church, and he and his wife have both been Sunday school superintendents and are active in all church groups. The couple took charge of early Christmas Seal campaigns in the rural areas of Aitkin county for 15 years and have also led Red Cross and war bond drives.

Athletics In Lincoln High School
By Ralph Skjod

Athletics play a major role in extra-curricular activities at Lincoln high school, not only for the entire student body. We feel that Lincoln has a well rounded athletic program as there is in the state, considering the size of school and the facilities available for the different sport programs.

Our high school has well organized programs in football, cross country, basketball, hockey, baseball, track, tennis and golf. This year an effort is being made to add wrestling to this list. In football and basketball there are three squads A, B, and C. In hockey the coaches work with an A and B squad. In the other sports, there is but one squad; however, the coach works with many more boys that just the ones that compete in games or meets.

Each of the sports is coached by a qualified head coach and his assistants. It is the duty of the coach to select his personnel, teach the fundamental skills of the game, teach his boys that team and individual play are both important, teach sportsmanship and clean play. He coaches his boys to always play within the rules of the game, and impresses upon his squad that whenever they play, they play to win. These are but a few of the many duties of a coach. Our coaches at Lincoln are all conscious of the fact that the player's physical and mental health is of prime importance and far over-shadows the winning of an athletic contest.

I don't know how many of the readers are interested in figures, but I thought I would give you the number of boys participating in these different sports during an average school year in Lincoln High School. These figures do not include athletic participation in our three grade schools, V. F. W. hockey and summer sports. During the fall of the year we have about eighty five boys taking part in football and about thirty in Cross Country. Basketball holds the interest of about sixty fellows and hockey another thirty-five boys during the winter months. In spring, there are thirty boys in track, twenty-five in baseball and ten each in golf and tennis. When you add the sum total of the participation in all sports, we find that we have about 285 boys taking part in sports. Even though this figure shows a large percentage of our boys are in sports activities, coaches and other school people are constantly trying to interest more boys in athletics.

Lincoln A League Member

Lincoln High School is a member of the Minnesota State High School League which is the governing body of high school athletics in this state. The purpose of the League is the promotion of pure amateur sport, and to strengthen and unify eligibility rules governing participation in interschool contests.

Since 1956 is the fortieth anniversary of our League, I thought it might be of interest to you if we would survey the past and present, and take a look toward the future.

The initial organization of schools in this state for the purpose of controlling interscholastic activities was completed in 1916—just forty years ago. At that time the primary purpose was to form an association of schools to aid and assist in the management of the previously organized State High School Basketball Tournament staged at Carleton College since 1913, and to develop standard eligibility rules to govern inter-school competition. The organization thus formed was therefore called The Minnesota State High School Athletic Association.

Once the association was formed, track and football were added to the program and gradually over a period of years other activities, speech and debate, were included. Thus, today, the League sponsors an even dozen athletic activities; eight speech activities, debate and drama. This constitutes one of the broadest and most comprehensive programs of interscholastic activities which meet the needs interests and abilities of schools and pupils.

In the early years athletics were tolerated but not given general enthusiastic support or effective leadership. It was only after trial and experimentation by selected schools that the values to be derived from participation and inter-school competition were organized. It was still later before athletics and other activities were organized as desirable and necessary part of the educational program. Once the way of thinking was accepted there was increased emphasis upon the development of sound programs and standards to insure that activities contributed to the educational ideals and standards of the schools.

The need of the state and national association was therefore evident. They were formed and over a period of years they have provided the leadership for the growth and the standard characteristics of today's fine program.

In the beginning the leadership was largely of a non-professional nature. Most of the coaches were sport enthusiasts not associated in general with the schools. Over the intervening years trained coaches with educational backgrounds supplanted the sport enthusiast and faculty direction and control were completely achieved.

In the early years of inter school athletics competition the collegiate and professional rules dominated all games. Today after years of study and research high school rules have been developed for most sports and adapted to the age and needs of secondary school pupils. Facilities which were practically nonexistant than have blossomed into the wonderful athletic fields and stadiums and the excellent gymnasiums of today. Equipment has been improved to more adequately protect the physical welfare of the players.

Paralleling the growth of the program has been the development of a host of related services which have advanced both the standards of play, and the protection of the pupils. These are aids for coaching and officiating, coaches' schools and clinics, rules interpretation meetings and Benefit Plans which offer financial aid in case of accidental injury in play or practice.

Ralph Skjod

Athletic director, assistant football coach and head baseball coach at Lincoln High School. He was graduated from Howard Lake high school and the University of Minnesota where he received a B.S. degree with a major in biological science. He has taught and coached football, basketball and baseball at Blackduck, Spring Grove, Preston and Milaca, Minnesota before coming to Thief River Falls. He served in the Navy in 1945 and 1946. He is married and father of three children.

Probably the changed economic conditions and increased leisure time available today have made the active participation of most youths possible, and have also resulted in the development of enthusiastic public interest and support for the school program.

Today the competitive spirit is characteristic of all activities of adult life. It is part of American and Americans. The training and opportunities provided by our schools, in sponsored activities are practical usage of the tools and knowledge gained in the instructional programs and prepare the individual for the varied activities of adult life. If rightly directed—and it usually is—the program is good, wholesome, and desirable.

What of tomorrow? The markedly increased enrollments found in our elementary schools today, will be in the high schools tomorrow. The competitive spirit will continue. The program of the schools must continue to expand and improve to meet the influx of students. Facilities, teachers, coaches and equipment must be increased. Expansion and enrichment are inevitable.

Fortunately, in recent years the League has achieved financial security and independence. It is in a position to render the schools almost any service deemed desirable. It has grown to keep pace with the changing times and needs. It will continue to grow and exercise an effective influence for the good of the youth of our state.

The Player and Sportsmanship

Any boy who is physically able can participate in sports. There are, however, certain attributes which the boy should possess if he is to be of any value to a team or if he is to gain something worthwhile from athletics.

First of all, he should have a genuine love of sports. He should not be forced to play against his wishes, and a hard, closely fought game should bring him a joy of being able to be in that particular game. He should play the game because he likes it.

The player should have a spirit of honesty and desire to help the team and not to be a grand stander. He should play to win and firmly believe that a winner never quits' and a 'quitter never wins'. He should have confidence in himself and his team mates and be loyal to both. He will need to learn self control and be ready to sacrifice in the interest of the team.

The successful player has learned obedience and follows the instructions given out by the coach. No coach expects the impossible of any boy and if the boy tries to do his best instead of sulking he will feel a great deal better after the game even though his team did lose.

No other type of activity gives opportunity for the display of sportsmanship as athletics. Poor sportsmanship is frowned upon by both spectator and player, and the individual who continually shows poor sportsmanship, soon loses his popularity. The individual who continually 'beefs' and questions the official's decision is unpopular with all, but the boy who accepts decisions, when grown to manhood will stand on his own two feet and take life in stride. Athletics will teach him that he must accept in some cases he might know that they are wrong.

The athlete must learn that he is representing the school and in doing so he is upholding the traditions of that school. No matter how much he is affected he should always keep in mind that no athletic team of any consequence has ever attained success without a great deal of self sacrifice and self forgetfulness on the part of each of its members.

The Rules Of A Good Sportsman

The athlete should keep in mind that fair play is applauded and that the one who stoops to underhanded methods is soon discovered. If he is to be a good sportsman he must live up to the following rules:

A good sportsman should:

1. Keep the rules.
2. Keep faith with his team mates.
3. Play the game for his side.
4. Keep himself fit.
5. Keep his temper.
6. Keep from hitting a man when he is down.
7. Keep his pride under victory.
8. Keep a stout heart in defeat.
9. Accept defeat with grace.
10. Always be a gentleman.

I would like to end this article with something on the lighter side. These are excerpts from an athletic dictionary:

All-star-An athlete with a good press agent.
Athlete-One who has many college offers of free tuition and spending money.
Bench-The future block of an athlete who broke training rules.
Bum-An official who calls a foul on the favorite.
Cheer-An assorted collection of insults strung together in blank verse or rhyme to make the opponent fans furious.
Go-getter-A sportsman who finds a worm in his apple in the morning and has fish for supper.
Optimist-A coach who moves into a district and doesn't save the crates for his furniture when he unpacks.
Perpetual Motion-A cheerleader with St. Vitus dance.

Junior Futurity Show Details Set

To Be Feature of Winter Shows in Crookston

All major planning has been completed for the Junior Futurity Show at the Red River Valley Winter Shows at Crookston, according to George Nernes of Climax, Futurity Show chairman. The Winter Shows dates are February 25-March 1, 1957.

A more attractive feature of this year's Show is that thirty-five banks from all over the general area, served by the Red River Valley Winter Shows, have contributed a substantial sum of money to help pay transportation costs for any farm boy or girl who wants to show an animal in Futurity shows.

Informational leaflets have been mailed to all teachers of vocational agriculture and county agricultural agents along with entry blanks; therefore, anyone interested in the Futurity show should contact these people for details and for registration procedures.

HEROISM AWARD COMES INTO STATE

The rare and coveted Vail award for unusual service in the public interest, has been bestowed upon Kay W. Norgard, St. Peter employee of Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, together with a check for $250 and a Red Cross Certificate of Merit. Investigating what he thought was a stalled car, Norgard found a 19-year-old farm lad profusely bleeding from a power saw accident and unable to proceed to a doctor, where the phone man promptly rushed him to save his life. Most of the men on the Phone Company's $42,000,000 annual payroll of almost exactly 9,400 persons enjoy the remarkable advantage of Red Cross first aid training.

CORNERSTONE AND A MILESTONE

A cornerstone laying ceremony for the new Northwestern Bell Telephone Company building will be held Friday morning. Cornerstones, as such, have little special significance. They are important mainly as they represent achievement or an ideal. We like this particular cornerstone because we like the organization it represents.

Northwestern Bell is part of a giant national organization, the kind we are apt to think of when we speak of evil monopolies. American Telephone & Telegraph is big business in anybody's book. In our book it is big business at its best. Organized for profit, it operates under a management that is trained for service.

It is a big business in which the top men know the business from the bottom up. They know it that way because they came up from the ranks. The top man in A.T. & T. at the present time, its president, is a Minnesota man who started as a young fellow with Northwestern Bell. What is strange about this is that in this organization it is the usual thing.

Several of the owners of American Telephone & Telegraph probably will be present at the ceremony Friday morning. Quite a few of them live here in Thief River Falls, shareholders in the big corporation.

That is what makes this particular cornerstone laying ceremony interesting to us. It isn't the stone that is important, or this particular building either. It is the organization and what it stands for that is worthy of attention.

For us, in his community, of course, that cornerstone is an important milestone in communication progress, and we are looking forward to the better service that is on the way.

BETTER AND WORSER

Governor Orville Freeman has announced that the state's general revenue fund will have a balance of $16 million at the end of the biennium on June 30, and that is good news for all of us. The income tax too will have a little balance. It will be less than a million, which is not much considering the fact that at the beginning of the biennium the balance was $30 million. But the little balance is better than the big deficit that was expected.

Reason for the good news is inflation, and that is bad news. Once again old taxes are producing beyond expectations because of higher prices. This has been the usual thing since the beginning of the World War II boom. Governor Freeman acknowledged this fact with greater modesty than some of his predecessors who generally assured us that we had more revenue because they had planned it that way.

It is well that we recognize the fact that this increased revenue is a windfall, the result of circumstances over which we have had no control — or perhaps we might more properly say over which we have failed to exercise control. If the inflation spiral continues we will have the same situation at the end of another two years.

And that is the unfortunate thing about inflation: It feels so good. We think we are getting better when actually our condition is getting worse. Wouldn't it be wonderful if someone would discover a painless way back to a healthy, normal condition.

CUT OUT MONKEY SHINES

A majority of the corn belt farmers voted in favor of the new plan for production control recommended by secretary of agriculture Ezra Benson, and from that result he of course can derive considerable personal satisfaction. The proposal was favored by 61.2 per cent of those voting, a good majority but short of the necessary two-thirds. It was a margin that most politicians would refer to as a great vote of confidence.

From the standpoint of agriculture we think it is unfortunate that the plan was not adopted. Congress can take steps however to improve the old law that, as far as corn is concerned, has proven woefully inadequate. This should be done and with a minimum of partisan monkey shines. A little display of statesmanship would be very helpful to the prestige of some of our Minnesota representatives in Congress.

SERIOUS CENSURE

By a vote of 55 to 8 the United Nations General Assembly last week condemned Soviet intervention in Hungary and demanded the immediate withdrawal of Russian troops.

In some ways this probably was a futile gesture; an ineffective slap on the wrist. We know, and the Russian bosses know, that if their troops are not withdrawn there probably isn't much of anything we will do about it.

But in other ways these battles of ballots in the General Assembly may be more damaging to the cause of international communism than would be a defeat in a battle of bullets. Russian prestige and influence have taken a bad beating in these arguments.

There is reason to hope that the continuing revolt in Hungary may have far-reaching effects within the Soviet empire. There now are rumblings of discontent not only in other satelite and slave states but also within Russia itself.

Enough reports from the outside world apparently have penetrated the iron curtain to make the Russian people aware that all is not well. Russian newspapers are charging that universities have been lax and that students must not be permitted to question Marxist doctrine, an indication there has been trouble in the schools.

The Soviet high command is in difficulty and that always means possible changes in leadership and policy. The failure of this leadership to muster not more than eight favorable votes in the General Assembly on a serious charge of misconduct, — and these eight coming from controlled territory, is a censure sufficiently serious to justify several resignations.

GREEN CHRISTMAS HELPS TO "K M G"

KMG is a reminder of the obligation of every Minnesotan to help—by careful use of conservation methods and of fire—Keep Minnesota Green. Keeping Christmas green with the symbolic spruce, balsam, fir, or pine tree, Conservation Volunteer points out, not only provides many jobs and considerable income all the way from forest to living room, but aids materially in practical conservation through a selective "thinning out" process of harvesting. The annual cut in Minnesota, carefully regulated, is about 6,000,000 trees, of which about 1,000,000 find cheerful use within the state while the rest are shipped south and east. Keeping the Christmas spirit green and growing.

Yule Concert at N.W. School Set Thursday Evening

N.W. School Band, Mixed Chorus and Quartet Among Participating Groups

The music department of the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, will present a Christmas concert Thursday evening, December 20, at 7:45 o'clock, in the school auditorium. Friends of the Northwest School and parents of Northwest School students are especially invited.

A number of selections will be played by the school band, under the direction of Jack Harris, before the presentation of the vocal groups. Familiar Christmas music will be played on the organ by Miss Marie Johnson of the music faculty.

Fred Waring's choral arrangement of "The Song of Christmas" will be presented in song and biblical verse by the mixed chorus. John Schiller of Forest River, N. Dak., will be the narrator. Fifty students will take part in this presentation.

A boys' quartet will sing a medley of Christmas Carols and the girls' sextette will sing two well-known carols. A smaller mixed vocal group will form a human Christmas tree and sing familiar Christmas songs.

Mrs. LoAnn Kana, instructor in vocal music, will direct the vocal groups. Student accompanists will be Jean McWilliam of Winger and Eloise Wold of Roseau.

PLAY PERFECT GAMES

A "perfect spare" game on Mankato alleys brought Don Carlson of Good Thunder a score of 187 and a prize of $500. . . Arthur Walz, Winona, joins the select company who have held perfect cribbage hands: three fives and a jack with the turned 5 matching the jack. Len Costley of International Falls recently made news by disclosing that in 60 years of cribbage playing he held two twenty-niners.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representatives at the Minot VA Hospital, or the Bismarck or Grand Forks VA offices.

Q—I know a young man who is eligible for War Orphans schooling. He is a Korea veteran and has had some training under the Korean GI Bill. Does that mean he has forfeited his rights to War Orphans education?

A—Not necessarily. He must deduct the amount of Korean GI training he has had from 36 months—the maximum under the War Orphans program. The difference represents the length of time he may attend school under the War Orphans education program.

Q—Is there any way for applying for disability compensation?

A—No. You may apply at any time during your life. However, if you file your application within one year of the date of your discharge, your compensation palments may be backdated to the day after you got out of service. If you wait longer than one year, payments may be made effective as of the date of application only.

Q—I sold my house and let the buyer take over my GI loan. But VA relieved me of all liability. Since I am no longer libale for the loan, would I be eligible for another GI loan?

A—No. Relief from liability does not necessarily entitle you to another GI loan.

Q—I'm getting my master's degree under the Korean GI Bill. What is considered full-time training, for purposes of commuting my GI allowance?

A—Your school determines the number of hours considered to be full-time. VA accepts the word of your school. For graduate training, there are no minimum number of hours specified in VA regulations, as there are for other types of training.

Our Land

Tells Plant Food Loss

Arnold Wiebusch, Goodhue county soil conservation agent, points to an example of how plant food has been lost from cropland in the past 100 years. Carl Fredrickson, Goodhue county farmer, had a state laboratory soil test of a field that was recently cleared of a timber stand. Available phosphate was high; it tested 100. Potash was also high, more than 280, and organic content was at a medium level — 5.2. On another field with a long cropping history, phosphate tested 5 (very low), potash was 100 (medium), and organic matter was 1.6 (low).

Conservation Pays

Howard Sathrum, West Concord, a cooperator with the Dodge county Soil Conservation District, has been following a conservation plan on his flat farm for ten years. He says "It's hard to measure the full benefit, but I'm convinced that it pays. My farm is more productive and easier to work. Grass and legumes in our rotation made this possible."

To Prevent Bloat

Pasture mixtures with a composition of 50 per cent or less legumes are not likely to cause much trouble with bloat, says A. R. Schmid, University of Minnesota agronomist. No one recommended mixture will give the same type of composition on different soil types or under different growing conditions, though. If you have difficulty getting enough grass in a mixture, cut down on the legume seeding rate and increase the grass. You might also try plugging alternate holes in the legume seeding attachment on the drill. It may help to add meadow fescue or timothy along with southern bromegrass to increase grass percentage. Don't include ladino if bloat is a problem.

Seven Year Rotation Pays

By using a 7-year major rotation, Clarence Meyers, Faribault county, gets higher yields on the second year following a legume than the first, reports Francis Januschka, county soil conservation agent. The rotation of oats, hay, pasture, corn, soybeans, and corn has built the fertility of Meyers' fields to where now he needs to apply only enough fertilizer to maintain that fertility.

THE MINNESOTA STORY

Prepared by the

Minnesota Historical Society

PREFABS IN 1871

Prefabricated houses are not a new idea. They could be obtained from a Brainerd lumber company way back in 1871 according to a pamphlet in the collections of the Minnesota Historical Society.

In a booklet designed to attract settlers to lands along its right of way, the Northern Pacific Railroad in that year advised prospective buyers that "ready-made houses of various sizes may be had of a manufacturing company" at Brainerd.

The houses cost between $100 and $500! "They are strongly built" the pamphlet said "have good frames, matched floors and roof. . . with windows, doors, sash and chimney." The houses sound quite modern, for they had "tongued and grooved ceilings," a feature that has again become popular in our own day.

SKATING RULES

Evidence that skating was a popular pastime in Minnesota in the early 1860s is to be found in the "Stillwater Messenger" for January 20, 1863. In an item entitled "Important to Skaters," the editor observed that "everybody now has a passion for skates." He then undertook to present some rules for skaters, especially for women and children who engaged in this winter sport.

"If the wind is blowing, a veil should be worn over the face, at least of ladies and children," the editor advised. Failure to observe this rule, he warned, was almost sure to result in "fatal inflammation of the lungs." No lady or child, he told his readers, should skate if "the therometer is below thirty and the wind is blowing," and under no conditions should they skate for "more than an hour" at any time.

The Stillwater editor advised all skaters to "avoid skates which are strapped to the feet, as they prevent circulation and the foot becomes frozen before the skater is aware of it." He also pronounced it "safer to walk home than to ride; the later is almost sure to give a cold."

RED RUIN . . . Hungarians face task of rebuilding revolt-torn Budapest to provide winter shelter for hundreds and to enable industry to resume operation.

CHIPPEWA TRADER

Near the end of the eighteenth century northern Minnesota was opened to white fur traders as a result of the explorations of Jean Baptiste Cadotte, a Chippewa half-breed. Because of his expedition of 1792, resident traders appeared among the Chippewa of the upper Mississippi, and white men have lived in the region continuously ever since.

The trail-blazing expedition led by Cadotte and composed of sixty men set out from Sault St. Marie in 1792. The party crossed Lake Superior, went up the St. Louis River, and across the usual portages to Sandy Lake and the Mississippi River. There the men separated, one party wintering on the Crow Wing and the other on the Red River.

In the spring of 1793, Cadotte appeared at the North West Company's post at Grand Portage. There he told of the vast resources of the country he had seen and induced the company to extend its operations. A depot was established at Fond du Lac on the St. Louis River, and within a short time posts were constructed at the Sandy and Leech lakes.

Cadotte joined the North West Company as a trader, and in 1797 he was given the entire management of the Fond du Lac department, which included numerous posts in Minnesota and Wisconsin. In 1801 he was made a partner in the company, but prosperity seems to have corrupted him, for two years later he was expelled for "neglecting his duty and indulging in drunkeness and riot."

1849 MARKET QUOTATIONS

Price quotations in Minnesota newspapers in 1849 have an unfamiliar ring to modern readers. Instead of listing the prices for wheat, corn, and hogs, the papers of that day quoted elk horns at .40, moccasins at .40 to $1.50, pemmican at .02 to .06 a pound, and buffalo tongues at .15. The paper also reported that there was no market for muskrat skins in August of that year.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

The sending of Christmas cards is a comparative newcomer to the list of Christmas customs. The practice seems to have started in England in the 1840s, spreading later to the United States.

At first the cards were very expensive, however, and the custom did not become widespread until the 1860s. With the introduction of cheaper cards from Germany in the 1890s, it became firmly established.

The Minnesota Historical Society has a large collection of Christmas cards received by Minnesotans from about 1850 to the present. Many of the early cards are elaborate and, by present-day standards, very un-Christmaslike. Summer scenes with birds, flowers, fruits, and animals were often used, altho Santa Claus and other usual Christmas motifs were also depicted.

The highly decorated Christmas card was most popular from about 1870 to 1910, and the Society's collection contanst many examples of richly embossed, colored, and gilded cards dating from that period. Lace, silk fringe, and gold tassels add to the magnificence of these cards.

Although a few Christmas cards with a directly religious theme are found throughout the Society's collection, they do not appear in large number until the period of the 1930s. On the other hand, the earliest card the Society has is a homemade greeting featuring pressed flowers. Minnesotans over the years seem to have turned out distinctive cards of their own design to express their Christmas sentiments.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare
University of Minnesota

Much has been written about bridging the gap between parents and children. No one has suggested that the children try to act like parents, yet this is about as feasible as parents trying to act like children, currently a fairly common practice. Fortyish Mr. Green said, "It's a good thing that Craig likes to fish with me. It's about the only way I can hold my own with the bicycle-riding, football playing fathers in our neighborhood." Mr. Green has arrived at one fundamental—that each age has something to offer children and that doing what we can do and like to do is as rich in human values as straining to do something else.

Bridging the gap means that parents should get to know their children better from the vantage point, which they occupy because they are older, more experienced, and parents. Also that children get to know their parents better from their immature disadvantage point where they recognize their need for parents.

In the modern world where so much must be mastered so fast, it is wasteful and frustrating to insist that each young person must start from scratch"—must find out everything for himself—must never be handed facts which someone before him has unearthed and organized.

Children have many peers, but only two parents; plus perhaps four grandparents. Priceless, indeed, is the repertoire of memories and skills the child can carry to adulthood from the vast treasures of someone else's adulthood.?

The poet, Kahlil Gilbran puts it well: 'Parents are the bows from which your children, as living arrows, are sent forth." And, 'Even as God, the Archer loves the arrow that flies so he loves the bow that is stable." One might add that the stronger and stabler bows shoot their arrows farther and truer.

Neither the extreme that overwhelms initiative nor that which expects initiative beyond his years leads the child to self-reliance with responsibility.

Work and play with boys and girls, by all means, but also be a parent, who is apparent.

SCANNING THE NEWS

CAN President Eisenhower remake the Republican party unto his own image and likeness? He is going to try and believes he has made much progress in the four years he has been in office.

But the American electorate obviously did not believe so, judging by the amazing election results which for the first time in the history of the nation, a President running on his own record, a popular national hero, was re-elected by a smashing nine million majority and yet failed to carry Congress with him. As a matter of fact this year's election was the second time this popular President failed to persuade the American people to give him a Congress controlled by his own party, for in 1954 President Eisenhower campaigned for the election of a Republican Congress, but failed to carry a majority in on his coat tails.

This is not the first time Presidents have been faced with a Congress of opposite political faith, either wholly or in one of the Houses—either the House or Senate. It has happened nine times—with Grant, Hayes, Arthur, Cleveland, Harrison, Taft, Wilson, Hoover and Truman, all of whom lost control of Congress at the congressional elections in their mid-terms.

And it has been 108 years since a winning President has failed to take with him a congress controlled by his own party. This was in 1848, when another war hero, General Zachary Taylor, hero of the Mexican war, was elected as a Whig, but found a Democratic Congress on Capitol Hill. It was only a few years until the Whig party passed out of existence and the Republican party took its place.

The affection of the voters for President Eisenhower as a "Peace and Prosperity" president was not enough to extend even to some of his closest friends, such as former Governor Langlie of Washington, keynoter at the GOP convention, Governor Dan Thornton in Colorado, Duff of Pennsylvania and former Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay of Oregon, all defeated by Democrats for the Senate.

Then how did the President amass that record breaking vote? Here are some of the reasons: He drew several million votes from Negro citizens, who pulled out of the Democratic party over the civil rights and segregation issues. But they were largely confined to Illinois, New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Ohio and California, which he would have carried anyway. The negro vote merely added to his majority. He polled a huge ethnic origin vote on the issue of peace in these same states. And throughout the south other negroes voted Republican for the first time, added to the growing Republican vote in the south sufficiently to carry such states as Florida, Louisiana, Tennessee, Kentucky, Oklahoma and Virginia and others.

Records Show Value— Theodore Wachter, Dakota county farmer knows how well renovating pasture pays off. He kept records comparing old blue grass pasture with a fertilized, repasture, yielded 727 pounds of novated area. Bluegrass, poorest milk per acre. Renovated, fertilized pasture yieded 2,325 pounds of milk per acre. Wachter's dairy herd got 70 per cent of the total feed from 115 days of total grazing on the renovated pasture. A total of 7 pastures, strip grazed, averaged 16,687 pounds of milk per acre, equal to 65 bushels of corn per acre in feed value, repotis George C. Whalen, county soils agent who helped Wachter set up the record system.

Sound Conservation—The old proverb of "Practice What You Preach" has been more than fulfilled by Lawrence Nelson, vocational agriculture instructor at Mora. Nelson, who owns and operates a 160-acre dairy farm, is an enthusiastic booster of soil conservation farming in his Vo-Ag and adult classes, and can point to his own farm as an example of good land use. With the assistance of SCS technicians from the Kanabec Soil Conservation District, Nelson has installed 30 acres of contour strip cropping, 15 acres of contour farming, planted a farm windbreak, developed 4 wildlife areas by planting trees and shrubs, and constructed a 1400-foot waterway. To round out his farm conservation plan, Nelson limes all crop legume seedings on fields and applies commercial fertilizer as needed. This year, he got good legume seedings on fields fertilized with 40 pounds of 5-20-20 per acre, and oats yields averaged 70 bushels per acre.

Way To Save Sandy Soil—Selmar Anderson, Marshall county farmer, has some sandy land that blows quite easily. In recent years, he has experimented with several ways to control this soil "drifting". He figured there must be a solution, and finally found one. He tried working the fields deeper—about 6 inches deep—and worked the field both ways. For heavy stubble, he uses a disk plow, then follows with a heavy cultivator. This year a field that had that treatment raised a crop of oats that looked as good as any in the area, reports Fred Heck, Marshall county soil conservation agent.

Farmers May Obtain '56 Income Tax Guide

Farmers who are confronted with problems growing out of the new social security phases of their federal income tax returns, as well as with other points in their tax determinations, will get a big assist from the new 1956 edition of the Farmers' Tax Guide now available at district offices of the Internal Revenue Service and from county agents, A. R. Knox, district director, announced today.

The 64-page booklet has been brought up to date with the aid of revenue agents in farm areas and the federal extension service of the Department of Agriculture. Last year's edition was well received by farmers and was highly commended by such groups as the National Grange, the American Farm Bureau Federation, the Farmers' Union and the National Livestock Tax Committee.

In addition to describing in detail the steps to be taken by farmers in all categories in preparing their 1956 returns, the booklet also provides numerous examples on how to do it. A list of new topics is included along with a check list of items of farm income and expenses. Particular problems encountered by many farmers are clarified under a series of spot headings.

The booklet also deals with such subjects as farm inventories, depreciation, capital gains and losses, casualty losses and thefts, trades, condemnations and diseased livestock, soil and water conservation, and other matters of farm interest. Farmers who have had special problems during 1956 will be able to plan much of the calculation required by their returns by using the new guide, revenue officials said. It will enable those who file January 15 estimates to do much of their computation in advance of actual form preparation.

Farmers desiring a copy of the guide should visit their county farm agent or write to the District Director of Internal Revenue, 825 Post Office and Customhouse Building, St. Paul 1, Minnesota.

State School Bus Routes Expanded

District Enlargements Account for Increase

Minnesota's program of school district enlargement has brought a 390 per cent increase in the number of pupils transported on school buses, the state board of education was told Thursday.

The report on the state's public school transportation picture was given by T. C. Engum, director of the division of elementary and secondary schools in the state education department, and M. J. Haggarty, the department's transportation supervisor.

In the 1955-56 school year, it was reported, the state paid $8,560,714 in transportation aids to local school districts. This exceeded advance estimates—and the amount appropriated by the 1955 legislature— by $1,690,000.

Since transportation aids are to reimburse local districts—and therefore by law must be paid before non-reimbursement aids, the full amount has been paid. This leaves two possibilities:

Either other state school aids for the year will have to be cut back on a pro-rata basis, or the 1957 legislature will have to make a deficiency appropriation.

BIG FROM EVERY ANGLE

The familiar riddle, "What gets bigger the more you take from it?" is perfectly illustrated by the famous Hull Rust Mahoning iron mine near Hibbing. From the first shovel-full in 1895 this productive "hole" now reaches an average of 390 feet into 1,535 acres of range land extending from half to a full mile in width over a length of 3½ miles. During the first 60 years, to December 31, 1955, 346,485,000 gross tons of ore were shipped from what is now called "The Grand Canyon of the Mesabi."

4-H'er of the WEEK

This new column, beginning this week, is planned to acquaint Pennington county people with the 4-H club program. 4-H club members are interesting boys and girls; each week, you will have an opportunity to read about 2 4-H club members what they have accomplished as 4-H members, what are their plans for the future, and what awards they have won. The extension agents will be grateful for suggestions for the column, and for your comments on this new venture. They hope too that you will enjoy hearing about the boys and girls who are the 400-odd club members in Pennington County.

Joyce Helgeland

Often in 4-H club work, a 4-H'er learns so much about a particular phase of farming and homemaking that he becomes deeply interested and decides to plan his career along that phase. Such is the case of Joyce Helgeland of the Smiley 4-H club.

Joyce is enrolled this year as a freshman in Home Economics at Concordia College in Moorhead. She plans to become a County Home Agent when she graduates and we sincerely hope she will reach this goal.

Since joining the Smiley club in 1946 at the age of 8, Joyce has completed 54 projects. Her projects have varied from Poultry and Dairy calf to canning, food preparation and clothing. She has a real understanding of the farming operation.

Joyce's awards have been many. She has won trips to the Junior Livestock Show, Minnesota State Fair, and state club week. At the county 4-H Dress Revue last year, she was chosen as an attendant to the queen. Her leadership ability was recognized by the Elks Club of Crookston when they awarded her a leadership pin at the Red River Valley Winter Shows last year. She has done well in giving demonstrations, and is a pleasant public speaker, as a result of her many opportunities as a 4-H club member.

Joyce's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Helgeland who farm in Smiley township. She has one brother, Orrin, 14, who is also a 4-H member.

Everet Corbet

Meet Everet Corbet. Everet was born at Thief River Falls. He has been in 4-H work for 7 years during which time he took 20 projects. They included garden, 4 years; potatoes, 3 years; Jr. Leadership, 1 year; pig, 3 years; rabbits, 2 years; and tractor maintenance, 1 year.

During his years in 4-H, Everet has held the office of treasurer. He has won three trips to the Jr. Livestock Show at St. Paul and has showed hogs at the County Fair each year.

He has expanded his hog enterprise to a herd of 75 good Duroc hogs. He raises and sells registered Durocs as well as being an owner of 10 Guernsey cattle.

Everet is leaving 4-H because of the age limitation of 21 years. He is planning to farm at St. Hilaire. His plans are to carry hogs as a major enterprise along with some dairying and crops. Everet says 4-H has helped him get established in farming over a period of years without making a big investment all in one year. The Wendell Corbets have 3 children, Everet, Roger and Wendel Junior. Mrs. Corbet has been a 4-H leader for seven years.

Asks Citizens to Share Talks on the Schools

Supt. Sater Invites Public to Share in January Meetings

Supt. J. A. Sater of the Thief River Falls public schools today invited local citizens to take part in a series of discussion meetings being arranged for January and February, at which they will be given an opportunity to express their views on school procedures, as well as on services desired of the schools. The first meeting will be held Monday evening, January 7, in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Mr. Sater said it is planned to set up seven committees in Lincoln senior high school, seven in junior high and seven in the elementary schools. A questionnaire is included in a formal announcement elsewhere in this issue of the Times, which readers are asked to fill out and mail to Mr. Sater's office, indicating on what committee they wish to serve.

Among the topics proposed for discussion are the following:

1. Do you feel that the present report card is complete enough?
   A. Should we change our grading system of A, B, C, D to percentage, S-U, conferences, etc.?
2. What can be done for the backward or retarded child? What more can be done for the gifted or talented child?
   A. Should an "S" grade be given to those students who are unable mentally to do satisfactory high school work and a diploma of attendance at graduation?
3. What are the comparative obligations of the school, the home, and the church in regard to discipline, morals and social habits?
   A. How can a closer relation-

Truck Rolls over on 59 at Erskine

Howard Gulseth Driver, Escapes with Bruises

A Land O'Lakes truck driver escaped with minor bruises when the incubator-laden semi-trailer rig he was driving from Minneapolis jackknifed and overturned about a half-mile north of Erskine about 10 p.m. Tuesday.

Howard Gulseth, oldest driver in point of year served with the Thief River Falls Land O'Lakes fleet, had been making good time from Minneapolis and until he reached the part of highway 59 north of the Erskine junction he had been on roads that had been spread with sand to reduce slipperiness.

However, he reported glare ice was his undoing when he attempted to stop and help the driver of another truck which had run into the ditch on the hill just north of the Erskine junction. His brakes locked and the outfit jackknifed on the road.

Very little damage was done to the tractor or trailer and no damage was done to the crated incubators in the trailer Stuart McLeod, local Land O'Lakes manager, said. Highway patrolmen and Land O'Lakes personnel had to stay with the overturned outfit all night to direct traffic around it until it could be righted Wednesday, McLeod reported.

Fire Department Called out Twice

S., where an oil stove became flooded, no damage resulting. Firemen were called Wednesday to the garage at the Nesbitt residence at 703 LaBree av. N., where a stove set fire to a wall of the garage. Damage was small.

Participates in Voice of Democracy Contest Won by English Girl

An exchange girl student from London, England, who is attending Alexander Ramsey high school in Roseville, Minn. was declared the winner of the Minnesota Jaycee-sponsored "I Speak for Democracy" contest at a banquet in the Lowry hotel, St. Paul, Friday, Dec. 14.

No second or third-place winners were named by the Junior Chamber. Roseville, where the school the English miss attends is located, is a suburb of St. Paul.

James Solheim of Thief River Falls, was the winner in the 2nd JayCee region and attended the awards banquet last Friday, along with his coach, Miss Thora Skomedal. He was one of 8500 Minnesota students who wrote papers for the contest, in which 10 regions were represented.

Solheim, along with the other regional winners, paid a visit to Gov. Orville Freeman at the state capitol Friday morning, after which the students and their coaches were taken on a tour of St. Paul.

In addition to naming the state winner, the officials at the banquet Friday evening gave each regional winner a Voice of Democracy medal and a scroll consisting of parchment copies of the Bill of Rights, the constitution, Declaration of Independence and Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

Jaycees Sponsor Nativity Scene on Postoffice Lot

Other Groups Cooperate with Junior Chamber in Providing for Setting

Those who want to see a splendid example of community cooperation in the spirit of Christmas might pay a short visit to the Nativity scene on the north side of the post-office. There a stable with Mary, Joseph, and the Christ-child have been placed by the Junior Chamber of Commerce as a beautiful reminder of of the true significance of Christmas to all passers-by.

This project of the Jaycees was made possible by the cooperation of the city light department, furnishing electricity, the Chamber of Commerce, which offered evergreen decorations, Wallace Releraon, who provided bales of hay, and the Lampert Lumber company.

The Jaycees hope to expand the Nativity display in coming years to include wise men, shepherds, and animals. Plans are also being made to promote a Christmas pageant and carol sing in connection with the lighting of the Nativity scene next year.

Cornerstone of TRF Telephone Building to Be Laid on Friday

Cornerstone laying ceremonies for the handsome new N.W. Bell Telephone Co. building, now nearing completion on LaBree av. at Fourth st., will be conducted Friday morning, December 21, at 9:30, it was announced today by A. K. Bacon, local manager, who invited the public to witness the brief ceremony.

The new structure, measuring 82 by 100 feet, was designed by Magney, Tusler & Setter, Minneapolis architects, and is being erected by Eickhof & Sons, Crookston contractors. Of brick and concrete block construction, the building has a full basement, and is located on a lot 100 by 140 feet in dimensions, allowing space for future expansion.

Telephone service was first brought to Thief River Falls 55 years ago in the spring of 1901 by H. Fant, operator of a confectionery store, and is believed by old-timers to have been located on the site of the present Ben Franklin coffee bar.

Fant operated the exchange until 1907, when he sold it to the late J. M. Bishop, who in turn sold it September 1, 1908 to the Tri-state Telephone Co., in 1918 it was sold to the Northwestern Telephone Co., predecessor of the present owners.

A. J. Rau of this city retired last spring from the position of local manager after having served in that capacity since 1929, a total of 27 years. He was succeeded by Al Bacon.

Mercury Rises 60 Degrees in Just 30 Hours

Rises from 28 Below Monday to 32 Above Tuesday Afternoon

The weather, as much as a woman, can be very changeable and the strong evidence of this lies in the 60-degree climb the mercury took in a 30 hour period from Monday morning to Tuesday afternoon.

The Monday morning low was a hard-to-take 28 below zero and the mercury got no higher than —8 all day. Then, Tuesday, after the mercury dropped to 16 below, it started a phenomenal climb upward and by that afternoon the month's to-date high of 32 above was reached.

Having come this far one could just as well quote the Wednesday temperatures — high 28, low 11. The Thursday low was 16. Only a trace of precipitation fell, that coming as sleet which put the damper on driving all over northern Minnesota.

The forecast calls for more of the pleasant temperatures the upper midwest has been having since Tuesday. It will be partly cloudy through Friday and temperatures will range from highs of 35 to 40 to lows of 18 to 25, ALL ABOVE ZERO!

Winds will be southwesterly, 15 to 20 m.p.h.

The plesant weather is the result of a high pressure area blanketing the upper midwest, according to the U. S. weather bureau.

High School Musicians Show Great Proficiency

Students in the Lincoln high school music department appeared Wednesday evening in an exceptionally well rendered Christmas concert in the school auditorium before a most attentive audience of nearly 700 persons.

Participating in the program were the band, directed by John K. Moum; the orchestra, directed by James Solsten; and the choir under Bryant Ulseth.

Sharing the stage with the choir was a series of highly effective living tableaux, while the band and orchestra, were seated in the pit. The audience joined in singing the last three numbers on the program.

The performance of the young instrumental and vocal musicians revealed that they have made outstanding progress this year.

ICC Authorizes Freight Rate Hike

The Interstate Commerce Commission Monday authorized Eastern railroads to increase their freight rates 7 per cent and Western lines to increase theirs by 5 per cent.

As a result, on the basis of ICC estimates, shippers will pay the railroads $402,600,000 more per year.

A request by Southern railroads for a 7 per cent increase is scheduled for a hearing Jan. 7. If granted, it would boost their revenues by about 85 million dollars a year.

The Western roads had also asked for a 7 per cent increase.

Monday's orders also authorized a 5 per cent increase on interterritorial freight—moving between eastern, western and southern territories.

Higher wage rates became effective in the railroad industry Nov. 1 and the roads asked the freight rate increases, on an emergency basis. The ICC allowed this, saying the new rates may be charged after five days notice to the public.

The Junior Red Cross, youth affiliate of the American Red Cross, has furnished $11,376 worth of clothing, food, health supplies and toys for Hungarians, including refugees in Austria, it was announced this week by Livingston L. Blair, national director. Children in the Thief River Falls schools were among contributors to the fund.

Salvation Army Gives Christmas Baskets Monday

In accordance with a custom of long standing, the Salvation Army branch in Thief River Falls on Christmas Eve will distribute about 50 baskets of food, toys and other items to needy families in this community. Potato Diversion Plan Defeated in Red River Valley

Pennington Co. Favors Plan; Marshall Votes 42 to 21 Against It

Potato growers of the Red River Valley turned down by a narrow margin a potato diversion program in a referendum, last week, according to unofficial figures tabulated Monday.

On the North Dakota side, the two-thirds majority needed to approve was missed by just 21 votes as 658 potato growers cast 417 yes votes and 241 against the proposal.

That was about 65 per cent in favor, according to unofficial North Dakota Agricultural College Extension Service figures.

The service said a few more votes would be coming in, but probably not enough to change the outcome. Official figures are expected Wednesday.

On the Minnesota side, the vote went 244 to 174 against the diversion program under which marketing restrictions would have been imposed on Valley potatoes in return for subsidies on spuds diverted to other uses.

Only four of the Minnesota 11 counties voting, favored the measure, and those by small margins, according to official figures from the Minnesota Extension Service.

Voting went as follows:

Kittson County, 4, yes, and 17 no; Marshall County, 21 yes, and 42 no; Pennington County, 5 yes, and 0 no; Red Lake County, 1 yes, and 8 no; West Polk County, 70 yes, and 29 no; East Polk County, 0 yes, and 43 no; Norman County, 12 yes, and 6 no; Clay County, 6 yes, and 72 no; Mahnomen County, 1 yes, and 0 no; Becker County, 0 yes, and 5 no; Wilkin County, 0 yes, and 2 no.

Goodridge FFA Drive Nets $176

Crippled Children Fund Benefits by Grain Pickup

The Goodridge chapter of F.F.A. collected 270 bushels of grain and $8.33 in cash for Camp Courage, December 12, under the direction of Larry A. Foley, vocational-agricultural instructor in the Goodridge public schools, and James Wilson, chairman of the local group.

The members of the F. F. A. worked all day with trucks, cars and trailers collecting grain. They asked for donations of any type of grain which resulted chiefly in sacks of oats. A total of $176.10 was realized from the drive.

Mrs. Herbert Halverson, Pennington county chairman of the Minnesota Society of Crippled Children and Adults, Inc. thanked the boys for their work and enthusiasm and all of those in the Goodridge and Grygla areas who donated so generously.

Minimum Pay Rates Raised in Minnesota

Most Firms in State Already Are Paying Above New Minimum

Minimum pay rates for 65,000 women and minors in Minnesota's retail merchandise industry were raised about one third Tuesday by the state industrial commission.

Minimums also were increased for the approximately 5,000 women and minors in the laundry and dry cleaning industry. The new rates will become effective Jan. 14.

Commissioner Arthur Ramberg said most workers covered by the new order already are paid as much as or more than the new minimums.

He estimated 25 per cent might get pay increases as a result of the changes.

These increases were made in the retail merchandising industry:

From 55 cents to 85 cents an hour in cities of more than 25,000 population and in adjoining communities.

From 50 cents to 75 cents an hour in communities of 2,5000 to 25,000.

From 40 cents to 70 cents in communities smaller than 2,500.

Rates for beginners in the industry, to cover the first 500 hours of work, were set at 70, 65 and 60 cents an hour in the three categories.

The old minimums were set in June 1947.

Minimums for laundry and dry cleaning workers were raised to 85 cents an hour in cities over 50,000 and adjoining communities between 25,000 and 50,000; and 70 cents in communities under 5,000.

The old minimums, set in May 1939, ranged from 23 to 32 cents an hour.

Rotary Club Votes $100 for Relief of Hungary Refugees

In keeping with the spirit of Christmas the Rotary club at its luncheon meeting Monday voted to send $100 to a Rotary club in Austria to be used for the relief of Hungarian refugees.

Eighth St. Bridge to Be Moved to New Site

Piling for abutments are now being driven for the 8th st. bridge bypass in preparation for the job of moving the present bridge to the new site, Clifford Larson, state highway department bridge inspector, said this week.

Larson said preparations toward moving the bridge are well under way and that the structure probably will be moved within the next two weeks.

The local housemoving firm of Jennings Jenson, who subcontracted for this part of the new bridge project with the T. M. Swingen Co. of Grand Forks, will move the bridge, Larson stated.

The bypass aproaches, which were started this fall by the Swingen firm, are now complete except for gravel and blacktopping, and is expected to be ready for traffic within a short time.

Rails were being placed under the bridge by the Jensen firm this week. The bridge will be moved onto the approaches on the rails, thus making it possible for the Swingen Co. to begin work in piers for the new bridge where the old bridge now stands, Larson said. Pier construction is expected to get under way very shortly, he added.

Larson described the new bridge as a three-span, two-pier cantilever affair and will be similar to the bridge spanning the Red Lake river at E. 3rd st. It will be 175-ft. long, have a 30-ft. roadway and will have sidewalks on either side.

The T. M. Swingen Co. was awarded the $140,861 contract late this last summer and completion is scheduled Aug. 1, 1958, Larson said, although he pointed out that the contract was awarded during the last steel strike and actual completion is expected much sooner.

Holiday Greeting from T. R. Falls Fire Department

A Christmas tree with colored lights
Is something to admire.
Be sure they are in first class shape
Or you may have a fire.
Hot ashes in a box of wood,
Though they may seem quite dead,
Have a nasty knack of taking light
When you have gone to bed.
Now gasoline is just the thing
To run the family bus,
But when it's used for cleaning floors,
It can make an awful mess.
And don't forget your furnace draught
When you go out, we pray,
For to leave a red hot furnace
Is a thing that does not pay.
We trust you'll take this as it's meant,
Just friendly, good advice;
Who knows but it may be the means
You'll live a longer life.
We wish you heaps of gifts, old pal,
Just heaps of joy and luck,
And if we come to see you,
We won't have to bring our truck.

Vows Spoken By Marion Moe and Robert Anderson

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of white net over crepe. The lace bodice featured a small Peter Pan collar and long tapered sleeves extending to points over the wrists. She wore a fingertip veil of silk illusion with rhinestone and pearl trim. Her shower-type bouquet was of feathered carnations, French mums and centered with a white orchid. She wore a handmade Florentine Filigree necklace with matching earrings, gift from the groom.

Miss Vivian Myrom, friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Her gown was of blue net and lace over taffeta with a matching bolero. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and feathered carnations. Mrs. Orville Diesen, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Waitresses were Miss Edna Hanson, Miss Lorraine Bagne and Mrs. Carl Dyrseth. The gifts were arranged by Mrs. Harold Nabben, Mrs. Oscar Hagen and Mrs. Adrian Johnson. Mrs. Georgia Lund registered the guests.

"Across From the Falls Theatre"

Beware of Christmas Tree Fires, Is Advice

"Fires across the nation have killed 23 persons, most of them children, on the eve of the Christmas holiday celebration.

"All but 10 of the fire victims were children eagerly awaiting the excitement and gifts of Christmas."

This was last year. Will it happen again this year, asked Fire Chief Roy Langevin.

And the saddest thing is that such tragedies often occur around the Christmas holiday—sometimes even around the Christmas tree itself—at the happiest time of the year.

The reason the tree burns so fiercely and so rapidly is because it's filled with pitch and resin—among the most combustible substances known.

What can you do about the tree?

First of all, the National Board of Fire Underwriters suggests that you select a small one. There will be 30,000,000 on the market. Some 4,000,000 Christmas trees reach retail outlets in New York State alone.

It's best to keep the tree outdoors until a few days before setting it up. During that time occasionally throw water over it. This will keep it moist, fresh.

When you bring the tree inside, cut the butt slantwise to open the pores, then stand it in a tub of water. Be wary of chemicals or other substances sold for "fireproofing" trees. In some cases this process is ineffective.

In placing the tree, the National Board advises that you avoid "hot spots" such as those near the fire place, stove, television set, radiator, or electric bulbs.

Never, warns the National Board, use untreated paper ornaments or untreated cotton batting or gauze for decoration. Cotton and gauze can be made flame-resistive by dipping in a gallon of water mixed with nine ounces of borax and four ounces of boric acid.

Also, use only electric lights, never candles. Be sure, too, that wires are in good condition and bear the UL tag denoting Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., which shows they have been tested for safety. Frayed electric cords, the National Board points out, are a fire hazard.

Right Around Town

BY V. M. "MACK" DRAPER

Some folks say this world is full of surprises and after the sudden change in the weather Monday night we're much inclined to agree. Unofficially the temperature jumped from 28 below to over 30 above in just over 24 hours.

Temperatures such as Monday's bracing 28 below soon separate the cars from the clunks, judging from the push trucks out working that day!

Then there are unpleasent surprises . . . such as discovering you forgot to record a check and the realizing you actually don't have a bank balance any more. (That never happens to us—we just don't have a balance!) Oh well—why be different from most other folks?

In spouting off about white collar workers Monday we were merely lamenting the fact that too much emphasis is being put on technical education, to the detriment of the liberal art courses, and others, and those who take them.

Firms aren't bidding for the non-technical college grads the way they are for engineers and as a result, the non-technical graduate's wages haven't kept up. Further, fewer young people are inclined to take the liberal arts and similiar courses with the odds stacked in favor of engineering and other technical students as they are. The deficiency will make itself felt in later years, unfortunately.

Doctor, using stethoscope, to patient as a well-stacked nurse walked by: "You don't have to pant—just inhale!"

We certainly appreciate the jokes from the JayCees' little monthly magazine in case you're wondering where we get ours. Stop us if you've heard 'em before.

Wish we'd told this one:

Little Johnny, being reprimanded by his teacher for being tardy for school, remonstrated with the following excuse:

"Ma woke Pa up in the middle of the night saying she heard something in the hen house. Pa, who sleeps in the raw, grabbed his loaded shotgun and ran out into the yard. Pa stood there with his gun pointing at the chicken house, waiting for something to come out' when our old hound dog came up behind Pa with his cold nose. . .and we've been cleaning chickens since three o' clock this morning."

They say mistletoe helps the man who helps himself. (Nice work—if you can get it!)

Then there was the young father who complained about being charged for the delivery room services when his baby actually had been born on the hospital lawn before the young man could make it to the hospital with his wife.

Much to his chagrin, the disputed bill came back with the delivery room charge taken off and a new one added, "Greens fee, $35."

Well, Christmas is practically here— about all that remains is hanging up the stockings. Those new nylon stretch socks should be a real boon to the men at Christmas!

Then there are those who think the Christmas spirit comes in fifths. So long! . . . .

New Brucellosis Law Takes Effect

Desigsed to Control Spread of Bang's Disease

A new federal law to curb the spread of brucellosis, implemented by legislation sponsored by Senator Edward J. Thye in the last session of Congress, becomes effective January 1, 1957.

Interstate movement of all cattle except steers, spayed heifers, and calves under 8 months old will come under federal control on that date.

The new rules are aimed primarily at strengthening and unifying control of interstate movement of cattle relative to brucellosis, also known as Bang's disease, particularly to counties and states already designated modified certified brucellosis-free under the accelerated federal-state co-operative brucellosis eradication program, according to Department of Agriculture spokesmen.

Ordinance on Job Status Is Given Reading

Gives Liberalized Fringe Benefits to Employes of City

The city council at its regular December session Tuesday evening heard the first reading of a proposed ordinance setting up provisions for liberalized sick leave, vacation and overtime pay schedules for full-time city employes.

Agreement on terms was reached in recent conferences with agents of the employe's union. A new wage schedule is slated to be adopted by the council at its January session, and provides for a general increase.

The new ordinance provides for sick leave cumulative at the rate of one day per month up to a maximum of 120 days, and for two weeks vacation for employes with up to ten years service, and three weeks for longer service.

The normal work week is fixed at 40 hours, except for the fire department and Auditorium janitors, where it is 48 hours, and the city clerk's office, where it is 35 hours. In most departments, time and one-half is provided for overtime work, while workers in some departments will get double time for work on Sundays and holidays.

Also given its first reading was an ordinance annexing to the city Bratrud's second rearrangement of Park addition, otherwise known as the Lovers Lane property. Ole Ekeren, whose residence adjoins the property, objected to the routing of a street giving access to the area from East Third st., contending that it would be detrimental to his property. Appearing with Ekeren was Bill LaFave.

Homer C. Matheson, Grand Forks certified public accountant, was awarded the contract to audit the city's books for 1956 at a fee of approximately $2,000. He also made last year's audit.

The council adopted a resolution offering the full use of the winter sports arena for the coming year to School District 18 at a fee of $1,500.

The budget of the municipal band was reduced to $1,000 for the coming year, and the organization was asked to plan its disbursements on that basis.

Subject to the furnishing of a detailed statement of expenses on the project, the council agreed to share with the Town of North on a 50-50 basis the $800 spent by the township on rebuilding a bridge on the boundary between the city and township.

An agreement was reached with the city recreation board whereby, in the interest of efficiency, that agency will turn over all receipts and bills to the city clerk's office, instead of handling them thru the secretary of the board, as in the past.

The council confirmed five appointments submitted by Mayor O. D. Belch. Named to the library board for another three-year term were Anton Hall, Mrs. N. A. Holen and Mrs. H. O. Chommie. Bill LaFave was reappointed to the police civil service commission for a three-year term, and Lawrence Bjorkman was renamed to the park board for five years.

It was voted to advertise for bids for official city depositories and official newspaper, the bids to be opened at the January session.

Opponents of the practice of fluoridating the city water supply submitted a brief setting forth arguments in support of their position, and the council ordered it placed on file.

Highway Patrol's Prayer for Yule Season Is Given

"May This Holiday Season Bring Us:

"NO dead or dying accident victims to be pried out of crumpled automobile wrecks. . .

"NO "bad news" calls turning joyful homes into scenes of sorrow. . .

"NO drivers mumbling a drunken "I'm sorry," after seeing the bloody results of their stupidity."

Pacific Power & Light Co. is spending $300,000 to $400,000 to explore the possibility of using Oregon coal as fuel in a new electric power plant now in planning stages. It would be the first coal fired steam electric plant in the State.

So widespread has the "roof bolting" technique become in coal mining operations that the industry now uses one million bolts a week.

Barley Varieties

Information has come to our office regarding U. N. Barley, also told by some seed dealers as "U. N. 55 Brand". It was originally developed by the University of Manitoba and was the U M 570 variety. All these names are applied to the same barley, and this at times can be confusing.

The variety was dropped in Canada because it does not malt like O. A. C. 21 which is their yardstick for malting barley. U. S. maltsters have not declared their position on acceptance of U M 570 as a malting variety. U M 570 is a good yielder, has good straw and produces a very high percentage of plump kernels. Being a blue aleurone variety it will probably be bought as Montcalm Barley.

Dr. Shebeski at the University of Manitoba has made a selection of white aledrone U M 570 but the amount of its distribution has not been determined.

Traill and Fox barleys are on the recommended list for 1957 and farmers are advised to try these new barleys. Kindred "L" barley is also recommended. It's an older malting variety which has done well over the years.

Farm and Home Week

All trades and professions have conferences or training periods when people engaged in the same line of work are brought up to date on the newest developements in the business. The mechanics are sent to schools to become better acquainted with the new cars they work on. The professional groups call their training "periods" "conferences" and so on.

The farm people have an opportunity to attend a training period at the University of Minnesota during Jan. 8 through Jan. 11. This is an outstanding opportunity to obtain excellent information pertaining to farming. The cost of attending is nominal and is an investment which will more than pay for itself.

Agricultural Section

Here are some of the subjects that will be covered which will interest farmers: Trends in hog Production; Fruit Production; Weed Programs; Goose Producers Program; Beekeeping; Ornamental Program; Crop Improvement; Dairying; Swine Production; Safety; Farm Machinery; Veterinary Problems; Silage Show; Water Conservation; A panel on Vegetables; How to Conduct Meetings; Trends in Agriculture; Planning for Farm Profits; Soils Program; Sheep Production; Beef Production; Forages Program; Sheep Production; Beef Production; Forages for Dairy and Beef; Looking Ahead in Agriculture.

Homemakers Selection

The Homemakers will study Family Life; Meal Preparation; The Frozen Foods Program; Menus; Rugs and Carpets; Poultry and Eggs; Clothing Program; Family Budgets; Care of Window Panes; Grades of Beef; Are Our Children Well Fed; Home Lighting and Colors, and other subjects.

In the specialized world it takes technical know-how to succeed. Knowledge of the most recent developements puts you in a better competitive position to provide a finer living for yourself. Plan to attend the Farm and Home Week on January 8 to the 11. For further information see the County Extension Office.

A Happy Holiday Season to all of you!

Warren People OK School Bond Issue

Overwhelming approval of the issuance of $210,000 in bonds for additions to the Warren High school was given by voters in Independent Consolidated School District 2 at the special bond election Monday.

Voters approved the bond proposal 222 yes to only 18 no or a margin of approximately 13 to 1. The vote on the proposal was lighter than anticipated, undoubtedly because of the bitter cold weather on Monday which kept many residents close to their firesides.

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS, BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINN.

December 4, 1956

Pursuant to adjournment the Board of County Commissioners met in the Commissioners' Room in the Court-house at 10:00 A.M., December 4, 1956.

Members present: Hanson, Olson, Anderson, Lindberg and Tasa. All present.

The minutes of meetings of Nov. 6th and 23nd were read and approved as read.

Sheriff Arthur Rambeck presented his resignation as Sheriff of Pennington County after 22 years of service. Upon motion by Lindberg seconded by Tasa the resignation was accepted with regret as of January 2, 1957 and by the Chairman declared carried.

After discussion and consideration of various applications and upon motion by Commissioner Tasa seconded by Commissioner Lindberg, Charles R. Richards was appointed Sheriff of Pennington County effective January 2, 1957. Upon request for a roll call vote on the foregoing motion the following commissioners voted in favor of the motion: Hanson, Olson, Anderson, Lindberg and Tasa. Opposed, none. The roll call vote having shown all 5 Commissioners voting in favor of the motion, the Chairman declared the motion unanimously carried.

The Bray and Numedal Town Boards appeared relative to construction of approximately one mile of road East from SAH 3 between Sec. 34 of Numedal Township and Sec. 3 of Bray Township. The County Board agreed to participate on a 50-50 basis in construction and the first gravel course with the road to remain a Township road.

Commissioner Tasa introduced the following resolution directed to the Legislative Interim Commission on Highway Taxes Distribution and moved its adoption.

WHEREAS, The Automotive Safety Foundation allots Pennington County only about one-third of the County's present road mileage on the designated County Primary System to be eligible for expenditure of the road user funds provided by the passage of Amendment No. 2, and

WHEREAS, This would leave two-thirds of the present County road mileage to be constructed and maintained by County and local levies, placing a heavy burden on the taxpayers of Pennington County, and

WHEREAS, Comparing our neighboring Counties in the number of present County road miles, population and taxable area served, Pennington County is at the bottom and below its share on a comparable basis, and

WHEREAS, In the formula presently recommended to the Legislative Interim Commission on Highway Taxes Distribution between the various Counties is based 50% on the Needs factor and 50% on the mileage factor of the County Primary System. Both of these factors are based on the miles of roads assigned to the County on its Primary System, on which Pennington County was alloted only one-third of its present County road mileage, while some of our neighboring Counties were allowed from 50% to 80% of their present County roads.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, By the Board of County Commissioners of Pennington County, that the Legislative Interim Commission be hereby requested to review the present base on which the distribution is based in this the No. 2 Construction District, and make such adjustment of the base (the Counties Primary Road System) so as to bring Pennington County on a par with the other Counties in this District in the sharing of the road user funds for the construction and maintenance of its County roads.

The following Commissioners voted in favor of the above motion upon request for a roll call vote: Hanson, Olson, Anderson, Lindberg and Tasa after being seconded by Commissioner Olson. The following voted against the resolution: none. Motion declared carried.

Moved by Tasa seconded by Olson that the Auditor be instructed and authorized to draw Warrant in the amount of [illegible] in favor of Smiley Township from the Road & Bridge Fund, said amount being the balance of the account maintained in the Highway Dept. Carried.

OUR LAND

Prepared by the Minnesota Soil Conservation Service in cooperation with University Farm, St. Paul

Record Corn Yield—Plenty of fertilizer boosted corn yields by 60 bushels for Donald Eickhoff, Fillmore county's champion contour plowman, reports Oliver E. Strand, county soils agent. On his X-Tra yield corn plot, Eickhoff got an official yield of 61.1 bushels per acre where no fertilizer was used and 160.1 bushels where the soil was tested and fertilized "according to prescription". He used a starter fertilizer, and side dressed the corn with 100 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre.

Erosion Takes Heavy Toll—Sheet erosion takes a lot of soil. That's what Harold Johnson, chairman of the Douglas county SCD board of supervisors pointed out on a recent tour of the soil conservation district there. He pointed out a hill side where, a few months ago, a Great Lakes Pipe Line Company relaid its line. When the pipe line was first installed six years ago, there was a minimum cover of 18 inches over most of the line, showing a loss of about [illegible] inches of soil in six years.

Lighten Snow Shoveling—Last winter, Willard Peterson, farmer in Marshall county, tried to haul grain, but found the yard was completely plugged with snow drifts. He went to the Marshall county extension office later on and ordered [illegible] Ural Willow trees. He planted the trees around three sides of his farmstead for a snow catch. This fall, Peterson noted that nearly every tree had grown, and some were already 4 feet high, with as many as 5 shoots per plant. In a few years, Peterson says, he will have very little snow to shovel.

Corn Possible on Sidehill—Ted Nickel, Mountain Lake, established contour strips on a steeply sloping field this spring by plowing out every other strip and planting them to corn. A 100-bushel-per-acre yield of corn was his reward from this field in 1956. He says "I harvested the best crop of corn in my life this year and it was on my steepest field."

Don't Use Parking Lights for Driving, Says State Patrol

It is illegal to use parking lights for driving lights, the Minnesota highway department warned today. State traffic regulations call for the use of headlamps whenever there is not sufficient light to give visibility at a distance of 500 feet ahead. The regulations also call for headlamps which would of such intensity as to reveal persons and vehicles at a distance of at least 350 feet ahead for all conditions of loading.

At the time of the year when the shortest days cause more driving in darkness, drivers were cautioned to drive as safely as possible by the use of full lights.

"This is the time of the year when people driving to and from work do so at dusk or darker," the safety division pointed out. "Too many of these simply turn on their parking lights so that approaching drivers can see them. This doesn't permit the driver to see clearly any emergency which might arise in his lane of traffic."

If lights are advisable or needed when driving, use full driving lights; when lights are required while parking, use parking lights; this is the legal and safest method, the department reported, during all periods, not just winter.

TWO HOUR PARKING

The two hour parking ordinance was passed to provide space for customers and was intended to be in effect both winter and summer. The cooperation of local people is asked to help enforce this ordinance. This notice will serve as a warning that the Police Department will be checking on violators.

Prowler Sextet Bows to Grand Forks 4-3; Cathedral Next Foe

Coach Johnny Mutchett's Prowlers turned in a crowd-pleasing brand of hockey as they dropped a 4 to 3 decision to coach Sergio Gambucci's Grand Forks Central Redskins in a schedule-opening game played here Tuesday night. It was the season-opener for both teams.

On Saturday night, December 22nd, coach Bill Sullivan will bring his Crookston Cathedral Blue Wave here for a game against the Prowlers. A preliminary game, between the respective squads 'B' teams will face-off at 6:45 p. m. The varsity game is slated at 8:00 p. m.

The Prowlers "spotted" the Redskins a four-goal advantage in the first period, but instead of crumpling under that deficit, the locals rebounded to tally a pair of goals in the late minutes of the period, and have a better-than-ever edge throughout the second and third periods. It was an encouraging performance by the young and inexperienced Prowlers.

With Fred Dablow serving a penalty, the Redskins opened the game's scoring at the 2:34 mark when Jerry Wentz banged a rebound into the south goal, after Tom Hoghaug had rushed the puck down the ice and drilled a long shot at the Prowler net. At the 8:24 mark, Pat Keeley, with Vic Bachmeier on the assist, beat Sauve with a long shot. With Dablow again in the penalty box, the Redskins notched their third goal when Hoghaug's hard slap shot, from just inside the blue-line, found the mesh at 10:56. Grand Forks gained a 4 to 0 lead when, on a centering out pass from behind the Prowler net, the disc glanced into the cage off a defending Prowler, with Jerry Wentz being credited with the goal.

The Prowlers began their comeback when, at the 13:33 mark, and with Grand Forks' Bachmeier in the penalty box, Jerry Jorgenson took a pass from Jim Hall and then flipped a shot past goalie Kent Palm. With seconds of the opening period remaining to be played, Jorgenson again tallied when he slapped a loose puck into the net, with Dale Wennberg getting the assist.

After a scoreless second period, in which the Prowlers held a slight advantage in the play, the locals pared the Redskins lead to one goal at the 7:35 mark of the third period when Jimmy Hall scored on a breakaway. The Prowlers were skating a man short, with Mike Poole in the penalty box, when Hall intercepted a Grand Forks pass in center-ice, and skated in for a goal-mouth shot. Jim deked Palm into making a move, then flipped a backhand shot into the north goal.

Missing Dog Has Odd Experiences

Collie Caught In Trap Returned to Baudette Man

George Felker's dog, Gip, is safe at home in Baudette at last, after an absence of several weeks during which his adventures were the equal of anything Sandy in the Little Orphan Annie comic strip ever had.

Gip's ordeal began several weeks ago in November, when the car in which he was riding with his master was involved in a collision at the intersection of highways 312 and 89, six miles west of Grygla in Marshall county.

Gip, a large, long haired dog similar to a collie, was last seen at the wreck. Then for weeks he was missing and his master spared no effort in the attempt to find him, advertising in the Times, making long-distance phone calls and long trips in the effort.

In the meantime, Elmer Richardson, a trapper in the Grygla, Fourtown area came upon a large dog in one of his traps one day. He took the dog home and nursed his sore foot and while Gip was with Richardson, Earl Wood an Oklee, Minn man saw him and notified Felker Gip was at the Richardson farm.

After the happy reunion Felker said that, judging from the many letters and phone calls from people who answered his advertisements there are (1) a great many dogs answering to Gip's description in the Grygla area, and (2) there are still many people in the world who are willing to "lend a fellow a helping hand."

President Morrill Lists $27,281,000 Program to Be Asked of Legislature

University of Minnesota regents will ask the 1957 Legislature for $27,281,979 for new buildings and general expansion to meet current needs for a fast-growing student body.

J. L. Morrill, University president, announcing the regents' request Tuesday, said it is the "first phase" of a long range 128 million dollar physical plant development program outlined last April as university needs up to 1970 when the student body is expected to reach 47,000.

Included in the regents' request is $702,000 for Northwest School of Agriculture and Experiment Station at Crookston.

Funds at Crookston would go for a new classroom structure to replace Hill building, $300,000; replacement of minor buildings, $38,000 additional minor buildings, turkey barn and field work room and storage, $9,000; rehabilitation of present buildings — stabilization of buildings affected by settling; Robertson Hall, and eight residential buildings, $355,000.

Major items to be submitted in the request are:

New buildings for instruction, research and general use $10,711,000, housing and food service buildings, $2,551,000; major rehabilitation and remodeling jobs; $2,801,500; branch station new buildings and rehabilitation work, $1,727,500 and land needs for the Minneapolis campus, including a new campus on the west side of the Mississippi River, $3,160,979.

Morrill said the building needs reflect primarily the demands of the people of Minnesota who are sending an ever higher percentage of high school graduates to college at the same time the number of high school graduates is increasing.

Five Motorists Appear in Traffic Court on Monday

Police cases included:

Mrs Bonnie Howe, Harrington, Kansas, no drivers license, forfeited a $30 bond.

Theodore Bergdahl, St. Hilaire, failure to heed a stop sign, fined $5 and $4 costs.

Joe W. Pulczinski, Greenbush, failure to yield right of way, fined $10 and $4 costs.

Milton W. Battleson, city, speeding, fined $10 and $4 costs.

Another Limb.

You will recall that we went out on a sturdy limb last week picking the Roseau Rams to win the eight regional hockey championship. This week, after finding a sturdier limb, we'll go out and pick Larry Ross' International Falls' Broncos to win the state high school hockey title. We'll put in a hedge on that prediction, though, and that is that the prediction won't be valid unless the Broncos win the seventh regional championship. That's what is termed as a "quibbling" prediction, for it's impossible for the Broncos to win the state championship unless they are regional winners, for this is the year when region eight will provide two state tourney entries, while region seven will only send its champions.

It's not a certainty that the Broncos will win the region seven crown, for Eveleth's Cliff Thompson has one of his stronger Golden Bear clubs. Oh yes, Thompson will bring that Eveleth team here on Friday night, December 28th, for a game against the Prowlers.

Last Friday night, on the Roseau rink, getting back to the Broncos the International Falls club defeated the Rams by a convincing 7 to 1 score. In fairness to coach Oscar Almquist's team, we'll report that it was the first game of the season for the Rams, while the Broncos have played several games.

Elmer Poole, who is our advisor on hockey matters, especially on the high school and college level, was in attendance at last Friday's Rams vs. Broncos tilt. He states that that 7 to 1 score does not give a fair indication of the game, or the relative strength of the two teams. According to Elmer, the presence of Oscar Mahle in the Broncos lineup was the deciding factor. Mahle, the possessor of a terrific shot, both with his backhand and his forehand, rifled in a pair of blue-liners, and assisted on a couple of goals. Elmer contends that Mahle's shot compares very favorable with the "slap shot" of North Dakota's famed Bill Reichert.

International Falls' Larry Ross, by his own admission, claims that this season's Bronco club is the best that he has coached. From last year's solid club, he lost only goalie Bob Laurion, a great one, and defenseman Elmer Walls, another great one. Yes, the Broncos are state championship material.

Long Life And Good Health

That apply describes the athletic rivalry between the Crookston Pirates and the Prowlers, and on Friday night, on the local high school floor, the two teams will continue the series when Al Doren's district champions meets coach Al Adams' Prowlers in an important 31st district conference tilt.

The Pirates, although losing such stellar performers as the high-scoring Hank Hulst, Bruce Lindell, Ralph Pester, and Gary Lufkin from last season's champions, given rating as district favorites again this year. The team has been built around the talented Herschel Pepper Lysaker, and he gives the Pirates a splendid nucleus. Pepper, in the Pirate games to date, has been the club's leading scorer, and he'll be troublesome for the Prowler defense on Friday night. He is the possessor of all the catalogued shots, jump, set, hook, etc.

The Pirates, in their basketball rivalry with the Prowlers, are far in arrears in the victory column, but they are working on a two-game winning streak, having won both games last season, and will try for number three on Friday.

The Prowlers, in their last game, against the Roseau Rams here on Saturday night, and which game they won by a 74 to 56 score, showed vast improvement in their spirit and their play. And in Roseau's Larry Ness, they were up against one of the finest outside shots that local fans have ever seen, and his shooting, particularly in the second period, could have been demoralizing. His phenomenal basket-shooting kept the Rams in the game until the latter stages of the fourth period. And it's to the credit of the Prowlers that they were able to shake off those "jolting" baskets by Larry Ness.

Jackie Doing Okay

Jackie Poole, the center-ice and all-state selection on last year's state championship Prowler hockey team, is doing all right as a member of the Rochester Mustangs club. Last Friday night, in an important hockey game against the Minneapolis Bungalows, Jackie scored a pair of goals in the third period that were instrumental in giving the Mustangs a 9 to 7 win over the Minneapolis club. Bob and Dick Meredith, the former University of Minnesota stars, are members of the Bungalows.

A release on the league scoring honors reveals that Jack is up among the leaders. The Rochester Mustangs club has a monopoly in the individual scoring race with Paul Johnson in first place, Arlie Carlson in second play, and Jack Poole and Bob Baker, both of whom are former Prowler all-staters, tied for third place.

We still maintain that Jack Poole would have been a first-rate college hockey prospect.

Thieves, Roseau Slate Two Games for This Weekend

Teams to Face Off at Roseau Saturday Night and Here Sunday at 2:30

The city's senior hockey Thieves will engage in a two-game series with the Roseau Cloverleafs this weekend. On Saturday night, with face-off time at 8:30 p. m., the Thieves will play at Roseau; and on Sunday afternoon, with face-off time at 2:30 p. m., the two teams will play a return game here on the Arena rink.

The local squad, composed of former Prowler players, and under the direction of player-coach Paul Bedard, have been holding practice drills at the Arena. It was annouced that these practice sessions will be held on Thursday nights, at 9:00 p. m.

Players who have been reporting for these drills, and who will be in the lineup on Saturday and Sunday, are Jack McGill, Rod Collins, Chip Strand, Delray and Cal Offerdahl, Allen Steenerson, Dick Lane, Jim Oveson, Bedard, and several others.

Two Men Inducted Dec. 12; Two More Leave January 23

Army December 12, and were sent to Camp Chaffee, Arkansas, to start training, the Pennington county selective service office announced. Orders have been received to supply two men for induction January 23, and four men for pre-induction physical examinations the same day.

Number Eighty-seven

$3,384,000 Was Spent by State in 1955 to Keep Highways Open

For Minnesota motorists, winter driving on the state's 11,820 miles of trunk highways is nearly as commonplace and uneventful as summer travel. There's a reason. Minnesotans have wanted year-around main roads enough so they have been willing to pay the necessary price for adequate snow and ice control.

How much they have paid over the years was revealed today by George A. Meskal, chief maintenance engineer of the state highway department. He also reported steps employed by the department for greatest possible economy in combatting winter driving hazards.

From a snow and ice control expenditure of only $12,182 in 1921, this cost has increased gradually, but fairly steadily, to a total of $3,384,420 for 1955, Meskal said. However, favorable weather kept the cost down to $2,087,425 in 1954, and it has reached $3 million in only one year, 1951. The snow and ice control total for as well as snow plowing, ice cutting, sanding and salting.

Meskal drew his snow and ice figures from a newly completed 35-year tabulation which showed that from 1921, when the department was organized, through 1955, the department's entire maintenance activity for upkeep of all the state's trunk highways totaled $227,431,634.

Steps cited by Meskal for holding down costs of snow and ice control were the improved design of highways for less drifting, roadside planting of trees for natural, permanent snow fencing, and more and better mechanical equipment, some of it designed and built in the highway department.

Survey of Trading Stamps Released

Shows 76 Pct. Don't Switch Patronage to Get Stamps

A consumer survey on the pros and cons of trading stamps and premium credits has been published and released today by Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborn, Inc., according to Bobb Chaney, vice president and general manager of the national advertising agency's Minneapolis office.

The 32-page brochure reveals that 24 per cent of the housewives who save trading stamps have switched patronage from one store to another to take advantage of a premium credit plan. Seventy-six per cent said they did not switch.

The study also indicates that 80 per cent of the housewives interviewed said they saved either stamps or premium credit and 59 per cent of the husbands save stamps.

BBDO does not take sides in the trading stamps issue, Chaney said. The study is on of a series of reports on what consumers do, or do not do. No attempt is made to editorialize.

Over half of the housewives save more than one type of premium credit plan, according to the study. Younger women tend to be more active in saving stamps and other premium credits. Eighty-five per cent of the women from 25-31 save stamps while only 62 per cent of the women over 65 save.

16 Minnesotans Fined on Gas Tax Refund Charges

G. Howard Spaeth, commissioner of taxation, announced today that sixteen Minnesotans and one resident of Iowa had been charged with violations of the gasoline tax refund laws during November. The fines paid by the defendants totaled $190.00. Refund claims totaling $623.10 were voided, and restitution in the amount of $181.75 was obtained by the state for taxes on gasoline fraudulently claimed for nonhighway use but later proved to have been used on the highways on prior claims.

The seventeen cases involved sixteen users of gasoline who filed refund claims and one gasoline dealer. Sixteen of the cases involved the use of gasoline in licensed motor vehicles on the highways and on which the defendant asked refund of the tax. One case involved the changing of the date on a gasoline sales ticket in order to bring it within the required filing period for refund of the gasoline tax for nonhighway use.

Under Minnesota statutes, gasoline taxes may be refunded to consumers on fuel used for other than highway purposes when a bona fide claim is filed within four months from the date of purchase.

None of the claimants involved in these prosecutions will be permitted under Minnesota law to file a claim for refund of the gasoline tax for a period of six months following the date of the conviction.

Specialist Tells of Rodent Control

Speaks at Marshall Co. SCS Meetings Last Week

Robert Isaac, rodent control specialist with the Department of Interior, has been a guest speaker at the ASC Soil bank and Soil Conservation District education meetings held in Marshall County the past week.

Crowds at Oslo, Alvarado and Stephen heard him as well as those attending the soil conservation education meetings at Holt and Middle River.

Mr. Isaac, cautioned farmers that the Food and Drug Administration is getting tougher in their policy on clean grain.

At a recent meeting, Food and Drug officials indicated they are not entirely satisfied with the present standards of grain sanitation and they may extend the program to include oats, barley and corn.

When a farmer has an infestation of rates and mice a good control program becomes a necessity and controlling them is as essential as any other regular farm chore.

A good control practice must incorporate the following: 1. Reduce the rodent population. 2. Maintain sanitary conditions. 3. Ratproof farm buildings.

Caution — anti coagulent baits are poison, keep them labelled and out of reach of children and pets. Bury dead rats and mice.

Highway Patrol to Work Full Time During Holidays

"Accident prevention is a primary mission of the Minnesota highway patrol," Chief Paul R. Martz reported today. "Taking a hint from the tragic Christmas weekend last year when 609 persons were killed over the nation, the patrol will be out to do its part to help reduce that toll!"

To help keep Minnesota highways safe for happy holiday travelers, the patrol will be on a full-strength schedule to prevent irresponsible motorists from ruining the season for others. This means there will be "no days off" for highway patrol officers for the Christmas and New Years weekends beginning on patrolling as the tempo and volumes of traffic tend to increase.

KEEPING IT CLEAN

Dr. J. L. Morrill, president of the University of Minnesota, is taking an unpopular position on a question of aid for athletes. He is leading a Big 10 minority group of prexies in opposition to a proposal that aid for athletes be distributed on the basis of financial need. He is opposed to any grant that is not based on scholastic achievement.

To him our best wishes in a laudable effort. We do not need to be concerned about good athletes, who also are good students, not getting reasonable assistance in their efforts to acquire a higher education. And for those outstanding athletes who do not meet the scholastic standards of the better schools there are unlimited opportunities in the many diploma mills that are operating thruout the country. But the Big 10 should keep its standards high.

And incidentally, our own local school officials deserve a pat on the back for taking a firm position on rules governing athletic eligibility. No youngster who is not a good school citizen should be permitted to represent the school in any form of competition.

SCHOOL NAMES
(Winnipeg Tribune)

"A citizen of Windsor recently suggested that it would be a good idea if school principals in that city occasionally explained to pupils the significance of the names of particular schools. Pupils could be given an outline of the life of the person in whose honor the school was named or the event the name was intended to commemorate.

"This suggestion at least has the merit of not involving increased expenditure of money—something that few suggestions in connection with education seem to have these days. However, it seems to be just as applicable to Winnipeg as it is to Windsor."

In a small way maybe the suggestion might properly apply to Thief River Falls too. Our Lincoln and Washington schools offer no problem and we presume that the Northrop was named in honor of Cyrus Northrop, a distinguished educator and president of the University of Minnesota. Much could be said to his credit, we are sure, in explaining to the pupils why his name was chosen for their fine school. For the background on the Knox we will have to venture the guess that the name is related to the addition to the city that bears that name and is geographic rather than honorary. We will be glad to give space to the views of any old timers who are better informed on the question.

FEDERAL AID FOLLY

Many members of congress in both parties, and President Eisenhower, have committed themselves to federal aid for education. The education lobby will settle for any kind of a bill and there is real danger that a small appropriation, serving as an entering wedge, will be adopted by the next session.

Our federal government is already having more difficulty in meeting its obligations than are most of its subdivisions. There might be some justification for assistance to a few needy states but that is not the way it will be done. Even the richest states are asking for a hand-out.

Before it can give the government must take away, and in order to give a dollar it must take away more than a dollar. Here in Minnesota, regardless of the formula, federal aid to schools would cost us more than we would get back.

COMPULSORY INSURANCE

The state of New York is having its first experience with a compulsory insurance law for car owners. Under the provisions of a new law, 1957 license plates now are being issued only to owners who prove that they have the necessary protection. The required amount of coverage is a $10,000-$20,000 policy for personal injury and $5,000 for property damage.

The New York Times, in support of the plan, concludes:

> Although there may be some initial confusion, as attested by the report that nearly 15 per cent of the license applications have been rejected because the forms were lacking or incorrectly prepared, there is no question that the law is a good one. It was passed to protect the many responsible car owners—as well as pedestrians—against the 700,000 who now drive without insurance of any kind.

FOOD ideas FOR HOLIDAY HOSPITALITY
Turn packaged "quickies" into party dishes

Speedy Meat Tarts—A spicy meat spread plus large, crispy brown-and-serve rolls, that's all there is to it! Hollow out the rolls when they're fresh from the oven, pile in the spread and top with a sauce—cream, tomato or curry. Here's the greatest taste going—a pepper-hot dish with ice-cold Coca-Cola. Coke has a way with food you'll like!

Instant Pumpkin Pie—Old-fashioned goodness the new-fashioned way! A batch of instant butterscotch pudding does the work, with 1½ cups canned pumpkin and traditional seasonings added. Turn into a baked pie shell, add a frosting of whipped cream—and it's ready to "cook" in your refrigerator. Better check your stock of Coca-Cola—its great taste is always in great demand!

Quick Chicken Loaf—When the whole gang gathers—here's the dish! The drink? Sparkling Coca-Cola—now in Family-Size too, to save the hostess steps. Just bake up a batch of corn muffin mix in an 8" pan, whip on a can of chicken à la king. Then under the broiler and there, you see—what good things come in packages!

Rev. Ralph Chelsen officiated at the double ring ceremony in the presence of approximately 250 friends and relatives amidst a winter setting, with large white satin bows and gilted pine cones marking the pews. Lighted candelabra and large baskets of Florida gladiolis and mixed flowers adorned the altar. Melvin Hamnes of Gonvick played the nuptial music and accompanied Barbara Bergh, friend of the bride as she sang "Because" before the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of nylon tulle and lace over luminous bridal satin. The gown had a lavaliere neckline, softened with bands of tulle, lace basque bodice and long traditional lace sleeves, which tapered carefully to points over her hands. A star shaped peplum of lace topped two tiers of gathered tulling which shaped the bouffant shirt and sweep train. Her fingertip veil fell from a cloche of lace adorned with inter-woven pearl beads and pleated tulle brim. The bride's bouquet was a cascade spray of white and pink feathered carnations. Her only jewelry was a single strand pearl necklace and earrings.

Miss Beverly Melbo, close friend of the bride served as maid of honor. TO ALL PEOPLE OF SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 18

Dear School Patron:

This letter is directed not only to parents but to all people who are interested in the future of the Thief River Falls Public Schools. We are inviting you to participate in a series of discussions during the months of January and perhaps February. The purpose of these meetings is to give you, the people of District 18, an opportunity to express yourselves on school procedures. Also we are anxious to know just what you want in the way of school services. Reports of separate committees will go to a Central Committee and then to the Board of Education for final approval.

This will be your opportunity to say your piece. There are those who feel that we do not have enough services in the Public Schools. There are others who think there are entirely too many frills. What should we add? What should we subtract? This is your school — Not just you parents of pupils here, but ALL of you. You have a right to express yourselves on how it should be operated. This is your opportunity — Don't fail to avail yourselves of it!

There will be seven committee groups in the Elementary School, seven in the Junior High School and seven in the Senior High School. Suggested questions for discussion are included in this bulletin. Others will likely come up in the meetings. The first gathering will be on Monday, January 14 at 8 p. m. in the Lincoln High School Auditorium. After a short group meeting of everybody present we will divide into separate committees for discussion. The time and place for future meetings will be decided on that night. We want to complete the discussions in January and February so we can start working on next year's program after that.

Please indicate below what committee you want to be on and either send the slip back with your boy or girl or put it in an envelope and mail it to Lincoln High School. Remember — Everybody is welcome! It might be well for "Pa" to be on one committee and "Ma" on another. This is just a suggestion, however.

We want to take this opportunity to wish each and everyone of you A Blessed Holiday Season.

J. A. Seter, Superintendent

TEAR OFF AND RETURN SLIP BELOW

Place a check mark before the committee you wish to be on and give your name, address, and telephone number. If more than one member of the family want to participate and you want to be on separate committees, please indicate in the space for "Remarks" below. We would like to have all slips back by Monday, January 7.

License Revocations Rise Sharply in State

A fifteen per cent rise in revocations of drivers license was noted during the first eleven months of 1956 according to a report issued today by the Drivers License division of the Minnesota highway department. Revocations this year to date totaled 9,774 compared to 8,390 for the first eleven months of 1955, an increase of 1,384.

Two dangerous holiday driving violations, speeding and drunken driving, accounted for 96 per cent of the revocations during the year. There were 8,606 persons who lost their licenses had licenses revoked for speed- for drunken driving, while 808 ing. The department noted that driving under the influence had a sharp increase during November when 1,004 persons convicted of "D. W. I." had license revoked.

The report carried a warning from the Minnesota Highway Department that these two violations were indicated in over 60 per cent of the fatal accidents in which a record 609 persons lost their lives over the Christmas weekend last year. The warning pointed out that excessive speed increased the severity of these accidents, raising the nation's death toll to the higest in history for the otherwise happy holiday.

Minnesota has joined in the nation-wide "Back The Attack" program which is aimed at these two top driving violations. The attack will be pointed at the holiday period to reduce the number of violators who contribute to fatal accidents.

Other activities listed in the drivers license report showed that 27,330 persons had their license suspended so far this year, of which 2,987 were in November. This is 1,894 ahead of last year. Of this number, 13,217 were suspended under provisions of the Safety Responsibility act for failure to deposit security or to satisfy the financial responsibility requirements.

During November, 19,979 driving tests and examination were given by state driver examiners, bringing the total for the first eleven months of 1956 to 245,002, ten per cent more than a year ago. During the month, 2,099 warning letters were sent to drivers who were building up a bad record under the Minnesota point system. The total for the year reached 41,085.

Grafton Parade Band Rejects Bid to Miami, Florida

The Grafton Parade Band has reluctantly turned down an invitation this past week, Director Joe Birkeland announced Friday.

Early in the week the band turned down an invitalon to take part in the Orange Bowl festivities at Miami, Fla., Birkeland said. The band had received an official invitation from Orange Bowl officials three weeks ago. The invitation was held open in the hope that the band could find housing quarters in the Miami area. When it became apparent that no housing would be available, the band informed the Orange Bowl officials that it would not able to take part in the festivities this year.

The Grafton band has appeared at the Orange Bowl festivities on one occasion. The band also appeared twice at the Rose Bowl activities at Pasadena, Calif.

Social Security Taxes Increased

Employers and Workers Each to Pay 2¼ Pct.

District Director of Internal Revenue A. R. Knox today reminded Minnesota employers that recent amendments have changed tax rates under the federal insurance contributions act (Social Security) and filing requirements under the federal unemployment tax act.

New insurance contributions act rates on wages paid on or after January 1, 1957 will be 2¼ percent each for employers and employees, a total of 4½ percent, Mr. Knox said.

The changes in the unemployment tax act, he explains, provides that employers who had four or more employees on at least one day of each of 20 calendar weeks during 1956 will be required to file Form 940 by January 31, 1957. The filing of Form 940, annual federal tax return of employers, was formerly required of employers who had eight or more employees.

Mr. Knox said that copies of this return, Form 940, have been sent to most of the employers in this district. However, he suggested that employers who have not received this form by January 9, should obtain copies from the local Internal Revenue Office, Post Office Building, St. Paul, Minnesota.

American Medical Assn. to Reassess Fluoridation Plan

Committee Expected to Reaffirm Its Stand in Favor of Fluoridation

A fact-finding committee of the American Medical Assn. is reassessing the association's favorable stand on fluoridation of drinking water.

Dr. David B. Allman, president-elect of the association, said Friday that after the five-man committee reports its findings at some future AMA meeting, the association "will either reaffirm its previous stand or state otherwise."

Four years ago, the AMA endorsed flouridation as a means to prevent children's tooth decay. Since then, many cities throughout the country have adopted the principle while others are opposed.

Dr. Alman, an Atlantic City physician, said he believed the committee would reaffirm the association's stand favoring fluoridation.

The feeling in the AMA, he said, is not unanimous on fluoridation but the "overwhelming majority of the members are definitely of the opinion that fluoridation not only is safe but also beneficial for the improvement of dental health in children."

President Ho[illegible]ul in Yuletide Me[illegible]ge

In the annual Christmas tree-lighting ceremony at the White House Thursday evening President Eisenhower expressed hope for the peace and progress of the world. Following the pressing of the button which illuminated the 67-foot spruce, he delivered the following brief address.

"In this nation's capital city we are joined tonight with millions in all our 48 states, and, indeed, throughout the world, in the happiness and in the hope that Christmas brings.

"Not that everyone is filled with happiness and hope in this season of rejoicing. Far from it. There is weariness and suffering for multitudes. There is hunger as well as happiness, slavery as well as freedom around the world. But in the myriads of Christmas candles we see the vision of a better world for all people.

"In the light of Christmas, the dark curtains of the world are drawn aside. We see more clearly our neighbors next door; and our neighbors in other nations. We see ourselves and the responsibilities that belong to us. Inspired by the story of Christmas we seek to give of our happiness and abundance to others less fortunate. Even now the American people, on the farm and in the city, rallying through the Red Cross and other voluntary agencies to meet the needs of our neighbors in Hungary, are true to the spirit of Christmas.

"Even more important, there are particularly manifested during this season those spiritual qualities of freedom and honor and neighborliness and good will— great virtues that make al peoples one. Through them, and faith in them, we see how men can live together in peace; for one glorious moment we sense progress toward that aspiration of every religious faith — "Peace on earth, good will to men."

"These are hallowed words; through ages they have heartened and moved mankind, even though their message of peace is far too often drowned by the strident voices of the fearful or the arrogant, who fill our minds with doubt and pessimism. They blur our vision with clouds of hate.

"But the spirit of Christmas returns, yet again, to enable us to gain understanding of each other; to help each other; to obey the elemental facts of justice; to practice good will toward all men of every tongue and color and creed; to remember that we are all identical in our aspirations for a peaceful, a decent, a rewarding life.

"In the warm glow of the Christmas tree, it is easy to say these things, but when the trees come down and the lights are put away — as they always are —then we have a true testing of the spirit. That testing will be answered, throughout the year ahead, by the success each of us experiences in keeping alive the inspiration and exaltation of this moment.

"We must proceed by faith, knowing the light of Christmas is eternal, though we cannot always see it.

"We must believe that the truth of Christmas is constant; that men can live together in peace as Lincoln said, "with charity for all, with firmness in the right."

"In this spirit, I now turn on the lights of the national Christmas tree.

"By the light of Christmas charity and Christmas truth, we enter the new year with gratitude and strength. In this spirit, let us make sure that 1957 will add a memorable chapter to the story of mankind.

"May the Father of us all bless all who dwell upon his earth.

St. Bernard's Boy Scout Christmas Tree Sale Success

The goal of sending a scout from St. Bernard's Troop 57 to the scouts' Valley Forge Jamboree in July is much nearer realization as the result of local people's patronage of the troop's Christmas tree concession, Lambert Rinowski, scoutmaster, said Friday.

The troop bought 165 Canadian blue spruce to sell locally through Friday had sold 130, Rinowski said. He expected that several of those remaining would be sold to last-minute buyers Saturday, the last day the concession will be open.

This is the first year the troop has engaged in such a venture and Rinowski said the troop was very gratified with results to date. He also expressed appreciation to those who patronized Troop 59's tree stand.

Marshall County Tax Rate for Next Year Is 60.07 Mills

Rate Is 4.56 Mills Higher Than for Current Year, County Auditor Reports

A tax rate of 60.07 mills for county purposes will be spread on the taxable valuation of Marshall county for the year beginning January 1, 1957, Levi G. Johnson, Marshall county auditor, announced Wednesday.

The new tax rate represents an increase of 4.56 mills over the 55.51 mills being paid for county purposes this year. The increase for next year is largely from the Welfare fund which increased from 14.24 mills this year to 18.12 mills next year. High school transportation also increased from 2.27 mills this year to 3.44 next year. All other funds remain at approximately the same level for the two years.

An increase of 11.45 mills was made necessary for the tuition levy on property in the common school districts in the county. This tuition levy is to pay for high school tuition for children living in the common school districts of the county. It is not levied on property located within districts maintaining high schools. The new tuition levy is 33.06 and is to raise $63,000 while the present tuition levy is 21.61 mills.

The new rate for state purposes totals 9.15 mills which includes 3.34 mills on state debt and 5.34 mills as the mandatory state tax.

Gaylen Ose of this community was one of the members of the Augsburg College student body who participated in the recent Christmas festival observance at the college. The program was in the form of a pageant with narration by a choral speaking group and music coordinated with the narration by the Augsburg College choir, choral club and male chorus.

1957 Drive for Polio Fund to Open Shortly

Chrm. R. G. Mabey to Start Campaign in County Next Week

Richard G. Mabey, chairman of the 1957 polio fund drive in Pennington county, announced this week that the campaign is scheduled to open January 4, and he added that Mrs. Harold Rasmussen has consented to serve again as director of the Mother's March on Polio, to be conducted in the residential areas late in January.

Harold M. Johnson has been named to serve as director in charge of special events, and other appointments will be announced shortly by Mabey, who was chosen to head the campaign for his second year by C. W. Rodekuhr, chairman of the Pennington county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The foundation announced the four-fold purpose of the 1957 March of Dimes in the following statement:

In the first place, we intend to press onward toward our objective of total prevention. We must continue to educate, to inform, to hammer away with every means at our disposal to get across the message: Vaccinate now! Vaccine supplies are plentiful. Almost every state has lifted all age priorities for commercial vaccine. Every person up to the age of 35 should have maximum protection.

Our second purpose is to continue the tremendous job of providing assistance to new patients according to their needs and to old patients as we have done in the past. But this year we will have more to do, because new rehabilitation techniques make it possible to do more for the stricken. And the Salk vaccine has enabled us to shift our emphasis from the acute to the rehabilitative phase of polio treatment.

Our third purpose is to continue March of Dimes research which already has given to mankind magnificent new weapons of knowledge and understanding of life and disease. March of Dimes research supported Dr. Jonas Salk and made his discoveries possible. March of Dimes research, directed by John Enders and his colleagues, has merited the Nobel Prize and opened the door, not only to the conquest of polio, but to a new understanding of the nature of viruses and perhaps eventual control of many virus diseases which now plague mankind.

Our fourth purpose is to continue to encourage and support the development of trained workers in the field of health. Your National Foundation has the largest program of any national voluntary association for the training of scientists, doctors, physical therapists, medical social workers and other professional workers. To date, more than 4,200 men and women have received March of Dimes scholarships and fellowships in fields which directly affect the well-being of you and your family.

The bridge will be moved to the bypass within two weeks and work will begin on piers of a new bridge sometime this winter.

Extreme Cold Makes Job Tough

Getting a rail in position under the 8th st. bridge, preparatory to moving it to a traffic bypass upstream is complicated by temperatures that dropped as low as 28 below zero the day this picture was taken. In the foreground are pilings that will be driven for the bypass abutment. When the bypass is complete it will serve traffic until a new bridge is completed near the mouth of Thief River where the present bridge is now located. These men are employees of Jennings Jensen, local housemover, who subcontracted the bridge moving job from the T. M. Swingen Co. of Grand Forks.

Cornerstone Is Laid in New Phone Building

The cornerstone laying ceremony Friday morning at the new Northwestern Bell telephone building on LaBree av. N. was marked by attendance of several out-of-town company officials and local dignitaries.

Local Northwestern Bell Manager A. K. Bacon acted as master of ceremonies at the affair and he told of the aims of the company in erecting the modern facilities to serve Thief River Falls and vicinity.

After his short address Bacon introduced company officials from St. Paul and Detroit Lakes and members of the local Northwestern Bell staff.

Attending from St. Paul northern division offices of the company were Bruce Morton, head of the commercial division; Armand Cook, residential division plant head, and Lloyd Porter, northern division traffic manager.

Local staff members introduced Mrs. Othelia Wagner, chief operator; Charles Davis, local plant head; and Neil Bloomquist, construction foreman. Bacon also introduced former local Northwestern Bell manager A. J. Rau, who is now retired.

Before the cornerstone was set in place pictures of telephone facilities now in use, including maintenance trucks, switchboard, telephone directory and other articles were placed in a copper receptacle, along with a picture of the present Thief River Falls city council and two copies of the Times.

W. E. Dahlquist, Times editor delivered a short address, calling modern telephone service an example of cooperation between private enterprise and rural cooperatives.

Mayor Orion D. Beich troweled the stone, after the copper receptacle was put in place in the cornerstone opening, and he was presented with the inscribed silver trowel after the stone was cemented in place.

The invocation was given by the Rev. E. C. Mead, and the benediction was given by the Very Reverend K. Patnode.

Back Payments of $20,831 Follow High Court Ruling

The local office of the state employment service announced today that back payments of unemployment insurance benefits totaling $20,831, were made to Thief River Falls employees of Land O' Lakes Creameries Thursday, December 20.

These payments were made possible as a result of the recent determination by the Minnesota state supreme court determining poultry processing in the Land O'Lakes plants to be a non-seasonal operation.

The claims processed dated back to 1954, 1955 and the early part of 1956. Approximately 60 individuals, most of whom were women, were the recipients.

Police Looking for Driver Involved in City Accident

About $125 damages was sustained to the car driven by Clarence Gross, city, when he struck the rear of a dark-colored 1950 or 1951 Buick that made a right turn off E. 3rd st. onto Kendall av. N. about 8 p. m. Wednesday, Police Chief Elton Cummings reported today.

Gross said the other vehicle's driver did not signal the turn and that he tried to swing left to avoid the collision but to no avail. Both cars were driving east before the accident occurred.

Right Around Town

BY V. M. "MACK" DRAPER

Dum-de-dum-dum-boughs of holly,
Tra-la-la-la-la, la-la-la
'Tis the season to be jolly,
Tra-la-la-la-la, la-la-la

We don't know all the words—and even if we did we can't sing. All of which means, simply, that the holiday spirit is upon us and we'll be happy even if we can't carry a tune in a bucket.

Come to think of it folks, we all do have a great many things to be happy about. Most of us are well off: relatively speaking; we have a measure of prosperity, our boys aren't shedding blood on foreign soil, we have our freedom to do and say pretty much as we please in our country.

Most of all, we can be happy there was a Christ-child born about 1956 years ago in a Bethlehem stable. It means hope for a better life for humanity in the hereafter, which, after all, was his purpose in coming to this Earth.

We often get too carried away in our rush to buy gifts, ornament trees, mail cards, etc., to really and truly realize the true meaning of the Christmas celebration. Our local JayCees and the people who cooperated with them in setting up the nativity scene on the post office lawn have a very praiseworthy idea in trying to bring home the true meaning of Christmas.

Capt. Walter Anderson of the highway patrol brought us some copies of the patrol's Christmas greeting cards the other day. A copy of the greeting was published in Thursday's Times but in case you didn't read the message, which is called the Highway Patrolman's Prayer, we'll repeat it:

May this holiday season bring us:

NO dead or dying accident victims to be pried out of crumpled automobile wrecks . . .

NO bad news calls turning joyful homes into scenes of sorrow . . .

NO drunken drivers mumbling drunken "I'm sorry" after seeing the bloody results of their stupidity.

If you must drink, make it strong black coffee! If you must drive, stay sober — and even if you're sober keep alert for someone who hasn't heeded the highway patrolman's prayer.

We here in town are extremely fortunate in other ways, too. We haven't had to close our ears to the screams of persons dying in fires as the city of Duluth has in recent days.

Please folks . . . let's ALL be safety conscious ALL THE TIME! Accidents don't always happen to 'the other fellow' as we've found out the hard way.

Now that we've dispensed with the gloom of doom, let's move on to some more cheerful subjects. Like the many Christmas programs our local churches have scheduled for the holiday season. We hear that a great many young folks will be caroling to folks in the rest homes and hospitals in the city and surrounding area. The shut-ins at home will also hear the peal of carols.

This is in the true spirit of Christmas. These people are giving their time and effort that others may be happy. Truly it is better to give than receive!

Now, on a lighter note, we had intended to take a picture of someone in straw hat, sun glasses, sport shirt and Bermuda shorts during our recent, warm, sunny days, just as a stunt. Naturally, the first person who came to mind was Orv's Olen.

The plan was spoiled however, when he decided his long, red underwear wouldn't look exactly right sticking out below the shorts so we had to call the whole thing off.

So long . . . AND A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS TO YOU ALL!

One of 23 Scheduled in Minnesota Communities to Be Held Mar. 7 in TRF

Minnesota farm families, business men and consumers will join in discussions with farm policy specialists during a series of Farm Forum meetings around the state this winter. Forums are scheduled in Thief River Falls March 7 for Pennington and Red Lake counties, and in Warren February 1.

Twenty-three Farm Forums have been scheduled in the state so far, according to Luther Pickrel, extension economist in public affairs at the University of Minnesota.

Pickrel says the purpose of these meetings is to give farm people factual information on agricultural problems. Forum visitors will be urged to take part in discussing the issues, and ask any questions they wish, no matter how controversial the issues are.

Staff members from the University and the USDA will attend each forum. These speakers will include specialists in the many phases of agricultural policy, trade and marketing.

Here are some of the main questions that will be discussed at each meeting, according to Pickrel:

How are farmers sharing in the nation's income?

How big should a farm be?

How do trade and foreign policy affect Minnesota farmers and consumers?

Will the soil bank program help solve the farm income problem?

These questions will be geared to the local situation in each forum meeting, according to Pickrel.

Registered Grain Must Be Sampled by January First

Registered grain must be sampled by Jan. 1, 1957, states County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk. An inspector of the Minnesota Crop Improvement association will take official samples after the seed has been processed. The county agent will assist with the sampling if desired.

For certified seed the date by which the grain must be sampled and tested by the State Laboratories is March 15. If the samples are not received by these dates, the seed lots may be subject to rejection at the discretion of the certifying agency. Growers of certified and registered seed should keep these two dates in mind.

The laboratory tests include determination of purity, germination, moisture, color, plumpness, grade, and general appearance. Make sure the seed you plant next year is of the highest quality said Stelmaschuk. High germination and purity will more than pay the difference in certified and bin-run seed.

Payrolls in State Reach $3.5 Billion

Total Is 8.2 Per Cent Above Figure for 1955

Industrial Minnesota will close out 1956 with a record of having payroll checks totaling an all time high of $3,504,973,800, a figure that is 8.2% above 1955. This fact is a highlight in a preliminary annual report issued by Commissioner Frank T. Starkey of the department of employment security.

Increased employment and higher wage rates were the principal factor in the department's estimate for the year now closing. Equally impressive, Starkey said, is the fact that average annual earnings of increased $200 from 3,743 in 1955 to $3,967 this year.

Industrial employment averaged about 883,000 this year, which figure is approximately 18,000 more than it was in 1955.

Largest aggregate payroll in the state was paid by the manufacturing industry, $1,025,069,600, that total having passed the $1 billion mark for the first time in the state's history.

The highest average rate of any major non-farm category was paid in the mining industry, $4,841.

The construction industry paced the payroll growth in the state with a whooping increase of 61%, when compared with 1947.

Highway Mishaps Lacking in Area Despite Icy Roads

Only One Minor Accident In Thief River Falls Is Reported Since Thursday

City and area residents are keeping a fairly clean driving record despite extremely unfavorable driving conditions on the streets and highways, according to traffic authorities in the city.

No serious accidents have been reported in the city or surrounding area since streets and highways became coated with sleet.

One minor accident occurred in the city Thursday, city police reported today. Mrs. Emily Johnson, St. Hilaire, was driving east on Fifth st. when she hit the right-rear fender of the car driven by Gertrude O. Grindeland, city, who was driving south on Horace av. Damage to the Johnson car was estimated at $85 and to the Grindeland car, $55.

Neither the sheriff's office or highway patrol had any accidents to report.

However, all law enforcement agencies warned drivers that extremely hazardous conditions exist on area roads and that extreme caution should be the watch word of all who must drive over the holidays.

Slated for discussion are the acreage reserve and conservation reserve features of the 1957 Soil Bank program. Other topics will include fertilizers, clean grain, civil defense, social security, rodent control and barley varieties.

Among the speakers will be Andrew Strandquist, manager of the Marshall county ASC office; Fred Heck, soil conservation agent; Roy Aune, civil defense; Erling Welberg, county agent; and Frank Chalupsky, social security field man.

Roseau Rams Take G. Forks Central

Score Decisive 6 to 1 Victory on Home Ice

Coach Oscar Almquist's Roseau Rams, the Eighth region's top-ranked high school hockey team, won their second game in three starts when, on the Roseau rink Friday night, they defeated the Grand Forks Central Redskins, 6 to 1.

The Rams held a decisive edge in the play, as they outshot the visitors by a wide margin, with goalie Kent Pahm of Grand Forks having 39 stops, while Roseau's netminder had but 11 saves.

Roseau's goal-getting was made by Jim Sordahl who tallied twice in the first period, Neal Johnson, who scored goals in the second and third period, and Dave Wensloff, who hit for two goals in the third period. Grand Forks averted a shutout when Gerry Wentz notched a goal at the 14:21 mark of the third period.

Driver Training Given in Half of U. S. High Schools

Fifty-one per cent of the public high schools in the United States now provide driver education, which the National Safety Council declares is one of the most promising methods to reduce the traffic accident toll.

At the end of the 1948-49 school year, only 29 per cent of the nation's public schools offered driver education, according to the Council.

Recognition of the importance of driver education has been growing among educators and parents, the council states, with many women's club and parent-teacher organizations taking the lead.

Evergreens Are Available for Use in Shelterbelts

Colorado Spruce and Ponderosa Pine Included, County Agent Reports

Two new species of evergreens are available to farmers of northwestern Minnesota through the division of forestry. They are Colorado spruce and Ponderosa pine. These evergreen trees are adapted to this area, as well as being attractive in appearance. The supply of these evergreens is limited and farmers are urged to file their orders early, states County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk.

Other species still available are jack pine, American elm, Green ash and caragana.

Shelterbelts improve the appearance of farms, keep roads open by trapping snow, prevent wind erosion, cut heat losses in the winter from buildings which are well protected, and help protect wild life.

The soil bank provides payments for converting crop areas to tree plantings. It is well to consider several shelterbelts for the farm now, adds Stelmaschuk.

Adult Agriculture Class Planned at Goodridge School

Plans are under way to organize adult and young farmer classes in agriculture in the Goodridge high school, it was announced this week by Larry Foley, instructor. He asked that anyone out of school interested in any type of classes in the fields of agriculture or shop work notify him at Goodridge as soon as possible. If there is sufficient response, he said, classes will start soon after the first of the year.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS TO YOU ALL

The glad gospel story still rings out,
Today as of long ago.
The Saviour has come to redeem lost souls,
To rescue from sin and woe.
The world is so dark with sin and strife,

But in Christ there is refuge, peace and joy,

Crookston Pirates Edge Prowlers 50-46

In a basketball game that was crammed with rallies and counter-rallies, the defending district champion Crookston Pirates outlasted the Prowlers to gain a 50 to 46 decision here Friday night.

The Prowlers, after being outplayed and outhustled by their smaller opponents in the first and second periods, to trail by 16 to 10 and 30 to 22 margins, made a remarkable rally in the third period, to pare the Crookston lead to one point, 37 to 36.

In fact, the Prowlers, by scoring four field goals and a pair of free throws, while holding the Pirates scoreless, forged into a 32 to 30 lead with four minutes of play remaining in the period. Herschel Lysaker notched a pair of free throws, to knot the score, but Dave Hanson, who looped in ten points during the quarter, hit on a hook shot, and the Prowlers regained the lead with 3:12 to play.

It was a free throw by Lysaker, and field goal by George Boyer, shoving the Pirates into a one-point margin; but not for long, for sophomore Phil Hanson rang up a two-pointer. With ten seconds to play, Boyer dropped in a pair of free throws, and Crookston held a squeaky one-point lead, 37 to 36.

The fourth period was a "cliff hanger," with the lead changing hands several times. With 3:30 to play, Hanson scored on a lay-up, giving the Prowlers a 45 to 43 lead. Lysaker's jump shot evened the score at 45-all; only to have Hanson, on a free throw, give the locals a 46 to 45 margin. Ken Wold, who was the Pirates' high scorer, flipped a shot into the west basket, scoring what proved to be the winning points for the visitors.

With thirty-nine seconds to play, Dave Hanson had a pair of gift shots on Ken Wold's fifth personal, but both tries ringed the hoop and dropped off. Paul Stenseth, on Keith Johnson's personal, added a pair of points via the free throw line, with thirty-one seconds to play. And with but ten seconds to go, Stenseth added another free throw point, giving coach Al Droen's Pirates their 50 to 46 triumph.

The game's scoring honors were won by the Prowlers lanky center, Dave Hanson, who looped in eight field goals and eight free throws for a 24-point performance. Crookston's high scorers were center Ken Wold with eighteen points, and Herschel Lysaker with seventeen points.

In a well-played and hotly contested preliminary game, coach Joe Mrkonich's Prowler 'B' team, with Phil Hanson scoring twenty points in the first half defeated coach Linton Lehrer's Crookston 'B' team, 62 to 49.

The Prowler cagers will be out of action during the Christmas holidays, but will renew play on their schedule on January 4th, when they meet the Ada Vikings at Ada.

Prowler Hockey Team Opened Season Tuesday

Coach John Matchefts, right, the former Eveleth high school and University of Michigan hockey star, and who has taken over the hockey coaching duties here, poses with the lineup that faced the Grand Forks Redskins in the season-opening game here on Tuesday night. The Grand Forks sextet, by a 4 to 3 score, edged out the locals in a well-played tilt. From left to right: goalie Ken Sauve, wing Mike Poole, center Jimmy Hall, defenseman Fred Dablow, wing Wendy Johnson, defenseman Jimmy Nelson, and coach Matchefts.

Gathering of the Clan

That is an A-plus idea. We mean the Prowler hockey lettermen's 'get-together' at the National Guard Armory tonight, following the Prowlers vs. Crookston Cathedral game at the Arena. We think that the idea had its germination in the fertile brain of 'Dennis' Rolle, the coach of the 1954 and 1956 Prowler state champions.

Some of the boys will be late in arriving at the Armory tonight, but we imagine the doors will be open until they get into town. Joey Poole and Bob Helgeland will be playing for the North Dakota Sioux in an exhibition game at Grand Forks. And Sid Vraa, Mike McMahon, Jim Zavoral, Daryl Durgin, Chip Strand, and Dick Lane will be with the local 'Thieves' lineup as they meet the Roseau Cloverleafs at Roseau.

From the appearances of the boys around town, it appears that the badge of entry to Saturday night's gathering is a black-eye and/or a puffed lip. Fred Dablow has a right-eye "shiner", which he picked up on Tuesday night; Sid Vraa has a discolored left eye, the result of a collision while playing with the Culbertson's in Minneapolis; Jimmy Hall, who will perhaps lose a couple of teeth, has a puffed upper lip, a memento of Tuesday night's rugged tilt, and Bradley Pug Teal is limping around on a pair of crutches.

And the mention of Jim Hall and his losing of a couple of teeth. Mishaps like that are apparently endemic to the hockey-playing Halls. Bruce Hall, Jimmy's older brother, who was captain of the 1948-49 Prowlers, had his upper teeth bashed in by Roseau's Ray Baumgartner. And later that same season in a game against the Crookston Cathedral Blue Wave at Crookston, Bruce had his upper plate demolished. The Hall boys' upper front teeth are expendable.

While we are commenting on Jimmy Hall and his teeth we'll report that the hard-skating Prowler center ice player turned in a fine all-around performance against the Redskins. He nearly skated himself into a state of exhaustion in an effort to "pull out" Tuesday night's game. It's not unusual for Jimmy to play like that, for he's one of the most competitive athletes the Prowlers have ever had. He's filled to over-flowing with competitive juices.

Our Sympathies

Our sincere sympathies are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Bob Baker of Rochester in the loss of their young son. In seven months of his young life, the youngster was the "apple" of his dad's eye, and the pride of his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Baker, who reside here. Bob's young son succumbed to pneumonia.

Bob, of course, is well remembered here, and he was one of the greatest of that growing [illegible] of Prowler hockey greats, being named to the All-State tournament squad in 1945.

We've mentioned the fact a number of times, but it's worthy of repetition, and that is Bob's performance against Eveleth in the finals of the first state high school hockey tournament. The game found the Eveleth Golden Bears, with their famed forward line of Pat Finnegan, Neil Celley, and Wally Grant, defeat the Prowlers, by a 4 to 3 score to win the state title. The Prowlers, coached by Connie S[illegible] bridge, won the admiration of the crowd by their gritty play.

And the standout player of the Prowlers, and of the game, too, was Bob Baker. In that tournament, Bob played at a defense position (in later years he moved up to center-ice), and his rushes down the ice, especially in the hectic third period, drew the near-capacity crowd to its feet.

In our biased eyes, the Prowlers held a slight edge in that game, and it was only through the calling of a penalty, on the Prowlers' Wes Hovie, that the Bears, trailing by a 3 to 2 score, were able to even the game and then go on to win.

Incidentally, that forward line of Eveleth's, Finnegan-Grant-Celley, went on to college All-American fame. Pat Finnegan played college hockey in California, then transferred over to North Dakota, where he finished his college career. He is well-known to local senior hockey fans, for he was a starry member of the early Grand Forks Ameriks in the States-Dominion hockey league. Grant and Celley both played their college hockey at Michigan, where they gained all-star status.

Calling all Figure Skaters

Mrs. Jimmy Anderson, a qualified figure skating teacher as a result of her ten-year career as a member of the Winnipeg Winter Club, one of Canada's top-ranked figure skating clubs, will begin giving lessons, both primary and advanced, starting the first week in January.

On the Arena skating schedule, the Recreation Board has assigned Mondays to the figure skating club. Mrs. Anderson stated that she would like to have all prospective students register or sign-up prior to the beginning of the various classes. Students interested in receiving instructions in figure skating should call Mrs. Anderson at 1079, or the Arena for information.

Joe Mrkonich

Joe Mrkonich has been a member of the Lincoln high school staff for the past four years. He serves as head football coach and assistant basketball coach, and teaches five classes of senior social science. Born in Eveleth, he is a graduate of Eveleth Junior College and the University of Minnesota. Previous to coming to Thief River Falls he taught at Siren, Wisconsin and Chicago. He is a veteran of World War II, having served in the U. S. Navy. He is married and the father of two children.

Football

By Joe Mrkonich

The central objection of our whole educational system is to develop the 'whole' individual. To do this adequately all departments must strive to attain certain goals. Without cooperation from each department the learning process is hampered considerably. Academic learning and football learning work hand in hand developing the modern American boy. Often in the past, football was looked upon as being a sport which involved only those boys who were unable to do academic work satisfactorily but had great physical strength and ability. Today we know that much more than just 'brute' strength is necessary in football. Also, more than a physical beating is gained from participation in interscholastic football.

Cooperation, desire and willingness to do hard work are as important ingredients in making a football team as natural ability. To illustrate cooperation and the role that it plays in football just picture a team on-the-field composed of eleven individuals who are unwilling to work together. Whether you are a backfield man or a lineman you know that you have a specific job to do and if each individual does his job, success will be achieved. In my opinion, this point can never be overemphasized. Remember, no one boy ever scored a touchdown without the cooperation from the other ten.

Desire is one of the attributes of a football team that is easy to notice but hard to define. Many players, fans and coaches like to refer to it as 'guts'. To football coaches it is one of the most admirable traits a boy can possess. To possess it and not be a bully is outstanding. Many times it is on the football field that we find that the boy who is the roughneck around the school and the community is lacking in this ingredient so necessary to a football team.

Willingness to do hard work is inevitably necessary for a boy to play football. It is a fact that today we are living in an age where machines have taken over much of the physical labor that formerly was done by manpower. However, football is unique in that it has continued to use the hard work of man. Blocking and tackling, which are the two most important phases of football, require hard work. This is why many of our boys need football. We often find that a boy who works hard but might be lacking in natural ability is a good bet to come through when the 'chips' are down. Probably the realization of a goal after long hours of work is the most gratifying experience that an individual can enjoy. We, who are actively engaged in working with boys in football, have an opportunity to observe this after a practice or a game.

Football Program in Thief River Falls

The first participation in organized football in our schools begins in the grade schools where the boys 'touch' football. The prime objective is to create interest in football and at the same time a round-robin schedule is played between the schools.

In seventh and eighth grades boys have an opportunity to participate in junior high football wearing complete uniforms. A great deal of emphasis is placed on the fundamentals of the game. The boys are also shown offensive formations and defensive formations. No interscholastic games are played at this level but scrimmages are held between teams made up of squad members. Mr. Admas is the junior high football coach.

In the ninth and tenth grades boys get their first interscholastic competition in football. These boys comprise the "B" squad which plays a schedule of five games against schools in the area. The past few years a home and home schedule with Crookston, East Grand Forks and a single game with Grand Forks Central "B" squads have been played. Mr. Edlund and Mr. Machefts are the "B" squad football coaches.

The varsity squad is generally composed of juniors and seniors in high school with a few of the more promising sophomores. We generally try to suit thirty-three boys for all games. Our offensive formation is a basic "Split T" with some variations. "Split T" simply refers to the spacing of linemen at definite intervals to improve blocking angles. Our backfield is spaced correspondingly with the linemen. The use of an offensive formation in football naturally has to be varied with the personnel available. However, no matter what offensive formation is used blocking and timing are important and touchdowns are never guarantie- our defense with the opponent ed by any formation. We vary we are playing. Mr. Skjod is my assistant with this squad.

Our opening practice date is set annually by the Minnesota State High School League at two weeks before the opening of the school term. No school can begin practice before this date and this is strictly enforced. Even the issuing of equipment prior to is a violation of this regulation. A recent bulletin from the state high school league office also prohibits the playing of a game on Labor Day if school is not in session.

For the past two years we have been in a football conference with Bemidji, Crookston and East Grand Forks. Each year a trophy is awarded to the championship team and individual medals are given to an All-Conference Senior team additional members for the conference but as yet have been unsuccessful. One of the biggest problems is the distance involved in getting schools of a comparable size. Also, some of the likely schools are already in conferences. We feel that a conference is important in football as we do not have tournaments as we have in other sports.

In our program we have been fortunate to be able to include all boys who express a desire to play football. The past four years the Rotary Club has provided a ride home for all boys who live in the rural area. This service is greatly appreciated by the team as well as the staff. We had about eighty-five boys out for football this fall and hope to be able to increase that number in 1957.

Average Farm Is 250 Acres in '56

Size of the average U. S. farm has expanded from 215 acres in 1950 to a present size of approximately 250 acres, reports the family economics bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance company of Minneapolis.

Meanwhile average sales value from land including buildings has risen from $67 per acre in 1950 to approximately $90 per acre in 1956, Department of Agriculture indexes show.

Thus, land and buildings in the average U. S. farm unit today are worth approximately $22,500, compared to $14,100 in 1950, the family economics bureau points out.

With a continuing absorption of small farms into larger units, the total number of farms in the U. S. has dropped from nearly 5,400,000 in 1950 to under 4,700,000 in 1956.

Although mineral wool was not used widely as insulation for homes until after 1927, it was being produced commercially in the U.S. when General Grant was president. Its earliest use was an insulation for boilers and steam engines in 1840. Shortly after the Civil War mineral wool was installed in the floors and walls of railroad cars to add to the comfort of passengers.

HAPPY CHRISTMAS

In this season of Peace and Good Will, there seems to be little good will and we are dangerously near to war. In large areas of the world people are still the victims of oppression. Justice has not yet triumphed and nowhere is freedom secure.

But there is reason to be hopeful. Never before have representatives of the peoples of all areas of the world met together as they are meeting now to adjust international differences and to maintain peace. In recent weeks we have seen a war averted by a "cease fire" order of an international tribunal, and an international police force is now enforcing law and order in an area that might have become a bloody battlefield.

It would be easy to point to much that is wrong. It is encouraging, however, to be able to point to a few things that are right, and to know that some progress is being made. We do not have peace as we would have it, but neither do we have war. Our armies are not engaged in battle, and a sincere effort apparently is being made by men of good will, capable leaders of many nations and all races and creeds, to create harmony and understanding thruout the world.

In this hopeful season of the year we can express sincerely the hopeful wish, Happy Christmas.

THOSE FILIBUSTERS

The United States Senate has a rule that requires a two-thirds majority to force the end of debate. Its purpose is to protect the rights of minorities in the expression of their views and it has considerable merit.

Minorities have taken advantage of this rule at times, using it as a means of obstructing action. By resorting to what is known as the filibuster minorities talk endlessly, to no point. By doing this they deny to a majority the right to act and such dilatory action cannot be justified.

But the present proposal to give to a simple majority the right to limit debate does not appeal to us as being the right answer. Not all prolonged debate is for purposes of obstructing action and majorities sometimes are arbitrary. We don't like the idea of denying to any minority group the right to be heard. Maybe the two-thirds vote requirement is not the proper fraction but we would favor more than a simple majority vote in silencing a minority on any special question.

And we think it is unfortunate that the filibuster be made an issue at this time. In its present form it is another attack on the South, heaping more coals on a fire of bitterness that already is too hot.

The South has some special problems that are extremely difficult. Under the best of direction it is going to take time to make some necessary adjustments, and too much interference from the North might lead to some disastrous consequences.

The real problems of the South will have to be solved by the southerners themselves and there is every reason to believe that good progress is being made in working out the answers. There have been a few unfortunate incidents but they have been the exception rather than the rule.

Let's not get excited now about this filibuster problem. This is not the time to inflict new wounds. What we need now is time for old wounds to heal, and this problem can well be laid on the table for a few years when it can be considered on its own merits and not as another part of a North versus South controversy.

MAKE IT SELF-SUPPORTING

One of the great Chemical compainies, over a period of many years, has been putting five per cent of its profits back into research. The head of the company announced recently that this will be increased to six per cent.

This is not an unusual thing. Many of our most successful corporations have followed this practice and owe much of their development to the results.

The University of Minnesota is going to ask the next legislature for a big boost in research appropriations. A total of $3,323,900 is requested for the next two years for "extension and research projects."

That is a lot of money and of course the legislature will scrutinize carefully the proposed program for which so large a sum would be allocated. But this is one request that deserves special consideration. There will be many other items in the University budget, we are sure, that can be trimmed without retarding progress. A well directed research program should be considered as an investment that could pay substantial returns.

University research has paid many dividends to Minnesota agriculture. Experiments at the School of Mines deserve credit for much of the development in taconite processing that is giving us a great new industry on the Range. Many examples of big returns from University research can be cited.

But while we like the research we are not in favor of charging the entire cost of such a program to the taxpayers and can see no good reason why the University should not recover some of the dollars that are going into research by charging a reasonable fee for the use of products that are being improved by such research. Individuals and organizations operating for profit, and citizens of other states, benefit by these projects, and as they share in the benefits they should also be asked to participate in the costs.

Toward this end the research appropriations could be made as revolving funds, with instructions that effort be made to recover a part of the cost. Research might eventually be made a self-supporting University function.

SHOULD PAY THEIR SHARE

Property owners in several Iron Range communities will have to pay more taxes as a result of tax valuation increases ordered by the state tax commissioner Howard Spaeth. In these communities valuations on dwellings and commercial property have been held far below the state average in order to shift a larger portion of the tax burden to a special industry or to quality for larger grants of state aid. In fairness to the industries and to the taxpayers in other areas it is proper that corrections be made. They are long over due.

One bad result of this kind of manipulation has been extravagent local government. People who do not have to pay the bills are not apt to be concerned about costs, and some of the spending in these communities has been shamefully wasteful. From this standpoint alone it is desirable that folks on the Range start paying their fair share of the cost of maintaining public services.

An egotist is usually me-deep in conversation.

The Federal Power Commission has reported 24 coal-fired steam power plants with "top-efficiency" ratings in 1955, awarded for using less than 10,000 BTU per kilowatt-hour of electricity generated.

His awards included three state trips; on to state club week, one to Farm Boys camp, and to the state fair with the poultry demonstration.

In 1949 Donald was corn champion at the county fair. He exhibited numerous entires at the county fair, the Crookston Winter Shows, as well as the state fair. He served his Kratka club in the capacities of president and treasurer for several years.

Donald says his 4-H work was most enjoyable and full of rich experiences. He has two sisters, Ruby and Mildred and a brother Oscar. Oscar is graduating from the University of Minnesota with a bachelor of science in agriculture degree in the Spring of 1957. He also was a 4-H member.

May you have high success in your studies at the University and life undertakings, Donald.

Elaine Hellquist

The spotlight is on Elaine Hellquist of the New Solum 4-H Club this week. 17 year old Elaine has completed 38 projects since she first joined 4-H in 1948.

Elaine's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hellquist who farm near Rosewood. Her younger brother, John is also a member of the NewSolum club.

She has done an exceptionally fine job as a junor leader and in the conservation activity. Elaine is one of the older members of the club and has had the chance to assume much more responsibility than many junior leaders have.

In the conservation activity, many folks will remember Elaine's scrapbook at the county fair in 1954. She collected wild flowers growing around their farm, pressed and mounted them, and managed to keep the natural colors of the flowers in her mountings.

Trips Elaine has won include a state fair trip with a dairy heifer in 1953 and to a conservation camp in 1954.

Elaine is working now as a secretary to Kermit Eastman, Elementary Schools Director in Thief River Falls.

Boy—I can hardly wait!

I've got my stocking hung by the chimney with plenty of care, and Christmas morning it'll be bursting full of all sorts of good things. There'll be a candy cane sticking out of the top . . . there always is . . . and a walnut stuffed way down in the tip of the toe.

And then . . . the tree! I don't think there's a prettier sight on earth than a Christmas tree. And all those presents underneath it, wrapped up in bright colors and tied with ribbons.

Then Mom and Dad and my sister Ellen and I will get dressed, and we'll go to Church. That's one of the best parts of Christmas. For Mom and Dad always say that Christmas is the celebration of Christ's birthday. I love the music in our Church at Christmas—"Hark the Herald Angels Sing," and all the other carols. When I hear them, I feel all filled up with joy, and I know why our minister says that Christmas is the happiest day of the whole year.

Boy—I can hardly wait! And I just hope that your Christmas is going to be as merry as ours!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Merry Christmas

Christmas is a thousand things

IT'S a winter's night, and an angel song . . . a giant star, and a tiny stable . . . a manger, and straw, and swaddling clothes.

Christmas is a chime . . . a boy soprano, and Silent Night . . . carolers, and The First Noel . . . the tinkle of a bell on a sleigh, of a coin in a cup.

Christmas is Dickens, and Scrooge, and Tiny Tim. It's holly on the door, a candle in the window . . . the scent of pine, and the sparkle of tinsel.

Christmas is cards, and ribbon, and tissue paper. It's a trip home, an open latch, and a handclasp. It's giblets, and biscuits . . . cranberries, and mincemeat pie.

Christmas is cold and warmth . . . forgiveness, and a smile.

Christmas is a prayer . . . a renewed plea for an ancient hope . . . For Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men.

Marge Olsen

Have you wondered about some of the Christmas customs that people follow? Here are some customs and the reasons for some of them:

The Advent Wreath

The Advent Wreath is a symbol of the coming of Christ the Light at Christmas. Basically, the wreath is just what its name implies, a wreath prepared for use during Advent. It is constructed of pine, fir, or evergreen branches, and is simple to make. One method is to use a round, fairly shallow gelatin mold and fill the sides with soil or sand. Now set four tall candles into the soil at equal intervals around the wreath. (The candles represent the 4,000 years the Chosen People awaited the Messiah and the four Sundays of Advent.) Then cover the soil with branches and some holly and the wreath is finished!

The Advent Wreath is placed either on a table in the home or is suspended horizontally with violet ribbons in a door way. Violet ribbons are used because the color violet has denoted penance since the earliest days of Christianity, and Advent is a time of prayer and of penance in preparation for the coming of Christ.

After dinner on the first Sunday of Advent, one of the children of the house lights the first candle. Following this, an appropriate verse from Scripture is read, and a story about the whole celebration of Christams is related. Verses and stories change each Sunday, and each Sunday one more candle is lighted. At the conclusion of each brief ceremony the candles are extinguished, but the wreath is left on display for the entire week. The ceremonies differ with the various denominations.

Filling Of The Crib

This too, is a custom that increases the spiritual anticipation of Christmas among children. The crib in which the figure of the Christ Child is to be placed is prepared and set out on the First Sunday of Advent (the Sunday nearest the feast of St. Andrew, on November 30.) Each day thereafter until Christmas Eve the children are encouraged to perform little "good acts". For each kindness performed during the day, they are allowed to place one straw in the crib when the family gathers around it after the evening meal. The idea is to encourage the youngsters to be good not for the presents Santa will bring but so that the Christ Child will have a comfortable bed on Christmas Eve. Once children are familiar with the story of the hardships of Jesus, Mary, and Joseph on the first Christmas, they are eager and competitive in their desire to "fill the crib."

Candles In The Window

The old Irish custom of placing lighted candles in the windows of homes on Christmas Eve has been growing in popularity in America. Of course, our "lighted candles" are usually electrically powered, but the reason for using the candles is the same to light the Holy Family's way to the door. The candles denote a house wherein the Holy Family would have been welcomed, not turned away, as they were from the Inns of Bethlehem.

The Yule Log

In England it was the custom for the men and boys of a family to go into the woods a good while before Christmas to gather the largest, best-seasoned log they could, to burn throughout Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

Although people no longer roam the forests looking for a suitable log, they do comb their woodpile for a large, well-seasoned one just long enough to fit in the fireplace with a little room to spare and they spend a little time getting the fire well under way with lesser logs so that the yule log will be sure to burn steadily throughout the day.

Mince Pie Manger

Christmas without mince pie often seems unthinkable. For a variation this year, try the ancient English custom of baking a mince-pie manger. Bake the pie in a pan ordinarily used for loaf cakes. The oblong shape gives the appearance of a manger (if you use your imagination slightly) and if you are particularly handy with decorating and want to really duplicate the old custom, you could make a sugar or icing replica of the Child to place in the center of the pie. This is how the mince pie was first served. It became associated with Christmas because the ingredients were first known in Europe when the Crusaders returned from the Holy Land bringing with them the spices of the East.

Only 1 Highway Death in TRF Area This Year

53 Traffic Mishaps Reported by Patrol in Area Thru Dec. 26

Although the state of Minnesota may set a new traffic fatality record by the end of 1956, drivers in the Pennington county area have compiled a very good safe driving record for the year, according to Capt. Walter Anderson of the highway patrol.

Only one traffic fatality was recorded on state highways in the immediate area for the entire year, this occurring on highway 32. Duane Hince of Brooks was killed late this past summer when the car he was driving left the road and was wrecked. Deaths on county roads not covered by the patrol are not included in the tabulation.

During the year so far 53 accidents had been recorded in the Thief River Falls area. Of these, 17 were non-collision, and 36 collision, categorically speaking. Aside from the fatality, personal injuries were sustained in 15 accidents.

Estimated property damage was estimated at $25,600, Captain Anderson said.

A breakdown of accident causes is as follows: Lost control (usually speed too fast for driving conditions was cause) 24; failure to yield right-of-way (pulling out from stop street, driving over center line, improper passing, cutting in when passing, etc.) 14; falling asleep at wheel, 4; failure to signal turn, 7, and bad road conditions, (usually from heavy snow, etc.) 4.

A total of 262 charges were filed against drivers in the Thief River Falls area during the year. Of these, some drivers had more than one charge, making the number of drivers prosecuted somewhat less than the total charges. Captain Anderson estimated that between 240 and 250 persons were brought into court on one or more charges of traffic law violations.

Topping the list of violators were the speeders — 60 of them, according to Captain Anderson. Following in close order were those lackadaisical or ignorant persons classified under careless driving — 40 of these were brought in.

Twenty persons were charged DWI by the highway patrol. DWI means Driving With the Influence, according to Anderson. To him and others of the patrol, he said, it means plain, old DD — drunken driving.

Those apprehended for driving without a license, a less dangerous but none the less important infraction of traffic laws, numbered 25. Illegal equipment resulted in 17 arrests; over legal weight 12; unlawful operation 11; over legal length 10.

Other types of violators were less numerous, although just as deadly in many cases.

Captain Anderson was happy that drivers in the area served by the Thief River Falls patrol headquarters had compiled such a good record despite the numerous arrests and heartily recommends that they repeat the non-fatal part of the performance in 1957.

St. John's Church to Build in Spring

New Edifice to Be Built on First st. at Pine av.

According to George Busse, chairman of the building committee at St. John's Lutheran church, a meeting has been scheduled with the architect early in Jan., at which the building committee intends to approve final plans and specifications for the new church to be built by St. John's congregation in the new year.

Site of the new church will be a half a block of property on First Street and Pine, recently purchased by St. John's.

The new pastor of St. John's is the Rev. Alfred C. Seltz who came here from Alexandria where the congregation which he served for fourteen years built a new church five years ago.

Bids for the construction work of the new St. John's church are to be asked for in January, and construction is to begin as soon as possible in the spring. Busse stated.

Walt Larsons Buy Lein's pparel Store

WALTER LARSON

MRS. WALTER LARSON

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Larson, who have successfully operated the Junior Shop since 1944, have purchased Lein's women's apparel store from Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Melby, proprietors of the establishment the past 20 years. The transfer will be effective January 1.

In turning over the ownership of the store, the Melbys expressed their appreciation to their patrons for the favors extended them thru the years, and expressed the hope that they would to patronize the new owners. Mr. and Mrs. Melby said they plan to continue their residence here for the present.

Mr. and Mrs. Larson stated that they would continue to operate the Junior Shop as a separate enterprise, and that in the apparel store they will continue the present policy of handling popular-priced lines of merchandise. A grand opening is planned in February.

The Larsons are both natives of Thief River Falls.

Proposed Rate Hike for T.R. Falls Phone Service Is Detailed

A $.40 per month increase in Thief River Falls residence two-party line phone rates is being requested by the telephone company in its current rate hearing before the railroad and warehouse commission, according to A. K. Bacon, manager. A schedule of present and proposed rates for Thief River Falls follows:

Business

	1 party	2 party
Present	$8.20	$7.00
Proposed	9.10	7.80

Residence

	1 party	2 party	4 party
Present	$4.10	$3.35	$2.95
Proposed	4.55	3.75	3.25

Rural

	Business	Residence
Present	$4.85	$3.40
Proposed	5.35	3.80

Wayne L. Huffman, Minnesota vice president of the phone company, declared that present earnings in Minnesota were too low. He stated that since the present telephone rates were established in February 1954, substantial increases in wages, material prices and taxes had raised operating costs to the highest level in the company's experience. He said further, that these higher costs have increased the investment required for each telephone. In 1946 the average investment for each telephone in service in Minnesota was $180. However, plant and equipment installed in the current higher cost levels is running in excess of $400 per telephone for phones installed in the last three years.

"Marked increases in the cost of furnishing service have mounted beyond our ability to absorb them in spite of many efficiencies and economies that have been made effective. As a result, the rate of earnings on

Austin Man Shot on Warroad Farm

William Newman Shot by Dennis Gauthier, 16

An Austin, Minn., man was in critical condition in a hospital at Roseau Tuesday after a shooting incident on a farm three miles northwest of Warroad.

Marshal Edmund Saurdiff said William Newman, about 38, was shot by 16-year old Dennis Gauthier early Sunday.

The shooting came after Newman allegedly had beaten the boy's mother, Mrs. Ruth Gauthier, 35, after the couple and five children returned to the farm from an evening in Warroad.

Newman reportedly wanted Mrs. Gauthier to return to town after the children were in bed but she refused, she was quoted as saying, and Newman started to beat her.

The youth apparently heard the scuffle, got a 16-gauge shotgun and fired at Newman, Saurdiff said.

No. Central Loses Bid for Extension

Ozark Is Awarded Route South from Minneapolis

Ozark Airlines, Inc., was awarded a route between Davenport, Iowa; Moline, Ill., and the Twin Cities, it was announced Friday in Washington.

The route, which includes stops at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Rochester, Minn., had also been sought by North Central Airlines. Almost the entire Minnesota congressional delegation appeared before the civil aeronautics board last month to urge granting the route to North Central. State officials also testified.

Yesterday's announcement from the CAB was merely a brief statement. The formal decision, with reasons for the action, will be issued later. The route will be given to Ozark for a three-year period.

Little Chance of Fire in N.W. Hospital Here

Administrator H. W. Peterson Tells of Precautions Taken

"People have the right to know whether our own hospital, Northwestern of Thief River Falls, is a fireproof building and what has been done at the hospital to prevent a tragic fire such as took place recently at the Doctors Memorial Hospital in Minneapolis," H. W. Peterson, administrator of Northwestern Hospital, stated today.

Mr. Peterson stated that the new part of the hospital is made of reinforced concrete, brick and tile throughout. No wood or combustible materials were used in its construction. The old building, formerly known as St. Luke's, is also of concrete, brick and tile. Both parts of the hospital have either concrete or glazed tile floors, beams and joists. The roof throughout the building is of 2 inch concrete, with 2 inch insulation, pitch and gravel on top. All rooms and corridor partitions have fireguard wall continuations to the concrete ceilings, even above the suspended ceilings in the corridors. The ceilings and walls are of steel lath and plaster or fireproof acoustical tile. Fire insurance rates are among the lowest for any building in Thief River Falls.

Peterson stated that all electrical wiring is encased in steel conduit and steel boxes in compliance with code requirements. All electrical circuits have automatic circuit-breakers which at once removes the danger of overloading or over-fusing the circuits. The surgical, obstetrical, and emergency room areas are completely built in compliance with safety codes to prevent anesthesia gas explosions. All floors and equipment are so designed as to remove static electricity and to prevent sparks. A specially trained housekeeper daily cleans the floors and contact parts of the equipment in order to maintain them in the state necessary to remove possibility of sparks or static electricy.

All heating in the hospital is done by steam and there are no open flames. All cooking is done by electricity or steam; there are

Governor Tax Study Unit to Report Today

Committee Seeks to Solve Financial Problems of State

The long-awaited report of the governor's Minnesota tax study committee will be made public today.

It is expected to carry the near-unanimous approval of the 20 top-flight representatives of business and industry, labor and agriculture who worked long hours for more than a year to make what the committee chairman has called the most exhaustive state tax survey in the history of the 48 states.

Chairman J. Cameron Thomson, Minneapolis banker and national vice chairman of the Committee for Economic Development, has said that near-unanimity of the diverse interests represented on the committee would be a "political miracle."

Both Thompson and Gov. Orville L. Freeman anticipate that the study itself, and the recommendations for tax overhaul it will put into the record, will bring national attention to Minnesota.

But, more important, they hope the recommendations can be presented to the 1957 state legislature as a package proposal which will win bipartisan support as an answer to Minnesota tax problems for the next two years, and for a long time to come.

Thomson, who says he is a Republican, has praised the DFL governor for his hands-off policy.

Partially because of the hopeful attitude toward the tax package, whose terms have not yet been revealed, Freeman and knowledgeable legislative leaders, feel the 60th legislative session, which begins Tuesday, Jan. 8, will be less thorny than some of its predecessors.

There is another hopeful sign. Next to broke two years ago, the biennial legislature, convenes this time with a promise of 16 million dollars in the general revenue fund at the July 1 start of the next fiscal year.

But it's going to be far from clear-sailing; the improved outlook is only a relative one. Liberal Sen. Donald M. Fraser, Minneapolis, speaks the minds of many when he says that school finances offer the biggest obstacle to a peaceful session. Most needed, he thinks, is a withholding system for the state income tax which is dedicated to education uses.

Sen. Donald O. Wright, Minneapolis conservative who is chairman of the senate tax committee said Saturday that "I don't look for a tough session." But he added:

"I think someone ought to impress on the people that the appropriations increases the governor is going to ask for must be paid for with new taxes."

Freeman has said he will ask general revenue increases of 25 million dollars, but 14 million dollars under what department heads have asked for.

Sen. Gordon Rosenmeier, Little

Send Gifts to the Handicapped.

The young women pictured above, from the traffic department of the N.W. Bell Telephone Co. office here, entered into the spirit of Christmas by sending a collection of gifts to handicapped men, women and children in the state colony at Faribault.

Getting their inspiration from a Cedric Adams column noticed by Miss Patricia Berg in the Minneapolis Sunday Tribune telling of the pleasure enjoyed a year ago by recipients of gifts sent from thruout the state, the group set up a box in the phone company lounge, and all the girls contributed, the gifts including toys and games for the children, and stationery, candy and clothing for the adults.

Two-way Radio Hookup Proves Its Value Here

Those two squawk boxes sitting on Deputy Sheriff Charles Richards' desk in the sheriff's office may make quite a lot of noise in the course of a day's work but you won't hear Richard or Sheriff Art Rambeck complaining at all.

In fact, both men praise the recently-installed two-way radio facilities in their office as a great step forward in faster, better law enforcement. They'll tell you that since the radio was installed in April, 1956, it has contributed directly in the capture of a bad check artist wanted by the FBI, a speeder, a check forger and a small-time burglar.

The two-way apparatus had been in use only a month before Richards had a chance to try its effectiveness. He was chasing a speeding automobile towards town May 27 but was being badly outdistanced—until he picked up the microphone in his car, called the Thief River Falls police.

Presto—Mr. Speeder finds a roadblock confronting him and he is duly apprehended and given his day in court.

This is but one instance of cooperation between the sheriff's office and city police. In the case of Walter E. Brannen, wanted by the FBI, a Marshall county deputy sent a message to the sheriff's office after a Warren citizen familiar with "wanted" license numbers, had seen Brannen passing through that city and notified the deputy.

The message received here was relayed to city police, who set up a roadblock on the west approach to the city. Result: Patrolmen Bren and Olson received a citation from the Federal Bureau of Investigation for their work in apprehending Brannen.

Harry Christopherson, paroled check forger, was about ready to skip the country—but two-way sheriff's radio was two skips ahead of him. Law enforcement officers in northern Minnesota had an idea the great number of forged checks floating around the vicinity were his work, and were in close contact with each other on the case, via radio. Art Rambeck made a trip to Middle River one afternoon and saw Christopherson and made the arrest almost before the forger knew the law was after him.

Christopherson is now back in St. Cloud reformatory.

The alertness of our city police also helped Marshall county sheriff Oscar Erickson solve a burglary and apprehend the burglar practically before anyone was aware anything had happened.

A car drove up to a Thief River Falls service station one night, the driver ordered the tank filled, and when this was done, he

Two Persons Hurt in Highway Mishap

Clifford, Johnsrud and Mrs. Anna Boman Injured

A Pennington county accident that occurred about 10:20 Christmas morning resulted in hospitalization for two persons, neither of whom is believed seriously injured, Deputy Sheriff Charles Richards said today. The accident happened about 18 miles north of Gully.

Richards reported that cars driven by Anton T. Boman, Gully, and Clifford Johnsrud, Embarrass, Minn., collided but that details were not available as yet.

Boman's 84 year old mother, Mrs. Anna Bowman, was hospitalized in Bagley for observation and Johnsrud was taken to Fosston hospital for minor injuries, including a broken nose. Damage was estimated at about $100 to both cars.

There were two passengers in the car with Boman and Johnsrud was accompanied by his wife when the collision occurred. Only Johnsrud and Mrs. Boman were hospitalized, the others escaping injury.

Inquiry into the accident will be continued, Richards said.

While setting no all-time records, the Thief River Falls postoffice handled an extremely heavy volume of mail during the Christmas holiday rush starting December 10 and continuing thru Christmas Eve, December 24, Postmaster R. J. Dryden announced today.

During the two-week period, 241,485 cancellations were made this year, down 6,607 from the same period in 1955, while packages mailed declined 560 from 8,786 to 8,226 this year. Metered postage for the period this year amounted to $3,081.16, down $30.43 from the comparable figure for 1955.

Due to the fact that the local postoffice served as a re-working point for 31 towns in this area and for five star routes, the number of sacks of mail received increased from 3,103 in 1955 to 3,292 this year, while sacks dispatched increased from 3,070 to 3,115.

Monday of last week, December 17, was the biggest day for cancellations, with 35,521, followed by the 18th with 28,723 and the 19th with 26,233. December 17 also was the biggest day for metered postage, with $391.51. Mail dispatched reached its peak Dec. 18 with 284 sacks, while incoming mail hit its peak Dec. 19 with 302 sacks.

Mail deliveries were made on Sunday in Thief River Falls and on the star routes, no deliveries being made on Christmas Day, Dryden stated.

Meetings on Soil Conservation Are Held in Marshall

Meetings to Continue Thru Friday, January 4 Fred Heck, Agent, States

The countywide education meetings on soil conservation districts in Marshall county are enjoying a good attendance, according to Fred Heck, soil conservation agent.

To date, six meetings have been held with most of the land owners or renters in attendance signing a petition requesting that action be taken to have hearings in the county in order to determine public sentiment as to the need for a district.

The next meetings are as follows: Radium community hall, Thursday, December 27. Viking school, Friday, December 28. Argyle city hall, Thursday, Jan. 3. Florian Hall, Friday, Jan. 4.

Matt Torfinnson, executive secretary of the state soil conservation committee, has been attending the later meetings in the county and has described with a color movie and slides, some of the conservation practices which can be put to use by Marshall county farmers.

He also went into detail describing the way a district is run, much the same as a farmers cooperative with the total direction coming from locally elected farmer supervisors.

Right Around Town

BY V. M. "MACK" DRAPER

Talk about smart dogs. . . Kermit Eastman's 6 mos.—old cocker spaniel came home last Sunday with $60 sticking out both sides of his mouth and a billfold in between.

Seems Eastman's neighbor, Tom Gustafson, had lost the billfold earlier and the pooch found it for him—but, smart retriever that he is, took the treasure home to his master instead.

We've heard it said and we believe it's true—a person should do one thing at a time, not two—for instance . . . .

A woman who wears slacks should give 'em the gate—if, in the meantime, she's put on weight!

Well, we thought our Christmas was complete and unique—no sox, no ties to date. That is, until Dec. 26 when a late package delivered to our door revealed I'd received a matched tie-and-socks set. On top of that the Missus is halfway done with a bright blue pair she's knitting for me. How'd you do, podner?

Talk about having your cake and eating it too, . . what better combination can you have than our recently past White Christmas and these wonderfully balmy temperatures!

How come . . . a person's ulcers wait until a festive occasion, when the food is out of this world, to begin acting up? That's as bad as a little boy's being laid up sick abed on the last day of school!

It dawned on us when we went to see the show "Friendly Persuasion" that when you come right down to it there's very little resemblance between rural areas today and rural areas the way they were as little as 20-30 years ago.

The vast changes wrought by improved travel facilities, electricity, etc., give our country an altogether different look from what it had back in the era portrayed by Friendly Persuasion.

Perhaps you recall "Josh" in the show saying the Rebs were creating havoc around Vernon. This certainly sounded familiar to us — when we visit the folks down in Virginia and Tennessee we bypass Louisville by detouring through North Vernon and Vernon and we cross the Ohio river at Madison, Indiana. It's beautiful country!

When you cross the Ohio at Madison it is practically the same as going into a different country. The rolling prairies end just north of Madison—once across the Ohio into Kentucky you're in the Appalachian hill country. So much for reminiscence—and SO LONG!

Two-way Radio in Sheriff's Office Proves Its Worth

zoomed off without paying for the fuel.

Then, very early the next morning city Patrolman Donald Myers heard someone in Johnnie's Hamburger Shop say they'd seen a car wrecked along the side of the road near Greenbush. When he was relieved later by Patrolman Ray Bren, he told Bren about it.

Later a call came from Warren reporting a burglary at Middle River. A stolen car was also involved and Bren relayed the information he'd received from Myers to Erickson at Warren.

Erickson didn't even stop at Thief River Falls or Middle River but drove on to Greenbush. There he checked the stolen car and its contents, found several items that jibed with his reports; then, after asking a few questions, located his man in the Greenbush Community hospital.

The two-way sheriff's radio played a most important part in this capture of Lavern Risberg, who went on a stealing rampage after Grand Forks police trusted him enough to let him come to Thief River Falls alone to attend a funeral.

Police alertness plus radio enabled law officers to solve the robbery of a Middle River hardware store and a car theft within a matter of hours. Without radio, Sheriff Rambeck said, Risberg may have had time to make good his escape.

A unique arrangement puts the sheriff's office in contact with the state highway patrol here, Rambeck said, in further praise of the new radio facilities.

The sheriff's radio can't send direct to the patrol—but the patrol radio monitors can keep an ear to sheriff's messages. Then they are relayed by the patrol radio operator.

The system also works in reverse. A separate receiver in the sheriff's office is always tuned to patrol radio. If a message comes through the sheriff can get it, although in a somewhat round-about way; never direct.

The city police and the sheriff's office are in direct communication, both sending and receiving on 45.58 megacycles. This is in addition to a separate city police hookup, Rambeck said.

Governor's Tax Study Unit Makes Its Report Today

Falls, who like Wright is one of the senate's most influential members, said he can't see that the new session will be much different from others in the number and scope of problems it will be faced with.

He hinted also that he needs to be convinced that Freeman has not played some part in determining the tax study group's recommendations.

Proposed New Telephone Rate Schedule Listed

our Minnesota operations has fallen below a reasonable level and we are facing a further sharp decline in earnings," Huffman declared.

Testifying that the company had spent a record-breaking $34 million dollars in Minnesota this year to improve and expand the service, Huffman said that the company was budgeting a construction program in excess of $40 million dollars for 1957, and programs of a similar size for each of the next several years beyond, to meet telephone needs in the state as the company now visualizes them. However, he stated with costs and investment requirements increasing, changes for service must be increased to permit earnings sufficient to attract this new capital that will be needed to provide the amount, and quality of service demanded by the public.

no gas flames. The boiler room is separated from the main building by a 12 inch insulated and glazed tile wall; there are no rooms over the boiler room. All electrical transformers are in heavy concrete vaults. All fuel tanks are located outside, away from the building. The main 10,000 gallon fuel oil tank is underground. Incineration of combustible waste is done daily in a completely enclosed fire-wicked incinerator. All waste chutes are equipped with self-closing doors. All waste and linen chutes are further protected by fusible-link fire doors and automatic water sprinklers at the top of the chutes are further protected by fusible-link fire doors and automatic water sprinklers at the top of the chutes.

Firedoors, with fusible-link door closers, are located at all strategic places, such as stairwells, corridor entrances, etc. Patient room doors are fire-resistant. There is a constantly operating power exhaust system throughout the building which would very rapidly remove any accumulation of smoke and fumes from any part of the building. All bottled combustible gases or liquids are stored in cold, locked, heavy concrete vaults.

In addition to the actual fireproof construction of the hospital, there are the proper types of fire extinguishers located in every strategic place in the hospital. Each extinguisher is regularly inspected. In addition, there are seven wall cabinets with firehose which can be immediately used with full force of water. There are station fire alarms on every floor.

Finally, the hospital administration has long since installed a full set of written fire plans with instructions regarding what to do on all floors. The superintendent of the maintenance department of the hospital has been made responsible for proper instruction of personnel in the matter of fire protection in the hospital. The fire plan has been worked out in considerable detail for all points in the hospital.

Peterson, summarized the condition of the hospital by saying that although a fire is always possible in a hospital as it may be anywhere else, Northwestern Hospital comes up to the very highest standards of fire safety from the view of its construction. He stated that any possible fire in the hospital could, in all likelihood, be very rapidly isolated and confined to a very small area.

He said that he had been greatly shocked to read of the tragic fire in the Minneapolis Doctor's Hospital, which took eight lives Sunday morning, and that he felt that all persons associated with hospital work should, and would, take warning. He stated that there would be a complete re-study of all aspects of the problem of fire protection at the local hospital and if anything could be done to improve the situation of the hospital and the training of its employees it would be done.

2-way Radio Aids Law Enforcement

Solution of at least three crimes and apprehension of those involved in the Pennington county area was measurably speeded as the result of the two-way radio installed in the county sheriff's office this year, according to retiring Sheriff Arthur Rambeck and Charles R. Richards, deputy, who will replace Rambeck Jan. 1. Here Richards makes a call as Rambeck looks on. Rambeck said several cities in northwestern Minnesota are on the hookup and more are being added as the efficiency of radio in aiding law enforcement is proved with each passing month. (Times photo; Story elsewhere in this issue.)

County Agents Have 5,168 Contacts in '56

The University of Minnesota is an institution of teaching and research. The experimental stations, and the United States Dept. of Agriculture also develop and prove new ideas. The county agents distribute this information and results of research in agriculture and homemaking.

The extension agents in Pennington county, as part of this pipeline for information, have attempted to fully cover areas of agriculture and homemaking which are of concern to most Pennington county people.

During the fiscal extention year which ended September 30th, 1956, the agents received 2,563 business office calls. This covered a multitude of subjects in agriculture and homemaking. There were 2,062 telephone call for information. Total individual contacts made with farmers and homemakers was 5168. 541 farm visits were made by the agents through the year. The agents wrote 276 news articles and prepared and broadcasted 51 radio programs in the field of mass media information. There were 4006 bulletins distributed through the extension office.

During the year the agents held 78 adult meetings at which the attendance was 3326, 10 young men and women meetings were attended by 221 people, and 130 4-H meetings, at which attendance was 12,908. Total contacts made through meetings was 16,455.

The local leaders who voluntarily donate their work in promoting extension education held 182 meetings in the adult, 4-H and YMW work. These meetings were attended by 5440 people. The leaders stand to be congratulated for their devotion and unselfish contributions in time, energy, and talent which they do for the betterment of the community, said County Agent Stelmaschuk.

In addition the guests held training meetings for these leaders, assisted by University of Minnesota personnel. There were 44 meetings held for training purposes in the adult, YMW, and 4-H fields. These were attended by 793 people.

705 Die in Yule Traffic in Nation

All-time Record Is Set for the Four-day Period

Traffic deaths in the nation zoomed to the highest total for any holiday period in American history during the long Christmas weekend.

Tabulations Wednesday also showed that deaths in accidents of all kinds also shattered previous records.

Fatalities added up to 705 in traffic, 54 in fires and 124 in accidents of other types for a total of 883.

The motor vehicle death toll surpassed the record for any holiday period—609, set during the three-day celebration of Christmas last year. It also exceeded the National Safety Council's advance prediction of 660.

The deaths tabulated Wednesday were caused by accidents that occurred during a 102-hour period from 6 p. m. Friday to midnight Tuesday. It was a four-day period, a day longer than the 1955 holiday periods in which the former records were set.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Hanson and son Michael spent Christmas with Mrs. Hanson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Krucksow near Brainerd.

Disease resistant varieties of flax are the only recommended ones for 1957 planting in Minnesota. The University of Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station recommends varieties B-5128, Marine, and Redwood — all immune to races of rust that are now common in Minnesota. All three varieties are also resistant to wilt, but Marine and Redwood are slightly more resistant than B5128, according to Herbert Johnson, extension plant pathologist at the University.

Barley needs to be seeded early and fertilized to bring best returns. In demonstrations in the Red River Valley last summer, plots that were seeded early and received other recommended treatments averaged 9-12 bushels per acre more and yielded higher-quality barley than late-seeded plots that didn't get proper care.

Dairy

The milk a cow holds back is called 'complementary milk" by W. E. Petersen, dairy scientist at the University of Minnesota. And the amount of complementary milk held by a cow gives a good indication of how long the cow will produce during the lactation period.

Bulk handling can result in a substantial reduction in transportation and handling costs — both for the producer and for the dairy plant — says E. L. Thomas, dairy industry professor at the University of Minnesota. But he adds that maximum savings are possible only when there is 100 per cent conversion to bulk handling, and when the plant operates on every-other-day milk pickup.

Latest idea in egg marketing is transparent cartons. In national tests in retail stores, homemakers said they like transparent cartons because they can see the size, color and cleanliness of eggs, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Sales of chicken meat in the U. S. has increased from 13 pounds per person in 1935 to 21 pounds per capita last year, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Safety

Don't let chore time be "accident time" on your farm. Watch out for falling hay bales, slippery silo ladders and ice and snow near the barn. An accident is more than physically painful; it can also hurt your pocketbook.

Being safety-conscious in the barn, you'll be more certain that you — as well as your livestock — survive the winter. Handle all livestock with caution. Keep children away from the livestock — especially herd sires and female animals that have young nearby.

Beekeeping

The nation's honeybees had a tough time this year. They produced 16 per cent less honey than the year before. The reason was dry weather that reduced the clover crop in many states.

Marshall Co. ASC Head Hurt in Fall

Andrew Strandquist Slips on Ice on T. H. 1

Andrew [illegible] Strandquist, manager of the Marshall county ASC office in Warren, is confined to Warren hospital with a concussion which included internal bleeding about the brain as a result of a fall last Wednesday afternoon on the icy pavement of Highway No. 1 near Radium corner.

Mr. Strandquist had stopped to assist Fr. Henry Rousseau of Argyle whose front wheel had slipped off the highway, and returning to his car, slipped and fell, his head striking the pavement.

Tony Dorn, Thief River Falls salesman, who had also stopped to assist Father Rousseau and Miss Lorraine Bieneski, of the Marshall county ASC office who was with Mr. Strandquist, returning from a meeting, aided Mr. Strandquist to his car. Miss Bieneski then drove him to his home east of Argyle, but about 20 minutes later was taken to the hospital in Warren by members of his family.

Physicians reported yesterday afternoon, that his condition was steadily improving.

Pleasant Weather During Holidays

Mother Nature Does Fine Job of Decorating Trees

When it comes to tree decorating man simply cannot hold a candle to nature. A good example of this was the frosty exhibit of beauty here Christmas eve, and Christmas Day.

A fog, combined with low temperatures, the night before draped trees for miles around in a gleaming, sparkling white mantle that surpassed all man-made decorations. Where the frost combined with the lighted trees —well, the effect was indescribably beautiful!

Temperatures came in a 45-degree spread, ranging from a low of minus 8 to a high of 37, during the period since last Saturday. And, the extreme temperature spread came almost a week later, to the day, from the 60-degree spread which heralded our present mild weather conditions.

Date	High	Low
Dec. 22	29	12
Dec. 23	13	1
Dec. 24	21	—2
Dec. 25	23	—8
Dec. 26	37	12
Dec. 27 (low only)		23

No moisture fell in the period.

The forecast is for partly cloudy skies with little temperature change through Friday. Highs will be 35-45, lows 22-23. Winds will be westerly 10-20 m.p.h., decreasing tonight.

2 Collisions Are Reported in City

A few hours later, cars driven by David H. Rasmussen and Herman G. Knutson collided on Crocker av. S., damage to the Rasmussen car being appraised at $135 and to the Knutson car, $35.

Mrs. Lucille Hulbert spent the holidays with her mother, Mrs. Ed Smith in Moorhead and her sister, Mrs. L. J. Holmes in Fargo. She returned home Wednesday.

THE MINNESOTA STORY

Prepared by the Minnesota Historical Society

CHRISTMAS TREES

The custom of decorating evergreen trees for Christmas is thought to have been introduced in America about 1747 by Germans who settled in Pennsylvania. Apparently, the practice was unusual on the Minnesota frontier in the 1850s, however, for a Christmas tree was the subject of a news story in the "St. Paul Democrat" of December 26, 1854.

The paper described "a very pleasant and happy affair" held in the home of a St. Paul citizen on Christmas Day. "A number of children were invited with their parents," the paper said "and at seven o'clock the door of the parlor was thrown open presenting to the astonished gaze of the children, a Christmas Tree, most brilliantly lighted and adorned with all sorts of presents."

The newspaper added that "This is a custom we believe peculiar to some countries in Europe, and one we would hope to see more generally adopted in this country."

CHRISTMAS LIGHTS

Minneapolis saw its first outdoor Christmas display in 1925. On the evening of December 24, President Calvin Coolidge pressed a button on his desk in the White House and 1500 lights on two fifty-foot trees in Gateway Park, Minneapolis, burst into brilliance.

The display was sponsored by the Minneapolis Electrical League, but many other organizations also contributed. The two fifty-foot trees had been cut on the homestead of A. M. Smith of Aitkin and had been purchased by the Minneapolis Ford dealers. The trees, wrapped in 900 feet of clothesline to prevent damage to the branches, were hauled free of charge to the city by the Soo Line Railroad. They were set up by the fire department, and wired by Dunwoody students, who used one and a half miles of wire to do the job.

Since that first electrical Christmas in 1925, a huge lighted tree in the square has come to be a regular feature of Christmas celebrations in many towns throughout Minnesota.

MAJOR TALIAFERRO'S CHRISTMAS

Taliaferro said that his day began at three o'clock in the morning with a serenade "by the musicicians from Fort Snelling." At daylight there were "3 Rounds by the French Inhabitants of the Post with the usual complements of the Season."

And then at eleven o'clock Taliaferro's Indian charges "both men & women" called on him "in considerable numbers to see and shake hands and express the feelings of the day—which they appear to have taken up within the last Eight years from the Whites." Taliaferro adds that before he was aware of their intentions many of the Indians had deposited kisses on his cheeks.

INDIAN NEW YEAR'S

The Indians of early Minnesota look over from the French Canadians the idea and the method of celebrating both Christmas and New Year's. The fur trade attracted to the Minnesota country hundreds of hardy French-Canadians, most of whom served as voyageurs. Their daily work brought them into close contact with the Indians, who promptly adopted some of the Canadians' gay customs.

Especially among the Chippewa, the natives made much of New Year's Day, which they called "Kissing Day" and celebrated after the fashion of the French-Canadian traders and voyageurs.

NEW YEAR'S DAY CALLS

In the frontier Minnesota calls were the order of the day on New Year's. "The custom of observing this day, after the old Dutch fashion, is becoming firmly established," reads a St. Paul newspaper of the 1850s. On the first day of the year "ladies remain at home and see company. Gentlemen make short calls and take a slight refreshment everywhere."

From ten in the morning to four in the afternoon were considered the proper hours for making calls.

On New Year's Day, 1851, Governor Alexander Ramsey wrote in his diary that "upwards of one hundred persons" had called on him and his wife that day.

SNOW SKATES

In the February 3, 1853, issue of the "Minnesota Pioneer," a St. Paul newspaper, a reporter, obviously unfamiliar with the subject, wrote that "Some of the Norwegians who reside here, use the Lapland snow skates, which are described in the school geographies. These skates are strips of smooth wood, about six feet long and three inches wide and turning up like sleigh runners before. The wearer partly shuffles along by moving alternately his feet, and shoves himself behind at the same time, with a long staff. One of these snow skates arrived in town last week from Lake Superior, having traveled at the rate of eighty miles or less, a day."

County Agents Have 5,168 Contacts in '56

The University of Minnesota is an institution of teaching and research. The experimental stations, and the United States Dept. of Agriculture also develop and prove new ideas. The county agents distribute this information and results of research in agriculture and homemaking.

The extension agents in Pennington county, as part of this pipeline for information, have attempted to fully cover areas of agriculture and homemaking which are of concern to most Pennington county people.

During the fiscal extention year which ended September 30th, 1956, the agents received 2,505 business office calls. This covered a multitude of subjects in agriculture and homemaking. There were 2,062 telephone call for information. Total individual contacts made with farmers and homemakers was 5168. 541 farm visits were made by the agents through the year. The agents wrote 276 news articles and prepared and broadcasted 51 radio programs in the field of mass media information. There were 4900 bulletins distributed through the extension office.

During the year the agents held 78 adult meetings at which the attendance was 3320, 10 young men and women meetings were attended by 221 people, and 190 4-H meetings, at which attendance was 12,008. Total contacts made through meetings was 16,455.

The local leaders who voluntarily donate their work in promoting extension education held 182 meetings in the adult, 4-H and YMW work. These meetings were attended by 5140 people. The leaders stand to be congratulated for their devotion and unselfish contributions in time, energy, and talent which they do for the betterment of the community, said County Agent Stelmaschuk.

In addition the guests held training meetings for these leaders, assisted by University of Minnesota personnel. There were 44 meetings held for training purposes in the adult, YMW, and 4-H fields. These were attended by 793 people.

705 Die in Yule Traffic in Nation

All-time Record Is Set for the Four-day Period

Traffic deaths in the nation zoomed to the highest total for any holiday period in American history during the long Christmas weekend.

Tabulations Wednesday also showed that deaths in accidents of all kinds also shattered previous records.

Fatalities added up to 705 in traffic, 54 in fires and 124 in accidents of other types for a total of 883.

The motor vehicle death toll surpassed the record for any holiday period—609, set during the three-day celebration of Christmas last year. It also exceeded the National Safety Council's advance prediction of 660.

The deaths tabulated Wednesday were caused by accidents that occurred during a 102-hour period from 6 p. m. Friday to midnight Tuesday. It was a four-day period, a day longer than the 1955 holiday periods in which the former records were set.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Hanson and son Michael spent Christmas with Mrs. Hanson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Krueksow near Brainerd.

Crops

Disease resistant varieties of flax are the only recommended ones for 1957 planting in Minnesota. The University of Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station recommends varieties B-5128, Marine, and Redwood — all immune to races of rust that are now common in Minnesota. All three varieties are also resistant to wilt, but Marine and Redwood are slightly more resistant than B5128, according to Herbert Johnson, extension plant pathologist at the University.

Barley needs to be seeded early and fertilized to bring best returns. In demonstrations in the Red River Valley last summer, plots that were seeded early and received other recommended treatments averaged 9-12 bushels per acre more and yielded higher-quality barley than late-seeded plots that didn't get proper care.

Dairy

The milk a cow holds back is called "complementary milk" by W. E. Petersen, dairy scientist at the University of Minnesota. And the amount of complementary milk held by a cow gives a good indication of how long the cow will produce during the lactation period.

Bulk-handling can result in a substantial reduction in transportation and handling costs — both for the producer and for the dairy plant — says E. L. Thomas, dairy industry professor at The University of Minnesota. But he adds that maximum savings are possible only when there is 100 per cent conversion to bulk handling, and when the plant operates on every-other-day milk pickup.

Latest idea in egg marketing is transparent cartons. In national tests in retail stores, homemakers said they like transparent cartons because they can see the size, color and cleanliness of eggs, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Sales of chicken meat in the U. S. has increased from 13 pounds per person in 1935 to 21 pounds per capita last year, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Safety

Don't let chore time be "accident time" on your farm. Watch out for falling hay bales, slippery silo ladders and ice and snow near the barn. An accident is more than physically painful; it can also hurt your pocketbook.

Being safety-conscious in the barn, you'll be more certain that you — as well as your livestock —survive the winter. Handle all livestock with caution. Keep children away from the livestock — especially herd sires and female animals that have young nearby.

Beekeeping

The nation's honeybees had a tough time this year. They produced 16 per cent less honey than the year before. The reason was dry weather that reduced the clover crop in many states.

AIRPORT NEWS

Wednesday and Thursday of last week proved to be busy days out at the Municipal Airport, due to the perfect flying weather. Tony Burkle, Greenbush, started the chain of flyers, by coming in with his J-3 Cub. Those to follow were: Warner Christenson, McIntosh, and Lloyd Bradley, Erskine, in an Aeronca; George Vonfoldt and Dale Walter of Fertile, another Aeronca; Gerald Clausen, Argyle, Cub.

Joe Devorak, operator of the Fergus Falls Airport flew M. Diamond up here in his Cessna 170 on a business matter. Diamond is the owner of the Diamond Furniture Store in Thief River Fall.

Martin Rantanen arrived from Fargo with a 150 Stinson belonging to Henry Peterson Jr. of Karlstad. He is going to hanger it here for the winter.

Friday and Saturday things came almost to a stand still because of snow and freezing drizzle; however Basil Celany and Miles Wermager of Karlstad braved it in their T-Craft, which they left for the mechanic.

Sunday afternoon it cleared off and became rather nice; so these flyers came to visit us: Nordie Swenson and Charles Swenson, Karlstad, in Nordie's Ercoupe; Henry Silorski, Lancaster, and John Pulczinski, Greenbush, in Henry's J-3 Cub from Crookston came Lloyd Anderson flying a T-Craft, and John Hagen and Gene Miller in a Champ. They had been out trying their luck at fox-hunting. Martin and Joe Kiel were also looking the fox situation over and did a little ice fishing too, on Sunday.

Only Five Traffic Cases Are Heard in City Past Week

The highway patrol and local police brought only five traffic offenders into municipal court during the past week.

Police cases included Harry Stucy, city, driving in wrong lane fined $5 and $1 costs; Gerald E. Magnan, Goodridge, improper U turn, given a suspended fine of $5 and paid $1 costs; and A. G. Gabrielson, city, found guilty after a trial December 17 of failure to yield the right of way, fined $20 and $5 costs.

Marshall Co. ASC Head Hurt in Fall

Andrew S. Strandquist, manager of the Marshall county ASC office in Warren, is confined to Warren hospital with a concussion which included internal bleeding about the brain as a result of a fall last Wednesday afternoon on the icy pavement of Highway No. 1 near Radium corner.

Mr. Strandquist had stopped to assist Fr. Henry Rousseau of Argyle whose front wheel had slipped off the highway, and returning to his car, slipped and fell, his head striking the pavement.

Tony Dorn, Thief River Falls salesman, who had also stopped to assist Father Rousseau and Miss Loraine Bieneski, of the Marshall county ASC office who was with Mr. Strandquist, returning from a meeting, aided Mr. Strandquist to his car. Miss Bieneski then drove him to his home east of Argyle, but about 20 minutes later was taken to the hospital in Warren by members of his family.

Physicians reported yesterday afternoon, that his condition was steadily improving.

Pleasant Weather During Holidays

Mother Nature Does Fine Job of Decorating Trees

When it comes to tree decorating man simply cannot hold a candle to nature. A good example of this was the frosty exhibit of beauty here Christmas eve, and Christmas Day.

A fog, combined with low temperatures, the night before draped trees for miles around in a gleaming, sparkling white mantle that surpassed all man-made decorations. Where the frost combined with the lighted trees —well, the effect was indescribably beautiful!

Temperatures came in a 45-degree spread, ranging from a low of minus 8 to a high of 37, during the period since last Saturday. And, the extreme temperature spread came almost a week later, to the day, from the 60-degree spread which heralded our present mild weather conditions.

Date	High	Low
Dec. 22	29	12
Dec. 23	13	1
Dec. 24	21	—2
Dec. 25	23	—8
Dec. 26	37	12
Dec. 27 (low only)		23

No moisture fell in the period.

The forecast is for partly cloudy skies with little temperature change through Friday. Highs will be 35-45, lows 22-23. Winds will be westerly 10-20 m.p.h., decreasing tonight.

2 Collisions Are Reported in City

A few hours later, cars driven by David H. Rasmussen and Herman G. Knutson collided on Crocker av. S., damage to the Rasmussen car being appraised at $135 and to the Knutson car, $35.

Mrs. Lucille Hulbert spent the holidays with her mother, Mrs. Ed Smith in Moorhead and her sister, Mrs. L. J. Holmes in Fargo. She returned home Wednesday.

THE MINNESOTA STORY

Prepared by the

Minnesota Historical Society

CHRISTMAS TREES

The custom of decorating evergreen trees for Christmas is thought to have been introduced in America about 1747 by Germans who settled in Pennsylvania. Apparently, the practice was unusual on the Minnesota frontier in the 1850s, however, for a Christmas tree was the subject of a news story in the "St. Paul Democrat" of December 26, 1854.

The paper described "a very pleasant and happy affair" held in the home of a St. Paul citizen on Christmas Day. "A number of children were invited with their parents," the paper said "and at seven o'clock the door of the parlor was thrown open presenting to the astonished gaze of the children, a Christmas Tree, most brilliantly lighted and adorned with all sorts of presents."

The newspaper added that "This is a custom we believe peculiar to some countries in Europe, and one we would hope to see more generally adopted in this country."

CHRISTMAS LIGHTS

Minneapolis saw its first outdoor Christmas display in 1925. On the evening of December 24, President Calvin Coolidge pressed a button on his desk in the White House and 1500 lights on two fifty-foot trees in Gateway Park, Minneapolis, burst into brilliance.

The display was sponsored by the Minneapolis Electrical League, but many other organizations also contributed. The two fifty-foot trees had been cut on the homestead of A. M. Smith of Aitkin and had been purchased by the Minneapolis Ford dealers. The trees, wrapped in 900 feet of clothesline to prevent damage to the branches, were hauled free of charge to the city by the Soo Line Railroad. They were set up by the fire department, and wired by Dunwoody students, who used one and a half miles of wire to do the job.

Since that first electrical Christmas in 1925, a huge lighted tree in the square has come to be a regular feature of Christmas celebrations in many towns throughout Minnesota.

MAJOR TALIAFERRO'S CHRISTMAS

Taliaferro said that his day began at three o'clock in the morning with a serenade "by the musicicians from Fort Snelling." At daylight there were "3 Rounds by the French Inhabitants of the Post with the usual complements of the Season."

And then at eleven o'clock Taliaferro's Indian charges "both men & women" called on him "in considerable numbers to see and shake hands and express the feelings of the day— which they appear to have taken up within the last Eight years from the Whites." Taliaferro adds that before he was aware of their intentions many of the Indians had deposited kisses on his cheeks.

INDIAN NEW YEAR'S

The Indians of early Minnesota took over from the French Canadians the idea and the method of celebrating both Christmas and New Year's. The fur trade attracted to the Minnesota country hundreds of hardy French-Canadians, most of whom served as voyageurs. Their daily work brought them into close contact with the Indians, who promptly adopted some of the Canadians' gay customs.

Especially among the Chippewa, the natives made much of New Year's Day, which they called "Kissing Day" and celebrated after the fashion of the French-Canadian traders and voyageurs.

NEW YEAR'S DAY CALLS

In the frontier Minnesota calls were the order of the day on New Year's. "The custom of observing this day, after the old Dutch fashion, is becoming firmly established," reads a St. Paul newspaper of the 1850s. On the first day of the year "ladies remain at home and see company. Gentlemen make short calls and take a slight refreshment everywhere."

From ten in the morning to four in the afternoon were considered the proper hours for making calls.

On New Year's Day, 1851, Governor Alexander Ramsey wrote in his diary that "upwards of one hundred persons" had called on him and his wife that day.

SNOW SKATES

In the February 3, 1853, issue of the "Minnesota Pioneer," a St. Paul newspaper, a reporter obviously unfamiliar with the subject, wrote that "Some of the Norwegians who reside here, use the Lapland snow skates, which are described in the school geographies. These skates are strips of smooth wood, about six feet long and three inches wide and turning up like sleigh runners before. The wearer partly shuffles along by moving alternately his feet, and shoves himself behind at the same time, with a long staff. One of these snow skates arrived in town last week from Lake Superior, having traveled at the rate of eighty miles or less, a day."

Prowler Six Defeats Cathedral Team 7-6; Play Eveleth Friday

Coach Johnny Matchetts' hockey Prowlers, after gaining a 5 to 2 lead in the first period, were forced to hold off a threatening Crookston Cathedral sextet here Saturday night on the Arena ice to win a 7 to 6 decision over the Blue Wave.

The win lifted the Prowler record to one win and one loss, and sets up the locals for their important game here on Friday night, Dec. 28th, when they meet the powerful Eveleth Golden Bears on the Arena rink.

Following the Eveleth game here on the 28th, the Prowlers will prepare for the gruelling three-game road trip on January 3rd, the locals will meet the Broncos at 9:00 p.m.; on Friday, on a 7:30 p.m. game, also at International Falls, the Prowlers will play Edina-Morningside; and on Saturday night, Jan. 5th, the locals play a return game at Eveleth.

The Prowlers, hammering sixteen shots at goalie Steve Fenno that the Blue Wave netminder kicked out and with five shots getting by the guardian, raced into a commanding 5 to 2 lead in the first period of Saturday night's game here. Arlan Hjelle, Wendy Johnson, Dale Wennberg, and Jimmy Hall scored for the blue-and-gold, with Hall getting a pair of tallies. Mark Laliberte notched the pair of goals for coach Bill Sullivan's club.

Each team racked up a tally in the second period, with Hall scoring for the Prowlers, to garner a "hat trick" performance; and Paul Charron accounted for the Blue Wave goal.

The Prowlers held a 6 to 3 entering the third period, but that margin was pared when Laliberte, picking the long corner, scored for Crookston at 1:10. Jimmy Nelson lont shot, with Hall on the assist, gave the locals a 7 to 4 lead. At 11:15, Bob Charron scored for Crookston, pumping a rebound past goalie Wayne Erickson; and at 13:58, Paul Charron, on a "sleeper", broke away for a close in shot that found the nets.

'Self-help' Urged In Filling out U. S. Income Tax Forms

District Director, Staff Will Give Aid to Local Residents at Crookston

"Self-help" will again be stressed during the 1957 filing period as a dominant feature of the Internal Service's taxpayer assistance program, District Director A. R. Knox of the St. Paul office of the tax agency announced today.

"This means," Mr. Knox said, "that taxpayers are asked to complete as much of their return as possible before seeking help from us. A majority of taxpayers can complete a full return without any assistance other than that provided by the form and instructions. Since the 1956 forms are not essentially different from last year's, we believe that the percentage of those needing aid can be reduced materially.

"Our request that taxpayers, even those with minor problems, first try to complete their own return, does not mean that we are not going to provide necessary assistance," Mr. Knox said. "Both telephone and office assistance will be available to taxpayers with questions and problems.

"If help is needed, we request certain necessary preliminaries from the taxpayer. We ask him to have in mind all the facts that apply to his problem, and to have all of his 1956 financial records in hand which bear on a questioned phase of his return. Such records should be properly grouped and in order, for both the taxpayer's benefit and ours.

"Taxpayers needing help on specific problems are urged to contact our Internal Revenue offices by telephone and ask for 'Income Tax Information.' Those who do not believe they can obtain adequate aid over the telephone may, of course, make a personal call at our offices," Mr. Knox said.

Personal calls and phone-calls may be made by residents of this area to the office in Crookston on Fridays, 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

This an' That

The Cleveland Touchdown Club chose Jim Brown, Syracuse University's 215-pound halfback as "Player of the Year." Brown is only the second eastern college football star to receive the Cleveland club's top honor . . . Joe Schultz, former St. Louis Browns catcher, has been signed for another year as manager of San Antonio of the Texas League . . . Rumors since early December have indicated that the Pacific Coast Conference would restore the eligibility of University of California and University of California at Los Angeles athletes at the January meeting of conference officials . . . Mail orders for tickets to the next 500-mile Memorial Day race at Indianapolis have been heavier than ever, race officials report. The Speedway also announced a new three-lane tunnel under the backstretch will permit nine lanes of traffic to move under the track while race cars are running . . . The Big Ten rejected a proposal that would lead to a round-robin conference slate of nine games on a ten game schedule. Conference regulations now require a minimum of six league games in an overall nine-game schedule.

The Golden Bears

On Friday night, Dec. 28th, on the Arena ice sheet, the team, and the coach, that has had the most influence and made the greatest impact on Minnesota high school hockey will play the Prowlers. We're referring, of course, to the Eveleth high school Golden Bears and coach Cliff Thompson. Face-off time for Friday's game has been set for 8:00 p. m.

Over the years, Eveleth has gained nation-wide publicity, and not without reason, as being the "hot bed" of American hockey. And a recital of the players who gained their early training at Eveleth, and who later went on to play upper-crust hockey, reads like a "Who's Who." Such former National Hockey leaguers as Frank Brimsek, Mike Karakas, Sammy LoPresti, and John Mariucci come readily to mind. The end is not yet, for such a star as Johnny Fayasich, a recent graduate of Minnesota, is capable of a pro hockey career.

Since hockey was recognized as a major sport by the State High School League in 1945, Eveleth and Thief River Falls, in regularly scheduled games of tournament play, have met eight times, and the results are all even, with each team having won four and lost four. Of course, we'll include that game in 1942 when, in a state high school invitational tournament played at Roseau, the Prowlers, on Mouse Efteland's goal, defeated Eveleth, 1 to 0, in a semi-finals game. The Prowlers, incidentally, won that "state" tournament, defeating Baudette, 4 to 1, in the finals. Later that season, in a junior hockey meet played here, Eveleth secured a measure of revenge for they scored a 6 to 4 win over the locals.

But to get back to the "official" series of games. In 1945, in a state tourney finals game, Eveleth defeated the Prowlers, 4 to 3; in 1949-50, in a pair of scheduled tilts, Eveleth, with John Mayasich in the lineup, defeated the locals, 6 to 1 and 10 to 3; in a state tournament, first round game in 1952, the Golden Bears won by a 3 to 1 score. Since that time, though, the Prowlers have racked up four consecutive triumphs. In 1953-54, in a scheduled game, coach Dennis Rolle's Prowlers defeated Eveleth, 4 to 2, and in a state tourney finals game that season, the blue-and-gold won by a 4 to 1 margin. In the 1955 state tournament, in the consolation finals, the Prowlers defeated the Bears, 3 to 1; and last season, in a semi-finals state tourney game, the Prowlers won by a 3 to 0 score.

A Record Crowd

Given moderate weather, and fair driving conditions, a record crowd of hockey fans should cram the Warroad Memorial Arena on Sunday afternoon when the Warroad Lakers meet the star-studded, United States National Hockey team in an exhibition tilt.

The All-Stars, headed by the legendary Johnny Mayasich, who set scoring records while at Eveleth high school and the University of Minnesota, are coached by Bill Stewart, the former umpire in the National Baseball League and a veteran of professional hockey. Teaming up with Mayasich in the All-Stars "first line" will be Dick Dougherty of International Falls and Gene Campbell of Minneapolis. Dick and Gene will be at the wings, with the incomparable Mayasich at center.

But don't think that the All-Stars will have a simple chore in defeating the Lakers. Warroad is rightly proud of the fact that the Lakers are the senior hockey champions of the United States, and they'll put an "All-Star" lineup of their own on the ice.

As "imports" the Lakers will have Murray Balagus at forward, Don Collins at goal, Frank Eisenzoph at forward, and Sambo Fedoruk at defense. Add to that game-tested quartet such players as Dan McKinnon, Bob Johnson, Ken Johannson, Ginny Christian, Sonny Calder, and Rich Roberts, the Lakers will be able to "ice" a powerful team. The game could be a toss-up.

Greetings from Babe

We are in receipt of a Christmas communication from H. W. (for Harold Woodrow) "Babe" Paulsen, and he includes greetings to his many friends here.

Babe, of course, will be remembered as being the Prowler varsity hockey coach from 1946 thru 1948, and during that time he was a valued member of the senior hockey Thieves, playing a right wing position.

Babe informs us that he left Michigan State College this fall, and that he's now located at Slippery Rock State Teachers College in Slippery Rock, Pennsylvania. Slippery Rock has an enrollment of four hundred and fifty major students, and Babe is athletic director and chairman of the department of health and physical education.

While at Michigan State College, Babe, for several seasons, was coach of the Spartans hockey squad and an instructor in the Phy. Ed. department. In June of this year, Babe was granted a doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Michigan.

Yes, Harold the Babe was quite a guy, and quite a right wing, too. What fan can forget those rushes that the Babe made, after getting a feeder pass from center Bill Zippel, and came in on the opposing goalie? With one leg cocked in the air, Babe would unlimber a right-handed shot that would decapitate a goalie unfortunate enough to get hit in the head with the puck. Usually Babe was in close on those shots, and the drives were about ankle-high.

Grand Forks' Fido Purpur always seemed to take glee in becoming embroiled in settos with Babe. We can recall one occasion, during the heyday of senior hockey, when the Thieves and the Amerks were playing at Grand Forks. With a couple minutes of the game remaining, Fido skated up the timer's bench and asked how much time remained. When told, Fido skated into Babe, and the pair engaged in "fisticuffs," as the rule book so politely terms a "fist fight." Needless to say, the fans left the Arena talking about the "fight," and agreeing that they wouldn't miss the next Thieves vs. Amerks games.

5-CENT INSURANCE FEE TO END JAN. 2 AT POSTOFFICE

Effective January 2, 1957, the 5-cent insurance fee will be discontinued by the Postoffice department. On and after that date a fee of 10c will be charged for all domestic parcels insured for amounts not exceeding $10.00, Postmaster R. J. Dryden stated today.

The key to safety is you.

Thieves Win and Lose in Two Roseau Games

After taking a 14 to 3 trouncing from the Roseau Cloverleafs at Roseau on Saturday night, the local senior hockey Thieves moved into the Arena rink here on Sunday afternoon and scored a 6 to 2 win over the Leafs. The Thieves, in their tilt on Sunday, were bolstered by the addition of the "Rochester" line of center Jack Poole and wings Bud Brossoit and Swede Lund. The trio accounted for three of the Thieves goals, with Bud Brossoit scoring the "hat trick".

Both clubs were liberally supplied with college talent, with former Prowler and Roseau Rams players being home on vacation.

Chip Strand, on an assist from Glen Carlson, scored at 7:55 of the opening period, giving the Thieves a 1 to 0 lead; and at 18:26, Allen Steenerson, with Sid Vraa being the feeder, beat goalie Duane Olson.

The Cloverleafs broke goalie Rod Collins' hope for a shutout by scoring twice in the third period. Don Grahm shoved in a Mike Robertson bound for a score at 6:05; and at 10:43, Monty Markstrom, the Leafs smooth-skating center-ice, scored on an assist from Grefthem. Brossoit and Jack Poole combined for a pair of neat goals, with Bud scoring at 14:35 and 17:52, to give the Thieves a 6 to 2 triumph.

Babson Forecasts No World War During '57

Business and Financial Forecast for 1957

By Roger W. Babson

Both presidential candidates, in their pre-election speeches, promised PEACE, PROSPERITY, and PROGRESS. They stated that they must do this in order to enforce the Employment Act of 1946. This is the basis of my Outlook for 1957, tempered of course by Russia.

1. World War III will not start in 1957.

2. 1957 will witness gradually increasing inflation.

3. Manufacturers will be faced with higher costs for both materials and labor.

4. All businesses will be confronted by increased competition, both within their own industries and from other industries.

5. More advertising will be necessary in 1957 if profits of manufacturers and retailers are to equal those of 1956.

6. Failures will increase in 1957, both as to numbers and liabilities. Thousands of small concerns will be wiped out. One or two of the largest corporations will face bankruptcy or re-organization.

7. Cost of living will rise slightly during 1957.

8. Most labor unions will hesitate to make public fights for higher wages, but will work for shorter hours, pensions, and "fringes."

9. Europe must pay so much more for oil, that it will have less money for purchasing other goods.

10. Unexpected events will occur during 1957; however, as a whole, business will remain fair, but with smaller profits.

Money Outlook

11. As foreign countries must pay in gold or dollars for oil, their industries will be handicapped, unemployment will increase, and pressure for aid from the United State will be greater.

12. The Federal Reserve Board will not relax its restrictions so long as we have full employment in the United States; but if unemployment increases we may expect a relaxation. I am very glad Mr. Robert Cutler will again be Mr. Eisenhower's adviser.

13. Owing to the tremendous numbers of employees, suppliers, and retailers dependent upon the large corporations, these will be first to receive bank funds.

14. Many plans for expansions of plants, by both big business and little business, will be postponed. Most corporations will find it difficult to get new short-term money at any price in quantity; while long-term financing will be too expensive.

15. Tight money will cause state, municipal, and town governments to postpone plans for building roads, schools, and hospitals except in cases where the Federal Government pays most of the costs. This will put a damper on many lines of business.

16. Owing to these increased money rates, state, municipal, and town bonds, although tax free, have been declining rapidly in price. Most financial advisers forecast much lower prices for such securities. It is possible that the postponement of such building plans may so diminish demand for such money that these non-taxable bonds will sell at higher prices before the year is out. This postponement may also reduce the price of steel and other materials.

17. The money managers for each corporation, large and small, will now arrange their financing needs for two years by either securing the necessary funds now or reducing their requests.

18. Prices of corporation bonds will not recover so quickly as the non-taxables. I forecast lower prices for most corporation bonds.

19. Many of the smaller and newer corporations will be much disappointed by their inability to secure funds during 1957, except by selling convertible preferred stocks on terms very favorable to investors. It is well to issue such securities when money rates are low because the advantages continue for many years; but not when money is tight, as such securities then tie up the borrowers for a long number of years at high rates.

20. This means that 1957 will be a good year for investors to switch from low-yielding stocks to attractive bond issues.

Real Estate Outlook

21. Home building, corporate expansion, and municipal improvements will decline in 1957. Therefore, it will not be a good year for speculating in real estate.

22. Interest rates on mortgages will be higher in 1957. Loans not "federally" guaranteed will require larger margins.

23. Real estate in large cities will continue inactive with declining prices due to lack of parking facilities.

24. Suburban real estate will continue active, but fewer new houses will be built. Houses will be for sale by executives who have lost their well-paid jobs.

25. Purchasers will give more attention to the size of the lots than to the houses. Better locations can be secured by buying existing houses. Modern kitchens will become a "must."

26. Acreage near proposed shopping centers will be excellent for speculation. The automobile will continue to raise havoc with real estate prices, helping some locations and hurting others.

27. New inventions in connection with heating, lighting, and other features will make most older houses obsolete.

28. Large commercial farms will continue prosperous. Small farms on the fringes of cities will be more valuable. The outlying medium-sized farms will be both expensive to operate and hard to sell.

29. The nearness to schools, churches, stores, and bus routes will become a more important factor in the re-sale of homes.

30. Those wishing to own a well-located home to occupy will find 1957 a good year to buy or build; but a dangerous year for speculation.

Stock Market Outlook

31. It is foolish for anyone to now forecast the stock market for 1957. The Dow-Jones Industrial Average, now around 490, may decline to 400 or advance to 600 during 1957.

32. All investors will want "safety," but wise investors will first decide whether they also want "income" or profit." Only by luck can you obtain all three features with certainty during 1957.

33. Investors can buy, during 1957, well-seasoned preferred stocks (preferably cumulative) which will give, with safety, a yield of near 6%. I will gladly send free of charge, a list of such to any reader so requesting.

34. During 1957 good utility stocks should be attractive for yield and marketability. The demand for electricity will continue to increase throughout 1957.

35. The above two recommendations apply to those in moderate income tax brackets. The investor in medium or high brackets will buy during 1957 non-taxable state, municipal, or town bonds carrying "full faith and credit." Taxes will gradually increase during 1957, and non-taxable bonds will be more in demand from wise investors.

36. I am not now prepared to advise readers who do not care for income, but only for profit. As above stated, the Dow-Jones Industrial Average may approach, during 1957, either 400 or 600. It will be very easy to make a mistake by either buying or selling stocks at this time, except for intelligent switchers. I am willing to say, however, that readers should not get panicky and sell their oils. Even Gulf Oil, which has the largest interests in the very rich Middle East fields, should not be sold.

37. All sensible investors will carry good bank balances and reserves during 1957 so as not to be caught, whatever happens.

38. There should be no panic in the stock market during 1957. Stocks will either fluctuate near their present levels or else will gradually slide downward or upward. It will be risky to borrow money to buy stocks in 1957; rather, one might sell stocks to get out of debt.

39. The way to make money in the stock market is: (1) Confine your purchases to the stocks of the leading companies in each industry. (2) Diversify moderately and do not try to pick out winners, remembering that, whether you buy or sell, someone (probably as smart as you) is doing the opposite at the same time. (3) Store up cash when most people are bullish; use this cash to buy stocks when most people are bearish.

40. We are no longer on the Gold Standard but on a Political Standard. Although the Law of Action and Reaction will ultimately rule, yet periods of prosperity can artificially be extended by manipulating money rates, subsidies, and other financial props.

41. Every reader should have a little stock in one of the local banks in which he has his account. Bank stocks should make money during 1957, whatever the "blue chips" do.

International And Other Affairs

42. During 1957 the Administration will do everything possible to keep us out of war. It certainly will not get us involved with England, France, Israel, or their allies.

43. So long as President Eisenhower is in good physical condition (as Commander-in-Chief), he will back the United Nations with our Army, Navy and Air Force. This is the only way in which he will be tempted ever to enter World War III.

4. The United States will not use the A-Bomb or H-Bomb during 1957 or give these bombs to any other nation. However, to save the United Nations, President Eisenhower will give that organization all the bombs it wants.

45. 1957 should be a good year to make tax-exempt gifts to colleges, hospitals, and other worthy causes. You, however, should give a stock which shows you a profit, and let the beneficiary do the selling. 1957 should be an especially good year for such institutions to make drives for funds.

46. Householders will avoid making unnecessary purchases on installments until the international situation clears. Several feasible plans are being considered, one of which is to have a very small tax on every gallon of oil moving through the Canal with the understanding that the money will be used for financing the Great Dam on the Nile River which the Egyptians so much need. This would make unnecessary any expropriation of the rich Middle East oil reserves and any renegotiations. Either expropriations or renegotiations will scare our investors out of making further foreign investments.

47. The big thing that Russia wants is not so much the oil fields as freedom to pass through the Dardanelles. This will be an important feature of a settlement of the Suez Canal problem. I further forecast that the Republic of Panama will attempt to undo the 'steal' which we perpetrated in 1904 in order to build the Panama Canal.

48. I would be unfair to readers of this Forecast not to mention the great importance of Mr. Eisenhower's health. In connection with any building, business, investment, or other program, it should be continually kept in mind.

49. Better fed and more intelligent populations, both in the United States and elsewhere, will continue to increase. Important new discoveries and inventions will take place. Twenty years ago we were enjoying the prosperity brought on by the Electrical Era. Then followed the Motor Car and Oil Eras which we have recently been enjoying, plus a Chemical and Building Boom. These coming together account for the great prosperity of the last ten years. Sometime we will witness a business readjustment, but it will be followed by a new Electronic and Nuclear Era. Therefore be optimistic.

50. In closing, I urge my friends to read the 8th Chapter of the Bible Book Deuteronomy, which was written 3,000 years ago and is as applicable today as ever. Incidentally, it mentions Egypt, which even then was an important factor in world events.

EARLY "MAC" GRADS TRAINED FOR LONGEVITY

The last living member of Macalester college's first graduating class of 10, in 1889, and the last living member of the 1890 class of seven, exchanged holiday greetings on the eve of their respective 90th birthdays. William P. Kirkwood, who still lives in St. Paul near his alma mater, went into newspapering and in the early 1900s became the founder of and first professor in the School of Journalism of the University of Minnesota — starting on the Farm Campus; today he is the only Honorary Life Member of Minnesota Editorial Association. Professor Kirkwood will celebrate his 90th birthday January 9 with relatives in Massachusetts. His fellow Macalester alumnus, one class ahead in 1889, is one day older; Dr. J. W. Cochran, who spent his active life in the ministry, will celebrate his 90th birthday January 8 in Florida retirement.

SEVEN HUNDRED KILLED

Traffic accidents took a toll of more than 700 lives in the nation over the Christmas week-end, an all-time high record. The total count of casualties has not been revealed but with 700 dead the number of those injured, many of them critically, would be many thousands. Most of these accidents could have been prevented. Keep these figures in mind when you plan your celebration of the arrival of another New Year.

CORN IN THE LIMELIGHT

Corn production and marketing controls will be high lighted in the farm program arguments in the next Congress. Secretary of agriculture Benson will present an administration plan for this particular crop, and this plan, regardless of what it may be, will be vigorously opposed by the anti-administration group.

Our area is not in the corn belt and we are not directly interested in this issue. We do have a very real and important indirect interest in the outcome however.

What is done about corn probably will set the pattern for changes affecting other crops. All farming communities are therefore interested in the problem and the solution that finally will be adopted.

The corn situation is critical. Proposed changes in the present allotment plan, submitted to corn growers recently, were approved by a substantial majority but failed to gain the two-thirds vote required by law. Congressional action therefore is needed.

Discussing the situation last week Mr. Benson stated;

1 "Corn faces an impossible situation, as matters now stand. Acreage allotments must, under the law, be reduced 14% below the level initially announced for the 1956 crop and 27 per cent below the level finally enacted by the Congress. It is 36 per cent below the acreage grown during the year 1952 to 1956.

"This cut is so sharp that there will be practically no compliance. Furthermore, few farmers will be able to take the even greater cut which would be necessary to come into the soil bank, which many of them wish to do. Consequently, with virtually no soil bank and no corn program, corn production could be excessive and corn prices very low. Livestock production might be unduly stimulated. The whole feed grain-livestock balance might be upset."

"The base acreage program, for which a majority of the farmers voted, would have given greater promise of much greater compliance, an effective soil bank and a better feed grain-livestock balance."

The new plan to be submitted by Mr. Benson probably will not follow exactly the pattern proposed in the "base acreage" program submitted in the recent referendum. That proposal was limited to what might be done under present law. Through congressional action a better solution may be found. How good the new law will be will depend largely on whether it is designed for the benefit of agriculture or for the best interests of the politicians.

RECOGNIZING THE CUSTOMERS

In a speech delivered before the winter meeting of the National Editorial Association in Chicago last month Robert M. Blough, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation, called upon the free press of our country to lead the fight against inflation. Speaking for the Pennington county segment of our country's press we will gladly continue to assume our share of the responsibility for championing a hold-the-line policy.

And in getting ready to close the books on another year of "viewing with alarm" the continuing progress of the inflationary spiral, we would like to tell Mr. Blough that in our opinion his United States Steel Corporation is directly and indirectly responsible for much of the inflation our country has experienced during the past two years.

He cited as one important example of inflationary factors the paying of "unearned" wage increases, wage increases not justified by increased efficiency, and, therefore, not absorable within the industry. In 1955 Mr. Blough's company, the recognized leader of the great industry of which it is a part, set the pace for a general, nationwide round of increases by becoming a party to such an arrangement without an argument.

Again in 1956 it was U. S. Steel that yielded, this time with some resistance, to similar demands and, as we are now experiencing them, with similar consequences.

It would be unfair to place all of the blame for our failure to hold the line against inflation on any one organization or on any one industry. The responsibility rests in greater or less degree with all of our industries.

And Mr. Blough is right in stating that this fight against inflation is a war that can be won only with the support of public opinion. This in turn requires broad general understanding of the causes of inflation. In this area the press certainly has a responsibility.

But it is our guess that Mr. Blough and his associates are themselves in need of a better understanding of some aspects of this problem that is so disturbing to all of us. It appears that they do not appreciate how much public sentiment there is already against this continuing round of wage and price increases. It appears that they do not fully understand how overwhelmingly popular a reasonable hold-the-line policy on their part would be.

We are quite sure that a New Year's greeting from U. S. Steel assuring the people of our country that in 1957 there would be no price increases would be accepted by all as the most encouraging news of the day. The free press of the country would gladly give free space for such a declaration and the action would be hailed thruout the world as a great victory in the war against inflation.

May we suggest something like this.

"To our Customers, Employees and Stockholders, Greetings. At a special meeting of the Board of Directors it has been decided that during the year 1957 there will be no price increases for the products of U. S. Steel or any of its subsidiaries. The company will continue to pay fair wages to its employees and fair returns on their investment to stockholders. Profits, to the greatest extent practicable, will be used to increase the efficiency of our operation and for justifiable expansion. Henceforth the financial benefits from increased efficiency will be distributed as increased earnings for labor and management; increased dividends for stockholders, and in the form of lower prices to our customers. Thus we believe the interests of all will be best served. Happy New Year. Roger M. Blough, Chairman of the Board."

The only thing about this declaration that would differ from present policy would be its recognition of the rights of the customer. When that right is recognized by Big Business and by Big Labor then we won't have to worry any more about inflation.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare
University of Minnesota

"Which Child Am I?"

The Petersons have four children. Bill is nine; Mary seven; Tom six; Joy five. Such short names should be easy to use but Bill is never Bill. He is "The man of the family." Our Bill is "Our pride and joy."

Then there is Mary. She usually is not Mary, either. She is "the Brain" or "Fuss-budget."

Joy is "Squirt" or "Tagalong" or "Beautiful."

Tom, though, is just plain Tom and he lives with an unspoken suspicion that something is wrong. Also with an unspoken wonder about "Which child am I?" Tom is a highly sensitive boy. He has a sense of humor, but it is of a more subtle type and nick names just don't seem to fit Tim. So far so good — but, of late, Tom is resenting Bill. He refuses flatly to help Bill with any task. When Bill is referred to as "Our pride and joy" Tom scowls and leaves the room. Once lately when asked to go to the grocery he answered, "Let the man of the house do it."

Mary is getting her share of resentment, too. Tom told his grandmother not to come to his school PTA, but to wait to go to Mary's so she could be the "grandma of the smartest kid in the room."

Families frequently label themselves this way—sometimes with actual nickname tags and sometimes just with attitudes. Often it is the closely-knit, fun-loving families who most incline toward this practice. The Petersons do not mean the nicknames to hurt; in fact, they are directed with affection toward much-loved children. But the nicknames are beginning to TYPE-CAST their children. Tom feels it already. After being "the Brain" or "Beautiful" for a while that might be felt, too. Then it has to be made certain when one of them feels like asking "Which child am I?" that he knows, "We're all Petersons, not all alike, nor all different, each cherished for what he is."

THE GLEAM FROM BEYOND THE CLOUDS

There may be folks who dream of a new year with no clouds over the horizon. But life has taught most of us that there is never a day free of uncertainty.

Some like to rejoice in the calm of today and give no thought to the clouds of tomorrow. Theirs is a contentment without strength, a happiness empty of hope.

But stronger souls see both the calm and the clouds. And they look beyond the clouds to the Light whose rays bathe the horizon.

These are the souls who face the new year with faith in their God. They know the days will not be without shadow. The ripples may sometimes become angry breakers. But they follow the gleam across another year . . . the Gleam from beyond the clouds.

The Church is for those who would look ahead . . . ever toward the Light.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Most state high schools having played five of the season's 20 scheduled basketball games before the current two weeks Holiday respite, Art "Basketball" Johlfs believes that the 490 cager starters already are pared down to 90 "good chance" teams. Of these he picks as the ten toppers to date Red Wing, Minneapolis Roosevelt, Willmar, Saint Louis Park, Anoka, Duluth East, Fergus Falls, Bemidji, Coleraine, Hopkins. But Art adroitly hedges by naming 80 other possibilities, from Aitkin and Albert Lea to Two Harbors and Waseca.

Set a Buffet-Beautiful

Cinnamon-Candy Ham—Baked ham is king of the buffet table wearing a coat of scarlet candy-glaze. Peppery cinnamon candies make the basting—melted down in pineapple juice. Feature this on your buffet table right next to a smacking big bucket of ice-cold Coke. It's the party refreshment that's really fun with food!

Flaming and Festive—Make way for your buffet's crowning glory—dessert that flickers with flame! Choose a favorite cake, then top with peach halves and sugar-lumps soaked in lemon extract. What a sight when you light it! Gala as the great taste of Coca-Cola—and just as traditional at a party. Coke really sparkles wherever good friends get together!

Turkey Pieces: Southern-Fried—Perfect Big-Occasion dish! Perfect with the Big-Occasion favorite—Coca-Cola in Family-Size! You'll need broiler-fryer size turkeys cut up into serving pieces. (Plan on one piece-per-person.) Fry 'em golden-brown, crunch-crisp! Serve with the sparkle, the little lift of Coca-Cola!

Opinions Expressed Indicate That '56 Was Good Year in General

That 1956 has been a good year in our community and that prospects for 1957 are encouraging is generally agreed to by local public officials and business men.

The year that is passing had its shortcomings. Not all that transpired was favorable. While crops in the overall area were good there were exceptions. But 1956 has been a year of progress and should be marked down in the record as one of the better years.

What the new year holds in store for us is anybody's guess but the prospect is hopeful judging by the opinions expressed by the following citizens interviewed by a Times reporter.

County's Financial Condition is Good

"The year 1956 has brought to a conclusion the construction of the new Courthouse," says C. W. Rodekuhr, county auditor. "We who work in the new building realize now the benefits of proper lighting, heating and adequate work space.

"Today we have a building that cost $460,000 complete with furniture and an indebtedness at the moment of $275,000. The tax levy for debt service in only 4.94 mills this year.

"1957 will bring higher taxes to all in the City and to most of the rural people with the exception of the rural people that joined the Thief River Falls School system that had high mill rates before. With the tax rate approaching the 200 mill mark it would seem time to pull in our belts and pay the piper before spending very freely.

"The tax year has not yet closed but treasurer, A. R. Johnsrud, advises that the tax delinquency is down generally this year which is contrary to expectations a year ago, and makes a much brighter picture.

"Generally the outlook for 1957 is good."

Nursing Home Per Capita Cost $150

Operations at the Oakland Park Nursing Home, said Mrs. Earl Jensen, superintendent were on an almost self supporting basis during the year 1956. A small deficit was incurred each month, and effective Jan. 1, 1957, rates are being raised 10 to 15 per cent to make the home completely self-sustaining.

Costs are running close to $100,000 a year for the 65 patients, over half of which are completely bedridden. It is not anticipated that the four ownership counties will have to be assessed in the near future, as was frequently the case in the first year of operation under a different superintendent.

Average patient cost on the new 1957 rates will be $150 a month, compared to about $140 in 1956.

Expanded School Program in Making

"The largest single accomplishment of the past year in School District 18 was the beginning of the $1,250,000 building project to be completed in September of 1957 says J. A. Sater, superintendent of schools. This followed the completion of a school district enlargement program which included all or a part of twenty-six rural districts surrounding district 18.

"The main business at hand during 1957 is the establishing of a good sound educational program that the community can afford and which can go into effect at the completion of adequate facilities.

"The financial picture depends entirely upon the action of the 1957 legislature. Costs are going up by leaps and bounds. The effect these added costs will have on local taxes will depend entirely upon how much "slack" will be taken up by increased state aids."

Welfare Costs to Climb Higher

"There is no prospect of a drop or levelling off of welfare costs in the near future," according to John Lynskey, executive secretary for the Pennington county welfare board.

"Welfare checks are based on mandatory standards which go up with the cost of living" he says. "A one and two dollar raise per person for personal incidentals put into effect this past month statewide raised total costs in Pennington County alone $10,000 a year.

"Furthermore the interim commission and the department of public welfare have gone on record in favor of passing a "moving law" which would require Pennington county to take over payment of all OAA cases which have moved here and which have now lived here one year, with the exception of rest home cases. If this law is passed, total costs in Pennington county will increase $60,000 overnight.

"The federal share of public assistance will increase next July first, but the same amendment to the federal law also wipes out the county's medical pool plan, which has been saving $10,000.00 a year, and the one gain will simply offset the other loss.

"It had been the trend of recent legislation to shift a portion of the state costs to the county."

City's Financial Pain is Temporary

"Property owners in Thief River Falls are not going to like the big increase in their tax bill in 1957" says Councilman James Winjum, "but this increase is due to circumstances beyond our control. It should not be necessary to continue such a high tax rate for city purposes in my opinion."

Enlarging on this statement he points out that, "of the 45 mills levied for city purposes, 36 mills are levied for debt service. Too many of our bonds are due in a short period of time. We are taking necessary steps to make possible a refunding program that will extend our payments over a longer period of time. This year, in order to maintain the city's credit, the big levy increase was unavoidable.

"I am satisfied that by the end of 1957 the city's financial condition will be excellent. We look forward to substantial reduction in power costs and increased earnings with Missouri River power. The big tax increase for 1957, as I see it, is not going to become a permanent need."

Land O' Lakes Plant Being Expanded

"Purchase of the old Thief River Falls Grocery building has made possible an expansion program that will extend thruout the new year," says Stuart McLeod, manager of the Thief River Falls branch of Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc. "We have consolidated our Grand Forks and Thief River Falls turkey hatchery operations in this building and this will make possible greatly increased processing and freezing facilities."

"The past year has been very good with sales at the local plant better than 4½ million dollars. Much of this sales volume is for products manufactured and processed here. Our 1956 payroll will be about $136,000", Mr. McLeod states. "We look forward hopefully to 1957."

Loan Liquidation Good in 1957

Robert J. Lund, manager of Production Credit, E. O. Peterson of the Union State Bank and George Werstlein of the Northern State Bank, agree that 1956 has been a good year for the liquidation of farm chattel loans, and much better than the two preceding years. In 1954 worms took a big bite out of the farmer's dollar, and in 1955 there was rust and a generally light yield of grain. In 1956 there was damage by fall rains and in some spots losses were heavy. In spite of the delayed harvest and lodged grain, however, the recovery was good.

Another factor that has made fall settlements easier, they agree, is that comparatively lit…

Nearly Dozen State and District Events Are Scheduled Here

With nearly a dozen statewide and district gatherings already scheduled for Thief River Falls in 1957, this city will have an opportunity to enhance its growing reputation as a convention city.

Secretary J. M. Roche of the Chamber of Commerce, whose office has supplied a list of coming events, stated that the first gathering will be the annual meeting of the Red Lake Electric cooperative, scheduled for April 3. This will mark the first year that the meeting has been held away from Red Lake Falls.

Next is the convention of the Minnesota division of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, set for May 18. Following on June 11 will be the eighth annual Northwest Dairy Day, which always attracts a big attendance from 12 counties in Northwestern Minnesota.

One of the biggest gatherings of the year is expected to attend the state convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles June 13 to 16. Another large crowd is anticipated at the Ninth district American Legion convention, also slated for June. A fourth June event will be the national convention of the Telelaget, Norwegian group, on June 21 and 22.

Perhaps the largest attendance of any event will be attracted by the biennial convention of the Northern division of the Minnesota Education association set for October 10 and 11. During the same month the Red River Valley Dairymen's association will hold its convention here October 23 and 24.

An event of special interest to high school students will be the Minnesota Student Council Conference scheduled November 7, 8 and 9.

Oklee Stock Yards to Remain in 1957

Defers Approval of Soo Line Petition for Year

A decision to retain the stock yards at Oklee for a period of one year was reached recently at a hearing of the Soo Line Railroad's petition to remove the yards before the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission.

Although no one appeared in opposition at the hearing, the commission was of the opinion that the yards should be retained for a period of one year and that the petitioner is requested to submit a statement showing the use of the livestock yards and the revenue derived from any shipments that the petitioner may handle at Oklee. At the end of one year, the commission will give the matter further consideration.

The hearing was scheduled after the Soo Line requested authority to remove its yards at Oklee because no shipments had been made from it in the period from Jan. 1, 1956 to November of this year. Findings of fact presented at the hearing included these:

That the petitioner shipped out 23 cars in 1953, 22 in 1954, 8 in 1955 and none up to December 4, 1956; that the buyer in the Oklee area has discontinued business and as a result no further shipments have been made.

Local Banks Raise Interest on CD's to 3 Pct. Jan. 2

Acting under authority recently given by the Federal Reserve Board, the Union State bank and Northern State bank of Thief River Falls announced today that, effective January 2, they will pay three per cent interest on certificates of deposits issued for a 12-months period after that date.

The banks at present are paying two and one-half per cent interest, the maximum allowed up to this date.

The action reflects the recent trend toward higher interest rates, aimed by the Federal Reserve Board at putting a curb on inflationary borrowing.

Development Unit Asks State School for Red R. Valley

Resolution Calls for Setting up Institution for Higher Education

With President Glenn Matson of Fosston, presiding, the board of the Northwestern Minnesota Development association met Thursday evening in Thief River Falls to initiate a campaign to secure the establishment of an institution for higher education for this section of Minnesota.

A resolution addressed to the state legislature was adopted, calling for the establishment of such institution, and asking that the legislature investigate and determine the type of institution to be established, as well as its location.

Albin Erickson of Roseau, member of the board, was instructed to prepare a resolution to be submitted to the legislature, dealing with legume research, and another resolution on water surveys is to be drafted by Robert Dappen of Hallock.

Board Secretary J. M. Roche was asked to send out notices of a special meeting of the board to develop further its legislative program, to be held Monday evening, January 14.

Local Girl Shares in Sponsorship of Hungarian Family

Marlys Elofson, a Thief River Falls girl now with Braniff Airways at Denver, was one of the Braniff hostesses who adopted a Hungarian family of four in Dallas, Tex., according to a letter received by Marlys' mother, Mrs. H. N. Elofson.

The hostesses paid the rent on Dallas apartment six months in advance, installed a TV set and provided clothing for the Hungarian family, Marlys reported.

She said in her letter the refugee family was most impressed with the refrigerator in the apartment. They had never seen one before, Marlys stated.

Governor Tax Group Offers Revision Plan

Would Abolish Some Personal Property Taxes Now Levied

Broad revision of Minnesota's tax structure, aimed at giving "direct incentive to expansion of investment and employment," was proposed Thursday by the Governor's Tax Study Committee.

The committee, made up of business, farm and labor representatives, said that adoption of its report would "provide Minnesota with an equitable and competitive tax system." The survey will be presented to the legislature convening on Jan. 8.

Principal recommendations called for abolition of the personal property levy on manufacturers' inventories, household goods, and farm stocks of grain and livestock and the imposition of a withholding method of collecting state income taxes. The latter would be patterned after systems now used by the federal government and 10 states.

The committee estimated its suggestions would result in these annual decreases in tax burdens, as compared with taxes and sur-taxes now in effect: to individuals $4,100,000; to business, $12,100,000; to agriculture $6,400,000. Other recommendations would bring in an estimated $4,200,000 a year in new revenue and a one-time gain of five million dollars.

Other major recommendations included:

Improvement in the assessment system looking toward use

Larry Gilbertson Named President of Lincoln Alumni

Nearly 100 graduates and former students of Lincoln high school, as well as a few members of the senior class, attended their annual reunion Thursday evening at the Thief River Golf club, and spent an enjoyable evening dancing and reminiscing. In the annual election of officers, conducted in the course of the evening, Larry Gilbertson was named president, succeeding Joey Poole; Larry Perkins, vice president, and Shirley Botten, secretary-treasurer.

State Sheriffs and Co. Attorneys Told of Taylor Case Details

About 100 Minnesota county attorneys and sheriffs listened Thursday in Minneapolis as federal officials described the investigation which disclosed the identity of the killer of Kenneth Lindbergh, Thief River Falls bank cashier.

The first clue, according to an agent of the federal bureau of investigation (FBI) was the license number of a car rented by Lindbergh's murderer, James P. Taylor, in Miami, Fla.

Members of the Minnesota county attorneys and sheriff's associations were told of the case at a convention session at Leamington hotel. L. W. Bullen, retiring president, presided.

A "painstaking and skillful" investigation by FBI agents, the spokesman said, revealed that Taylor, fleeing after the murder, registered under one name at a hotel and rented the car under another name.

Elaborate checking procedures based on the nearly illegible record of the license number led to Taylor's identity.

Photographs of the former convict were taken by courier to several cities where he had passed some of the nearly $10,000 stolen travelers checks after the Nov. 12 abduction of Lindbergh and robbery of the bank at Thief River Falls.

Taylor was positively identified and the net was closed by the FBI, ending with his arrest in Joplin, Mo., Dec. 8, 1955.

The thoroughness of the FBI investigation was indicated by the federal agent and by Keith D. Kennedy, special assistant United States district attorney, who spoke on legal aspects of the case.

Kennedy said the Government was prepared to account for every dime spent by Taylor, from the time of the crime until his arrest.

Co. Highway Engineer Looks Ahead 15 Years

Highway engineer Joseph Seide, has prepared a plan for the rebuilding and blacktopping of all of Pennington County's primary road system over a period of fifteen years. This primary system consists of 100 miles of roads that have been approved by the state as a part of the federal aid system. Mr. Seidel is assuming that it will be possible to proceed with this improvement at a rate of from 6 to 7 miles a year.

This primary system of county roads, along with the 69 miles of state trunk roads, will provide highways serving all parts of the county. The longest stretch of highway in this county system is the St. Hilaire-River Valley road extending from the west county line to the Gully road. With state highway No. 1 the county will be served by two good east-west roads.

These east-west roads will be connected by five north-south county roads, on the ridge at the west end, the airport road south from Thief River Falls and the Kratka, Highlanding and Gully roads. There will be stubs north from trunk highway No. 1 to Viking and three miles east of Thief River Falls. Stubs south from the St. Hilaire-River Valley road will lead to Wylie, Oklee, Trail and Gully.

Twelve miles of the county's primary system has already been black topped and will be given a heavy seal coat in 1957. Also in the program for 1957 are the grading and gravelling of the Highlanding road and the road west of St. Hilaire to the Wylie turn.

These are heavily travelled highways and will be given top priority in the black topping program. The system will be developed as much as possible by need to be determined largely by traffic counts.

Sheriff Art Rambeck, Retiring This Week, to Leave Fine Record

With the turning of the calendar to 1957 a soft spoken, easy-going Thief River Falls man will begin an almost entirely new kind of life.

Arthur Rambeck, 60, has served as Pennington county sheriff since January, 1935 and getting adjusted to living as a plain citizen, he admits, may take some time.

It won't seem quite the same to Art not to be on call 24 hours of every day in the year, as he has been the past 22 years. Eventually the deeply ingrained habits he has formed in his years of serving as peace officer will slip away and the fact he will climb into the cab of a Soo Line locomotive almost as soon as he leaves the sheriff's office will help a lot.

Although he is quiet, easy-going and soft-spoken, Art nevertheless was a determined and effective law enforcement officer. He was always on the job and in his tenure has solved a great many cases of all kinds.

Although he has had several manslaughter cases in his time Art said the Lindbergh kidnapping and murder was the first of its kind he had ever handled.

He worked weeks and months with the FBI and other peace officers on the case until it was solved and Lindbergh's slayer was put behind the bars of a federal prison for the rest of his days.

A great many changes have taken place in the 22 years Art was sheriff in Pennington county. Chief of these is the new Pennington county courthouse in which Art's office was located. Nor did he have two way radio to help enforce the law in the days past—nor were roads as good or cars as powerful and fast.

In the early days Art carried a pistol on his person all the time. "I finally got tired of the thing and quit carrying it on me," he said with his usual grin, when asked about it. It was always within reach in the car if the need arose, Art added.

Asked about the future Art said he will go on a Soo Line freight run almost immediately. He had been an engineer before and is taking up where he left off.

65 Estate Were Entered in 1956 in Probate Court

Fewer Cases of Juvenile Delinquency This Year; 45 Young Drivers in Court

A total of 65 estates were entered in probate court in 1956, three more than in 1955, Judge Herman A. Kjos reported in a year-end summary today. Seventeen wills were admitted to probate, and 13 real estate sales were completed this year, while eight new guardianship cases were entered.

Six mentally ill persons, including two non-residents, were committed to state mental hospitals. One case of inebriacy and one mentally deficient person also were committed.

In juvenile court Judge Kjos conducted delinquency hearings involving 17 boys and one girl, compared to 17 boys and 12 girls in 1955. Two dependency hearings also were held.

In addition, about 45 boys and girls were brought into court for traffic law violations of all types, and many drivers license were suspended for varying periods.

The judge pointed out that few of the juvenile drivers are protected by public liability insurance, and added that parents permitting this practice may find themselves faced with a lawsuit some day.

Most Stores to Remain Open as Usual on Dec. 31

There will be "business as usual" at most Thief River Falls business firms Monday, New Years eve, as merchants and businessmen close out the old year on a busy note.

A few concerns have announced their intentions of remaining closed Monday. The owners of these stores said they felt that their employees deserved a longer holiday after the holiday rush season and that their services were of such a nature that patrons probably would not be seriously inconvenienced by their remaining closed.

Among those remaining closed Monday were the city's furniture stores, a music store and at least one sporting goods and hardware store.

All city department stores and supermarkets will maintain usual business hours.

Who Will Have Next Mishap, Patrol Asks

Are you one of those "accident-prone" persons who is repeatedly getting into an accident and building up the high total of traffic mishaps in Minnesota?

The Minnesota Highway Department doesn't think you are accident-prone, that is — but warns that every driver could be involved in a fatal accident at some time.

This was brought out in a report prepared in the department Accident Records section indicating that 89% of the drivers involved in fatal accidents last year had never been involved in previous traffic accidents or traffic violations.

Out of 679 drivers involved in 500 fatal accidents, only 76 were repeaters. Of the 76, 41 had been involved in one previous accident, 17 had been involved in two, while only 10 had been involved in three or more accidents.

Of the 76, one-third (26) had been convicted of one previous violation, 21 had two previous violations, while 20 had three or more violations. One of these had thirteen previous convictions on his record.

The study included background information regarding driver license actions concerning the same drivers. Only 7 per cent of the 679 drivers, previous to the fatal accident, had their licenses either suspended or revoked. Of the 46 drivers with a previous record, one had been involved in eight previous accidents.

The study had been made to determine whether, as many charge, a small group of repeaters was responsible for a rising total of accidents. It concluded that the charge was erroneous, that for almost nine out of ten drivers involved in a fatal accident, that mishap was the first they ever had.

Therefore, the department warns, if you have never had an accident or been convicted of a traffic violation, the chances are 9 out of 10 that you or someone like you will be the next driver involved in a fatal accident. By driving carefully, safely, with courtesy — YOU can avoid being the next driver under study.

Co. Agent Reports '56 Crop Generally Good in This Area

Says Good Yields Offset Damage Suffered Due to Excessive Moisture

Generally farmers have expressed satisfaction with results of their 1956 crop, said county agent Paul Stelmashuk in a year-end statement. The wet fall and lodged grain harvest which extended into the latter part of October and a few wet fields were harvested in November. Even though these conditions resulted in loss of color and grade on some crops, the yield more than made up for any loss. The yields reported were considerably better than average.

In comparing 1956 to 1955, farmers state that although 1955 was a good corn year it was too hot for most grains. This resulted in poor filling of crops and light weight oats and barley. The 1956 crop yields were superior to 1955.

The fodder and hay were leached, said Stelmaschuk, and should be supplemented by feeding of proteins to most livestock. Excellent silage yields were the rule rather than an exception throughout the county. Oat-pea silage is gaining in popularity. Its good yield results and feeding value make it a desirable dairy and general livestock feed.

Fall plowing was delayed because of excess moisture and some farmers did not complete their fall tillage plans. The extra moisture reserves in the soil may prove valuable if 1957 turns out to be a dry year. In areas saturated with moisture, excessive snow fall this winter could mean it would take longer to move the water of the fields in the spring if the snow melted in a hurry, since the soil would not absorb the extra moisture. Here again we are fortunate in that the snowfall is light so far.

Economists generally predict good meat prices to farmers in 1957 on basis of production and consumption reports. Some exceptions may be made in areas of over-production in poultry products.

"We—Watch It"

"We" is a wonderful word, suggesting a congenial unanimity, a wholesome awareness and concern for others. "We like this" or "We do not want that" gives the impression that something has been discussed and a mutual decision made.

Many statements that start with "we," though, can mean merely that the speaker is dominating the others. Mrs. Dew, with five children, says, "We like chocolate cookies best, so I usually make that kind." Actually, Mrs. Dew and three of the children prefer chocolate, while Mr. Dew and the others prefer coconut. Three of them lost in the "we."

Neisser's book, "Brothers and Sisters," points up the "we" hazard as particularly important in the relationship of twins. She tells of twins Isabelle and Diane. When they were five it was amusing for Isabelle to say, "We don't need our sweaters. We're not cold." When older, Isabelle would say, "Striped dresses look awful on us, we'll take the plaid ones." Diane found it easier to follow her adored sister's "we." Their understanding parents began pointedly to direct more of the questions involving choice to Diane. Gradually Diane learned that she could stand her ground and be liked equally well by all, including Isabelle.

Parents are all too familiar with the situation where several (separately conservative) 13 year olds gang up to say, "If the seniors stay out until midnight after the dance, we should, too." Who is "we?"—often one among them who is fighting restraints and hoping secretly that her daring will impress her peers, but will be held in check by adults.

Unless parents realize what "we" means, they are mislead into giving approvals on the basis of "we's" which they assume to include both the gang and the other parents. After a time a whole pattern of ill-advised customs prevail, which are not conscientiously endorsed by any of the parents singly.

IN THE HOLIDAY SPIRIT

A dwarf indoor tree presented seven king-size lemons to the Richard Englin family at Saint James as a special Christmas treat . . . A farm kitten that rode under the hood of the family car on a shopping trip into Northfield made the mistake of leaving his shelter and spent the night in the hosegow before the folks retrieved him . . . When a flock of gift-and food-bearing guests came down the stairway of their new New Ulm home it was indeed a surprise to the Robert Stouts, — a ladder and an upstairs window helped the housewarming party . . . Mrs. Ray Cleveland works for an outdoor advertising firm in Rochester — which helps account for a most unusual birth announcement — their first baby, Cynthia Ann, six pounds nine ounces, was introduced to a really impressed populace on a huge Broadway sign board, picture and all.

Right Around Town

BY V. M. "MACK" DRAPER

Well — 1956 is all over except for the post mortem. Here's hoping you aren't one of those who are saying "If I only had it to live over again . . ."

It's a good thing we can't relive our years — chances are we'd do the same doggone thing anyway. If that isn't true, how come everybody starts off abusing the new year the way they do?

—0—

Evidently we aren't the only folks in town who deplore the disrespect shown our flag at times during parades, etc. At least one person has commented on a column of some weeks ago in which we castigated people for being so callous when Old Glory passes in a parade, etc.

—0—

Let's end the discussion about the flag in this manner: if you ever stood with your hat on when the flag passed in a parade on an army post, someone not only would tell you to take it off but might ask why you didn't in the first place and with lots of vehemence.

It should happen here, too, if the occasion ever arises again!

There's an informal but extremely exclusive little group of people in Thief River Falls that you might be interested in knowing about. The group isn't even organized — but you can always recognize a member of it.

How can you recognize them? By the way they turn to a certain page of their daily newspaper or the comic section of the Sunday Tribune and go immediately into spasms of laughter.

This select group is composed of people who appreciate the humor of the comic strip "Peanuts." And, to a member of the group, a person who doesn't appreciate "Peanuts" just doesn't recognize humor when he sees it! Isn't that right, Charlie Brown? (Oops—we mean Jus Moe!)

—0—

We hope that most local folks won't welcome the New Year in so hard they can't appreciate that good dinner New Years day.

—0—

Come to think of it, getting all likkered up to celebrate the New Year is a heck of a way to get it started off, isn't it? We'd all probably be better off if we got up early enough to greet the first sunrise of the new year — and you gotta be sober to do that. A pink sunrise is preferable to pink elephants any day!

There'd be a lot less business for the morticians on New Years day if more folks were more temperate, too. Drinking and driving just don't go together.

Well — this about wraps it up this week. Here's wishing you a very happy, prosperous New Year — Now you can start worrying about filing your income tax return. So long!

FIVE-DOLLAR GIFT BRINGS CANCER FUND TO $500,000.00 AS 13-YEAR-OLD GIRL GIVES HER OWN CHRISTMAS GIFT TO U OF M CANCER HOSPITAL. Mary Kay Mattila, 13-Year-Old new member of Job's Daughters of White Bear Lake, Minnesota, got five dollars from her grandfather for a Christmas present. "I thought the best way to spend my Christmas money," said Mary Kay, "would be to give it to the Masonic Memorial Cancer Hospital Fund at the University of Minnesota." Mary Kay's five dollars given to Dr. J. L. Morrill, President of the University, brought to a full $500,000.00 cash the money turned over to the University of Minnesota by the Masonic Cancer Relief Committee of Minnesota, Inc., which is raising funds to build a million-dollar Masonic Memorial Cancer Hospital on the Campus of the University Medical School. Opinions Expressed Indicate That '56 Was Good Year in General

tle machinery was bought in 1956.

As to the prospects for next year there always is the uncertainty of weather to be reckoned with. Because of the excessive rains, there was less fall plowing than usual. There is an abundance of feed in the area however and considering the large amount if livestock on our farms the prospect for the new year must be considered good.

Phone Business in City Grows

"The growth of Thief River Falls as a business center is indicated by the substanial increase in telephone calls in recent years", concludes A. K. Bacon, manager of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. These long distance calls are averaging about 900 out a day at the present time and 1,000 in, approximately double the volume of 1950."

Referring to the coming change-over to the dial system Mr. Bacon said the new system should go into operation early next fall. "We are thrilled with the prospect as well as our subscribers", he said. "It will mean a big improvement in service."

Soo Line Has Had a Good Year

"We have had a good year in 1956 and we are looking for a better year in 1957," reports Ed Hammerski, superintendent of the Winnipeg division of the Soo Line. "Freight traffic to and from Canada is showing a steady increase and we look for this increase to continue. The farming area served by our division produced abundantly during the past year and next year's crop should go in under favorable conditions."

"Our payroll out of Thief River Falls will be about $1,300,000 for 1956", he stated, "and should continue at this level in 1957. Plans are in the making for track and building improvements here. One important development will be the establishment of a substation of a new system-wide electronic operation control system."

More New Homes to Be Built in 1957

"There already is much interest in home building for the coming year" according to Stanton R. Dahlen, president and manager of the First Federal Savings and Loan association. "The past year has been a big year for us in both savings and loans and we expect continued progress in 1957," he states.

"Since 1950, over a period of seven years, we have had 194 new homes built within the corporate limits of the city of Thief River Falls. With very few exceptions these are substanial homes and indicate a healthy population growth. The new year looks good to us."

Creamery Hopes for Million Dollar Year

"We came within a few thousand of having a million dollar volume in 1956" says G. A. Bergland, manager of the Thief River Falls creamery. "At the rate we are moving 1957 should put us over this mark."

"Greater emphasis will be placed on quality" Mr. Bergland states. "The entire industry is being subjected to stricter regulation and we must maintain high quality standards. In this respect we are getting very fine cooperation from our producers.

"The progress that is being made in herd testing is very encouraging. Many farmers are now using the weigh-a-day-a-month plan and this is going to make possible a culling program that will result in higher producing and more profitable herds. We are making progress and that is the important thing."

Hartz Wholesale Has Good Year

"The year 1956 was the first full year of our operation with our expanded warehouse facilities and we already are crowded," says Harry Simons, secretary of the Hartz wholesale grocery. "We have a much more efficient operation," he points out, "but increased volume has made it necessary to increase the number of employees."

"Sales this past year are up to $5,680,000. We now are serving several iron range towns and cover all of northern Minnesota and about one-third of North Dakota. We sell to 248 stores at the present time and we are encouraging a store modernization program that is proving to be very effective."

"We look forward to 1957 with confidence, and we expect to continue to grow. It should be of interest locally to know that our organization is 100% locally owned and controlled."

County Has Good Road Program

"Pennington County has a good road program that in a few years should provide a blacktop highway for all sections of the county" says Carl Anderson, chairman of the county board. We have a hundred miles of federal aid roads and it is our plan to develop these as our primary system of county highways. With our state trunk roads this should give us an excellent highway system.

"Our county is in good shape financially. Our only real headache now is welfare. The costs for this service are continually climbing and there isn't much we can do about it. State and federal regulations cover all of these activities. The Oakland Park rest home seems to be working out well."

Mining Company Ends Ore Season

Oliver Company Shipped 30,000,000 Tons in 1956

Oliver Iron Mining Division last week rang down the curtain on the longest ore season in its sixty-four year history shipping over 30,000,000 tons of iron ore and concentrates, R. T. Elstad, president of the U. S. Steel mining division, said.

The 1956 season, Mr. Elstad explained, was hampered by the steel and shipping strikes which lasted 70 days during July and August. "It took teamwork by by our 6,700 miners to partially make up for the production we lost last summer," he said.

Included in Oliver's 1956 Minnesota ore production were over 5,000,000 tons of high grade iron ore concentrates produced from taconite and low grade ores. Seven beneficiation plants produced the concentrates from crude ores mined chiefly on the Western Mesabi and from taconite quarried at Mountain Iron.

"1957 looks like a good year for the iron mining industry," Mr. Elstad said. "Demand for steel products continues to be good and that means a high demand for iron ore. Whether steelmakers get it from Minnesota mines, or elsewhere, depends upon the relative quality and most of the ores available to them from any and all sources."

of market value all over the state as a basis for taxation starting in 1964.

Adoption of the withholding system of collecting income taxes.

Maintenance of iron or tax rates at their present levels unless it becomes necessary to increase taxes on business generally.

Continuation of the present liberal taconite tax program to encourage development of this industry.

A substantial increase in highway user taxes or all trucks except lightweight and local farm trucks.

Eventual substitution of property taxes for gross earnings taxes now levied on railroads.

Requiring married couples to file joint income tax returns; making state law conform to federal law on medical deductions; that provision be made for deductions for child care.

That the 15 per cent tax on tobacco other than cigarets and tobacco products be raised to 20 per cent and be made permanent. This tax was imposed in 1955 for a two year period.

That the present surtaxes on individual and corporation income taxes be retained.

The recommendations made no mention of a sales tax.

4-H Achievement

A Minnesota girl and boy were named for one of the highest honors in 4-H work, the 1956 State Achievement award.

Barbara Scheibel

Dennis Foss

This distinction goes to Barbara Scheibel of Brown county and Dennis Foss of Benton county both 20. Their 4-H records exemplify the best over-all accomplishment in 4-H project work, Club, community and State activities.

Both received a certificate of merit, and Dennis attended the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Nov. 25-29, as the guest of the Ford Motor Co., donor of the 4-H Achievement awards. She was among the 1200 delegates from 48 states, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico who attended the Congress.

Sheriff Rambeck to Retire after 22 Years Service

Nor does he expect it to be very difficult to become accustomed to free time between runs. Art enjoys fishing and his cabin at Union lake, near Erskine, will get much more use now that the Rambecks can get away without worrying about something happening to interrupt their recreation.

After January 2 you'll find a younger man, Charles Richards, in the sheriff's office. Richards is a veteran of both WW2 and the Korean action and is presently a 1st Lieutenant in Co. F of the National Guard here.

Just the same, you may expect to see Art in the sheriff's office at times after his retirement—he says he may have to go down occasionally, at first, to keep from getting homesick.

After that, he laughed, it may not be so bad!

State Sheriffs, Attorneys Told About Taylor Case

sary, Kennedy said, to prove Taylor had no accomplice.

If money spent by Taylor and the sum recovered added up to what was taken, this would help establish that he committed the crime alone.

The government also had two witnesses ready to testify on crucial aspects of the case, Kennedy said.

One said he had heard Taylor ask, after his arrest, if Minnesota law permitted execution for murder, and whether a murder conviction was possible in the state if there were no eyewitnesses.

The other witness was a former federal prisoner who had been in Terre Haute, Ind., federal penitentiary with Taylor.

The former prisoner told federal officer Taylor had planned the robbery for a year and had begged the prisoner to join him in the robbery.

Taylor pleaded innocent when he was brought to Minneapolis but later admitted his guilt. He was sentenced July 5 to life imprisonment and two consecutive 10-year terms for the killing and bank robbery.

Teacher Colleges Open Next Summer

Legislative Committee Makes Funds Available

Minnesota's five state teachers colleges can continue plans for their 1957 summer sessions.

Friday the state legislative advisory committee granted the state teachers college board $57,500 as a special allowance.

Last May the board cancelled plans for 1957 summer school sessions because it lacked some $86,000 needed for faculty salaries. About 5,000 students normally enroll in the summer sessions at Mankato, St. Cloud, Winona, Moorhead and Bemidji state teachers colleges.

Friday's special grant of $57,500 along with $71,500 "accumulated savings" in the teachers college board reserve fund, will enable the colleges to conduct their regular summer programs, according to Roy Prentis, executive secretary of the board.

The $71,500 in "accumulated savings" consists of $61,000 from the appropriation holdback for the current fiscal year, and $10,500 from salaries for unfilled faculty positions.

Taylor Confession Called Top State News Story of 1956

Lindbergh Murder Story Tops Associated Press Polls for Second Year

The confession by ex-convict James P. Taylor that he beat Thief River Falls bank cashier Kenneth Lindbergh to death has been selected as the top state story of the year by Minnesota Associated Press editors.

Last year the editors chose the kidnap-slaying of the banker as the No. 1 Minnesota story of the year.

The story continued to make headlines in the state through the first half of this year. On Feb. 2, Taylor was indicted by a federal grand jury in St. Paul on a murder charge.

Four days later, Taylor, 30, pleaded innocent to the charge. Lindbergh had disappeared from the Northern State Bank at Thief River Falls on Nov. 12, 1955. His body was found 13 days later in a snow-covered pasture near Clear Lake.

Last April 6, Taylor entered a surprise plea of guilty to the slaying. He was sentenced to life in prison on July 3. He was taken to Leavenworth Prison July 11.

OUR LAND

Prepared by the Minnesota Soil Conservation Service In cooperation with University Farm, St. Paul

Soil Conservation Builds Farm —Delbert Mandelko, farmer near Preston, lists many reasons why contouring his 160-acre farm paid off, reports Oliver Strand, Fillmore county soils agent. When Mandelko bought his farm in 1950, he got about 25 bushels of corn per acre, and there isn't a ditch on the place. The land had been rented before. When Mandelko came on the farm, he had the SCS help lay out contour strips, then he spread lime and fertilizer and seeded the strips to alfalfa and clover. The second year he plowed down the hay crop and that built the soil up fast, he says. He keeps about 50 milk cows and some hogs. Since 1950, aided by his father, Delbert Mandelko has made many improvements on the farm. He has remodeled the house, landscaped the yard, built a new machine shed and built a new loafing barn for his dairy cows. The loafing barn was constructed from home sawed lumber from his own farm woodlot.

Produces Abundant Hay—Immanuel Swenson, New Richard, a Waseca Soil Conservation District cooperator, says he can grow hay in rotation and make it pay even though he doesn't have cattle to eat the hay. A farm plan calling for one-third hay was developed in 1950 and has been followed by Swenson. He says that within the past few years his total grain output has been greatly increased and he still has hay to sell.

4-H Worker Aids Wildlife—Loren Schroeder, Eagle Bend, has given his elders and fellow 4-H club workers some conservation goals that are hard to meet. He dammed up a small creek in a pasture on his home farm, and created a pond where waterfowl can nest and raise their young. He asked and then got permission from neighboring land owners to post "no hunting" signs on all the adjoining land—some one and one-half sections, so that the sanctuary will remain safe.

Among America's privately owned electric utilities, the American Gas & Electric System uses the most coal for generation of electricity. In 1955, the Age System took more than 10 million tons of coal to power its generators.

4-H'er of the WEEK

Mrs. Vernon Wold

As a special treat for you this week, you're going to meet one of our new 4-H leaders. She is Mrs. Vernon Wold of Route 5, Thief River Falls.

This is Mrs. Wold's first year as an adult leader of the Sanders 4-H club. She has two daughters who are 4-H members: Barbara and Kathy, who have just joined the Sanders club.

While a 4-H club member herself, Mrs. Wold took several projects and exhibited her canning at the state fair. She acted as President, Vice-President and librarian of the club too. Her professional life has included six years nursing at St. Luke's Hospital, Thief River Falls.

Of 4-H club work, Mrs. Wold says: "I think experience is the best teacher. Working in 4-H teaches us by doing. I feel that if you keep a youngster busy doing something constructive, he won't be busy doing something distructive. The experience one gets in keeping records follows one all through life. We learn to follow all instructions and this is important in all one does, either in cooking, canning, sewing or whatever we undertake. Four-H work forms the basis from which we choose our future careers. Many are the successful farmers, home economists, teachers, and home agents that got their start through 4-H work."

DONALD WALD

Born at Crookston, Minnesota, Donald came with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wald, to Pennington county in 1953. He is presently farming with his parents, in Rocksbury township 1½ miles south of TRF.

Don is in his 4th year of 4-H club work. He has taken projects in crops, dairy, junior leadership and poultry. He has exhibited every year at the county fair and has received awards in poultry and grain.

Donald is a certified seed grower and is working toward the registered seed growers' recognition. This requires five years of satisfactory seed certification. He is also planning to go into registered Holstein dairy production after he gets established in farming. With the fine achievement in 4-H work to date we hope you will achieve your registered seed growing and dairy production goals, Donald.

Donald has been of much service and an asset to his Rocksbury club. Now he is also serving with the National Guard. He has three sisters: Carol Ann, Renee, and Kathy. He also has two brothers, Anthony and Bobby. Bobby is now at the Agricultural School at Crookston. Donald is a graduate of the Crookston A. C., class of 1955.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information of assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representatives at the Minot VA Hospital, or the the Bismark or Grand Forks VA offices.

Q—I am receiving a VA pension for nonservice-connected disability. Does this entitle me to out-patient medical care for my disability?

A—No. Oupatient care is limited by law to treatment of service connected disabilities only.

Q—I want to go to school under the War Orphans education program. How can I find out what courses are approved for this training?

A—Any course that's State-approved for veterans under the Korean GI Bill also is approved for the War Orphans program. Your VA Regional Office can tell you whether the course you want has been approved.

Q—I just received my GI insurance dividend, and I want to use the money to pay my insurance premiums a year in advance. Is there any advantage in doing this?

A—Yes. You will save money. When you pay your premiums annually, the amount will be discounted at a rate based on your type of policy.

Q—I am going to school under the Korean GI Bill. Will I have the right to make my one change of course at any time during my training?

A—You have the right to make your one change of course at any time within three years from the date of your discharge or release from military service. After that date has passed, you may change your present course due to no fault of your own, or if the new course would be more in keeping with your aptitudes and abilities.

Q—May I get a GI business loan to buy an automobile. I need it to get to and from my place of business.

A—A GI business loan for this purpose would be prohibited by law. Veterans may obtain GI loans for automobiles only if they are essential in carrying on their business.

Q—I forgot to pay my GI insurance premium last month, and my policy lapsed. How may I get back? I have a term policy.

A—You may reinstate your GI policy by paying two monthly premiums, one of the 31-day grace period during which you were covered and the other for the current month. If you reinstate within three months of the date of lapse, you need merely submit a statement that you are in a good health as you were when the policy lapsed. Otherwise, you will be required to take a physical examination. Also, the policy must be reinstated before its term expires.

Q—I want to train under the Korean GI Bill, but I am not sure what course I would like to take. How do I go about applying for VA vocational counseling?

A—On the application form for Korean GI training, you will find a section that asks whether you want vocational counseling. Simply check that section. VA then will schedule you for vocational counseling.

Q—I hold Korean GI term insurance. Will I get a yearly dividend, the same as my brother who is a World War II veteran and holds a World War II GI policy?

A—No. Under the law, your Korean GI term insurance is non-participating. It does not pay dividends. However, premiums on this type of insurance generally are lower than World War II GI premiums.

Did You Know That . . .

The current popularity of instant coffee in the U. S. has recently made this country Africa's best coffee customer? However, brewed coffee made from Latin American coffee is still the U. S. favorite.

Consumers spend about a fourth of their income for food?

Retail food prices in the first half of 1957 will average a little above 1956 food prices but may run about the same in the second half of the new year?

Low-calorie peanuts may be on the market soon? These peanuts will have the oil taken out of them. An ordinary 15-17-nut handful of peanuts now has 84 calories. The same size handful of de-oiled nuts contains only about 17 calories. The de-oiled peanuts are firm and crisp, milder and sweeter than ordinary peanuts.

Studies show that most school children need more calcium, Vitamin C and Vitamin A in their daily diet? In general, they need more milk and more vitamin-rich fruits and vegetables.

Prowler Six Bows to Eveleth Friday 5 to 1; Faces Busy Week-end

A band of strong skaters and sturdy stickhandlers represented the Eveleth Golden Bears here on Friday night, and, with a typical Cliff Thompson-coached brand of hockey, they defeated the Prowlers, 5 to 1, on the Arena ice.

Coach John Matchefts prowlers will be preparing for this week-end's heavy schedule, with the locals taking to the road for three games. On Thursday night they meet the International Falls Broncos at International Falls, at 9:00 p. m.; on Friday, January 4th, they meet the Edina-Morningside team at 7:30 p.m., also at International Falls; and on Saturday night, January 5th, they meet Eveleth at Eveleth.

The Eveleth team had too much skating power (eight of the Golden Bears participated in last season's state high school hockey tournament) and experience for the youthful Prowlers.

Jimmy Hall evened the game at 1-all at the 7:15 mark when, after a rush down the ice, he recovered a loose puck in the Eveleth zone, and banged a couple of shots at the Golden Bear netminder, scoring on a backhanded rebound try. John Castellano, with Norman setting up the play, gave the Bears a 2 to 1 first period lead at the 9:55 mark.

A pair of Eveleth goals in the second period, by Jerry Rosati and Jim Drobnick, shoved the Bears into a 4 to 1 lead. The Prowlers lost the services of defenseman Fred Dablow in the period and for the balance of the game, when he received a gash in his left foot. He was taken to the hospital, and the reports are that several stitches were required to close the gash.

In the final period, Hendrickson's slap shot, from twenty-five feet out, at 5:25, closed out the game's scoring and gave the visitors a 5 to 1 win.

Eveleth will close out their two-game tour into the eight region by meeting the Roseau Rams at Roseau on Saturday night.

Pork Supplies to Be Smaller in '57

Agriculture Department Foresees Big Beef Supply

Consumer supplies of pork in 1957 will be around 3 per cent smaller than this year if results of the Agriculture Department farm survey are borne out.

In a report Thursday the department said this year's fall crop was down 4 per cent from that of a year earlier and that farmers plan to produce 2 per cent fewer pigs during the coming spring season.

Next year's supply of pork will be made up from pigs produced during the last half of 1956 and the first half of 1957.

Officials said, however, they expect the decline in hog production which started a year ago to come to an end by mid-1957 to provide somewhat larger supplies of pork in 1958.

Thursday's report indicated that farmers are more optimistic about livestock market prospects than they were last June when they reported they planned to reduce this year's fall pig crop 7 per cent, instead of the 4 per cent reduction actually made.

Slaughter supplies of beef cattle are expected to continue next year at this year's high level.

The upcoming spring crop was forecast at 2 million head compared with 53,136,000 produced last spring, 57,090,000 in the spring of 1955 and with a 10-year (1945-54) average of 53,923,000.

Before you erase 1956 from your memory, remember to send a contribution to the 1956 Christmas Seal drive, says Mrs. Leonard Hanson, local sale chairman. Seals were mailed in November, and returns have been coming for more than six weeks, she reports. However, many contributions are still missing, she said.

State Sets New Employment Mark During Past Year

State Job Office Lists Only 45,400 Idle Workers in State in November

The monthly average of employment in the state, except on farms, was 883,400, a gain of 2.1% over 1955, according to a preliminary report by Commissioner Frank T. Starkey of the Department of Employment Security.

An especially significant aspect of employment in the state during 1956 is the fact that nearly all job entrants from schools in the state and also from other states were able to find employment.

A major factor in the state's increased employment is the expansion of construction, employment records in that category having reached 55,000.

Employment in the agricultural machine manufacturing business, while unsteady during the first half of 1956, made a substantial recovery during the last half of the year.

Employment in Minnesota during 1956 reflected the completion of taconite plants. A labor dispute in July and August caused a leveling of mining employment and probably prevented a record high in the monthly average in that industry.

Unemployment in the state was substantially below 1955, and in November stood at 45,400, as compared with 58,000 for the same period in 1955.

During the year there was a continuing shortage in such categories as engineers, physicists, teachers, nurses, medical technicians, draftsmen, stenographer secretaries, typists, office machine operators, tool and die makers, milling and lathe operators, sheet metal layout men, welders, electric technicians and pattern-makers.

Advice on How to Stretch the Food Dollar Is Offered

Stretching the food dollar is a common problem in every household.

Since the average family spends a greater percentage of its income for food than for any other item—about 25 percent—every homemaker needs to make the best possible use of this large share of the family income.

Mrs. Eleanor Loomis, extension consumer marketing specialist at the University of Minnesota, gives some suggestions on ways of stretching the food dollar:

Plan meals ahead of time and make marketing list at the same time.

Check on best food buys mentioned in food columns and food advertisements.

Shop in person so you can see exactly what you are buying.

Compare prices at different stores.

Read labels and compare quality, weights and prices. Then select the quality best suited to the intended use. For casserole dishes, for example, a more inexpensive grade of fish or vegetable may be perfectly satisfactory.

Buy perishables in small amounts so you can use them before they lose food value.

Buy staple groceries in large quantities if they are better buys than smaller quantities and if home storage space is available. But remember that so-called "economy size" packages are not always the best buys.

Keep a record of food expenditures and use them as a guide for future buying.

Soo Line Earnings Dip in November

G. A. MacNamara, president of the Soo Line railroad, announced Friday that for the month of November operations showed a deficit of $122,214, compared to a profit of $310,624 for the same month of 1955. For the eleven months thru November 30, however, net earnings this year were $2,465,515, compared to $2,400,018 for the same period in 1955.

'U' Receives Grant to Study Silo Gas

Gas Caused Deaths of Six Minnesotans Last Year

A $60,271 research grant to study the effect of silo gas—nitrogen dioxide—on humans has been presented to the University of Minnesota by the National Institute of Health.

The research will be conducted jointly by the University's Institute of Agriculture, the School of Public Health and the Medical School. The grant was approved by the University Board of Regents at their recent meeting.

Studies will be made to determine what causes nitrogen dioxide formation in silos and incidence of poisoning by this gas in humans.

Earlier studies at the University have already shown that nitrogen dioxide is produced during the early stages of silage fermentation, and that alfalfa silage produces less of the gas than does corn silage, under certain conditions.

Nitrogen dioxide is a brownish gas that appears around the bottom of the silo within the first few days after silo-filling starts. There have been known cases of nitrogen dioxide poisoning in both animals and humans in Minnesota during recent years.

In 1955, six Minnesota farm people were known to have died from the condition.

Open Bids on Air Force Project at Bagley Thursday

Nesvik Construction Company, Inc., Bemidji, Minnesota, was the apparent low bidder for construction of communication station facilities and opportunities for the U. S. Air Force near Bagley, when 10 bids were opened Thursday, December 27, in the office of the St. Paul District, Corps of Engineers.

The principal features of the job include excavation, site grading, roadways, fencing, concrete block construction of a one-story 40'x20' building with a wing 20'x20', mechanical and electrical work, and construction of tower foundations.

The work is scheduled for completion during next winter, Colonel Otto J. Rohde, St. Paul District Engineer, said.

Year-End Memories

It was quite simple, in leafing through the year's score books, to pick out the number one event of the year. It was the winning of the state high school hockey championship by coach Dennis Rolle's Prowlers.

And in the winning of this hockey title (and it was the second time in three years that the locals had won the state championship) the most important of the games that the Prowlers played was that championship finals against Larry Ross' International Falls' Broncos. The near-capacity crowd in the St. Paul Auditorium that witnessed that struggle saw high school hockey at its championship best.

Remember that first goal when, after ten seconds of play, the ever-hustling Chip Strand, with Duane Glass and Glen Carlson on the assists, split the Bronco defense and fired a goal into the south net past goalie Bob Laurion. Mid-way in that first period, Jack Poole, on a backhander, gave the Prowlers a 2 to 0 lead.

The Broncos' hard-shooting right wing, Oscar Mahle, hit the mesh on a long backhand shot to mark up the Falls' first goal. And that's the way the period ended, 2 to 1.

At 3:05 of the second period, Mahle, on an 18-footer, caught the left corner of the net, and the score was deadlocked at 2-all. And then, at the 9:55 mark, came the winning tally. Strand raced down the ice for a loose puck, beating the Falls defense to the disc as it bounced against the end-boards, recovered the puck and sent a soft pass out to Poole, who was in position in front of the Broncos' cage. Jack nearly lost the puck, but he deftly stickhandled the rubber for a close-in shot, and dunked the puck past Laurion. That was the winner. The final period, which was rough and rugged, due to the exhausted condition of the players on both teams, was tense for the Prowler supporters.

And coach Joe Mikonich's football Prowlers turned in a memorable performance that October night at Bemidji when they defeated the Lumberjacks, 20 to 13. It was a solid victory, too, for the Prowlers spotted the Jacks a 7 to 0 first period lead, and then came back, on an 85-yard touchdown run by Bob Rosengren, and a pair of touchdowns by Jimmy Hall, to take a 20 to 7 lead. The Lumberjacks, on Bill Lawrence's fourth period touchdown, narrowed the score to 20 to 13, but that TD was the final gasp of the beaten Jacks.

That win marked only the second time in the long rivalry between the two schools the Prowlers had succeeded in whipping the Lumberjacks on a Bemidji field. The Prowlers who participated in that game will long relish their victory. We'll use it as a reminder that the Jacks can be beaten, and at Bemidji.

The baseball score-book contains a number of interesting happenings, the most memorable being, perhaps, that 10th-inning, two-out home run by lefty Don Omdahl that gave the Thieves a 5 to 4 win over the Warroad Lakers. Omdal, a pitcher from the Fordville area, was "drafted" to pitch against the powerful Lakers, and he entered the game as a reliefer in the 5th inning, hooked up in a duel with righthander Bob Evenson. Came the last half of the 10th inning. Jack Hoppe grounded out, second to first; Ross Sloan was called out on strikes; and Don, with two strikes called, pulled a high inside pitch 'way over the barrier in right field.

And speaking of home run cloutings. How about the game, early in June, that was played at Gonvick, when the Thieves poled out three successive home runs? Joey Poole opened the string by driving out a homer into deep centerfield; Gene Sack followed with a line-drive over the fence in left field; and Shorty Perkins hoisted another home run over the left field fence. Those three round-trippers broke up the game, with the Thieves winning by a 12 to 4 score.

Another impressive baseball performance was the four-hit shutout that young Bob Hallamack tossed against the Fosston team in a Northern Minny league playoff game here in August. Hallamack, a high school junior, was given the hurling assignment by manager Berdeen Nornes, and a win was necessary to keep the locals in the playoffs. Bob gave up but four singles, struck out eight, and walked but four batters. Bob's opponent, righthander Sonny Johnson, pitched a strong game, too, allowing but five hits and whiffing nine.

Implement Men to Convene Jan. 8th

Problems of the farm equipment field for 1957 will be analyzed and discussed when the annual convention of the Minnesota Implement Dealers association is held at Nicollet hotel, Minneapolis, January 8-10.

Dwaine Egge, Chatfield, president, announced that advance registrations indicate that some 2,000 persons from six Northwest states will be on hand. The convention is one of the largest of its type in America.

Governor Orville Freeman will give the opening address of the convention, which will be highlighted by capsule business clinics, lectures, and demonstrations on a "flat work rate shop," election of officers, and the annual banquet.

Richards, Rambeck at Sheriff's Meet

Annual Convention Was Held in Minneapolis

Deputy Charles Richards returned Friday night from the Minnesota Sheriff's association convention which was held in the Leamington hotel in Minneapolis Thursday and Friday.

Richards reported that both Governor Freeman and Atty. General Miles Lord addressed the convention.

He also said the sheriff's group backed a proposed "Implied Consent" law which, if passed, would make a driver's signature on a driving license application implied consent to have a blood test for alcohol content without need for further consent in the case of suspected intoxication while driving.

Another resolution passed was to back the proposed bill raising prisoners' board from $2 to $2.50 per day, Richards said.

Yule Seals Finance X-rays for Reactors

This is the first of a series of year-end reviews of programs which Christmas Seal funds helped finance during 1956. Volunteers in every Minnesota community are now working toward the wind-up of the annual Christmas Seal sale to raise money for tuberculosis control.

"The only way to prevent tuberculosis is to prevent the spread of the germs which cause tuberculosis."

It is for this reason that the search for unknown TB cases is one major part of the Christmas Seal program, the Minnesota Tuberculosis and Health association reports. Christmas Seal funds aid in financing tuberculin tests, which find the people who are infected with TB germs, and chest x-rays, which check those people for any evidence of active disease. Aim is to find the cases early, when the persons with TB can be most successfully treated—and before they have spread germs to others.

In Pennington county this year, a total of 1068 school children, teachers and school employees reported for tuberculin tests, which were administered by Dr. Leon Flancher, superintendent of Sunnyrest sanatorium, Crookston. Christmas Seal funds were used to pay for educational materials and publicity, during the survey, and so far this year the county TB association has paid over $400 to provide x-rays for tuberculin reactors in schools and old-age home. Seal funds also provide x-rays for the medically indigent—persons who do not receive welfare aid but who do not receive welfare aid but who find it difficult to finance medical costs.

A year-end review of some of the hunts for unknown TB in the state's 84 rural area counties show that:

307 schools in 23 of these counties were awarded American School Health association certificates, indicating that at least 85 percent of pupils in all grades and 100 percent of the teachers and other school employees had TB check-ups.

Nine counties were tuberculosis-accredited for outstanding progress in reducing TB death and infection rates.

57 counties paid out a total of more than $18,000 in Christmas Seal money to provide chest x-rays for tuberculin reactors and for medically indigents persons in need of chest examinations.

Nursing Fees for Private Duty Rise to $15 Per Day

Fee schedule of $15.00 for eight hour private duty nursing care will go into effect January 1, 1957. This increases the hourly wage from $1.73 to $1.85.

A private duty nurse is a registered professional nurse who independently contracts to give expert nursing care to one patient. On occasion she may give this special care to more than one patient.

Cathrine Lynch, chairman, Private Duty Section, Minnesota Nurses Association, adds: "Private duty nursing permits the nurse to utilize professional knowledge and skills to the fullest extent and to assume responsibility for the total nursing care of the patient."

Because they are employed by individual patients these nurses do not receive the vacations, holiday, sick leaves, promotion opportunities and other benefits had by nurses employed in other fields. Functioning independently they carry the total burden of social security and collection of fees.

The new fee schedule was voted by the private duty section at the fall convention of the Minnesota Nurses association.

Mayo Doctor Head of State Medics

Dr. J. Arnold Bargen, Rochester, prominent Mayo Clinic physician and authority in the field of gastrointestinal diseases, is the new president of the Minnesota State Medical association. Upon assuming his position January 1, Dr. Bargen will act as top officer of this organization which comprises over 3500 state physicians.

BASKETBALL
By Al Adams

Coaching, as well as teaching, must be based on educational objectives to insure the student the most possible benefit. The following are some of the objectives I think are important in coaching basketball.

1. Teach and improve on fundamental skills required to play the game.
2. Teach through actual practice a high degree of sportsmanship, cooperation and team play.
3. To aid in the development of favorable social qualities that result from working and associating with local as well as visiting basketball players.
4. To provide an opportunity to excell in all phases of the game.
5. To develop a knowledge of the rules and understanding of the game.
6. To develop a will to work and play the game to the limit of the individual's ability.
7. To provide an opportunity for public recognition.
8. To develop a strong and physically mature body.
9. To develop leaders as well as followers.
10. To develop a feeling of pride and responsibility for the individual, school and community while representing them in athletics.

The modern game of basketball was invented in 1891 by James Naismith, an instructor at the Young Men's Christian Association College in Springfield, Massachusetts. He wanted to develop an indoor sport for the winter months when football, soccer, and other outdoor games could not be played. He nailed a peach basket to the wall of the gymnasium where his physical educational classes were held. This started basketball.

Today, basketball is a fast and exciting game which is played before more spectators each year than any other sport in the United States. It is estimated that more than 90,000,000 people attend basketball games each year. This is even more significant when one realizes that our most spacious arenas can seat about 20,000 people. Basketball has also become one of our most important sports in the physical education programs of the United States.

Comparing basketball in years to most other sports, shows it to be still in its infancy. This is the reason for the many rule changes such as baseball is today.

The swiftness of the action in basketball is one of the biggest reasons for its popularity. Movement is almost continuous under the modern rules of the game. High scores totaling more than 100 points are quite possible.

More than ninety-seven per cent of the high schools of the United States have teams, the total being near 26,000. Small schools compete with large schools on a more even basis than in many sports. The Minnesota State Tournament exemplifies this almost every year with at least one small school representative.

The player's height has become more and more important in basketball during the last few years. A team needs at least one big man to become a championship team. It is true that height helps make a player effective in basketball, but I believe there are two requisites necessary in a player that makes a player great, and may or may not be neglected by his size. They are: 1-A terrific desire to play the game. 2-The ability to learn and execute the fundamentals of the game so naturally that they become a part of him during competition. Where competition for places on a team is keen, ability alone will not win a boy a place on a team. Many star basketball players of high school, college or professional status have been short in stature.

The basketball program in the Thief River Falls Public Schools has been designed to include as many boys as possible. Our intentions are that this program give our young boys an opportunity to play basketball and to receive the benefits of the objectives listed at the beginning of this article. We also hope to develop better ball players for our high school team.

Our program starts in the fourth grade. These boys are given some fundamental training and shown how the game is played. This group practices about once a week.

Grade school teams are formed from boys of the fifth and sixth grades. The three grade school teams play each other three times during the season. This gives them game experience as well as two to three practice periods each week of the season. This group of boys is invited to perform during halves of a number of our "A" and "B" games. the game for these boys with a We try to stimulate interest in clinic put on by the "A" squad boys once each season.

The junior high basketball program includes the seventh and eighth grade boys. Competition for this group is mostly on an intramural basis. In the past, we have been able to schedule games with Warren junior high teams. We would like to have a few more games for these boys with other schools, but it has been impossible to secure games with other schools.

The high school basketball program is made up of "A", "B", and Intramural teams. We carry between twenty-five and thirty players on the "A" and "B" squads. Boys that are cut from these squads can sign up to play on an intramural team. The "B" squad basketball team is limited to player personnel of the ninth and tenth grades. This plays preliminary games to the "A" squad. Ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth graders are eligible to play on the "A" squad. This team is composed mainly of eleventh and twelfth graders; however a few sophomores may play some for both squads.

I should like to conclude this article with the following slogan adopted by the University of California to the memory of a former coach, Andy Smith.

"We do not want men who will lie down bravely to die but men who will fight valiantly to live. Winning is not everything. And it is far better to play the game squarely and lose than to win at the sacrifice of an ideal."

Pipeline Company to Add to Looping

Work Is Projected from Clearbrook to Bemidji

Interprovincial Pipe Line Company has called tenders for construction of a substantial looping program on its main line in Saskatchewan Minnesota and Wisconsin, and has announced that it will put specifications out for bid in a few days on the extension from Sarnia to Toronto. Details have been released by general manager R. E. Trammell.

The company now has a complete two-line system in operation between Crookston, Manitoba, and Clearbrook, Minnesota, as a result of looping done during the past two years. The completion of the loop sections covered by the recent specifications will provide a minimum of two complete loops in operation between Regina and Superior.

In Saskatchewan the company will lay 32.6 miles of 24-inch line of various wall thicknesses.

The Minnesota job involves 78.1 miles of 26 inch pipe of various wall thicknesses. There will be three loop sections. The first, 31.1 miles, is from Clearbrook pumping station to Bemidji. The second, 25.5 miles, runs from Deer River station to Blackberry. The third, 18.5 miles, is between Wrenshall, Minnesota, and Superior station in Wisconsin. The owner is Interprovincial's Lakehead Pipe Line Company.

$7,887,000 Asked for 'U' Hospitals

Legislature Asked for Funds for Next 2 Years

University of Minnesota Regents will ask the 1957 Legislature to appropriate $7,887,291 toward the cost of maintaining and operating the University Hospitals during the next two years, July 1, 1957 to June 30, 1959, President J. L. Morrill reported today.

The Regents will request $3,884,512 for the first year of the biennium and $4,002,779 for the second year. The 1955 Legislature appropriated $3,109,966 for 1955-56 and $3,159,966 for the current year ending June 30, 1957 — a total of $6,269,932.

President Morrill explained that the $1,617,359 ($963,172 from state funds and $654,187 from county funds) increase in University Hospitals appropriations which will be requested for the next two-year period is needed principally:

To meet price increases on fuel and supplies;

To meet staff salary boosts consistent with those proposed for other University staff members and state employees;

To employ additional staff needed to take care of the anticipated patient load.

The key to safety is you.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

There will be 104 issues of the Times in 1957 and at five cents a copy the cost of this twice a week news service is $5.20. The delivered price is considerably less. Excuse us for talking shop. We don't want to be like the preacher who scolds those present because so many are absent. We know that you appreciate the value. But pass the good information along to your friends. And this is a good time to remember those former residents, now distant friends and relatives, with a gift subscription. It means 104 letters from home during the coming year. Happy New Year.

INTERNATIONAL CONTROL

Little progress is being made in the clearing of the channel of the Suez Canal and maybe delay will have some good consequences. Europe is suffering serious shortages of oil and other materials as a result of the canal closing and as these shortages continue all Europeans should become increasingly aware of the importance of this short-cut water route.

It is not only the Europeans who feel the pinch, however. Many Near East and Eastern nations have lost their markets because of this blockade, and they, too are becoming increasingly aware of the need for keeping this channel open to commerce.

As a result of this pressure it probably will be easier to work out a reasonable solution for the long-term management of the canal. It is fair to assume that there will be little support for the idea of control by any one country. Out of this difficulty there should be increased support for the proposal that there be international control of the channel in some form. It is not likely that it will be turned back to Egypt as a plaything for whoever happens to be the dictator of the day.

THE SAAR TO GERMANY

On the first day of the new year the Saar industrial basin will become a part of West Germany under the provisions of an agreement by the governments of France, West Germany and the Saar. This peaceful solution to a century old dispute should be heralded as a long step forward in settling the differences that have caused several wars.

Under the terms of the agreement both France and West Germany will benefit. The important factor in the transfer however is the recognition of the right of self-determination. The action now taken is pursuant to the wishes of the people of the Saar themselves, and establish a pattern that might well be used in the settlement of many territorial disputes that threaten the peace of the world.

MR. NEHRU'S VISIT

Not all of the press reports on Prime Minister Nehru's visit were favorable. Some writers continue to question his neutrality and argue that if he isn't on our side then he must be on the other side.

In view of the fact that all of Nehru's official conference with President Eisenhower was behind closed doors, and that practically nothing of what was said has been made public, it would seen that any appraisal of his visit would have to be based on only a few very general observations. He did express himself frankly on some questions at his press conference and we will go along with the following conclusion of the New York Times:

> Mr. Nehru's speech Tuesday evening and his press conference yesterday made clear that there are many things which unite the United States and India; our common desire for peace, our common devotion to the democratic way of life, our common striving for understanding among nations and peoples. These are the fundamentals which overshadow any differences existing on some specific issues. The fact that the Prime Minister's visit has helped make these fundamentals clearer than ever is a major merit, an accomplishment satisfactory to every friend of United States-Indian friendship.

A NEW JAPAN

What could come to be looked upon as one of the most important events of the year 1956 is the recognition given to Japan by addmission to the United Nations. Of all Asiatic countries Japan has demonstrated the greatest potential as an industrial power. Japan is not one of the backward nations. The islanders have proven their resourcefulness and their capacity to compete at all levels with the most advanced peoples of the world.

The old Japan which we conquered and occupied was a military nation, governed by a faction that looked for national development and expansion by force of arms. Our hope and the hope of the world, is in a new Japan that will give strength to the forces of peace and help by peaceful means to solve the problems that divide the East and the West.

100,000 SPOILED BALLOTS

We do not share the concern of those who are disturbed because more than 100,000 voters in the recent election failed to mark their ballots properly. It probably is true that the ballot itself was a little confusing but certainly it was sufficiently clear to be understood by the great majority of voters.

About all that is required legally of any voter is that he be a citizen and at least 21 years old. At the other end of the age scale there is no limit and senility is not a cause for disqualification. Voters are not required to be able to either read or write.

Under the circumstances maybe we could justify a trickier ballot, one that would require the intelligence of at least a ten year old to figure out. The really strange thing about this voting business is that so large a proportion of the ballots are marked properly.

Doings of Week at Rosewood

Mrs. Emil Hellquist, 197-J

The Christmas programs at the Mission church on Dec. 22, and at Rindal church on Dec. 23, were very well attended and really well rendered. At no other time than at Christmas do the children seem so eager to give a program. The Christmas Story told in songs, recitations and simple exercises are so inspiring told beside the lighted tree and the beautiful Christmas setting.

In a letter to friends here the Albert Lappegaards send a cheery hello to all their friends, saying they are thinking of us and dreaming of our white Christmas while enjoying 75 degree temperatures in Kingsville, Texas. But we have heard no complaints of our 38 degree Minnesota temperature either.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare University of Minnesota

Conservation Begins with Children

In theory most everyone believes in taking care of natural resources. Yet in practice most everyone at some time or other is careless, if not downright wasteful. Unfortunately, children see our practices and not our theories.

Visit any public park and watch the wide range of behavior among the visitors. Abuse and waste of man-made resources (like drinking fountains and swing ropes) is only slightly more common than of nature's beauties which are even less expendable.

Children see what they see as isolated acts, which they imitate. They may even develop more than one way of behaving in similar situations. For example, Stanley's kindergarten teacher has given him repeated experiences in conserving paper, so that Stanley uses the kindergarten supplies wisely. However, at home, he has "stacks" of paper to use at will, and he often sees his mother take a large 8½x11" sheet of paper to write down a telephone number. Stanley's home use of paper resembles his mother's habits, yet he slips naturally back into economies at school.

Likewise, in his attitudes toward flowers and growing things, Stanley is one of the most reliable gardeners in kindergarten. His care of seed boxes and plants is an example to others. He even laid out tricycle lanes to insure broad detours around outdoor flower beds. Yet Stanley joins older boys as they trample wild flowers or pull them up by the roots for a bouquet. He also strips birch-bark, and throws stones at frogs. Stanley gets confused when he has such conflicting models to imitate at such an impressionable age.

Neither home nor school can do the job alone. Indeed, not even both can do it entirely. Children soak up, sponge-like, the hodge-podge of attitudes and behaviors of the whole community, and ultimately they ARE what they have seen.

The chief hope lies in keeping our practices more like our theories.

Night Classes in Vocational School Are Set

Variety of Subjects Offered This Winter, Says Director Pope

Opportunity is again offered to adults of the area to attend evening school classes for recreation and self-improvement, C. W. Pope, director of the area vocational-technical school announced today, and he urged that all interested in such classes telephone their registrations at once as the registration period will be short.

Courses to be offered in business education are begining typing, bookkeeping for a small business, and refresher shorthand. These classes will be held in the commercial department of the high school, seven to nine, one day per week, and are tentatively scheduled to begin on Monday, January 14th. There will be a total of twenty hours of instruction, fees will be nominal, and the instruction is open to all adults.

In homemaking two courses are being offered. They are hatmaking and drapery, the former of which is being offered for the first time here. Both are activity courses which should prove of much interest to women, both housewives and others. These courses will begin on February 19th and will be held each Monday thereafter, 7:30 to 9:30, in the home economics department. Costs will entail the materials used. Registration is now open.

In the trade and industrial field a new trade course is offered this year. Appliance repairing will be given for those engaged in this type of work or in one closely related to it. There is a demand for this course from the area and should prove profitable for those enrolled. The course will begin on Tuesday, January 15th, with hours from seven to ten, in the electrical department of the area vocational school. It will meet one night per week for ten weeks.

A unit in carpentry will be starting on Monday, January 14th, at the area vocational school building, seven to nine p.m. This course is open only to those engaged in carpentry, or in a closely related trade, or those temporarily unemployed in carpentry. There will be twenty hours of instruction given. Apprentice or learner carpenters should avail themselves of this instruction, said Pope. The fee is nominal.

Two other new general interest courses are being for the first time here this year for men and women—archery and know-your automobile. Fundamentals of archery and construction of equipment will be taught. The archery class will meet from seven to nine, starting on Monday, January 14th, at the drawing room in the high school, and a total of twelve hours of instruction will be given. A small fee will be charged.

Know your automobile will be a unit course to better acquaint drivers, both men and women, with their automobiles in driving, servicing, and maintaining them. This class will start on Wednesday, January 16th, and will meet from seven to nine at the area vocational school, for a total of sixteen hours, for which a nominal fee will be charged.

Adults of the Northwestern area interested in any of the evening school courses above should immediately phone 1033, or write to school in TRF. Formation of the area vocational-techinical any class is contingent upon registration of ten or more for the course.

Jaycee Chapter to Meet Tonight

The Thief River Falls chapter of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold its first regular meeting of 1957 this evening at 6:30 in the American Legion club rooms. Orin Green, president, reminded members today.

Police Department Had Busy Year in '56, Annual Report Shows

Thief River police responded to 1,758 calls in 1956, compared to 1,465 the previous year, and issued 2,006 traffic tickets, a slight reduction from the 2,114 issued in 1955, it is revealed in the annual report of Police Chief Elton Cummings, prepared yesterday for submission to the city council.

Arrests for careless driving declined from 41 in 1955 to 28 last year, while the number of speeders receiving tickets rose from 34 in 1955 to 57 in 1956, and arrests for drunkenness went down substantially from 73 in 1955 to 53 last year, while arrests for drunk and disorderly conduct rose from 12 to 21.

Among other traffic tickets issued were 45 for failure to heed stop signs; ten for no drivers' license; five for driving after revocation; 11 for failure to yield right-of-way; ten for improper U-turn; eight for improper parking; and two for leaving the scene of an accident.

A total of 170 juveniles received police attention in 1956, compared to 109 the preceding year. Forty were brought into juvenile court, six were referred to the parole agent, and 124 were warned and released to their parents.

Among the juvenile offenses were curfew violations, 54; shoplifting, 6; truancy, 5; larceny, 14; drinking, 20; traffic, 36; and destruction of property, 16.

Other activities during the year included escorting 51 funerals; investigating 151 accidents; weighing 593 trucks; recovering 33 bicycles; taking 137 dogs to the pound; four stolen cars recovered; 14 lost children restored to parents; and about 400 hours spent at school crossings.

In concluding his report, Chief Cummings thanked the public in behalf of the department for the excellent cooperation given the police during the past year.

Municipal Power Plant Output up 7.73 Pct. in 1956

The Thief River Falls municipal power plant generated a total of 16,561,800 kilowatts in 1956, a gain of 7.73 per cent over the 15,373,100 kwh produced in 1955, Morris Owen, chief engineer at the plant, reported today.

Biggest producing unit was the Nordberg Diesel, acquired in 1949, which operated 5,403 hours and yielded 7,480,200 kwh, nearly half the total output. Next in line was the 12-cylinder Fairbanks Morse unit installed in 1955, which operated 3,906 hours and produced 3,826,300 kwh; while the ten-cylinder Fairbanks Morse engine, installed in 1952, produced 2,821,300 kwh in 3,594 hours.

Production by the two water turbines was slightly higher than in 1955, aggregating 2,312,100 kwh. The remaining 121,900 kwh was supplied by the old Busch-Sulzer unit installed in 1941, which operated only 178 hours.

As in past years, the biggest production of 1956 was recorded in December, with 1,610,900 kwh, while the lowest output was in July, with 1,255,800 kwh.

Social Security Taxes up ¼ Pct. Effective Jan. 1

2¼ Per Cent Deduction to Be Made in Future, with Maximum of $94.50 a Year

Higher social security taxes are taking a bigger bite of the take home pay of almost 50 million workers starting Tuesday.

With the new year the government will deduct 2¼ per cent of the first $4,200 earned by employees covered by the social security program, or a maximum of $94.50 annually.

There is an $84 maximum under the 2 per cent rate which expires at midnight.

A taxpayer earning $4,200 can expect to get about 20 cents less in his first weekly pay check for 1957.

Persons who earn more will feel a renewed and deeper bite because the government stopped collecting from their weekly pay checks earlier this year when it reached the $84 maximum for 1956. As of January 1, it started collecting again for 1957, and at the new rate.

The last congress voted the rate boost to pay for new disability insurance which it added to the vast social security program last summer.

Plant Increase Output by 75,522,100 Gallons During Past Five Years

Due in part to less use of water for lawn sprinkling during the summer of 1956, the amount of water pumped last year by the city filtration plant showed a smaller increase than usual, Harold M. Johnson, superintendent of the water department, stated today.

Water pumped during 1956 aggregated 256,998,400 gallons, a gain of 2,856,700 gallons over the 254,141,700 gallons pumped in 1955. In 1954 pumpage was 230,667,300 gallons and in 1953 the figure was 183,020,500 gallons.

During the past five years, pumpage has increased from 181,476,100 gallons in 1952 to 256,998,400 in 1956 or a gain of fully 75,522,100 gallons. A total of more than 1.1 billion gallons was pumped in the five-year period.

Schools Topic at Discussion Session Jan. 7

District Residents Urged to Take Part by Supt. J. A. Sater

Supt. J. A. Sater of the Thief River Falls public schools today reminded residents of the local school district, No. 18, that they are invited to attend the first of a series of meetings to be devoted to a discussion of school problems, including services desired of the schools.

The opening session will be held in the Lincoln high school auditorium next Monday evening, January 7, at 8 o'clock, and is scheduled to be followed by other meetings extending possibly into February.

Supt. Sater expressed disappointment that a greater number of citizens had not taken advantage of the invitation carried in the December 20 issue of the Times asking them to indicate on which of 21 projected committees they wish to serve.

He voiced the hope, however, that parents would designate their wishes on slips brought home by the pupils before the Christmas holidays, and send them to school with their children or mail them in not later than next Monday.

It is planned, said Sater, to hold a short general discussion Monday night, and then to set up the 21 committees to discuss various phases of curriculor and other matters. Seven groups will be organized for senior high school, seven for junior high and seven for the elementary schools.

Those having no committee preference are asked to notify Mr. Sater, and he will make the assignment for them.

Assemblies of God to Dedicate New Edifice at Rites January 6-7

Special services are scheduled for Sunday and Monday, January 6 and 7, at the Assemblies of God Tabernacle, marking the dedication of the church building newly completed.

Speaker on Sunday will be Rev. G. Raymond Carlson, who is superintendent of the Minnesota district of the Assemblies of God and who previously was pastor here for nine years, leaving in 1948. His speaking schedule Sunday includes the morning worship hour at 11:00 a.m., the "Gospel Echoes" broadcast on KTRF at 1:00 p.m., and the evening service at 7:45 p.m.

On Monday, the church will be host to the regular monthly fellowship gathering of pastors, members, and friends of the Assemblies of God Churches thruout the Northwest area. Speaker at the first service slated for 2:30 p.m. will be Rev. E. B. Adamson, who is the Minnesota district Sunday School director, and who previous to his appointment to that office was pastor here from 1948 to 1951.

An evening meal will be served by the ladies of the local church to all those in attendance at 5:00 p.m.

Pastors of the participating churches will meet at 6:00 p.m. for business and open forum discussion. At 7:00 p.m., Mrs. Herman Lundeen of Stephen will lead in a presentation of the work of the Women's Missionary Councils of the area.

Dedication rites for the local church will be conducted at the 8:00 p.m. service by Superintendent Carlson who will also be the featured speaker of the evening. Mayor O. D. Beich also will bring greetings.

The public is invited to attend all of these services.

The present Assemblies of God Tabernacle edifice, measuring 45 x 80 feet, was erected during the pastorate of Rev. Adamson, under the direction of Andrew Norby, local contractor. Heating was installed by the Brodin Sheet Metal Works. The floor tiling was under the supervision of the Paint and Glass Store. Mr. Adamson was appointed to his present office before completion of the church. Under direction of Pastor Robert Abbott, who succeeded him, numerous phases of the finishing work have been accomplished including the stucco job on the exterior done by Carl Widing and Son, the lighting installed by O. P. Electric, and extensive carpenter work done by the pastor and members of the congregation who have donated their time. Just being completed is the interior decorating under the direction of Rev. W. A. Motken, recently pastor at Roseau, painter and decorator.

The building has been in use by the congregation during the period of construction. "Although construction has been extended over several years time, the congregation has saved much in financial burden and has met obligations on a "pay as we go" basis, states Pastor Abbott. There is a moderate indebtedness remaining from the original erection of the building which is financed by a bond issue.

The church has enjoyed a steady growth, numerically and financially. Last year $3,300 was contributed by the congregation to the world missionary program of the Assemblies of God in addition to generous support of the general and building funds of the local church.

The program "Gospel Echoes," heard over KTRF at 1:00 P. M. on Sundays, has been broadcast continuously since the origin of the radio station in January, 1947.

Canadian Pacific Rail Strike Hits Operations on Soo

Soo Line Winnipeg Trains Operating Only as Far as Noyes, Effective Today

Trains on the Canadian Pacific Railway, one of the two transcontinental lines in North America, began grinding to a halt Wednesday night as the result of a firemen's strike.

Nearly half of Canada's rail system was affected by the walkout of 2,900 members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen in protest against a company plan to reduce the number of firemen in diesel locomotive operations on freight and yard service.

About 75,000 employes of the 17,000-mile line were affected.

As a result of the strike the Soo Line, which connects with the Canadian Pacific at Noyes, canot accept business destined to or from Canada while the embargo is in effect, it was announced by E. A. Hamerski, division superintendent of the Soo Line in this city.

The Soo Line Winipeg train made its last run on the Canadian side of the border Wednesday morning, and, commencing last night is operating only between St. Paul and Noyes.

Car Collides with Soo Locomotive

None Seriously Hurt in New Year's Morning Mishap

Four persons escaped serious injury early Jan. 1 when the car in which they were riding collided with a Soo Line locomotive at the Eighth st. crossing, according to city police.

James E. Johnson, Jr., city, was driver of the older model car that hit the diesel locomotive about 1:44 a.m. He escaped with facial cuts.

Anita Mandt, Goodridge, was treated for minor injuries at Northwestern hospital and released.

Wendell Johnson was uninjured and injuries if any to Marlene Green, Middle River, were not known. Damage to the Johnson car was estimated at $250.

Another crash, within minutes of the car-locomotive collision, resulted in about $500 damage to a car belonging to Orlando Chervestad, Oklee.

Chervestad was driving east on E. 1st st. at Spruce ave. when he hit the rear of a parked car about 1:30 a.m. Jan 1. No damage was done to the car Chervestad hit.

Polio Drive Is Set to Open in Pennington Co.

Solicitation to Be Made Later in Month in Thief River Falls

While January 2 was scheduled as the opening date of the 1957 polio fund drive in Minnesota, the campaign in Pennington county will not get under way until next week, R. G. Mabey, chairman of the county drive, stated today.

Girl Scouts are arranging to distribute coin receptacles to local business places, and the Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges are taking over the assignment of handling the Blue Crutch sale. Dates for the canvass of the business district and the Mothers March on Polio in the residence areas have not yet been definitely fixed, said Mabey.

Star township has the distinction of being the first county subdivision to turn in it contribution, having remitted $51.44, Mabey reported.

The 1957 March of Dimes to help finish the fight against polio will continue throughout the month of January as it has traditionally, Professor Willis E. Dugan of Minneapolis, Minnesota March of Dimes chairman, announced today.

"The financial needs during 1957 for the program of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis amount to $46,000,000," he said. "This program falls into four major categories; patient care, polio vaccination, research and professional education."

Dugan pointed out that much remains to be done before this disease can be considered beaten. There are many already stricken for whom the Salk vaccine came too late. More individuals throughout the nation will contract polio prior to immunization. The problem of patient care and rehabilitation is a tremendous one.

There are approximately 80,000 persons in the country who constitute a potential case load, he said. "We are at present caring for about 68,000 of these people and the balance can be benefited by modern rehabilitative techniques. When one considers that the average cost of polio patient care by the National Foundation amounts to approximately $3,000 a year per patient, this runs into a very large sum of money," he added.

The National Foundation has allocated $10,000,000 to be spent during 1957 out of funds raised during the current March of Dimes for a polio vaccination program to aid those who cannot afford it otherwise. The details of this program have not yet been announced. However, it will be administered with the advice of the medical profession, Dugan said.

"In the light of the great amount of work which remains to be done, we feel sure that the people of Minnesota will continue to support the March of Dimes this year as they have so generously in the past. We are in the fourth quarter and we are ahead. With the continued help of the public, we can win once and for all," Dugan said.

Attorney General Rules on TRF Issue

Defines Holidays for Municipal Liquor Stores

The state law which lists 12 holidays on which no public business may be transacted does not apply to municipal liquor stores, Attorney General Lord ruled late last week.

He said operation of a municipal liquor store is not "public business" within the meaning of this law.

However, the attorney general called attention to another law prohibiting off-sale liquor business on election days, New Year's day, Memorial day, July 4, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas.

The opinion was written to answer a question from Robert A. Wurst, Thief River Falls city attorney.

Many File Returns on Card This Year

Use of Simplified Form Allowed in Many Cases

Several million taxpayers who filed their returns on Form 1040 last year are receiving the simplified card form 1040-A in the mail this year. This makes easier preparation possible and the cards can be more readily processed by the Service.

Form 1040-A should be used if taxpayers' income for 1956 was less than $5,000, consisted of salary or wages from which tax was withheld, he had no more than $100 total of other wages, dividends and interest, and if his deductible expenses were less than the standard 10% of income allowed in computing the tax as shown in the tax tables.

For those taxpayers with less than $5000 income but with allowable deductions exceeding 10%, the regular Form 1040 should be used for itemizing these expenses.

Taxpayers generally will welcome a new feature of the card form this year which makes it possible to compute their own tax from a simple table and enter the tax, refund allowable or additional tax due on the form itself. The tax table is on a separate instruction sheet which also gives full information regarding preparation and filing.

District Director A. R. Knox urged taxpayers to make this calculation rather than have the revenue service do it, so that they may know at once the amount of tax to be refunded or the amount of tax still due and payable.

Persons who qualify to use the card form, but who did not receive it in the mail, may obtain a copy from the office of the District Director, Post Office Building, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Rating Firm Asks Financial Reports

Dun and Bradstreet is Making Annual Survey

The mail this week will bring to some 183 business concerns in Thief River Falls the annual request for financial statements from Dun & Bradstreet. And a familiar piece of mail it will be, too, because these requests for financial data have been a yearly practice of the country-wide mercantile agency since some time in the 1870's. The St. Paul branch of Dun & Bradstreet has sent a total of 60,000 requests to retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers in Pennington County and 160 other counties in its district.

Across the nation this annual mailing represents a huge job since the entire number of requests totals nearly 3,000,000. The St. Paul district covers Minnesota, North Dakota and parts of South Dakota and Wisconsin.

One of the primary functions of Dun & Bradstreet is to assist buyers and sellers in becoming better known to other even though they may operate many miles apart. To aid in building this buyer-seller relationship and facilitate the flow of credit the agency revises and reprints every 60 days a reference book which lists the name and financial rating or nearly three million businesses.

Questions Answered on Soil Conservation District in Marshall

What Is A Soil Conservation District?

A soil conservation district is a governmental subdivision of the state, organized and operated by farmers under the state law originally passed in 1937 for the purpose of conserving their soil resources.

A district operates very much like a farmers cooparative in dealing with the problems of erosion, drainage, and other water and land use problems.

It provides the means for community action on problems beyond the control of the individual farmer.

It can, if necessary, secure the assistance of county, state, and federal agencies in dealing with these problems.

Who Administers The Districts Law?

The Minnesota state legislature set up a state soil conservation committee to receive petitions, conduct hearings, and referendums, and otherwise administer the law. The committee, by law, is composed of the commissioner of agriculture, the commission, the director of the state agricultural experiment station, the director of agricultural extension for the state, and the state soil conservationist. In addition there are four farmers serving on the committee who are recommended by the state. This state committee, following the organization of a district, assists mainly in an advisory capacity.

How Is District Governed?

The governing body of the district consists of five farmer supervisors who are elected for a term of five years but on a sliding scale so that after the first two years there will be one supervisor elected each year.

Does The District Have Taxing Power?

A district has no power to levy taxes. Funds may be furnished to districts by the state or any of its agencies or subdivisions. A district may accept by the state or any of its agencies or subdivisions. A district may accept donations or gifts and contributions in the form of money, services, or material from the United States, or any of its agencies.

What Assistance is Available To Districts?

A number of counties are cooperating with districts on an erosion problem which affects both highways and farms. The state conservation department is cooperating in several of the districts, while the Soil Conservation Service of the United States Department of Agriculture is giving technical assistance in all districts. The agricultural extension service of the University of Minnesota is assisting with educational programs in every district organized in the state.

Soil conservation districts work closely with other agencies such as the Federal Land Bank, Farmers Home Administration, the Vocational Agricultural Department of the high schools.

E. Marshall Farmers Ask for Expansion of SCS District Area

Among the farmers to sign a petition to "get the ball rolling" on the organization of a soil conservation district in the unorganized remainder of Marshall County are: Oscar Amundson, Verne Green, Floyd Holmstrom and Andrew Korgen all of Newfolden; W. G. Schantzen, Emil Zutz, Albert Honald, Clifford McGregor and Ray McGregon all of Radium; Roy Fulton, Warren, Orville A. Elseth, Hans Haarstad, Peter Tangberg, Edmund Elseth and Henry Nelson, all of Newfolden, Joe Burnet, Warren; Paul Schulz, Ira White, and Jerome Potucek, all of Radium.

These men have signed a petition sponsored by the soil conservation organization steering committee at the educational meetings being held throughout the county. Other petitions are also being circulated by other farmers interested in getting a district organized.

By signing this petition farmers are requesting that a soil conservation district be organized. The "letting" or premitting of a district must first be decided by the state committee, which will hold a public hearing to determine the need for a district.

At the hearings many questions will be asked the public in order that the committee can make a wise decision.

Some of these questions will be:

1. Topography of the area.
2. Character of soils.
3. Distribution and degree of erosion.
4. Extent of drainage problem and other water conservation problems.
5. The prevailing land-use practices.
6. The desirability and necessity of including within the boundaries the particular lands under consideration.
7. The benefits such lands may receive from being included.
8. Relation of proposed area to existing watersheds and agricultural regions, and to other soil conservation districts already organized or proposed.
9. Other physical, geographical, and economic factors that are relevant.
10. Amount of interest shown by individuals and organized groups.

According to law, public announcement of these hearings must be published in the paper for two weeks before the hearing can be held.

Farmers both for and against the organization of a district must be present in order that proper testimony may be heard and recorded.

USE OF SAVERS' DOLLARS

Perhaps you've never looked at it in quite this way before; but to the savers and borrowers who find it financially attractive to do business with us . . . this city represents in large measure the results of the flow of their savings dollars. These dollars, which they entrust to our care, are loaned to families right here in the community . . . to build or buy a home of their own. In turn, the dollars these borrowers spend for their homes circulate throughout the city among the various businesses . . . and eventually, many of them find their way back here to start the cycle over again. Thus, this flow of savers' dollars feeds the economy of our city and makes it prosper. And as the city is prospering, so too are our savers, who earn better-than-average returns on their savings twice each year. So take a second look in '57 . . . then open your profit-earning savings account before January 10th. You'll receive two full dividends in the year to come.

Weather in TRF Area Was 'Different' in '56

The weather in 1956 held true to the events that occurred in that now deceased year. It was "different." And that is the understatement of 1957 so early in the year.

January, 1956, started off rather mild, according to yellowed clippings from ancient 1956 editions of the Times. The January temperature average was 16.6 degrees—above zero.

Then it turned cool and one might say it stayed cool until September, when above-average temperatures somewhat compensated for the unusually cool summer enjoyed here (or would endured be better word for it?) in 1956. The coldest temperature in the Times records showed a -32 February 19.

The mercury topped the 90 degree mark only three times during the year. It struggled up to start that heat wave June 9 and the next day reached the 1956 high of 95 degrees. It was a degree or so cooler the next two days and after that the warmest day was 88 Aug. 15 and 86 Aug. 28. Both were one-day stands for the waning summer. Other temperatures were mostly in the mid or low seventies.

Precipitation-wise the county had plenty from the start of 1956. February and March saw fairly heavy amounts of snow and in April, when one would normally expect rain, heavy snowstorms played havoc with transportation in general and local morale in particular. No one likes to wear their Easter bonnet in a blizzard!

At no time in 1956 was there a real threat of drouth in Pennington county but there was short dry spell in late May and June. After that the skies opened up and rains fell fairly consistently until the beginning of winter.

Crops in the county and surrounding area were dealt a hard blow in August by heavy rains and hail.

Wet fields delayed the harvest in northern Minnesota, in some instances as late as November, causing considerable loss, to what would have otherwise have been a bumper crop.

The ice in the river pool here went out somewhat over a week later in 1956 but the score was somewhat evened when it froze again about 10 days later than usual in the fall.

The coldest day to date this winter was a frosty -29 Dec. 17, the first killing frost and freeze in the fall of 1956 occurred Sept. 14.

To date there is about 4 inches of snow cover in Pennington county which fell in 1956.

A West Coast utility is exploring the possibility of using coal from a 50 million-ton reserve in Oregon to fire electric generating turbines. If coal is used it will be the first such use of coal in the state's history.

In case anyone should be interested in our candid opinion we think the week following the New Year should be called National Gripe Week.

Merchants gripe because business is slower. Clerks and other workers gripe because they have to take inventory. Householders gripe because it's cold and the fuel bill is mounting. And, there are other assorted gripes from hither and yon.

Long as we're discussing gripes we may as well mention a few of our own, such as; the driver who leaves a parking place or service station driveway without looking for oncoming traffic (yes—we almost "got it" from one of these jerks Wednesday!)

There's also a gripe about the need for more traffic lights at busy intersections here in TRF. Some days you just can't get anywhere, what with slow pedestrains and fast through traffic fouling up waiting drivers.

Last but not least we would register a gripe against assorted outfits that would presume to tell us what movies to see and books to read. Freedom and censorship cannot exist side-by-side in any country. The fact remains that hearing, doing or seeing good or evil is now and always has been a matter of personal choice censors and their like notwithstanding.

Our stand in the matter doesn't mean we're in favor of lewd shows or bawdy books, however. We're merely voicing our protest at sacrificing one principle to favor another.

Things will never be the same on 8th st. after today. The construction crew out there has moved the old bridge over to the by pass and before too many moons have passed there will be a modern bridge spanning the Thief River. Those narrow steel structures are rapidly going the way of the old covered bridge so popular in the 19th century. (Have you ever seen one of those?)

Know of anybody who has a Model "A" that's stored away somewhere in fairly good shape? It might be a smart move to buy up one of these Old Faithfuls and hang on to it—there's some rumor, according to some recent magazine articles, the model A may be put in the "Automobile Classic" category. If so, Model A's will sell high.

Very few cars ever accorded this accolade, the term "Classic" being reserved for a few scant outstanding models of the many makes that have, at one time or another, appeared on the American automotive scene.

Well girls—now that 1956 is history you'll have to wait until 1960 to pop the question to that guy. Perhaps in the meantime he'll recongize the futility of single blessedness and do it himself.

Daffynition: an optimist is a fellow who thinks he'll get out of the red next year on the same pay he was getting last year.

This is the end—and believe it or not we made it without so much as commenting on the weather. Before we do . . . So Long!

Dairy

Electric cow trainers will mean less teat and udder injury to cows. According to Don Bates, Agricultural engineer at the University of Minnesota, longer stalls in your dairy barns will cut down injuries. But that raises another problem: How do you keep your cows clean when they are in long stalls. The answer is, hang an electric cow trainer from the ceiling of your barn over each cow's back. When she arches her back, and electric fencer shock will discourage her from moving too far forward in her stall.

The device is shaped like a coat hanger. It is suspended directly over the cow's shoulders and is connected to an ordinary electric fence controller. Hang it about 18 to 20 inches behind the stanchion line and about three inches above the cow's shoulders.

Cow stalls can be lengthened up to 8 inches. That will give the cow more room and result in a lot less teat and udder injury.

In a survey conducted in Wisconsin, 92 per cent of the farmers using cow trainers reported a reduction in teat and udder injuries and 89 per cent reported a reduction in teat and udder injuries and 80 per cent reported a reduction in leg injuries. All of these farmers had lengthened their cow stalls.

The 89 farmers in the survey had herds ranging from 10 to 115 cows. Many of these farmers were enthusiastic over their cow trainers and none of them were dissatisfied.

Fattening steers can gain 15-20 per cent faster this winter if you feed them stilbestrol. Stilbestrol also boosts feed efficiency. Stilbestrol-fed steers can pu on 100 pounds of gain with 8-15 per cent less feed than if they didn't get stilbestrol.

Stilbestrol is a synthetic hormone-like substance. It's available in mixed protein concentrates at different strengths.

The recommended feed level is 10 milligrams daily per steer. To get that level, tell your dealer how much protein concentrate you plan to feed. Then he can supply you with a mixture that will provide 10 milligrams to each dairy animal.

Actually, there are two ways to give animals stilbestrol — by feeding and by implanting—but feeding is the more profitable method, according to recent research at the University.

Implanting is a process for placing stilbestrol capsules under the skin in back of an animal's ear.

In the University tests, feeding and implanting both gave about the same increases in rate of gain and feed efficiency. The difference was that stilbestrol-implanted steers brought $1 per hundred pounds less than stilbestrol-fed steers at market time, due to more unfavorable side-effects — hightail heads and low backs — on the implanted steers.

Poultry producers who failed to make a profit in 1956 can hardly expect to do better in 1957, warns Cora Cooke, University of Minnesota extension poultry specialist. But if chicks are to be bought, they should be ordered very soon. USDA predictions indicate that egg prices during the coming spring and summer may be somewhat lower than in 1956.

Hogs

Pigs need plenty of water — even in winter — to make the best gains. Give them water in heated devices. Keep the temperature between 45 and 55 degrees.

Livestock

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports development of a successful systematic insecticide —one that works internally — for destroying heel-fly grubs before they bore holes in the hide on the animal's back. In preliminary tests one dose of the material was enough to kill 92 to 100 per cent of all grubs within a few days. When the material is available on the market it will mean you can kill those grubs that come out on the back of an animal before they get started. Just think how much better this is then killing them on the animals back after the grubs have gone through the animals system.

Livestock Market Survey to Be Made

Pennington Co. to Share in Minnesota 'U' Project

A number of local farmers will be visited by University of Minnesota representatives during the next few weeks as part of a livestock marketing survey being conducted in Minnesota, according to County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk.

This survey is being handled by the University's department of agricultural economics. It's part of a regional study in which 13 north-Central states, including Minnesota, are cooperating. The study has two main objectives:

1. To determine how farmers select places to market their livestock, how and why they decide to use or not use certain marketing channels, and where they get information on livestock markets.

2. To evaluate the practices followed and services performed for farmers the different markets—including grading, sorting, pricing, weighing, methods of sale and costs.

Individual interviews with cooperating farmers will be kept confidential.

About 400 farmers in 20 Minnesota counties will be interviewed during this survey. Counties in the study include: Fillmore, Olmsted, Faribault, Murray, Yellow Medicine, Renville, McLeod, Le Sueur, Rice, Lakota, Hennepin, Benton, Pine, Todd, Crow Wing, Pope, Otter Tail, Norman, Clearwater, and Pennington.

Dryden Asks Aid for Mail Carriers

Postmaster Asks Public to Clear Off Sidewalks

Postmaster R. J. Dryden, today appealed to the residents of Thief River Falls to help reduce the hazard of slips and falls for letter carriers and other postal personnel who call at their homes.

He emphasized that the post office department is not alone in facing a problem of employe injuries from slips and falls and said he hopes also that his appeal will be of assistance to employes of delivery and service agencies—utilities, dairies, grocery stores, cleaners, department stores and the like.

In making a new appeal, to postal patrons over the country to help with this problem, Acting Postmaster General Maurice H. Stans noted that a recent random check of 281 accidents selected for analysis showed that, of the 281, a total of 209 occurred on icy walks, steps or stairways of postal patrons.

In his appeal supplementing Mr. Stan's urgent request, Dryden said that the period of greatest hazard from falls and slips in this community is January, February and March.

Postal patrons of this area may help cut down on such accidents through use of common sense precautions, the local postal head explained.

Sheriff Reports Two Rural Mishaps

Collisions December 31 Result in $650 Damage

Property damage amounting to an estimated $650 was sustained to vehicles involved in two rural collisions in Pennington county Dec. 31, according to Sheriff Charles Richards.

A pickup truck driven by Floyd Hegman, Rt. 1, city, and a Consumers Gas Co. truck driven by William Kaushagen collided on the east side of Long's bridge outside of Thief River Falls, causing an estimated $300 damage, mostly to the Hegman pickup.

Icy road conditions were mainly responsible for the crash, Richards said.

In the second crash a car driven by James M. Solberg, Rt. 3, city, hit the car driven by Stanley Radniecki, Oklee, nine miles east of highway 59 on state aid road 5 at the Ebenezer church corner.

Total damage was $350, mostly to Radniecki's car. Richards said he tagged Solberg for failure to yield the right of way.

AIRPORT NEWS

The day after Christmas dawned bright and clear and many pilots took advantage of the perfect flying weather. Some of those to stop at TRF were; Bill Dretzler of Grand Forks, doing cross country in a Piper PA-18; Henry Peterson Jr., Thomas Swenson, Karlstad, in a Piper PA-11. Junior came over to fly his 150 Stinson, which is hangered here. Flying a 90 Champ from Roseau was Arnold Woldtke; Tony Burkle, Greenbush, Piper PA-11; Dale Walters, George VanHoldt, Fertile, Aeronca; Nordie and Charles Swenson, Karlstad, Ercoup. Robert and Milton Davidson of Holt, along with a group of fellows, also of Holt, flew the Club Cruiser for the afternoon.

The 27th, another good flying day, left us with these names added to our Guest Book. Henry Sikorski, Greenbush, stopped at TRF and was on his way over to Grand Rapids. He made the return trip the following day. Selvin Erickson flying the Cruiser came over from Roseau, also from Roseau in a 90 Champ, Arnold Woldtke, Gene Miller, Crookston and his passenger J. David Larson, were flying a Champ.

On display at the Municipal Airport over the week-end was a 1957 Tri-Pacer, which was being ferried from the Piper factory to the West Coast, by G. W. Werstlein Jr. While here Bill spent the holidays at his parental home.

Sunday Gene Miller, Crookston, and his two children, Elizabeth and Jr., paid us a visit, as did Lloyd Anderson, also of Crookston. While here the wind came up and so they left the Champ and T-Craft at the airport and had someone come and pick them up.

Later the same day, Bill Adams, Editor of the Roseau Paper, who was on his way home from So. Dakota was forced to land because of strong winds and on coming darkness. Bill continued on to Roseau the following morning in his Cruiser.

Larry Fontana, Fort Frances, Ont., Canada, stated that TRF had been recommended to him as the best place to stop for gas and a meal, so he did just that on the 31st. He also required a few minutes of the mechanic's time for a minor repair on his Aeronca.

Martin Rantanen and Marvin Groven went on a cross-country the 31st. They used the Club Cruiser. Martin has also been busy with new students Allan Larson, Dale Kainz, Boyd Bourassa, and Harry Phillips.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Lyle's Progress

The Harvard Daily Crimson reveals that Lyle Guttu, the Prowlers' gift to Harvard University and the Crimson varsity hockey squad, is doing all right. Lyle, playing at a wing position on the first line, with Bob Cleary and Paul Kelley as linemates, scored three goals as Harvard defeated Providence College, 10 to 2, in a game played on the Boston Garden ice sheet last week.

Early in December, Providence had scored a 6 to 3 victory over the Crimson, and therefore this 10 to 2 game proved to be quite a reversal of form by the Harvards. In the meantime, coach Cooney Welland's Harvard squad had been subjected to a couple of weeks of strenuous practice. Paid dividends, too.

Of interest was the paragraph about the Harvard freshman hockey team, and its 14 to 1 win over Northwestern College in a preliminary game. Listed as members of that Harvard frosh team were Elmer Walls and Bruce Gillie. Walls was an All-State selection, at a defense position, while with the International Falls' Broncos last season. Gillie is the red-headed ever-hustling forward who played his high school hockey with the Williams' Wolves. Gillie was honored by his freshman teammates by being elected captain of the Harvard frosh squad. With Guttu as a varsity first stringer; Gillie and Walls standouts on the freshman team, northern Minnesota is making quite a contribution to Harvard hockey.

And it's to Harvard's credit that the Crimson doesn't have to invade Canada for hockey talent.

Bonspiel Next Week

"Mother, where's my pneumonia jacket? And my fleece-lined overshoes? And my woolen cap with the ear-lappers?" That's been the opening gambit for a number of husband-and-wife dinner-table conversations this past week, and it means that the Thief River Falls Curling Club is just about ready for its second season of play.

It is expected that the ice sheet at the Fair Grounds will be completed this week, and that "open" curling will be permitted this week-end. An all-city bonspiel had been slated for Saturday and Sunday, but the rink will not be ready for such "heavy" use.

Greater love for his sport than the curler has no man, for consider that he will forsake his central heating, his overstuffed chair, and his favorite television program for the dubious pleasure of sliding a well-chilled chunk of granite down a sheet of pebbled ice.

The curlers must have fun, though, for the boys that comprise the club are putting in long hours of hard work in getting the rink in condition. It isn't easy.

They do have what appears to be an insurmountable problem, and that is to find a rink that will be able to beat Johnny Oven's city championship outfit. Johnny, now that he has signed Carl Sundstrom to an iron-clad contract, is approaching the season with utmost confidence.

Champs

The Women's Nite Hawk Bowling league completed the first half of its 1956-57 season on Wednesday night, and the Bess Lang era continues to reign. The Pharmacy bowling team, captained by Bess Lang, and with Marj Tegtmeier, Alma Johnk, Pat Dabdoub, and Alice Nornes in the lineup, won the first half championship.

The Pharmacy win marks a continuation of a championship streak that this team started several years ago when, as the BeeCee's, the team won the city title.

There have been very few changes in the team lineup, too, during this winning streak. Pat Dabdoub joined the team last season, and Alma Johnk became a member this season.

Of course, the Pharmacys aren't full-fledged all-city champions yet, for they will have to compete in the second half of the schedule. If they do not win the second half title, they will have to playoff against the second half's winner. They aren't celebrating yet.

How Tough Can Things Get?

That's the question that coach Johnny Matchefts and his Prowler hockey squad have been asking. Not only were the losses, by graduation, grievous and shattering; but due to scholastic and disciplinary troubles, the squad lost a couple of valuable and promising prospects. And as a "topper", Freddy Dablow, in last Friday night's game against the Eveleth Golden Bears, received a crippling injury when his left ankle was gashed by a skate.

Following a face-off in the Prowlers defensive zone, in which Fred, in the Prowlers' defense pattern, draws for the puck, a melee occurred against the end-boards. As the players scrambled for the puck, and Eveleth player, accidentally, slashed Fred's ankle with his skate. The gash, just below the ankle on the inside of the left foot, severed a tendon.

The reports are that Fred will be lost for the season. He will be forced to use crutches for three weeks or a month, and then will have to proceed cautiously so that he won't re-injure the foot. Fred's loss, from the Prowler blue-line contingent, is severe and adds further handicaps to the young and inexperienced Prowlers. Fred and center Jimmy Hall, were the two Prowler state-tournament veterans returning for this season's campaign.

2 Collisions over Week-end Caused Damage of $310

Three cars and a pickup were damaged to the extent of $310 in two separate accidents in the city last week-end, police reported.

A car driven by Marshall Johnson of Middle River, while traveling north on Main av. Saturday noon, collided with a station wagon driven by the Rev. Otto Dale, also proceeding north and making a right turn onto Seventh st. Damage to the two cars was appraised at $175.

Keith L. Olson, city, was the driver of a car that Monday at 5 p. m. hit on the left rear-end a pickup driven by Edward H. Leyden, traveling east on Nora st. Damage to the two vehicles was placed at $135.

Bad Weather Driving Calls for Adjustment

"Your driving habits must be winterized along with your car!" Motorists were given that warning today by the Minnesota highway department as the state agency launched the safe winter driving program it is sponsoring this month jointly with the National Safety council.

Last month, the department joined a national safety program to "Back The Attack on Traffic Accidents." This emphasis program will continue through 1957 with special monthly themes. The overall theme for the winter quarter in Backing the Attack is "Courtesy."

For January, the emphasis is on bad weather driving. The winter season with its rain, sleet, snow and ice always increases traffic hazards and the department points out that a driver's knowledge of how to drive in winter can mean the difference between a low or a high traffic toll.

Individual actions of drivers and pedestrians are most important to this difference, according to the Highway department. Each must accept his responsibility to recognize that bad weather is a traffic hazard and to adapt driving and walking to road conditions. Slippery streets call for skilled handling of the car and of cautious, careful walking. The department says that a driver should heed these recommendations made by the National Safety council's committee on winter driving hazards:

—Use good tires and use tire chains on snow and ice, to cut stopping distances and increase traction.

—Keep all glass clear for good visibility, by cleaning all snow and ice off the windshield and other windows and having wipers, heater and defroster in good working order.

—Get the "feel of the road", by trying brakes occasionally on various surfaces to know what might result.

—Follow other vehicles at a safe distance, remembering that it takes three to nine times as far to stop on snow or ice as it does on dry pavement.

—Pump brakes to slow down or stop, because jamming brakes will lock wheels and throw the car into a skid.

Good winterized driving habits result from careful, smooth driving the year 'round, the department reported. Careful drivers adjust to changing conditions and winterize their driving habits before they drive in winter.

Christmas Seals Pay for Research on TB

(Second of a series on Christmas Seal programs, this article deals with TB research).

Christmas Seal funds are aiding medical research to a geater extent than ever before, according to a news release from the Minnesota Tuberculosis and Health association.

Minnesota county and state Christmas Seal associations again this year appropriated $7500 to the University of Minnesota for the H. Longstreet Taylor tuberculosis research. Beginning in 1952 under the direction of Dr. J. A. Myers, professor of medicine and public health, the special TB studies are providing methods used in diagnosing, information on effectiveness of treating and preventing tuberculosis.

Pennington county has appropriated $200.00 for this year's University tuberculosis research, it is announced by Mrs. George L. Erickson, Thief River Falls, secretary of the county Christmas Seal organization.

Tuberculosis associations across the nation, through their affiliation with the National Tuberculosis association, are contributing to the support of 42 medical research projects in laboratories, hospitals and clinics in all sections of the country.

Grants totaling $230,585 have been made possible by allocations from the National association, as well as from special contributions and bequests, the release states.

Studies being aided by the Christmas Seal grants range from the chemicals dissection of the tubercle bacillus, the germ which causes TB, to clinic studies on the value of drugs in preventing dangerous spread of the disease in children with early tuberculosis, the release concludes.

No. Central Aids in Handling Rush of Holiday Mail

A total of 37,476 pounds of regular 3-cent lettermail and other classes of surface mail were flown by North Central Airlines from Dec. 14 to 27 to help the post office department expedite the Christmas mails.

This marks the fourth consecutive holiday season North Central has carried regular mail in addition to airmail to speed Christmas deliveries. Postmasters throughout the North Central Airlines system dispatched surface mail on North Central flights in order to prevent pile-ups, multiple handlings and delays where surface transportation is limited or circuitous.

Slightly Higher Food Prices Seen for Coming Year

Food Supplies Will Be More Plentiful, Reports 'U' Market Specialist

American consumers may find slightly higher price tags on food in 1957 than last winter, but they should have no difficulty in getting their favorite foods.

Food supplies will be large this next year, though a small reduction in red meats is forecast for 1957, reports Mrs. Eleanor Loomis, extension consumer marketing agent at the University of Minnesota.

Food expenditures probably will continue to account for about a fourth of the consumer's income.

According to Mrs. Loomis, this is the outlook for supplies and prices of various food items:

Meat. The supply will be somewhat smaller and prices higher than a year ago. Declines will occur chiefly in beef and pork. More choice grade beef will become available in 1957 as the year progresses. Pork supplies will continue below a year ago until sometime next fall.

Dairy products. Milk production on farms may top the record for 1956. Retail prices of dairy products may average about the same or a little above those of this year.

Poultry and eggs. Prospects are for more poultry and eggs at lower prices than a year ago. Retail prices of chicken meat and eggs may average a little lower than in 1956 because of heavy supplies, but those of turkey meat will be much lower through late summer.

Cereal foods. Supplies will be abundant but retail prices will be up slightly because of higher marketing charges.

Edible fats and oils. Fats and oils will continue in heavy supply, with retail prices averaging a little higher than in 1956.

Fruits and vegetables. About as a year ago, but supplies of processed vegetables will be much larger. Supplies of citrus fruits and pears this winter and spring will be greater, but there will be fewer fresh apples and grapes in early 1957 because of the smaller crops in 1956.

Highway Department Erecting Buildings

Engaged in a rapidly expanding highway construction program moving ahead rapidly to provide needed building facilities in the field for its enlarged road construction and maintenance activities. This is in addition to the construction now under way on a new department headquarters building near the state capitol in St. Paul, department officials pointed out.

The department about February 1 will occupy its new $100,000 garage and field headquarters building at Thief River Falls. It will house stations for projects engineers in that vicinity, the highway patrol and patrol radio, as well as highway maintenance equipment.

Foundation work is well advanced and sewer work has started for the new combined district hearquarters building at Golden Valley. The $850,000 one-story structure will become the headquarters for Construction district 5 and Maintenance district 9, now located in St. Paul and Hopkins, respectively.

Now in the design stage are truck storage stations to be built at Winona and Albert Lea and to include working quarters for project engineers stationed in that area. Plans also are being prepared for truck storage buildings at Remer, Preston and Northfield.

Steps are under way for acquirement of property for a new consolidated headquarters building at Duluth, expected to cost in the neighborhood of $500,000. It will provide headquarters offices for Construction district 1, now in Duluth office building, and for Maintenance district 2, now in its own building at Duluth, which has been outgrown by expanding activities. The new building also will house a patrol radio station.

Property has been acquired for a combined district headquarters building to be built at Detroit Lakes for Construction district 4 and Maintenance district 6. The headquarters now are in separate locations at Detroit Lakes which are not adequate for present needs. Besides office quarters, the new building will include a maintenance garage and shops.

Efficiency Need for State Poultry Operators in '57

What's ahead for Minnesota egg producers in 1957?

Prices may be a little lower late this winter and in early spring, says Cora Cooke, poultry specialist at the University of Minnesota. The reason is there are more eggs on the market, because of higher production per hen than ever before.

Prospects are for about the same total number of laying hens on Jan., 1957, as for a year earlier, Miss Cooke points out.

Market prices for eggs may improve in fall of 1957, depending upon how many chicks are started next spring.

Will 1957 be a good year to expand the poultry operation? Only for the most efficient producer, Miss Cooke says. Feed costs are a little higher than last year, meaning profit margins may be a little narrower. It takes a production average of well over 200 eggs per hen annually to make a profit, no matter how many hens you have, according to Miss Cooke.

She advises producers to keep hens on full feed at all times and buy feeds that will do your flock the most good at the least cost. Work to improve your egg quality and sell your eggs to markets that put a premium on high quality.

JUST ONE MORE DRINK

The National City Bank, in its December letter on economic conditions, points out that $100 set aside as savings in 1946 now has the buying power of $71. In that period of ten years the already depreciated dollar has dropped still further in value at a rate of 3.4% a year.

This is a fact that all members of our legislative bodies, state and national, should have constantly before them. It is a fact that leaders of Big Business and Big Labor should be reminded of regularly. We cannot afford to let this inflationary trend continue, and it is going to take a lot of applying of brakes to stop the downward drift in the value of our dollar.

Inflation is a pleasant financial spree that ends inevitably in an unpleasant hangover. Profits have been made by manipulators of depreciating currencies. At least one great fortune was made in Germany, when the World War I Mark was on the skids, by those who invested heavily in goods of real value and paying for them with the next week's cheaper printing press currency.

Our present condition is not yet critical, but a 3.4% dip annually, for a period of ten years certainly is a matter to be concerned about. It will take courage to hold the line. The spenders will always have plausible excuses for just one more little drink.

BIG TAX ARGUMENT GETS STARTED

With the release last week of the report of Governor Freeman's tax study commission the big argument over taxation in Minnesota for the next biennium got off to an early start. The 600 page report no doubt contains much information that will be helpful to the tax committees of the legislature. Sixty-some specific recommendations, all of them more or less controversial, will receive careful consideration.

It isn't likely however, that these recommendations will be approved as a package deal as has been suggested. And it is quite possible that the legislature which convenes next week will come up with a solution of its own, in no way related to the commission's recommendations.

The report, as it has been publicized, makes no pretense of offering a long term tax reform program. It points to some long range needs but it confines itself mainly to the immediate problem of state finances, with emphasis on changes in the tax base that will encourage industrial expansion.

These recommended changes follow the same pattern as those proposed by various groups to previous legislative sessions. The principle measure of relief for industry would be less burdensome personal property taxes. Some of the recommended changes would have been accomplished years ago if agreement could have been reached on how the reduced tax revenue could have been replaced.

This apparently is what supporters of the old plan will point to as something new and different. The report shows how this lost revenue can be replaced painlessly—for the next two years. But only for two years, after that a new source of revenue will have to be found, presumably a general sales tax.

The Minneapolis Tribune is tremendously impressed with the work of the commission and its report. And it would be a marvelously clever solution to our problems if as the Tribune states, "Nearly every taxpayer will profit from this program." According to this point of view it is going to be a sort of medicine show marvel drug, a nasal spray that will sweeten the breath, sharpen the teeth, make hair grow and cure athletes foot.

The legislature probably will consider the tax problem in terms of a pratical solution for the immediate needs. The justification for a few changes in the personal property tax levies has long been recognized. Just a few necessary changes have not been satisfactory to those who want it abolished entirely. And so nothing has been accomplished. But, actually, industry in Minnesota is not hurting from this tax to the extent the advocates for its abolishment maintain.

It now appears that the problem of paying for state government during the coming biennium is not going to be as difficult as it seemed a few months ago. The inflationary process is encreasing revenue receipts from old tax sources. The diversion of iron ore tax receipts from the trust funds and making it available for immediate spending will go far in making up for other deficits. And there is a surplus in the veterans bonus fund. The special taxes that were levied for this purpose and on a temporary basis, probably will be continued.

The immediate need is no longer a problem and probably can be provided for with much less tinkering than is proposed in the report of the Governor's tax commission. Our guess is that the legislature will do it the easy way.

WHEN I GROW UP . . .

Magical words these, "when I grow up"—full of promise, replete with confidence. What youngster hasn't uttered them?

This lad is no different. He looks into the future that will be his when he grows up, and the world is his oyster, intact with pearls.

This month he wants to be a flier. Next month he'll want to be an engineer, spanning bridges across great rivers and wide chasms. The month after that he'll see himself as a surgeon, scalpel poised between skilled fingers. And the month after that—who knows?

For youth is ever changing, ever restless. That's why it is so important that youth's naturally impulsive nature be held fast by an anchor that is good, firm and permanent. They need a faith that will sustain them whether they become doctors, fliers, or engineers. The Church provides this faith, this anchor.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

COLONEL, COULD WE HAVE A SURVEYOR STAKE OUT THE PROPERTY LINE BETWEEN "A" AND "B" COMPANIES?
I DON'T THINK THAT'S NECESSARY

OH, THEY WOULDN'T MIND THAT, SIR
I WISH I COULD TELL SUSIE HOW MUCH I LIKE HER, BUT I ALWAYS CLAM UP
WHY DON'T YOU SEND HER A LETTER?
1-2
A LETTER?
YEAH, A LOVE LETTER TELLING HER THAT YOU LIKE HER, AND SO FORTH!
SUBJECT: LOVE LETTER TO: SUSIE DOOZY, WAC FROM: ORVIE SNORKEL, SGT RA 1: RECIPIENT SHALL DEEM HERSELF ADVISED ON THIS DATE THAT THE SENDER LIKES HER, AND SO FORTH...

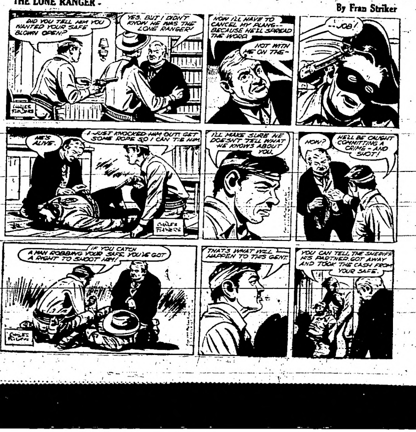
THE LONE RANGER

By Fran Striker



DID YOU TELL HIM YOU WANTED YOUR SAFE BLOWN OPEN?
YES. BUT I DIDN'T KNOW HE WAS THE LONE RANGER!
NOW I'LL HAVE TO CANCEL MY PLANS-- BECAUSE HE'LL SPREAD THE WORD
--JOB!
HE'S ALIVE.
I JUST KNOCKED HIM OUT! GET SOME ROPE SO I CAN TIE HIM
I'LL MAKE SURE HE DOESN'T TELL WHAT HE KNOWS ABOUT YOU.
HOW?
HE'LL BE CAUGHT COMMITTING A CRIME - AND SHOT!
IF YOU CATCH A MAN ROBBING YOUR SAFE, YOU'VE GOT A RIGHT TO SHOOT HIM!
THAT'S WHAT WILL HAPPEN TO THIS GENT.

Legislature to Convene in St. Paul Jan. 8

Gov. O. L. Freeman to Be Inaugurated for 2nd Term Wednesday

Final touches to house committee assignments and nomination of the senate president pro tempore were all that remained Saturday to get Minnesota's 60th legislature off on its four-month run Tuesday.

Rep. A. I. Johnson, Benson's eight-term veteran due to be re-elected speaker of the house by Liberals who hold a 70-61 margin, reported most committee chairmanships already have been settled. No major changes are due, he said, with Rep. Leo Mosier's agreement to head the appropriations again.

Mosier, Minneapolis lawyer, had been reluctant to take the time-consuming post but was prevailed upon to do so.

Senate Conservatives meet on Monday at 2 p. m. at Saint Paul hotel to nominate a president pro tempore, the presiding officer when the lieutenant governor leaves the rostrum.

Five men first elected senators in 1938 have been mentioned for the post. They are Daniel Feldt, Minneapolis; Norman Larson, Ada; Joseph Masek, St. Paul; Harry Wahlstrand, Willmar, and Thomas Welch, Buffalo.

Wahlstrand and Welch were reported to be the front runners.

The nomination Monday assures formal election by the senate shortly after it is called to order Tuesday by Sen. Val Imm, Mankato, retiring president pro tem. The small band of senate Liberals is expected to nominate Sen. Harold Schultz, St. Paul.

Both houses will convene at noon. Secretary of State Joseph Donovan will call the house to order, and the oath of office will be administered to all members elected last November.

Only swearing-in due in the senate is for Lt. Gov. Rolvaag. Senators serve a four-year term and did not stand for election last fall.

House Liberals and Conservatives will hold separate dinner meetings to give new members a chance to meet and mingle with the veterans.

After Tuesday's opening formalities the house will have its roll call on election of a speaker, the first test of Liberal-Conservative lines in the nominally non-partisan house. Rep. Odin E. S. Langen, Kennedy, is the Conservatives choice.

Langen's foredoomed defeat will put him in the role of minority leader.

Gov. Freeman will deliver his inaugural message after taking

20 Boy Scouts of Troop 60 at Norris Camp for Outing

Enjoy Three Days Spent in Beltrami Island Area with Al Christofferson

An enjoyable three days was spent at Norris camp by Boy Scouts of Troop 60 Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week, when the troop held its annual Christmas holidays outing at the camp, which is located in the Beltrami Island forest area.

During their stay the boys had an opportunity to do a great deal of work in the open, Scoutmaster Alvin Christofferson reported today. Among the activities the scouts participated in was compass work, tracking and open-air winter cooking.

Christofferson reported that seven boys took winter cooking tests and made the grade, even to lighting each of their seven fires with only one match.

The Norris camp staff, under the management of Herman Anderson, gave the scouts much help and advice and Everet Blem, Norris camp patrolman, showed 8 mm. films both evenings the boys were there. The films concerned the work, such as trapping, blowing beaver dams and log cutting and sawing, at the camp.

Marshall Co. Holds 12 Soil Conservation Education Meetings

Twelve educational meetings explaining soil conservation districts have now been completed in the unorganized part of Marshall county, according to Frederick Heck, soil conservation agent.

Either Matt Thorfinnson, secretary for the state soil conservation committee or Roger Harris, extension specialist in soil conservation were at each meeting to explain just what a district is, what it can do, how it is organized and operated and what it costs.

People who were unable to attend these meetings may stop in the Marshall county extension office for information, talk to one of the interested men on the steering committee or perhaps ask a neighbor who was to the meeting.

At least one man from the steering committee, comprised of Clem Zabinski, Warren, Leonard Yutrsenka, Argyle, Kenneth Dufault, Argyle or Norman Anderson, Middle River, was at each meeting in order to ask farmers to sign a petition requesting the steps be taken by the state soil conservation committee to set a date for a public hearing in order that the state committee may decide if a district is needed and wanted by Marshall county farmers.

Petitions were sent out with interested farmers so that they could also get their interested neighbors to sign as well.

In order to collect names and have them turned in before the state committee meets again, all those having petitions are requested to contact their neighbors so that the petitions may be sent to members of the steering committee and collected by Tuesday, January 15.

Land owners or operators are in no way obligated by signing this petition. It merely indicates that the signer is interested in seeing a public hearing held in order to determine whether a district is felt to be necessary by county farmers.

To date, a hearing date has not been set, however, if the state committee approves to hold one, the earliest posible date would be February 15.

If such a hearing does come about, it is very important that all those in favor of a district as well as all those not in favor attend the meeting and be heard so that the committee may arrive at a proper decision.

In a pretty Christmas setting in Sacred Heart church, Oakwood, N. D., December 27, Miss Thea Louise Normand of this city, daughter of Mrs. A. A. Normand of Grafton, N. D., and the late Mr. Normand, was united in marriage to John James Dolan of Santa Rosa, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Dolan of rural Grafton. The Rev. Antonio Richard performed the double ring ceremony. Sprays of evergreen tied with red ribbons graced the altar, while Christmas trees and the Nativity scene were arranged in the chancel.

David Collette presided at the organ for the nuptial music. Robert E. Dahl sang "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother," "Ava Maria," and "Oh, Lord I Am Not Worthy."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Donald Normand, was attired in a floor-length gown of white textured bengaline fashioned with an empire waistline and long fitted sleeves. A band of lace embroidered with seed pearls accented the neckline. Her mantilla-style veil was of Mardi-Gras lace imported from France with scalloped edges and was held in place by a crown of soft ruffles and strings of seed pearls. She carried a nosegay of red roses and white carnations with a white lace handkerchief, gift from her mother.

Mrs. Willard Wentz of Grafton, N. D., friend of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Inez Normand, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Floyd Anderson of this city, close friend of the bride. Five young people have been selected as International Farm Youth Exchange delegates from Minnesota for 1957, Stanley Meinen, assistant state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota, announced today.

According to tentative assignments, Miss Mallak will go to India in August; Miss Carter to Sweden in June; Aal to Honduras in October; Johnson to Guatemala in October; and Vierow to the Netherlands in June. They will serve as "grass-roots ambassadors" for four to six months, living and working on farms in the county to which they are assigned. Miss Mallak will be the first young woman from Minnesota assigned to India as an IFYE delegate.

Designed to further international understanding, the IFYE program sponsors a two-way exchange of American and foreign young people. Eighteen youths from 14 different countries spent several months on Minnesota farms this past year. The IFYE program is conducted by the National 4-H Club Federation in cooperation with the Agricultural Extension Service.

Minnesota People Donated $460,243 to '56 Heart Fund

Campaign Manager Says 1957 Campaign Will Be Conducted Feb. 1 to 28

Minnesotans contributed $460,243.04, of the record $17,775,910 donated nationally to the 1956 Heart Fund campaign, Herbert F. Mischke, campaign manager for the Minnesota Heart Association, announced.

The national total represents a 30 percent gain over 1955 and continues a steady eight year climb in public support of the heart research, education, and community programs of the American Heart Association. Minnesota went 22 percent over its 1956 state goal.

Pennington county's contribution was $1,298.78.

Mischke said more than 64 cents of each Heart Fund dollar donated in Minnesota last year has been allocated to the heart research pool supporting 55 state scientists working with Heart Association grants.

There were no passengers aboard. Crew members, Capt. Robert J. Ceronsky, Bloomington, and Peter E. Wahl, Minneapolis, waited for Minneapolis maintenance personnel to fly out and make repairs.

Production of beef cattle in the United States has increased and improved every year since cattle numbers took an upward turn in 1949.

Christmas Seals Aid in Health Education

(Third of a series on Chrismas Seal programs, this story describes some of the health education activities.)

People learn by seeing and doing.

This statement comes from the Minnesota Tuberculosis and Health association along with information on some of the "see-and-do" health education services which Christmas Seal funds provide for schools and communities in all Minnesota counties.

Children and adults in 73 of Minnesota's 84 rural area counties this year learned facts about tuberculosis from special health movies and film strips loaned without charge by the state Christmas Seal organization. The state association's films have had 1,200 showings in 1956 at schools and at organization meetings.

The following films were shown this year to groups in Pennington county, it is reported by Mrs. George Erickson, Thief River Falls, secretary of the county Tuberculosis and Health Association: "Improving Your Posture," "Coming Home," "Tuberculosis," "How to Catch a Cold," "Goodbye Mr. Germ," "Another to Conquer," "Let My People Live," "Lease on Life" and "The Inside Story."

Health supplies for the schools are another aid to teaching better health practices, Mrs. Erickson said. Paper handkerchiefs, paper towels, and individual drinking cups furnished by the Christmas Seal organization help children remember to cover coughs and sneezes and to use individual towels and cups as ways of preventing spread of colds and other infectious diseases. Schools also receive health reference books and recreational materials. Posters and little health handbooks are attention-attracting health messengers. Posture Tag Day—sponsored annually in schools throughout the state—is one more way of making young heath-conscious.

Hundreds of Minnesota high school students learn facts about tuberculosis as participants in annual Christmas Seal radio and press projects.

Soil Conservation Convention Set

Skull H. Rutford, director of agricultural extension at the University of Minnesota, will speak at a meeting of the Daughters of the Soil, Jan. 8 during the convention.

Ralph Musser, representative from the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, Washington, D. C., will speak during the Jan. 9 sessions. New officers will also be elected that day.

There are now 13 soil conservation districts in Minnesota. All will be represented at the convention.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor the Times:

Announcement of the curriculum offered by the adult vocational training in the Thief River Falls school system, has, I feel filled a long-felt want. I know that there are many a frustrated male who has long awaited the opportunity to learn the manly art of archery. Through the benevolence of School Dist. No. 18 he can now become an expert archer and can rally forth and shoot arrows into hay bales with the best of them. Frankly, I cannot understand how our school system could have operated so long without this very important course of training.

Also, when we think of all the females in our district who have had to stifle a craving for making hats simply because our inadequate school program did not include this course, we can be doubly thankful that a training in this field is planned. We can visualize a Graduation Day exercises in which the graduate archer manfully lifts his bow and shoots the millinery off his female counterpart, a graduate of the hat school.

Perhaps at a later date we could even incorporate into this program a short course in bullfighting.

Yours truly,
Jas. L. Larson, St. Hilaire

Former Warren Publisher Dies

C. L. Stevens Dies Jan. 3 at Age 89 in Minneapolis

Charles L. Stevens, 89, editor of the former Warren Register and early day Warren resident, died Wednesday morning at his home in Minneapolis where he had been a resident since 1931.

Mr. Stevens came to Warren in 1883 with his parents and after completing his law course at Northern Illinois school in 1892, returned to Warren and in 1894 took over the editing and publishing of the Warren Register which he operated until 1929 when he sold the paper to the Mattson Brothers, publishers of the Warren Sheaf.

While a resident of Warren he was active in the civic and social life of the community. He served two terms as Marshall county representative in the Minnesota legislature and also served seven terms as assistant clerk of the House of Representatives.

He was active in politics as an ardent Republican and served county, district and state party offices while residing in Warren. He was a strong editorial writer and following his retirement from the newspaper he expressed his opinions frequently through the Twin City press.

He was married to Alice M. Wallace in Warren on September 1, 1898 who together with four children mourn his passing. The surviving children include Jean M., Ralph B., Charles W. and Margaret A. Vanhorn all residing in Minneapolis. He is also survived by a brother Hugh P. Stevens of Lincoln, Illinois and six grandchildren.

MINNESOTA TOPS IN AG VERSATILITY

According to State-Federal Reporting service, in 1955 California was first in cash receipts from agricultural marketing, including livestock and livestock products, also government payments, followed in order by Iowa, Texas, Illinois, Minnesota (fifth), Indiana, Ohio, Missouri, Wisconsin, Nebraska. Minnesota was third in crop production, 8th in livestock, 12th in federal payments. In 23 crop and livestock categories, from corn and hay to eggs and milk, 34 states placed once or oftener among the top 10. With two firsts (sweet corn and creamery butter) and nothing lower than a 3d place (cattle and calves on farms), Minnesota scores a top 100 points in 21 categories, falling below top 10 only in sheep and wheat.

Eight Bus Companies Seek Fare Increase

Eight bus companies operating in Minnesota applied to the Railroad and Warehouse Commission Thursday for permission to increase passenger fares five per cent.

The commission set a hearing on the application for 9:30 a.m. Jan. 22.

Applying for the increase were the Greyhound Corp., which has a network of routes over the state; Jack Rabbit Lines Inc., which runs from Moorhead south to Pipestone; Jefferson Transportation Co., from Minneapolis south through Faribault, Owatonna, Austin, Albert Lea, Winona and Mankato; Lake of the Woods, East Grand Forks to Baudette; Northern Transportation Co., Virginia to International Falls; Northwest Trails Inc., Moorhead to Thief River Falls; Triangle Transportation Co., Inc., Crookston to Bemidji and East Grand Forks; and Zephyr Lines Inc., Minneapolis to Wheaton.

Three of the companies made separate applications for fare increases. They asked that the higher fares they proposed be increased by five per cent if the main application is granted.

Zephyr Lines proposed increases of 15-20 cents in fares to all points between Minneapolis and Waseca.

Northern Transportation and Lake of the Woods asked permission to install a rate of 3 cents per mile for the first 50 miles of any trip, with 2½ cents per mile for the second 50 miles, 2.2 cents per mile for the third 50 miles and 2.05 cents a mile over 150 miles up to 210 miles.

Ewes Need Iodine in Winter Months, Co. Agent States

Ewes need to be fed iodine through the winter in northwestern Minnesota, says County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk. If they do not get sufficient amounts of this trace mineral, goiters may develop. Lambs may be born dead, or they may be born alive with a big neck. They may be weak and die soon after birth.

To provide iodine, feed salt. The iodinized salt should be fed as loose salt. Loose salt is better than block salt since livestock will eat more of it. Home mixed iodized salt may be mixed by using one ounce of potassium iodide with 100 pounds of salt. Mix it first with a little soybean oil meal and then sprinkle on the 100 pounds of salt.

When buying iodized salt make sure it is fresh since the iodine value decreases with storage.

State Wool Event Slated for Jan. 11

Mrs. Clifford Nelson to Compete in Minneapolis

Some young Minnesota seamstress will be named "Miss Bo Peep of the Golden Fleece" at the climax of the Make-it-yourself-with-wool style show to be held in Dayton's Skyroom, Minneapolis, on January 11 at 3:30. Eight girls between the ages of 18 and 22 who came through district wool contests will be vying for this title.

An attendant for "Miss Bo Peep" will be selected from the contest's junior division which consists of ten girls from 14 through 17, who were successful in their district contests. The third competing group at the style show will be the Homemaker Division with nine district winners seeking top honors. Included in this group is Mrs. Clifford Nelson of Thief River Falls.

Maynard Speece, well known farm reporter, will be master of ceremonies for the style show, which is open to the public. Meg Kingbay of WCCO radio will present the contestants to the judges and audience.

Minnesota's Make-It-Yourself-With-Wool contest is being sponsored this year by the Minnesota Farmer Magazine and the Minnesota Wool Growers Association. More than 350 girls and women from Minnesota participated in the contest, which is designed to encourage sewing in the home and the increased use of all-wool fabrics. The first place state winners in each of the three divisions will receive a weeks vacation for two given by three resorts in Northern Minnesota: Pehron Lodge near Cook, Happiness Lodge near Hackensack and Bachman's Resort near Alexandria.

PAUL BUNYAN IN "ACTIVE RETIREMENT"

Ever wonder where you might encounter Paul Bunyan in person? Chances are you'll find him either playing cribbage or making fishing gear up in the teeming border city of International Falls. Twenty-one years a riverman and lumberjack, 31 years an M&O papermaker, plus a towering 6-foot-6 stature and 258 well-distributed pounds of meat and muscle, have well qualified Len Costley for his lifelong impersonation in pageant and parade of the legendary Northwoods giant. At a hale and hearty 67 Len now lives in retirement, though not in inactivity, near the scenes of the Bunyan-Costley exploits. A widower, he has two sons, two daughters, and ten adoring grandchildren. When not regaling them with words lore, or seeking an enchore of the two perfect cribbage hands he has held, Len makes and markets his patented Nee-Toe holder that helps keep fishing lines unsnarled.

Right Around Town

BY V. M. "MACK" DRAPER

Time marches on . . . now that the holidays are over most thoughts are pointed toward the end of winter and the spring ahead. We sometimes look back at pleasant memories in times past and we look ahead to the good things coming.

We wonder if the whole human race wouldn't be better off by living in the present for a change. That might slow up this mad merry-go-round we're riding these days. It's certain we'd enjoy life more by enjoying what we have today and letting tomorrow take care of itself.

It's easy to tell the difference between a pessimist and an optimist. The pessimist says his glass is half empty, while the optimist says his is half full!

We hear that the Democrats feel Ike and his cabinet are trying — very trying!

Then there was the lush who shouted the following to his barroom companion, "Of all my sylfish relatives (hic) I likesh me besht!"

Our local curlers are having their troubles these days. We hear the recent mild weather is making difficulty aplenty in the ice-making department. You should have put your ice on the shady side of a building, boys!

We don't imagine the ice sheet in the Sports arena is helped any by the mild weather, either. This calls to mind the year the North Dakota university team was badly handicapped by a late fall to the extent the team had to face the opposition with scarcely any practice whatever. That problem has been licked in recent years by their artificial ice system.

Now that yours truly is a Minnesota resident he's in somewhat of a quandary over whom he should support when the North Dakota Sioux and the Minnesota Gopher hockey teams clash in their seasonal classic. Should we root for the Golden Gophers — or continue to pull for our old alma mammy?

We read that the birth rate in our area is down from previous years, contrary to the trend in other parts of the country. Which may add some weight to the old claim that when times aren't so prosperous the birth rate drops.

Just how would you explain the high birth rate in China, India and some of the other backward countries, then? If we remember correctly it's doubtful if those countries know the meaning of the word "prosperity."

We've an idea times would really get rough in some of those countries if it weren't for the battered American taxpayer.

We should be thankful, though —we Americans pay more in taxes every week than many of these people make in a whole month! Yet, most of us manage to get by on what's left, even if it does pinch occasionally. Anybody want to change places with the poor 'furriners?'

We're mighty glad to have Bill Dahlquist back at the Times after a week's absence due to hospitalization for treatment of an eye infection.

It's high time we quit this and did some work. So Long!

Air Force Reserve Meets Friday in GF

Thief River Falls Men Asked to Attend Meeting

Air Force reservists in the Thief River Falls area will attend the first training session of the year when Flight A, 9749th Air Force Reserve squadron, Grand Forks, resumes its training schedule Friday, January 11.

Local and area reservists will also be notified by mail of the meeting date this week and every reservist interested in belonging to a local unit is urged to attend the Grand Forks meeting, according to V.M. Draper, who is cooperating with other members of Flight A in this city in the effort to organize a local unit. Transportation can be arranged for those who need it.

It is extremely important that every local reservist attend the Jan. 11 meeting in Grand Forks if a local unit is to begin meetings here within a reasonably short time, Draper said.

The Grand Forks unit of the Air Reserve meets at Army Reserve headquarters, 201 N. 3rd st. in that city. The meeting room is on the third floor of the Northern Farm and Home Supply building there, directly across 2nd-av. N. from the Sears Roebuck store.

All Thief River Falls area reservists and recently discharged Air Force personell are asked to attend the meeting and to tell any other person who may be interested in joining a local Air Force reserve unit.

I visited the Ernest Swanson family in Highlanding township last week and I do want to tell you about it. Best Buys This Month

If you're worried about your budget—now that your holiday spending is over, what better way is there to save in your food bills than to buy January's best buys.

Canned sweet corn and eggs lead the list, and they suggest such hearty dishes as corn pudding and scalloped corn.

Late-crop potatoes will continue plentiful this month with fall-crop onions in plenty too.

For dessert there'll be canned purple plums from the big fall crop. Serve these plums chilled or hot, all mildly spiced. Dried Prunes will be plentiful too.

Plan to include January's best buys in food in your menus this month. They're worth using!

Dates for Your Calendar

Wednesday, January 23 is our annual Family Life Conference. Charlie Martin, extension family life specialist at the University of Minnesota, will be here to conduct the meeting on "Developing Family Sharing and Planning." This is primarily a leader training meeting for extension home program members, but interested homemakers may attend. The court house meeting room is the place and the time is 1:00 p.m.

Wednesday, February 6, is the kitchen tour when we'll give you suggestions and ideas for improving your own kitchens. Plan to come along, and see what Pennington County families have done to plan themselves real workable kitchens. Data Hochhalter, Extension Housing Specialist will be along too, and you can talk over your kitchen problems with her. We'll start at the Court House meeting room at 9:00. More about this tour later.

Legislature to Convene Tuesday for 1957 Session

Fiscal matters again will attract serious legislative attention, with more emphasis than usual expected to be given to the state tax structure.

Previous legislatures have tried to fit fund requirements into existing tax revenues, increasing rates or creating new levies such as the one in 1955 on non-cigaret tobacco products, only as an eleventh-hour desperation measure.

The governor's tax study committee has recommended broad tax reforms. Freeman has expressed hope the labor-business-agriculture make-up of the committee will lend weight to the recommendations.

Freeman is due to present a 190-million-dollar budget to the legislators, a 25-million-dollar boost over the one the state has operated on during the current two-year period ending June 30.

Life Insurance Agents Win Trips

Anderson of Thief River Falls, of the National Farmers Union Life Insurance Co., has assisted in qualifying six of his agents for a free trip to Denver, Colorado, awarded following a fall hospitalization and life insurance contest. Mr. Anderson, his agents; Norman Johnson, Thief River Falls, Loren Jorgenson, Argyle; Richard Woltas, Greenbush; Robert Wicklund, Fencer; Lawrence Dahlgren, Lake Park and Marvin Iverson, Crookston, and their wives will leave for Denver Saturday morning on a Minnesota Farmers Union bus and return the following Saturday.

THE MINNESOTA STORY

Prepared by the

Minnesota Historical Society

FIRST HOSPITALS

The first hospitals in Minnesota were at the early military posts. Since Fort Snelling was the first outpost to be constructed it had the first hospital. There were a few beds, some very crude facilities, poor ventilation and, of course, medical and hospital practices in great contrast to this day.

Fort Snelling always had its sick soldiers and it also ministered to the people of the frontier. In 1827 eight Chippowas were cared for after a battle with the Sioux. Among these was the chief, Hole-in-the-Day and his daughter, who later died of her afflictions. The Indians appreciated the care which they received, given largely by the wives of the men of the fort. It began a friendship which was later a basis for keeping the Chippewas on the side of the whitemen in the war with the Sioux.

About the time that Minnesota began as a territory a military outpost was established at Fort Ripley up the Mississippi. It was in a frame, single story building. Through it passed many who were sick from many diseases. A large number of the patients were the travelers and settlers of the frontier. Facilities were those of the day, very similar to those at Fort Snelling.

Fort Ridgely, on the Minnesota, near New Ulm, also had its post hospital. Its most heroic days were in the Sioux uprising of 1862. After the battle of Birch Coulee forty wounded men were cared for, primarily through the great efforts of Mrs. Alfred Mueller, likened so many times to Florence Nightingale. The state of Minnesota placed a monument upon her grave.

TERRITORIAL NEWSPAPERS

In the days of the territory of Minnesota, from March 3, 1849 to May 11, 1858, there were 89 newspapers founded. Most of them have disappeared in name.

During this period St. Paul had the first, and the most. The Minnesota Pioneer was the first newspaper in Minnesota. Its first issue was brought out by James Goodhue in April, 1849. Goodhue died within two years. This paper has continued to this day. In 1856 it was a daily at seven dollars a year and a weekly at two dollars.

St. Anthony was the next community to have a pioneer newspaper.

The first newspaper outside of these two communities was the Sauk Rapids Frontiersman. Its life was quite limited under its first management.

Other newspapers of the territorial period included the Hokah Chief, which has had a long and interesting life. At Stillwater was the St. Croix Union. The Red Wing Republican was born in this period.

The newspaper of the period with the greatest tribulations was the St. Cloud Visitor published by Mrs. Jane Swisshelm. She was an advocate of women's rights and freedom for the negro. A mob tore the plant to pieces.

The newspaper of largest circulation was the New York Herold with more than three thousand subscribers in 1856. This paper from afar outranked any of the local newspapers in number of subscribers.

CANDLE IN THE HAT

In the early days of Minnesota iron mining, before 1900, the larger part of the ore taken from the iron ranges came out of the "underground" mines. These were the mines at which men went deep into the earth to loosen and pick up the ore which was later taken by hoist and shaft to the surface.

There are still many men who work in mines of this type and there are some of them who have lived through the change from the candle to the electric light.

Fifty years ago the only light used in an underground mine came from a candle fastened to the miner's hat. Each man was given three such candles for a shift. The candle was inserted in a holder which hooked onto a reinforced front of a soft oiled hat. Sometimes the candle was fastened to a spike in the large mining timbers to give light where needed.

Beginning about 1914 the first carbide lamp came into underground mines. This was hooked to the hat and often counterbalanced by the weight of a railroad spike attached to the back of the hat.

In a few years came battery lights which, also attached to the hat, gave brighter light and had elements of both safety and convenience.

In the larger mines there are now wired electric lights in the principal working places.

Those who remember the candles in the mines may also recall the days when power to move the ore in carts or small cars was provided by mules.

FOUNDER OF TOWNS

Establishing towns and townsites was once a great business in Minnesota. It occupied the time and attention of many men for a good half century. The motivation of this effort was the usual one of profit from the sale of town lots. These profits and activities were fabulous in the early days of the territory. The hard times of 1857 brought townsite promotion to a minimum. Following the Civil War the business again revived.

The principal promoters of the early days were the pioneers who lived near places where a town might be expected to thrive. Among such men was Joseph R. Brown who established many communities, some of which thrived and others died. In later years the railroads dominated the townsite business.

One of the most noted of town founders in Minnesota was T. A. Holmes. His life showed the energy and versatility of the frontier founders. Born in Pennsylvania he was the founder of Janesville, Wisconsin. He then moved to the St. Croix where he established a trading post. He established another post in Anoka county in 1849. Holmes was the principal founder of Shakopee, Jordan and Chaska. When Minnesota in the fifties became too civilized he went on to Montana and was the principal founder of Bannock City. He returned to the North Stat State but seeking more new experiences he migrated to Alabama to raise grapes. When he tired of that he returned to one of his own towns, Shakopee, to live.

Amount Is 6.1 Pct. Less Than Was Paid in 1955, Commissioner Reports

Temporarily unemployed Minnesota workers received $20,450,656 as unemployment compensation during 1956, according to a report released this week by the office of Commissioner Frank T. Starkey of the Department of Employment Security.

That amount is 6.1% less than the $21,777,921 paid out in 1955.

The 1956 benefit checks averaged $23.63 and were 0.6% higher than the 1955 average, but still substantially below the maximum benefit payment of $33 a week, allowable under the present law.

The unemployment compensation payments were issued to 78,860 workers to maintain their buying power during periods of enforced unemployment. "Thus," said Commissioner Starkey, "the UC program served its basic purpose of enabling workers to meet, to some extent at least, their current and necessary living expenses. As an ultimate end result, the State's entire economy was benefited and in many cases county relief rolls were relieved of a burden that they otherwise would have been called upon to carry."

While the ES Department was handling the detail of its jobless insurance assignment, it was also active in filling the orders of employers for workers. The number of job placements reported last year is 181,081, an increase of 6% over 1955 placements, Starkey said.

All 1956 figures in the foregoing include estimates for December operations and the final figures for the year may show slight variations.

10 to 15 Below Zero Is Due Here Tuesday

A gloomy weather picture for the week ahead has been painted by the weatherman and northern Minnesota residents will do well to keep the coal bin full and the thermostat turned up high.

Temperatures over the past weekend were considerably milder than those coming up in the next few days. The Sunday high of 28 was tops during the period since last Thursday while the minimum 7 below zero reading was recorded Friday morning. Highs ranged from 10 to 28 and lows from -7 to 4 above through the period.

No precipitation measurement is available from any source so the best your Times weatherman can do is guesstimate the snowfall. A small amount, just a trace, fell here Sunday. Total snow cover is estimated at between 3 and 5 inches.

The KTRF forecast comes in the form of a cold wave warning for northwest Minnesota with temperatures falling to 10 to 15 below zero by Tuesday morning. Snow flurries and moderate westerly winds will accompany the frigid temperatures into the area.

There will be considerable cloudiness Monday, clearing tonight. Partly cloudy weather with scattered light snow will prevail Tuesday, along with continued cold tempartures. Wednesday will show little change.

The 5-day forecast, provided the Times by North Central Airlines, calls for temperatures averaging 10 to 18 degrees below seasonal normals in northern Minnesota. Normal highs are 16 above and lows 3 below zero. The cold weather will prevail throughout the week with precipitation predicted amounting to .10 inch falling as snow showers Wednesday night or Thursday.

Prowler Qiunt Takes Ada Vikings 53 to 43; Play Halstad Tuesday

Coach Alan Adams' Prowler cagers, held to a 9 to 6 score at the end of the first period, and a 19 to 19 score at the intermission, came up with an 18-point third period (guard Keith Johnson sparked that third period rally by scoring five field goals and a free throw), and then added 16 points in the fourth quarter to defeat the Ada Vikings, 53 to 43, in an inter-district game played at Ada on Friday night.

On Tuesday night, January 8th, the Prowlers will play the Halstad Pirates on the local court.

In the preliminary game at Ada on Friday night, the Prowlers 'B's, with Harlie Drees hitting on seven field goals in seven tries in the first half, and adding a field goal and a free throw in the second half for a 17-point effort, defeated the Viking 'B' team, 40 to 29.

Friday night's varsity game found the Prowlers, with center Dave Hanson scoring all the points, gaining a 9-6 first period lead. Phil Hanson, high scoring forward on Joe Mrkonja's 'B' team, celebrated his promotion to the varsity, (and he started the game at forward) by scoring six field goals and a pair of free throws.

In the second quarter, coach Adams inserted his reserves into the game, and the Vikings, with Wayne Haas scoring six points, evened the game at 15-all and 19-all at the intermission.

The game's scoring honors were taken by the Vikings' guard, Wayne Haas, who connected for four field goals and thirteen free throws, scoring 21 points. The Prowlers' rangy center dunked in 18 points, getting six field goals and six free throws. Keith Johnson turned in a 15-point game, having seven field goals and a free throw to his credit.

Ask Vet Pensioners to Report on Income

Annual income questionnaires have been mailed to more than 3500 veterans and widows and children of deceased veterans in the area served by the Fargo VA Office, who are receiving pension, W. B. Carroll, Manager of the Fargo VA Center said today.

Mr. Carroll urged those who received the questionnaires to fill them in completely and return them immediately to the VA office shown on the form.

Unless completed questionnaires are returned to VA within 30 days, pension payments will be stopped he said.

Questionnaires are mailed out yearly because disability and death pensions are subject to annual income limitations. The current questionnaires request data on 1956 income and anticipated 1957 income.

Pensions are payable to certain eligible veterans of World War I, World War II, and the Korean conflict period who are permanently and totally disabled from causes not connected with their service in the armed forces, and to certain widows and children of veterans of these wars who die of nonservice-connected causes. In both cases, the annual income of those receiving pension must not exceed $1,400 without dependents, or $2,700 with dependents.

Mr. Carroll said the only dependents allowed for a living veteran for pension purposes are a wife and minor children, and for a widow, only minor children.

Those receiving pensions should report immediately any increase in income which would raise their annual income above the statutory limitations, the VA warned.

If a person receiving pension fails to notify VA promptly of an increase in income which raises his annual income above the statutory limit, payments will be discontinued retroactively to the first of the year. This creates an overpayment and is subject to recovery by the Government.

If the person promptly notifies VA of such an increase, payments will be discontinued as of the date the last payment was made and no overpayment will result.

Widows and children of World War II veterans and those with service during the Korean conflict period (June 27, 1950 through January 31, 1955) may be eligible for pensions if the veterans had service-connected disabilities for which compensation would be payable if 10 per cent or more in degree at the time of their deaths, even though they did not die of those disabilities. These survivors also are subject to the same income limitations.

The ruling, which also applies to Judge Herman A. Kjos of this city, was made at the request of Chas. Walker of Foley, secretary of the Minnesota Probate Judges association.

Eveleth Whips Prowler Six Saturday 16-3

Locals Play Hallock Tonight; R. L. Falls Coming Wednesday

The powerful Bears of Eveleth, with all-state Jerry Norman scoring five goals, and Gust Hendrickson and Ron Constantine each scoring three goals, walloped a bruised and tired Prowler hockey team, 16 to 3, in a game played on the Hippodrome rink at Eveleth on Saturday night.

Prowlers, tonight, Monday, will make the trip to Hallock for a conference game against the Polar Bears. And on Wednesday night, Jan. 9th, on the Arena ice, the Prowlers will meet the Red Lake Falls Eagles, in a regional conference game.

With goalie Kenny Sauve turning in a brilliant performance, the stocky net-minder had twenty-five saves in the first period, the Prowlers held the strong Eveleth Golden Bears away from the scoring column until the 12:02 mark when Norman connected for the first of his five goals. In quick order, John Castellano and Hendrickson tallied to give the Bears a 3 to 0 first period advantage.

In a hectic second period, during which the Bears made full of their scoring opportunities, Eveleth dented the laces for nine goals, to take a one-sided 12 to 0 lead.

In the final period, the Prowlers' Jimmy Hall, playing his usual ever-hustling game, score three tallies for the locals. Eveleth collected four goals in the period for their 16 to 3 win.

The Halstad Pirates

It's perhaps as a word to the wise to advise all basketball fans to be in attendance at the Prowlers vs. Halstad Pirates basketball game that will be played here on Tuesday night. If the results of the past eight games that have been played between the two clubs, a series that started in 1950, can be used as a yard-stick, Tuesday's game should be a thriller.

While the Halstad Pirates as a scheduled opponent for the Prowlers must be listed as a Johnny-come-lately, having been on the schedule only since 1950, the rivalry has certainly been lively. The series began in 1950, under Bob Nick's coaching regime, and that year the Pirates won by a 49 to 42 score; in 1951 the Prowlers were forced into overtime before winning, 54 to 52.

In 1952, and who can forget that year, the Prowlers defeated the Pirates, 45 to 42, in a scheduled game here; but in the 8th regional finals, and recollection of that game brings tears to the eyes, the Prowlers lost by a 54 to 53 score. The Pirates went on to win the third place in the state tournament, which was some consolation to the Prowlers.

In 1953, the locals won, 50 to 48; in 1954, the score was 50 to 49; in 1955, the Prowlers won by a 53 to 44 score; and last year, the Prowlers defeated the Pirates, 59 to 51. That last year's win, it should be noted, was over a Halstad Pirate team that won the 30th district championship, and a team that narrowly missed defeating Bemidji in the regional finals.

We'll pick the Prowlers to win Tuesday night's game, and bring their record of wins over the Pirates to five in a row, and seven out of nine. But the win won't be by much, about eight points.

No Record

That 16 to 3 score, by which the Golden Bears of Eveleth shellacked the Prowlers on Saturday night, wasn't a record beating for a blue-and-gold hockey team. But it came close.

One Tuesday night early in January of 1948, in a game played on the outdoor rink at Warroad, the Warroad Warriors defeated the Prowlers by a 16 to 2 score. And that was a pretty good Prowler team that took that beating, too, for it was coached by "Babe" Paulsen, was co-captained by Swede Lund and Ralph Engelstad, and had such players on its roster as Bruce Hall, Dennis Lund, Allen Steenerson, Jack Erickson, Graydon Garlough, Myles Thorson, Ronnie Ness, Don Baken, Jimmy Arras, Rene Walsberg, and Brian Walker.

That was the game, too, in which Waroad's Max Oshie, a bona-fide Warrior, scored twelve goals. A fact which we have mentioned before, and which is the most specticular individual scoring performance we've witnessed. Max, who gained all-state honors, was one of the most graceful skaters in eighth region high school hockey history. Baudette's Keith Corrigan and the Prowlers' Joey Poole are a couple of skaters, perhaps, that can be compared with Oshie.

Calling All Skips

A "reliable source" informs us that the ice sheet at the Fair Grounds is completed and will be available for curling come Tuesday night. All skips wishing to hold tryouts or practice sessions for their respective rinks are asked to make arrangements with Justus Larson, Russ Embury, or any of the curling club officers.

The all-city bonspiel, which will "kick off" the curling season for 1957, will be held on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The draw for the bonspiel will be announced in Thursday's Times.

Not So Surprising

As a result of a pair of games played this past week-end, the eighth region had its hockey pride brought down to modest levels and its hockey prestige somewhat dimmed. On Friday night, in the finals of the holiday tournament played at Fort Frances, the Roseau Rams received a 12 to 3 trouncing from the powerful International Falls Broncos. The Broncos, on Thursday night, had shutout the Prowlers, 7 to 0. And on Saturday night, at Eveleth, the Prowlers took a 16 to 3 drubbing from the Golden Bears.

Not only are the Broncos and the Golden Bears rated as number one and number two in the Region Seven competition; but the two clubs are entitled to that high rank in the state ratings as well. The Region Seven tourney should be quite a fracas this year, for its the year when that region sends down only one entry into the state tournament. Region Eight has the two-entry regional tourney this season, with the regional runner-up being designated as the Region Three representative in the state meet.

It's not so surprising to see this show of hockey strength from Region Seven. The fact is this 'strength' was in evidence at the Arena here on Feb. 12th and 13th of 1955, for hats when the State PeeWee hockey tournament was played here. International Falls was runner-up to the All-City Duluth winners; and Eveleth gained third place honors. Nine of the Eveleths boys that played in that PeeWee tourney are members of this year's Eveleth Golden Bear squad; and seven of the International Falls PeeWees of that year are playing with this season's powerful Bronco club. That's where the championship hockey clubs are formed, 'way down in the PeeWee ranks.

4-H'ers Plan Dairy Demonstrations

County Club Members to Appear at Winter Shows

4-H members in Pennington county will give dairy demonstrations at the Red River Valley Winter Shows again this year.

County Home Agent Marge Olsen announced today that interest is keen in the demonstration program, and that boys and girls are already starting to prepare their demonstrations.

A meeting on planning dairy foods demonstrations was held on Friday. 4-H'ers who attended learned how to plan their demonstrations, information to include and on techniques that have been found to be successful. Suggestions for topics were also included.

Any 4-H club member wishing help with a dairy demonstration is asked to contact the county extension office as soon as possible.

A big-confidence is a good trait, but be sure you are in a position to back it up.

International Falls Wins Holiday Tourney

Ahe International Falls Broncos proved to be inconsiderate hosts as coach Larry Ross' powerful club made a shambles of the two-day four-team invitational hockey tournament played on the Memorial Arena Ice at Fort Frances, Ontario, on Thursday and Friday. In first round play on Thursday night, the Roseau Rams defeated the Edina-Morningside team, 3 to 0; while the Broncos defeated the defending state champion Prowlers, 7 to 0. On Friday night, in the first game, Edina-Morningside, by a 4 to 2 score, defeated the Prowlers; and in the finals, the Broncos clobbered the Rams to win by a lop-sided 12 to 2 score.

Coach Johnny Matchefts' young Prowlers held the Falls' team scoreless in the first period of their first round game on Thursday night. With Oscar Mahle scoring twice and Tom Neveaux and Bob Miggins adding lone tallies, the Broncos racked up a 4 to 0 lead in the second period.

In the third period, Dave Frank, Mahle (for a "hat trick" scoring performance) and Gene Steele, hit the laces to give the power-packed Broncos their well-deserved 7 to 0 victory.

On Friday night, playing against coach Ken Yackel's Edina-Morningside club, the Prowlers held the Hornets on even terms until the third period, when goals by Jim Emerson and Walt Sirene provided the winning margin for the southerners.

Trailing by a 1 to 0 score at the close of the first period, the Prowlers, on a rebound shot by Jerry Jorgenson, evened the score at the 5:06 mark of the second period. Jim Richards' long shot, at 8:02, gave the Hornets a 2 to 1 second period lead.

In the final stanza, Wendy Johnson beat goalie Chuck Steinwig in the opening seconds of play, tying the score at 2-all. Jim Richards, on an unassisted goal, came in close to feint Ken Sauve out of the cage and flip the puck into cage at 3:37. Sirene, at 11:33, banged in a rebound shot to give the Hornets their 4 to 2 triumph.

HOCKEY

By John Matchefts

The actual origin of the game of hockey is unknown. There have been several games using the basic principles of hockey, such as "hurley" which was played in Ireland, "lacross" in France and "shinney" in Scotland and in the United States. The first evidence we have of hockey's being played on ice with sticks and skates comes to light in the game of bandy, which was played as early as the year 1813. This game was played with a ball, at first made of cork or wood, and later of rubber. The "bandies" were curved sticks cut from the lower branches of trees. I might add that the Russians gained their recent proficiency in hockey from the playing of "bandy."

Canada is recognized as the mother of hockey as we know it today, 1890 the Ontario Hockey Association was founded. By 1909 a professional hockey league was in full swing. Of course, since that time many rules have been changed and playing conditions improved. In 1896 the American Hockey League was formed, which was composed of teams in the district of New York.

The growth of a real interest in hockey can be evidenced in the history of the Olympics. In 1932 only four countries competed: Canada, United States, Germany and Poland, with Canada winning and greatly outclassing the other teams. In 1936, 15 nations took part, with Great Britain winning, but now the teams were much more evenly matched.

This past Olympic hockey tour was very successful, with the United States team capturing second place. First place went to Russia. This is interesting to note, because Russia was for the first time participating in the Olympic hockey competition.

Modern hockey in Russia started approximately eight years ago. As noted previously, their hockey was derived from the game of bandy, which, incidentally, is still played in many European countries including Russia. Rumors are that Russia, in organizing their first hockey, assembled their outstanding bandy players into 17 teams in Moscow. They taught these players modern hockey through the aid of Czechoslovakian coaches. In forming their national team, they then picked the outstanding players from the original 17 teams. The emphasis on hockey in Russia has increased greatly in the past 8 years. Today it is said that Russia has 800,000 hockey players, far more players than either the United States or Canada can boast.

World hockey tournaments are held in the off years between the Olympic games. In 1954 they were held in Germany. This tournament was won by Canada, with Russia second, Czechoslovakia third, and the United States in fourth place. The next world tournament to be held in February of 1957 will take place in Moscow. The United States will have an entry in this, in fact, they are now practicing in Boston, Mass. The schedule for the American team will consist of a playing tour of the United States, further European exhibitions, and finally the championship games in Moscow.

From the spectator point of view hockey is a wonderful game. Some like it for its speed and thrill-packed action, others for its seeming simplicity and hard physical aspects. And the closer students of hockey like it for its complicated pattern, intricate plays and fine teamwork. It is a relatively simple game to understand and follow, and the rules are such that most people can quickly spot an offside or see the reason for a penalty.

Hockey is a hard, strenuous game, requiring great stamina, therefore, the player must be in top physical condition. He may be required to skate at top speed for 3 minutes or more and perhaps rest only 6 minutes. And, of course, he must be able to withstand being subjected to stiff body and board checks from the opposition. It requires quick, clear thinking on his part at all times. He should be well-coached with set plays to meet situations which arise without a second's notice.

One sports writer had this to say about the hockey player: "Hockey is a grand game, and those who play it love it. They might find it hard to express in words the appeal it has for them, as well as the spectators, beyond recalling the joy of speeding over the ice on flashing blades, the skill needed to stickhandle the puck, and the exhilarating feeling of moving so fast with so little effort, as one glides, weaves, circles and dodges about. For amateur or professional, the greatest appeal of the game is the sheer fun which comes from playing it that gets him into the game."

In Minnesota there is an increase in interest in hockey every year. 1945 our state witnessed the birth of a High School State Tournament which is now held annually. Prior to 1945 high school hockey existed in this state, however only a minimum of schools carried the sport in their athletic program. At one time hockey was considered, for the most part, a sport for the northern regions of our state. Now, each year more and more high schools are developing the sport. In southern Minnesota, namely Minneapolis and St. Paul, hockey has progressed very fast. Although the northern regions still hold the upper hand, the margin of difference since 1945 has decreased considerably.

The development of our State Hockey program has had a great effect on Inter-collegiate hockey. Like our Minnesota High School League the Inter-collegiate league improves each year; perhaps not in the increased number of teams, but in caliber of hockey played. Today college hockey could almost be compared to semi-professional hockey. Although many of the players in Western Collegiate Hockey are Canadian, most teams are represented by Minnesota players. The University of Minnesota has a great majority of Minnesota players. A few are Canadian-born. Minnesota is considered a top contender in the league each year.

It would be safe to say that Minnesota produces more college caliber hockey players than any other state in the Union, this being true because of their High School hockey program. This is extremely noteworthy, as it has allowed many Minnesota boys to go on to college on hockey scholar ships, who would not otherwise have had the opportunity.

John Matchefts

Head hockey coach at Lincoln high school, is a native of Eveleth, and was graduated from high school there in 1949, being active in all sports and named to the all-state hockey team in 1947, 1948 and 1949. Eveleth won the state high school hockey title in both 1948 and 1949.

He then went on to the University of Michigan, where he majored in physical education and was a member of the national champion Michigan team in 1951, 1952 and 1953, serving as captain in 1953. He was named to the All-American team in 1951-3, and received the award for the most outstanding player in the national tourney in 1953.

He entered the Marine Corps in the summer of 1953 as a second lieutenant. In 1955 he represented the Marine Corps on the U. S. hockey team that played in a World Tournament in Germany, and last winter he was on the U. S. Olympics team that played in Italy.

40,000 Are Killed on U. S. Highways During Past Year

Traffic accidents killed more Americans in 1956 than ever before—and law officials throughout the nation are turning to get tough policies to cut down the highway slaughter.

There was at least a 5 per cent rise over 1955. Safety experts estimate the total at more than 40,000.

The 1955 figure was 38,426. The previous high — 39,969 — was recorded in 1941.

In states which had fewer traffic fatalities in 1956 than in 1955, credit generally is given to rigid enforcement of safety measures. In states where traffic deaths increased, similar crackdowns generally are planned.

Aliens Called on to File Addresses

Asked to Fill out Form at Nearest Postoffice

Robert L. Woytych, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service at St. Paul, today urged all aliens in Minnesota who have not yet filled out alien address report forms, to do so before January 31, at the nearest immigration service office or local post office.

He pointed out that the law requires all non-citizens except persons in diplomatic status, foreign representatives to the United Nations and Mexican national contract laborers to report their address to the Government each January.

Mr. Woytych added: "The parent or legal guardian of alien children under 14 years of age must fill out the address report form for such children, in order to comply with the law."

The immigration official said many aliens already have filled out address reports. He estimated that 24,000 such reports will be filed in Minnesota before January 31.

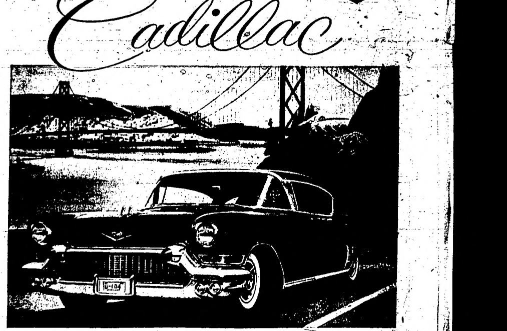
Cadillac



Finally Believed His Eyes and Ears!

He has heard and read a great many wonderful things about this new 1957 Cadillac since it made its first appearance a few brief weeks ago—

—about its magnificent new luxury, for instance . . . its brilliant new power and responsiveness . . . its marvelous new handling ease . . . and its extraordinary new smoothness of ride.

And so, quite frankly, he began to wonder if it weren't all too good to be true. Could any motor car be as wonderful as this latest "car of cars" was reputed to be?

Well, he's decided to put his eyes and ears to the test today. And the verdict is unmistakable!

And what a revelation the car is to drive!

A hill in the offing? He just nudges the accelerator and the car sweeps up and over as effortlessly as if it were traveling the level road.

A stop light coming up? He presses his toe—ever so gently—on the broad braking pedal and comes to the smoothest, surest stop imaginable.

Yes, it's true what they say about this newest of Cadillacs. This is far and away the finest motor car ever to travel the world's highways.

• • • •

How about you? Have you heard the wonderful things they're saying about the 1957 Cadillac?

Well, the proof is in the driving—and the facts about Cadillac have never been more convincing.

Editorials . . .

PERSONAL STUFF

This is not an editorial. It involves New Year's resolutions. New Year's resolutions are personal. The column therefore is personal and the editorial "we" for the time being is out the window.

Behind every good resolution is an admission of error. To understand any resolution one should know something about the circumstances that prompted it.

Strictly speaking, mine was a technical error which resulted in hospitalization. It was the cloistered atmosphere of the hospital that I had occasion for meditation as I was receiving medication. It was in the hours of meditation that I recognized my error. The good resolution followed.

My error was not an uncommon one. For many years I have been a Do-It-Yourself man in providing for my medical needs. I did well with such simple remedies of nature as aspirin, bromo seltzer and iodine. Recently I have broadened my field considerably, recognizing the marvels of each new wonder drug as it revolutionized the healing art.

My medicine chest contained a steadily increasing assortment of biotics and antibiotics in various forms. I had capsules and pills and ointments and spirits and salves and elixers and inhalents and pastes. Of course I also had vitamins. I read about their purposes and properties. Being naturally conservative, I limited my purchases to those recommended by Reader's Digest.

Thus equipped and with great self confidence, I was not disturbed last week when a skin discoloration on my cheek failed to yield to my regular after-shave lotion. I had the cream that would clear that up in a jiffy. The next day the discoloration was slightly inflamed, and that called for an ointment which fortunately had been compounded for such a specific purpose. I also took a mild laxative, one that I knew was not habit-forming.

I was sure I had the situation well in hand but two days later the inflamation erupted suddenly into a rash and I immediately started taking three tablets a day as a safeguard against infection. Having taken this sensible precaution I proceeded at regular intervals to rub in liberal helpings of a new wonder balm.

By the next morning the discoloration had spread to a large area of my face and my nose was being forced out of line by a slight swelling that had closed one eye. I rechecked the instructions on the last tube of paste I had used. The last line suggested that if in doubt call a doctor. This I did. He called the hospital and there I was.

Being hospitalized is an interesting experience. Paying customers are scarce during the holidays I guess and when I moved in on the morning of New Year's eve I was made to feel very welcome.

I had my choice of rooms. This being a long-looked-forward-to- opportunity to get a dividend on the dollars I had been putting into insurance policies, I asked for the best they had.

It was not until later than I discovered I was occupying the bridal suite in the maternity section, and then I knew what they had had in mind when they told me that regardless of what happened I would not be eligible for the first-baby-of-the-year contest. But the service was great. They couldn't have been any more considerate of me if I had been their own mother.

My doctor was very complimentary about the good job I had done in providing first aid for myself, but I can't repeat here what he said. I asked him if he thought I would be permanently disfigured. He was slow in answering, but finally he said, "I can guarantee, I can fully guarantee that when we get you out of here your face will not look worse that it did before."

"Might I ask you Doc," I said respectfully, "just what kind of a wonder drug you are going to use to restore my face to its natural beauty?"

"The wonder drug that you will get most of during the next few days will be a lot of good old fashioned hot packs" he replied, and that is why, from now on, I am going to be just another old fashioned aspirin and iodine man again.

There are worth-while by-products to a short period of hospitalization. It makes it practically impossible to further postpone the physical check-up you know you should have had a long time ago. And there's a lot of comfort in finding out what's wrong with you. It is uncanny what they can discover by a few simple tests.

In my case for instance I am glad that I now know that I am too fat. Doc broke it to me gently.

"You should be asham — we should be ashamed of ourselves" he exploded. "I know I'm a little heavy myself but I've got that under control. But you. You've got a good heart but you don't give it any room to work in. Get rid of the fat if you want to live. You look like Santa Claus," he barked, and by this time he was pacing the floor.

"What's wrong with Santa Claus?" I asked. "He's lived a long time and seems to be doing all right."

"You'll have a chance to talk that over with him personally", and Doc lowered his voice almost appealingly. "You'll be a spirit yourself pretty quick if you don't take off some weight."

You can't win. I lost every argument I had both with the nurses and with the doctors. A hospital is the only kind of business, I guess, that can be operated successfully on the theory that the customer is always wrong.

But I am thinking seriously of taking Doc's advice and get in that extra ten years he talks about. That is one of the resolutions I have in mind for the new year.

It isn't going to be easy. My skin is already a couple of sizes too big for me and I don't like the idea of wearing it like a kimono. It will mean a new outfit of clothes of course. If I go through with the idea, along about Easter I will be offering a suit and an overcoat, along with an assortment of wearing apparel, all extra large, in trade for one young man's suit, size 36.

The other resolution I have already resolved and that is to drop my membership in the Do-It-Yourself medical club. I have already disposed of my assortment of wonder drugs. I know that the doctors do not know all there is to know about my health needs, but I know too that they know a lot more about it than I do, and I'll turn the job over to them.

And I know too that it's comforting to have a good hospital to go to when you need hospitalization. Good doctors, a good staff of competent nurses, and a well equipped, modern building for them to work their trade in —this is a combination that adds up to a very much worth-while community asset.

So that's it for this issue, and while it's still personal, best wishes for a Happy New Year.

4-H'er of the WEEK

Arleen Malberg

Our leading lady this week is Arleen Malberg of the Steiner 4-H club. Arleen first joined 4-H in 1946, with home beautification and health her first projects.

Since that time, Arleen has taken such home economics projects as food preparation, clothing, homemaking assistance, and bread baking. Her most outstanding work has been in this last project, for she has been county champion in bread for many years. She demonstrated at the state silent bread demonstration contest first in 1951, and again in 1952 and 1954 and 1955.

For her skill and success in bread baking, Arleen was awarded the Hoel Award for bread three times, and thus gained it in 1955 for permanent keeping. This award is presented by the Hoel family to the county's best bread baker.

Arleen was also presented the key award by the Cities Service Oil Company in 1954 for her work in Jr. leadership.

Since graduating from Lincoln high school, and the teacher training department, Arleen has been teaching at the Holt school. She has taken an active interest in the Pennington County Rural Youth in the Steiner community. She is the daughter of the Vernon Malberg's of rural Thief River Falls.

Bill Svendsgaard

Another active 4-H'er in Pennington County is Bill Svendsgaard. Bill was born in Thief River Falls on April 23, 1939, and has been a member of the Mavie 4-H club for 9 years. During these years he has held the offices of president for two years and secretary and treasurer. As a result of this and his work in leadership, Bill won the Elks leadership award in February, 1956, at Crookston. Bill's projects included chickens, safety, health, garden, dairy, jr. leadership, home beautification, conservation. For his work in home yard improvement and garden he won the horticultural award in 1955.

He has had four trips to the state fair on demonstrations on safety and agriculture, he was chosen the outstanding actor at the play contest in Goodridge last year, and he also won the good grooming contest in 1953. For work in leadership, Bill won the key award at the achievement Banquet this fall. At the same time he received the Hoel award for dairy for his good work in that project. He participated in the 4-H play contest for several years.

Bill is not only active in 4-H but also in school and church work. He plays the clarinet in the school band, sings in the mixed and boy's choruses at the FFA, participated in the junior class play, served as librarian assistant, artist on the Mascot, the school paper, and served on the discipline council. He is a member in the Luther League and has held the offices of president and treasurer and teaches Sunday School.

His plans for the future include Bemidji State Teachers College, where he would like to take up teaching. He is also interested in being an IFYE.

About 4-H Bill says: My 8 years in 4-H has given me a goal to work for by following the 4-H motto, "To make the best better." It has given me responsibility at my own home to always work for improvement and help me to gain self-confidence in myself. It has taught me to meet the public and I have met many friends through my leadership and participation in 4-H, School, Church, and community activities.

Bill is the son of the Chas. Svendsgaards of Goodridge. He has one brother, Dale, a past 4-H member, and two sisters, Kathy and Karen, who are also 4-H members.

The Times office is as close as your phone. Give us a ring if you have guests from out of town.

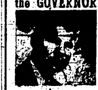
REPORT from the GOVERNOR



by Orville L. Freeman

In his inaugural address to the State Legislature, the Governor is expected to present a review of conditions within the state, a summary of the major problems that face state government, and his recommendations for the solution of those problems. In my inaugural message of January 9, 1957, I am happy to report that the outlook presented is one of confidence in the future; and that the problems we face are ones that arise, not from weakness, but from strength.

Four Areas of Growth

During the recent past, Minnesota has been characterized by growth; a growth that is at once the measure of our strength and the source of our confidence, as well as the cause of some of our problems.

Growth in Population

The great, unexpected miracle of this decade has been the growth of our population. This growth has brought about special problems in education and in services for the aging. It also represents the promise of a more populous and more productive tomorrow.

Growth in Productivity

Minnesota's total dollar income has increased from $3,213,000,000 in 1946 to $5,394,000,000 in 1955. Even after the effects of inflation have been taken into account, the real income of our state has increased 22.2 percent in the last ten years. Business has grown, established industries are expanding, and new industry is coming into Minnesota.

Growth in Government Services

Services provided by government, notably in the fields of education, highways, and welfare, have increased tremendously in the past ten years. But in general, these services have not caught up with the increased needs. We face a period of great expension in these three areas as well as in many others, such as conservation and business development services. We must expand these services to meet the needs of tomorrow.

Growth in Information

During the past two years we have accumulated more information and understanding of the conditions and problems that we face than ever before in history. Because we have this information, we shall be able to legislate more wisely and plan more adequately the programs needed to make the most of our future potential.

Recommendations

In my inaugural address, I presented four major goals toward which we should work:—the maximum development of human resources; the conservation and development in government. Furthur specific recommendations to the Legislature will be made in prehensive program for the aging, and proproposals for government reorganization.

There are 10 giant iron ore docks at the head of Lake Superior. They have a combined storage capacity of 85 average boatloads of ore.

Minnesota ore docks used to handle nothing but direct-shipping ores. But not today. Last year 38% of all ores shipped had to be concentrated in expensive plants to make them economically useful. Our iron ore mining companies must turn more and more to processing low-grade ores to meet the requirements of the nation's steel mills.

They have already invested millions of dollars in scientific research and in new plants and facilities to upgrade and improve our remaining iron ores. Many millions more must still be invested in Minnesota if we are to maintain our place as one of the world's major iron ore producers. Every Minnesotan has a stake in this effort.

RESEARCH AND INVESTMENT CAN KEEP MINNESOTA'S IRON ORE FUTURE BRIGHT!

Discuss Curricular and Other Problems; Next Meeting Jan. 28

Well over 100 persons attended the opening session of a series of discussion meetings on local school affairs Monday evening in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Supt. J. A. Sater briefly outlined the purpose of the meetings in which parents of local children in the elementary, junior high and high school are divided into committees to discuss various phases of curricular and other matters.

The Monday evening meeting was divided into two groups, composed of parents with high school children both junior & senior grades and those with elementary-age children. Before the meeting ended both groups were split into seven committees which will meet again at the high school Monday, Jan. 28, for the next discussion period.

Paul Anderson, high school director, presided over the high school discussion group which adjourned to the Lincoln library after the opening remarks by Sater, and Kermit Eastman, elementary school director, presided over the elementary group, which remained in the auditorium.

Both Anderson and Eastman gave a more detailed outline of the purpose of the meetings and also gave a brief listing of subjects recommended for study by the committees to be organized at future meetings.

Both parents and teachers attending the Monday meeting actively participated in the preliminary discussions which started early after the meeting was divided into two groups. These concerned subjects which would be discussed in greater detail starting with the Jan. 28 meetings.

Among subjects discussed by the elementary group were remedial readings, special problems and arrangements for the brilliant or dull child, obligations of the church, school and home in the discipline of a child, entrance age requirements, extracurricular activities, and bases of grading and whether or not

Former Gully Man Is Proposed for High State Post

Norris Ellertson Slated for Deputy Agriculture Commissioner in State

Norris C. Ellertson, formerly a research fellow at the University of Minnesota and for three years in charge of research for the Minnesota Farmers Union, with headquarters in St. Paul, is understood to have been chosen to become state deputy commissioner of agriculture, the St. Paul Pioneer Press reported Saturday.

Ellertson, formerly of Gully, is the son of Mrs. Ed Ellertson and a brother of the Rev. Carroll Ellertson, former assistant pastor of Trinity Lutheran church in this city.

As right hand man of state Commissioner Byron G. Allen, Mr. Ellertson is expected to assume his new duties as soon as his appointment is formally arranged.

Selection of Ellertson is understood to be part of a move by Commissioner Allen for administrative changes to increase the flow of agricultural information to people in agriculture and agricultural industries.

This results in the creation of a new classified civil service position in his department, called agricultural administrative supervisor. Waldo C. Johnson, formerly deputy commissioner, has now been transferred to this new position to serve pending a civil service examination in which he will compete. The position will relieve Commissioner Allen of considerable office paper work.

Mr. Ellertson reportedly has been chosen to succeed Mr. Johnson as deputy. At the university, Mr. Ellertson did research in rural sociology. He was a member of Gov. Freeman's state tax commission and two of its subcommittees. He is married and lives in Bloomington.

Brodin Speaks at Rotary Meeting

Reports on Conditions Among Eskimos in Alaska

A. V. Brodin was the speaker at the regular noon meeting of the Rotary Club Monday, and he gave an interesting report on his experiences in the missionary field in Alaska where he and Mrs. Brodin directed a mission school.

According to his observations, the white men were responsible to a large degree for the generally low moral standards among the Eskimos. He is satisfied that the government, through its various welfare activities, is doing an excellent job at the present time in helping the natives. They are not cooperative as a rule, however, and progress is slow.

A sum of money, contributed by employes of the L. B. Hartz organization as a birthday gift to Mr. Hartz, was turned over to the club to be used for whatever community project Mr. Hartz may select.

Gov. Freeman Inaugurated for 2nd Term

Outlines Proposed Revision of State Taxes in Address

Thorough-going renovation of the state's tax policies, coupled with increased state aids for education and for welfare programs, were recommended to the 60th legislature Wednesday by Gov. Freeman in his inaugural message.

Appearing personally before a joint session of the Senate and House of Representatives, the governor called for legislation that he previously had announced would mean a 190-million dollar budget for the biennium—25 million dollars more than was appropriated two years ago.

Freeman also made a plea for four other changes in the law he said would bring greater efficiency in government. These are government reorganization, reappointionment of the legislature, party designation for the lawmakers, and constitutional revision.

"All have been long approved by both our major political parties," he emphasized. "The time for temporizing on these needed reforms has passed.

"Let us move to take appropriate action on each of these matters, so that history may say of the 1957 legislative session that it concluded Minnesota's first century of statehood by acts of vision, courage and wisdom."

Chief Judge Roger L. Dell of the Minnesota supreme court administered the second term oath of office to Freeman before he started his inaugural message.

The governor was flanked by seven supreme court jurists and state constitutional officers as he stood at the podium. The galleries were packed with spectators.

Freeman stressed that an overhaul of the tax policies will "increase the fairness with which our taxes are imposed, and help us create in Minnesota a tax climate favorable to the growth of business."

He said that "business enterprise can be harassed out of all proportion to the revenue provided by unwise tax laws."

Two Lincoln Seniors Survive Preliminary Scholarship Contest

Two seniors at Lincoln high school have been named finalists in the National Merit Scholarship competition, according to Guidance Director D. E. Rolle. The local students are among the 7500 highest scorers on a nationwide college aptitude examination given to 162,000 seniors in 12,500 high schools on October 24.

The Lincoln finalists are John C. Lynskey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John X. Lynskey, and Jeanne V. Dahlen daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Dahlen.

The finalists now face a stiff three-hour college board examination on January 12, plus intensive screening of their leadership and extra-curricular records by a selection board.

At stake are more than 700 four-year college scholarships, many of them sponsored by business and industrial corporations. Included are 100 Sears-Roebuck Foundation Merit Scholarships and nationwide programs sponsored by such companies and foundations as Pittsburg Plate Glass, F. W. Woolworth, Standard Oil (Indiana), International Nickel, and many others.

The January 12 examination will be given in designated testing centers throughout the country, and at least 7,000 of the merit finalists are expected to survive this hurdle, according to John M. Stalnaker, president of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

"Every member of this group of 7,000 will have the highest potential to benefit from college training, and I wish only that there were merit scholarships for each of them. The response of business and industry in establishing Merit Scholarship Programs to help these students has been magnificent. But we will probably have 9 or 10 highly qualified students for every merit scholarship available."

In the final phase of the competition, the other accomplishments and the character of the competitors will be evaluated. About April 25, a fortunate 700 will become the Merit Scholars of 1957.

The runners-up will each receive a Certificate of Merit, attesting to their high ability; and all colleges and universities will be notified, enabling these students to be considered for thous-

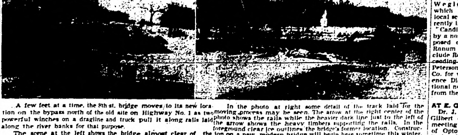
Step-by-Step Progress Shown In Moving 8th St. Bridge to Bypass



A few feet at a time, the 8th st. bridge moves to its new location on the bypass north of the old site on Highway No. 1 as two powerful winches on a dragline and truck pull it along rails laid along the river banks for that purpose.

The scene at the left shows the bridge almost clear of the highway approaches as the moving job gets under way. Motorists would do well to member the bridge is no longer in its old place as missing the bypass would very likely result in a serious accident.

PURDY'S THIEF RIVER FALLS

Sugar Beet Acreage to Increase by 6,400 Acres in State in '57

A scramble was touched off Monday among Northwest farmers for shares in Uncle Sam's "million dollar jump" in sugar beet acreages for 1957.

The go-signal was given by the Minnesota State Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee, with headquarters in St. Paul. This flashed word to county ASC committees in the Red River Valley beet areas to begin taking applications from farmers for proportionate shares in the expanded acreage.

For Minnesota, an increase of nearly 6,400 acres over last year to a state allotment of 73,661 acres, and for North Dakota a similar rise to a 38,335-acre total for 1957, have to be divided up among farmers. The lion's share of the increased acreage will go to those farmers, about 800 in Minnesota, who already have sugar beet acreage allotments. Only 2 per cent of the acreage is held for distribution to new growers.

The big job is getting the increased state allotments distributed among farmers in fair proportions and also in reasonable relation to the capacities of farmers to expand. After the farmers' aplications are adjusted and tabulated in the county committee offices, the final allocations will be made in the state office in St. Paul.

The history of the church was presented by Rev. G. Raymond Carlson, Minnesota district superintendent and former pastor. Other former pastors, Rev. E. B. Adamson of Minneapolis and Rev. Maurice Cory of Hallock, spoke of their ministry here.

Speaker of the evening was Rev. Carlston who spoke on "Dedication," and who conducted the dedication ceremony following his message. The church was presented by the pastor and board of trustees, which includes Ervin Strandquist, secretary; Orvin Peterson, treasurer; George Peterson and Bruese Blazer. Rev. Adamson offered the dedicatory prayer.

Bjornson Takes Treasurer Post

Assumes Office Monday Succeeding Arthur Hansen

Minnesota had two state treasurers for four hours Monday.

Val Bjornson, Republican, took his oath of office at 8 p. m. in the presence of Arthur Hansen, Democratic - Farmer - Laborite whom he defeated by a narrow margin in the November election.

Hansen's term did not expire until noon.

The oath of office was administered by Chief Justice Roger Dell. Dell remarked as Hansen congratulated Bjornson.

"The American system is a fine thing when two former adversaries can meet in this friendly fashion."

Bjornson returned to the office he held for four years before leaving in 1954 to run for the U. S. Senate.

Hansen made no announcement of his future plans, but Gov. Freeman has indicated he plans to name him to a state post.

PUBLIC OPINION

To the Editor:

As a resident of School District No. 18, I feel obliged to comment on Mr. Larson's letter as printed in the Times of last Monday.

Being an individual who prefers to determine the facts before becoming an authority (or a master of the barbed pen), I inquired concerning adult course offerings. I was pleased to learn that courses are offered when sufficient demand on the part of adults in this area seems to warrant such courses.

Though I appreciate such a wit (I may be giving double credit by the term), I feel that such talents are being wasted. Perhaps Mr. Larson might induce school officials to teach an adult course in sarcasm. I can also perceive a Graduation Day program complete with impressive diplomas covered with Old English Script testifying that the bearer has performed satisfactorily and is entitled to the inferiority complex which he possesses.

In reference to a possible course in bull fighting: I have been unable to decide whether Mr. Larson is seeking a market for livestock or seeking a position as instructor. I am certain with his talents he would prove to be a master teacher in whatever course might be offered in which the "bull" could be utilized.

Yours truly,
Norman Hanson

Canadian Pacific Strike Continues

Arbitration Move Is Rejected as Non-binding

The Canadian Pacific Railway stood firm Tuesday, against a compromise to end the six-day old strike against the coast-to-coast line, it was announced at Ottawa.

There still was no indication that the federal government would act to end the walkout tieing up nearly half of Canada's rail system.

CPR President N. R. Crump rejected a proposal for the striking members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen to return to work while a commission of seven persons held a lengthy inquiry into the chief issue, the line's plan to eliminate some 200 firemen-helpers from diesel locomotive in freight and yard service.

The commission's report, to be due by next Dec. 31, would not be binding on either side. Crump previously had indicated his willingness to go along with an inquiry, but only if findings were accepted by both sides in advance.

The compromise was proposed by top officials of the Canadian Labor Congress, mediating informally in an effort to end the walkout which has put more than 70,00 employes of the railroad and dependent industries out of work.

It is not the ups and downs of life that bother us; it's the jerks.

Soil Bank Acreage Reserve Rates Set on National Basis

Chairman Oscar Houske of Pennington ASC Says Rates Will Vary Widely

Farm per-acre rates under the Soil Bank's 1957 acreage reserve program will vary, either up or down, from the national unit rates for the various crops, Oscar J. Houske, chairman of Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, said today. The rates will vary largely because of relative productivity and farming methods, he explained.

For wheat in 1957, the determination of payment rates per acre for a farm will be based on the "normal" yield of the land placed in the acreage reserve and the rate per bushel applicable to the county. This is the same method as announced last August before winter wheat was planted.

National "base" unit rates and the approximate average rate per acre are: Wheat, $1.20 per bushel, $20.04 per acre; corn 90 cents per bushel, $42.60 per acre.

In summing up the feed situation generally, Houske quotes a recent U. S. Department of Agriculture report that the estimated total feed concentrate supply (including corn) for the 1956-57, is "setting a new record of 198 million tons, 14 percent above the 1950-54 average.

With an average rate of feeding per animal the big supply this year would be sufficient to take care of our total prospective requirements and increase the carry over into 1957-58 by another 10 percent."

Price-support operation in four commodities accounted for the bulk of the Commodity Credit Corporation's loan total as of October 31, the Department of Agriculture has reported. CCC's total investment—including loans—as of that date was more than $8 billion.

Loans outstanding as of October 31 amounted to $2,878 million, including $1280 million in cotton, $623.5 million in tobacco, $416 million in corn, $407 million in wheat, and $151 million in other agricultural commodities. Loans outstanding totaled $2,878,434,454.

In attendance will be Ed Moren, inspector for Pennington and Red Lake counties.

The course is for weed and seed inspectors only. It is presented by the University's Institute of Agriculture, in cooperation with the Minnesota department of agriculture, dairy and food—division of plant industry.

Instruction will cover weed and seed identification, crop production, weed control, insect control, seed certification, federal and state seed laws, plant disease control, public relations and other subjects.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

Notice anything different? Yep — we decided to rename our column! Some people might ask "What's in a name?" but in the case of a column title there's a lot . . . a column that's called by the heading we formerly used should be about things that happen RIGHT AROUND TOWN.

Unfortunately, the press of other duties usually prevented our finding enough such items (perhaps, too, we aren't nosey enough to be a sharp columnist!) So, in line with our tendency to wander from subject to subject — just sort of shooting the breeze, that is — we decided to give our column a name to suit the occasion.

Maybe we can make it a better column for all that. The new name certainly gives us more leeway in our subject material!

Did you read the letter in the Public Opinion column in Monday's issue? While we don't necessarily agree or disagree with James L. Larson of St. Hilaire on his letter concerning archery and hat-making we certainly agree he has a wonderfully keen sense of humor and knows how to express his humor to best advantage.

There's only one thing you left out Jim — you could have suggested a kindergarten course in finger-painting for adults in their second childhood.

We had a talk with Captain Walter Anderson of the highway patrol a few days ago about fatal accidents in the state in 1956. The captain says actually the death rate per 100 million miles driven last year is down from something like 5.2 to 4.6. Of course some people — the alarmists — don't take much stock in such figures but go, rather, by the actual number of deaths.

We think the 4.6 deaths per 100 million miles driven is by far the more impressive figure when we stop to think of just how much driving it takes to total 100 million miles.

That many miles is about 4000 times around the world. In short, your chances of getting killed on the highways, percentage-wise, are about 1/1000!

Of course you reduce the odds in your favor when you drive under the influence or otherwise tempt fate while you're behind the wheel.

If you're one of those folks who really appreciate a good comic strip — such as "Peanuts" —you can read about the artist who draws the Peanuts strip, in this week's edition of the Saturday Evening Post.

That article should quiet those who so mercilessly kid us dyed-in-the-wool fans about our sense of humor, shouldn't it, Jus "Charlie Brown" Moe?

Why is it a car will start on one cold morning and refuse to turn over on another morning that isn't any colder? We take back that crack we made some weeks ago about cold weather separating the cars from the clunks 'cuz there seem to be about as many '56 and '57 cars needing a shove these cold mornings as there are older models.

The stubbornness isn't restricted to any particular make. Nor is the cold weather a respector of persons, as yours truly can testify. As of Jan. 9 you won't hear any more bragging about cars that do, or disparaging remarks about those that don't start, in this column!

On the other hand, if we people had to stand outdoors all night in below-zero weather there probably would be a lot of us that refused to budge in the morning, too.

Then there are some folks that just won't budge—period. So long!

ands of other awards and prizes.

The 700 Merit Scholars choose the colleges they wish to attend. The value of each scholarship varies with the financial need of the student, ranging upward from $100 per year (minimum honorary) to $2,200 per year or more.

The colleges chosen by the Merit Scholars will receive supplemental unrestricted grants averaging $2,000 per scholarship (over the four years) to help defray the actual cost of educating the students.

The Merit Scholarship Program is now in its second year. It was established in 1955 through basic grants of $20,500,000 from the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation of New York. The National Science Foundation and the Old Dominion Foundation have given funds for research work. In the first year, 556 Merit Scholars were named. They are now freshman at 160 different colleges.

The program is designed to search the nation for those students most able to benefit from a college education, regardless of means. Once discovered, the students are supported in college by funds provided by business and industrial corporations, professional societies, and even individuals interested in helping students of high ability.

The competition is open to any public, private, or parochial high school in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico; and any high school senior may participate. Today's 7,500 finalists represent one half of one per cent of 1957's high school graduating classes—the best in each state.

Many Share in Meeting to Talk School Problems

a child should be failed for unsatisfactory work due to lack of effort.

In each subject discussion was lively and superintendent Sater said he was pleased with the results of the first meeting.

The high school group discussed problems pertaining to juvenile delinquency (smoking and other infractions) which took up the main portion of the meeting. Some time was given however, to discussion of marking methods and the mentally retarded child.

Dividing the two main groups into seven committees each was the last order of business before the Monday meeting broke up.

Superintendent Sater said the aim of the meetings is to acquaint each parent with what his child is doing on an individual basis without any comparison whatsoever with others. The end result of the discussions, he added, will be the compilation of opinion of a good cross-section of parents with school children, which would help local schools provide the best possible education program for the children in Thief River Falls. He urged that every parent attend future meetings.

Dairy

Gentle care for dairy cows pays off in bigger milk checks.

To let her milk down, a cow needs to secrete oxytocin — an important hormone — into the bloodstream.

Milking procedures are probably more important than is inheritance in causing cows to dry up early. That's because the more milk is left in the udder after a normal milking, the faster milk production will drop off.

So to stimulate let-down and get the maximum amount of milk from a cow, it's important to treat her with care and start milking within a minute or two after the let-down has been stimulated.

A series of experiments with a pair of twin dairy heifers at the University a few years ago showed how important oxytocin is in milk production. The heifers — called T63 and T64 — produced [illegible] and 30 pounds of butterfat, respectively, during their first lactation periods. That is pitifully low production.

During the second lactation, Dr. Peterson and his co-workers injected T64 with oxytocin at each milking. The result: T64 produced 215 pounds of butterfat that year, while T63 produced less than 50 pounds.

For the third lactation, the procedure was reversed. T63 got the oxytocin and outproduced T64, [illegible] pounds to 52.

Clean utensils and a clean milk tank go a long way toward maintaining high milk quality this winter. Rapid cooling is necessary, but it doesn't replace the need for clean equipment.

Cows that were clipped in mid-October need to be clipped again. And if the cows haven't been clipped before, clip them now. Be sure to clip the flanks and udder. That will make it easier to keep the cows and the milk clean.

Hogs

A thorough clean-up in the hog house before farrowing is one of the best "vaccines" for preventing diseases.

And once you have a good sanitation program under way, don't ruin it all by buying a disease into your herd.

Check the family history of any herd from which you buy feeder pigs, gilts, or a boar.

There are three main points in swine sanitation for this time of year:

First, clean the hog house and scrub it thoroughly with a boiling lye solution. Wash all floors, partitions and lower walls with a solution of one pound of lye to 30 gallons of water. The boiling water will kill the worm eggs and knock out germs. Lye loosens the dirt.

Second, scald the concrete or wooden feeding floors outside the house with the lye solution. Do the same thing to floors of movable houses. If the houses have dirt floors, haul out three or four inches of old dirt and replace it with clean soil.

Third, wash the sows with lukewarm soapy water about two weeks before putting them in farrowing pens. Remove the dirt that contains worm eggs and disease germs from their sides, udders and feet. This eliminates worm infestations.

Pregnant sows may be wormed about 3 weeks before farrowing with piperazine. Follow the directions on the container when you use this material.

Twenty per cent of the national farm income is from hogs and pigs consume half of the corn in Minnesota. Don't forget barley is a good substitute for corn and we have lots of it. Why not feed it to hogs?

Machinery

You can make good use of your spare time this winter by repairing farm machinery. But don't do any painting if the temperature of equipment is lower than 40 degrees. That means that painting metal this winter won't be practical unless you have a well-heated garage says D. W. Bates, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Minnesota.

Crops

Research workers in the U. S. Department of Agriculture and in other experiment stations have developed strains of field corn and sweet corn that are resistant to corn ear worm. Some kinds of corn seem to produce a substance in silks which — even though it's harmless to humans — kills worms. There isn't enough seed available yet but it will be a pleasure to have corn that kills worms instead of vice versa.

AIRPORT NEWS

Some twenty-two visiting pilots have helped us get off to a good start in this New Year, not to mention the many to come via car. New Years Day, Earl Nelson of Crookston stopped by in his Ercoupe, and Lloyd Anderson, also of Crookston, came to pick up the T-Craft that had been left here the 30th, due to high winds. Bert Trane, of Trane and Thompson Furniture Store, motored over from Karlstad to fly his Ercoupe that is hangered here.

During their lunch hour, Gene Miller and Lloyd Anderson of Crookston, flew over to TRF in a T-Craft, Jan. 2nd. After a bite to eat, they returned in the T-Craft and Champ, which had also been left here the 30th.

January 4, Ray King and Clayton Townmakan flew in from Minneapolis in a Cessna 180. They were met at the Municipal Airport and went via car to Red Lake Falls. They made the return trip to the Cities the same afternoon.

L. Wichterman, Crookston, picked up his Champ on the 4th, as the mechanic had completed the work to be done on it. The same day Arnold Reed, CCA aviation safety inspector, flew over from Fargo to re-licence the Erskine Champ. Reed flies a Cessna 170. Bob Ness flew the Champ back to Erskine the 5th.

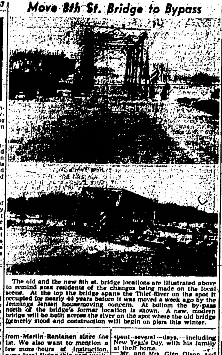
The Sky Club was a busy place Sunday morning, as a group of pilots from Grand Rapids made TRF their breakfast stop. Some of those to land were: Gerald Nelson, Joe Beddoe, Cecil and Ivan Longmore, who came in a Cessna 172; Ned Powers and James Glehtbrock flew a Champ 7AC; while Betty Westby and Leonard Hocking came in a Cessna 140. From here their next stop was to be Park Rapids.

A Piper PA-18 landed here for gas, Sunday afternoon from Wadena, Minnesota. The pilots were M. J. Merickel and Jim Foster, who had spent the day hunting fox. After something to eat and a stretch of the legs, they started on the return trip.

Martin Rantanen and Mechanic Ehrenstrom, made two Cross-Country flights this past week in Martin's Super-Cub, they were to Walthalla, North Dakota, and the Conrad Ehrenstrom Farm at Lake Bronson, Minnesota.

Allen Larson, Dayle Kainz, and Marvin Groven have gotten in a few fore hours of instruction from Martin Rantanen since the 1st. We also want to mention a few more hours of instruction, some local flying this past week: Olaf Dahlen, Mark Bjorkman, Chet Matthews, Delmar Hagen, Larry Philipp, Boyd Wilson, Milton Davidson, and Andy Hollen.

Move 8th St. Bridge to Bypass



The old and the new 8th st. bridge locations are illustrated above to remind area residents of the changes being made on the local scene. At the top the bridge spans the Thief River on the spot it occupied for nearly 44 years before it was moved a week ago by the Jennings Jensen housemoving concern. At bottom the by-pass north of the bridge's former location is shown. A new, modern bridge will be built across the river on the spot where the old bridge formerly stood and construction will begin on piers this winter.

4-H CLUB NEWS

Smiley 4-H Club

The Smiley 4-H club started their Christmas fun by meeting at the Smiley Hall on December 21, before going caroling to four neighboring families. The group was chaperoned by Maurice Newton and Lawrence Philipp. After their return they sang carols at the community club program held that evening. Community club members treated lunch and Christmas treats.

An commission on last month's report was Orrin Helgeland's clarinet solo and a report by Gary Rolandson on his trip to Chicago.

On Thursday, December 27, five members enrolled in farm mechanics met with their project leader, Maurice Newton, at the Smiley Hall. They reported a busy afternoon as well as a good time while making an indoor hockey game for the club. Another meeting is being planned.

The girls held their project meeting on "Better Breakfasts" at the Lawrence Philipp home on January 3rd. The mothers present joined with the girls in making a French omelet, Irish chowder, blueberry muffins made from quick mix, and a rice cereal cooked in milk. Many comments were made on the sauerkraut and tomato juice. All agreed it was very important to eat a good breakfast. The lesson was presented by Mrs. Adam Lendobeja, assisted by Mrs. Norton Nelson.

Halstad Quint Bows to Prowlers 51 to 44; Bagley Here Friday

Dave Hanson's four field goals, and a pair of free throws by Keith Johnson, in the three-minute overtime period provided coach Alan Adams' Prowlers with a well-earned 51 to 44 victory over the Halstad Pirates in a basketball game played on the Lincoln high school court Tuesday night.

The Prowlers will continue their rivalry with district thirty on Friday night when the Bagley Flyers invade the Prowler lair for an inter-district tilt. In the three games played with Bagley, since 1954, the locals have absorbed three losses. In 1954, the Flyers won by a 39 to 38 score; in '55, the score was 66 to 57 for the Flyers; and last year Bagley marked up a 62 to 53 triumph.

Tuesday night's game against the Halstad Pirates, one of the highly-rated teams in district thirty, found most of the action and the drama packed into the fourth quarter and the overtime period. The Prowlers held a 14 to 8 lead at the end of the first period; and a 25 to 18 advantage at the intermission.

The Prowlers entered the fourth period with a 35 to 30 lead. Dean Bergland pumped in a long shot; but Pirates' Dale Olson scored on a rebound, to leave the score at 37 to 32 for the Prowlers. Hanson rang up a field goal, and Bergland added a two-pointer, boosting the locals' lead to 41 to 32.

The Pirates refused to "fold". Darrel Kaldor dropped in a pair of free throws; Dale Olson scored on a rebound and added a point when fouled on the play. Roger Wang drove in to score on a lay-up. And the score was in a 41-41 knot with 1:25 to play. The Prowlers controlled the ball for the greater part of the final minute, and with eight seconds to play Dave Hanson was fouled as he tried a shot at the west basket. Both of Dave's free throws bounded off the rim, and the game was forced into an overtime period.

In the opening seconds of the overtime, Hanson hooked in a shot from the lane. Kaldor notched a Pirate point on a free throw, but then Hanson tipped in a rebound, scored on a layup, and rolled in a close-in shot, giving the Prowlers a 49 to 42 lead with less than a minute to play. Kaldor flipped in a pair of Halstad free throw, and Johnson closed out the game's scoring by tossing in a pair of Prowler free throws.

Hanson, with nine field goals, won the game's high point honors with 18 points. Johnson of Prowlers and Wang of the Pirates shared runner-up honors with 13 points each.

In the preliminary game, the Prowler 'B' team, with forward Bob Pearson turning in a 19-point performance, defeated the Halstad 'B' team, 76 to 54.

Thieves Face UND Freshmen Tonight

Also to Play Winnipeg Sextet in Arena Sunday

The senior hockey Thieves will play a pair of exhibition games on the Arena ice this week. On Thursday night, with face-off time at 8:00 p.m., the North Dak. 'U' freshman team will meet the Thieves. And on Sunday afternoon, with face-off time at 2:30 p.m., the Champlain Flyers, a Winnipeg hockey club, will play the Thieves on the Arena rink.

Thursday night's set on the Arena ice shoud be a bang-up exhibition of hockey, for it will find the Sioux' classy frosh team, an all-Canadian outfit, tangling with Paul Bedard's locals. Last year, in a two-game series again at the Thieves, the Sioux Frosh, with Joey Poole playing a stellar role, defeated the locals, 7 to 5, and played a 4-all draw. This year's North Dakota freshmen club is reputed to be much stronger than last season's freshman team.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Had to End Sometime

A leg-weary and bruised band of hockey Prowlers made the 75-mile trek to Hallock on Monday night and, in a regional conference game, dropped a 5 to 1 decision to Ken McFadden's Polar Bears.

What makes this loss noteworthy, and entitled to mention, is that it marks the first time since hockey was recognized as a major sport by the State High School League, that the Prowlers have been defeated by the Polar Bears. During this span, from 1945 until Monday night, the Prowlers had recorded a string of twenty-three consecutive wins over Hallock high school hockey teams. And that's a phenomenal record.

It is hard to explain this streak of continued supremacy by the Prowlers over the Polar Bears, for Hallock has, and maintains, a splendid hockey tradition. Of all the northwestern Minnesota communities, Hallock was the first to have organized hockey, and until recent years, Hallock supported senior hockey. Fact is, Hallock was one of the charter members of the States-Dominion hockey league; and prior to organization of the league, Hallock competed against such Manitoba communities as Emerson and Morris.

That the Polar Bears should have beaten the Prowlers on Monday night wasn't too surprising, for Hallock is beginning to reap the benefits of a "building" program that was a started several seasons ago by Bill Sullivan. McFadden, a Canadian, took over the coaching reins last season when Sullivan accepted the jib at Crookston Cathedral, and he's brought the Polar Bears along in fine style. The Bears will be a factor in this year's regional tournament, that's certain.

Future Champs?

What is probably the finest collection of hockey players to appear on the Arena rink in several years will be here on Thursday night when the all-Canadian North Dakota freshman team meets the senior hockey Thieves in an exhibition game.

This is the North Dakota team, hand-picked by varsity coach Al Renfrew, that is being groomed to bring to a Western Intercollegiate Hockey Conference championship to the Sioux institution. From all reports, and we've had first-hand information from reliable sources, this freshman outfit is packed with hockey talent. That they will win a conference championship for the Sioux in a couple of years is entirely possible.

The brightest light in this shining galaxy of freshman hockey performers is reputed to be Bob Peters, a goalie from Fort Frances, Ontario. And this freshman team will be a representative of Canadian junior hockey, for the players are funneled into North Dakota from Ontario in the east and British Columbia on the west, with the bulk of the players sifting down from Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

The Thieves will be able to "ice" a pretty strong team against the Frosh, though, so the game won't be a rout. Sid Vraa, who has cancelled out of the University of Minnesota for the winter quarter, will play with the Thieves; and it is hoped that Bob Baker of Rochester, visiting his folks here in town, will be lured into donning a Thieves' uniform.

One of the Best

"Wasn't that typical Halstad vs. Thief River Falls game?" So said a bystander following the Prowlers' overtime win, by a 51 to 44 score, over the Pirates here on Tuesday night. And he was right, for the game followed the usual pattern of the Halstad vs. Thief River Falls rivalry, being in doubt 'til the final buzzer.

While Dave Hanson, with his four field goals in the overtime period, proved to be the game's "hero", we thought that the best all-round game, for both teams, was turned in by the Prowlers' Keith Johnson. Keith, a well-coordinated athlete and the possessor of the best reflexes on the squad, turned in a 13-point scoring performance, but it was his floor-play that was the game-deciding factor. Keith, a southpaw, was seldom "bottled up" by the Halstad modified all-court press, and he was able to bring the ball down the floor and across the "time line" without undue trouble.

That was a good and strong Halstad team that the Prowlers beat, too, for four of starters, seniors, were members of last year's regional runner-up squad. There are times when the Prowlers, who are a junior and sophomore squad, show flashes of greatness. They have the potential.

Miscellany

Duane Glass, all-state defenseman on last season's state championship Prowler hockey team, is employed in Great Falls, Montana, and is playing hockey with that city's semi-pro outfit. According to press reports, Duane made a fine impression on the fans by his play in the first game with the Great Falls club. He's in a tough league.—Bradley Pud Teal, former Prowler who was injured while playing with the Rochester Mustangs hockey team, has been given an opportunity to get some schooling from the IMB corporation. Pud has been called east to receive this special training.—What must be the year's first "fishing derby" will be held at Bagley on Sunday, January 13th. The derby, which is sponsored by the Bagley Sportsmen's Club, will be held on Lake Lomond from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. Entry fee is $1.00, minnows will be furnished free, and numerous prizes will be awaiting the lucky anglers. First prize, to the angler catching the largest fish, by weight, will be a 7½-horsepower outboard motor.—Another "year's first" fishing derby is slated for south Pine Lake, east of Mahnomen on Sunday afternoon, with fishing hours from 1 to 4:00 p.m.—Oh yes, all anglers intending to participate in these "derbies", should be sure to have 1957 fishing licenses. Last season's licenses expired as of midnight 1956. It's a word to the wise.

Prowler Six Loses 4 in Row: Takes RLF 11-0

Returning to their home ice after a "road" campaign of four games, and all of which were losses, the Prowlers, on Wednesday night, trounced the Red Lake Falls Eagles, 11 to 0, in a regional conference hockey game played at the Arena.

The Prowlers will move away from the friendly confines of the Arena for their next two games, journeying to Crookston on Saturday night for a return game with coach Bill Sullivan's Cathedral sextet. And on Monday night, the Prowlers will travel to Grand Forks for a return game with the Redskins. On Tuesday, Jan. 15th, the Williams Wolves will meet the Prowlers on the Arena ice in a conference tilt.

Playing at Hallock on Monday night, the Prowlers dropped a 5 to 1 decision to the Hallock Polar Bears. Most of the game's scoring was clustered in the second period, with Jimmy Hall giving the Prowlers a 1 to 0 lead at the 2:32 mark. That lead was short-lived, as the Bears, with Jerome, Carriere, and a pair Bill Ryden, moved ahead to take a 4 to 1 lead.

Ryden completed a "hat trick" by scoring a Hallock tally in the third period, giving the Bears a 5 to 1 win in a regional conference game.

In a game played on the Arena rink on Wednesday night, the Prowlers, controlling the play throughout, easily bested the Red Lake Falls Eagles, winning by a top-heavy 11-0 score. Goalies Ken Sauve, who "worked" the first two periods, and Duane Erickson, who was in the nets the third period, shared the shutout honors.

Prowler scoring was quite well-balanced, with Jimmy Hall getting a pair of counters, Jeff Hanson, making his first appearance of the year in a prowler uniform, and Archie Schneider each tallied two goals. Single goals were scored by Wes Halvorson, Don Litstrom, Bruce Ranum, Curtis Ness, and Mike Poole.

Burglary Nets $175 at Karlstad

Approximately $175 was taken from the Farmers Elevator at Karlstad about 4 a. m. Tuesday, Kittson county Sheriff Oscar Pearson reported to police here.

The elevator robbery was the only successful break-in of a whole series that occurred at Karlstad and Lake Bronson that morning, Pearson said, in reporting the robbery.

An attempt to break into the Standard Oil station and an automobile agency were both unsuccessful. Kittson county authorities have a slight lead in the case but nothing further has developed so far.

Juvenile Girl in Auto Collision

Only one slight traffic accident has happened to mar the tranquillity of the city during the week, according to police here.

The mishap occurred Tuesday when a car driven by a juvenile girl hit a parked car belonging to Kenneth Lalliberte, city, by the Sports arena.

The Lalliberte car was undamaged but damage estimated at $70 was sustained by the car the girl was driving, police said.

Dental Decay Most Prevalent Disease

Dental disease is the most widespread disease in the country. Dentists assert there is little sound reason for the mounting statistics. In observance of National Children's Dental Health Week, Feb. 3 through 9, the Times, in cooperation, with the Pennington Co. Dental Society, today begins a series of articles designed to inform parents how their children can avoid the dental crippling that afflicts so much of the adult population today.

Teeth are designed to last a lifetime. Yet nearly half the population over 40 has or needs artificial dentures. In a country with the finest dental know-how in the world, our dental health is scarcely a candidate for honors. This is the record:

Almost all persons suffer from dental disease at some time during their lives.

Among adults, the greatest single cause of loss of teeth is periodontal disease, so-called pyorrhea.

The weapons are at hand for a frontal attack on the major dental diseases. Dentists assert that the enormous problem of dental disease could be cut down to size if—and it is a big if—these weapons were put to use on a wide scale.

The key lies in prevention. Prevention against dental disease, dentists agree, is the most practical approach to curtailing the vast disease toll.

They point out that, except for some unusual reason, the right dental health habits, begun early in life, should result in sound and healthy teeth that will last a lifetime.

In a message for Children's Dental Week, dentists set out this four-way program for children as the most effective means for maintaining good dental health:

1. Proper use of the toothbrush immediately after eating.
2. Emphasis on proper diet, especially the avoidance of sweet foods between meals.
3. Periodic dental examinations to detect and prevent early dental disease.
4. Water fluoridation to prevent about 60 per cent of dental decay that might otherwise occur.

The fact is that the child's second teeth are designed to last a lifetime. Barring exceptional cases, they can and will last a lifetime if proper attention is given to the young child's dental health from the beginning.

Gamble-Skogmo Sets Contest for Store Managers

Gamble-Skogmo, Inc., operating more than 2,100 stores in 20 states, today announced a contest for its stores with a worthwhile charity receiving much of the benefit from the results. During January and February, Gamble dealers and store managers have "Bet-A-Shirt" with their supervisors. If they make their first two months quotas, the supervisors will give them a brand new shirt.

The dealers and store managers, whether they win a new shirt or not, will give their supervisor old shirts at the beginning of the contest. All of these shirts will be sent into the Minneapolis home office where they will be accumulated and then given to the Goodwill Industries. From 1,500 to 2,000 shirts will be turned in and the proceeds from these shirts will amount to a sizable contribution toward the Goodwill program.

In addition, the company is sponsoring a contest which offers a vacation trip to New York City for twelve company personnel and wives. "I certainly hope I can win," said Stanley E. Readson, operator of the store here. "This has been a traditional contest in our company."

Fosston Girl, 16, Toboggan Mishap Victim on Sunday

Ruth Johnson Dies in Fosston Hospital after Being Struck on Head

Ruth Johnson, 16, daughter of Mrs. Inga Johnson of Fosston, died Sunday night in the Fosston Hospital of injuries suffered in a tobogganing accident.

Ruth was tobogganing earlier in the day with several other youngpeople on a hill 13 miles northeast of Fosston when the accident occurred. She was going down hill lying down on a small toboggan and another girl was in her path.

Someone called and the girl scampered away but failed to get her "flying saucer" toboggan out of the path of one oncoming toboggan carrying the Johnson girl, who just at that time raised up to see her way. She was struck on the side of the head by the "saucer."

Ruth appeared not seriously hurt and continued sliding down hill for some time before feeling ill. Taken to the nearby farm where her mother is employed she lapsed into unconsciousness and was taken to a Fosston doctor's office where x-rays showed she suffered a broken neck. She died a few hours later.

Funeral services were held at the Kingo Lutheran church Wednesday afternoon.

Ruth was a junior in the Fosston high school. She was a life-long resident of the Fosston area.

WORTH INVESTIGATING

Significant gains have been made by the dairy industry in northwestern Minnesota in recent years. There has been greater evidence of this progress during 1956 but it is not just a one-year development. And the healthy trend no doubt will continue.

Thruout the area there has been a notable improvement in production in terms of both quantity and quality. Artificial breeding has been a big factor in herd improvement. This program has also had the beneficial affect of encouraging interest in testing and record-keeping. The number of high producing herds is growing steadily.

The improved quality is equally encouraging. Most fat is now sold in the form of whole milk. A small but steadily increasing portion is of Grade A quality. Much is going into cheese and a large volume of skim milk is being converted to powder. Bulk cooling is proving itself and is here to stay.

These gains are all being made at the farm level. They represent the added initiative, effort and investment of our farmers who are in dairying for keeps.

But while we have been making good progress at the farm level we have not made the progress we should be making at the marketing level.

The operation of our better dairy farms in northwestern Minnesota compares favorably with the dairy farm operations of southern Minnesota and Wisconsin. But the cash return our farmers are getting for most of their dairy products compares unfavorably with what farmers are being paid in some other areas where marketing costs have been greatly reduced. Our creamery manufacturing costs in this corner of the state are far out of line.

Men whose opinions we have reason to respect tell us that with a reorganization of our marketing and manufacturing structure it should be possible to increase the net return to the producer of our area by four or maybe five cents a pound for butterfat. That would mean $10 more a year from an average cow and $20 a year from a 400 pound producer. That would be an extra dividend that could be obtained for the producer without any out-of-pocket cost to him, we have been assured.

This statement is sufficiently challenging to justify a little investigating. Most of the industry, here and elsewhere, is organized on the cooperative basis. Getting the facts would therefore be a comparatively simple procedure.

There was a time in the horse and buggy days when the marketing of parishable farm products was necessarily a community problem. For the dairy industry, marketing has become an area problem and this fact has been recognized with good results in several areas of both Minnesota and Wisconsin.

In our own dairying operations we will not get the full benefits of the fine progress that is being made in production at the farm level until we carry through and do an equally effective job at the marketing level.

ENFORCEMENT BEST SOLUTION

Governor Orville Freeman has announced that drastic steps will be taken to "keep drunken drivers and other law violators off the highways." The bold headlines to this story indicates that "stiff new penalties" will be imposed against those who break the law.

We probably should keep in mind that such drastic action can be taken only against those who "get caught" breaking the law. And we still are of the opinion that the fear of "getting caught" is the most affective deterrent for curbing law violations in any field.

Fear of the death penalty would not stop motorists from driving through a stop sign unless there were a strong likelihood of them getting caught if they didd rive through a stop sign.

And too harsh penalties defeat their own purpose. We know from experience that juries will not convict when penalties become too severe.

The emphasis must be on law enforcement rather than punishment if we are to reduce highway accidents. Most of the accidents involve neither drunks nor criminals, and a thoroughly satisfactory solution for the problem probably never will be found. By strengthening "enforcement" we can hope to curb carlessness, closely related to recklessness, the main cause of our many highway tragedies.

FAST TAX WRITE-OFFS

The Eisenhower administration has been criticized because big business has a big voice in determining its policies. The administration is now bein criticized by those who speak for big business because more fast tax write-offs are not being granted. The steel industry, for instance, is unhappy because taconite developments will not be given special tax consideration as essential to defense.

This matter of fast write-offs probably is more important as a political issue than as a tax problem. The industry that has the privilege of depreciating the total value of its investment in five years does have an immediate advantage. There probably is a justification for a fast write-off for some types of emergency developments. But we can see no particular reason why a taconite development, now that the process has been proven, should be considered as an emergency need.

A taconite plant certainly cannot now be considered as a speculative venture. A machine can be depreciated to the full extent of its value only once. And having been fully depreciated, in a short period of time, such long term investments pay a long term penalty for their short-term advantage.

At any rate it is nice to know that the Eisenhower big business administration is saying "no" to some of the demands of big business.

What's the wonder of a telephone?

Remember 'way back to the first time you held the 'phone to your ear? A familiar voice said "Hello", and you heard it but you couldn't speak. You were lost in the magic of that voice in your ear.

That's the great wonder of a telephone—the reason there's no service anywhere, at any price, that's quite the same. Only a telephone can carry your voice across the miles to one single person—the one you called—and carry his voice back to you. So clear you can hear every word; so true you can hear a tear or a smile, all the warmth that a human voice can hold. Northwestern Bell Telephone Company.

The Legislature

By Orlin Folwick

The Minnesota Legislature went into its 1957 session this week facing problems that will lay the foundation for the biggest political battle in 1958 the state has seen in many years.

In the house of representatives, Liberals aligned with Governor Freeman and dominated by organized labor were in control. The senate, whose members are holdovers from the 1954 election, remained in Independent-Conservative control. The reaction of these two bodies to Governor Freeman's program will provide the fuel for the 1958 campaign.

Perhaps the most interesting figure in the background of the 1957 legislative picture is organized labor. It has become a powerful factor in legislative affairs through its alignment with the Liberal group. Its state organization, the Minnesota Federation of Labor, helps finance most liberals in their campaigns, in rural as well as city areas.

Much has been said and written about racketeers, radicals and roughnecks in the labor movement. The public has little to fear from them. They are mere shadows that draw attention away from the objectives of organized labor and permit the real leaders to carry on their program of dominating the political scene as well as the industrial.

The leaders of the labor movement are dedicated men who live and work for the day when labor can write its own ticket in the legislative halls of every state and the national capitol. They are men with ideals and they deplore the presence of racketeers, radicals and roughnecks in their organizations. R. A. Olson and Neil Sherburne, president and secretary of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor, are such men.

Like labor leaders throughout the country, they are anxious, however, to have a dominating position in legislative repealed. They want no laws prohibiting strikes by public employees. They object to the secondary boycott, union stability and other restrictive measures adopted to curb union practices that affect the general public.

The labor movement throughout the country, since it has developed into the biggest organization the world ever has seen, has other ambitions of a public nature.

It wants to set the tax policies of the state and nation. It wants to determine the education policies of the state and nation. It wants to determine the education policies. It is deeply interested in public welfare, and wants to write the laws on this subject. It has its own ideas on old age assistance, unemployment insurance and workmen's compensation. It has plans for highway activity, police power, conservation and many other subjects with which the legislature deals.

Labor leaders admit that many of their proposals are not in agreement with the thinking of the people on the farms and in small town business. Yet, they are working for the day when their own plans can be put into effect.

With the governor and house of representatives standing with them, they are looking forward to the 1958 election when they hope to capture the state senate, too. With a majority in both houses and a governor who works with them, they can expect a complete new deal in the 1959 legislature.

The Minnesota Federation of Labor has a huge fund available for legislative elections. Its constitution provides for an assessment of 20 cents per member per year for legislative elections. Its present membership thus provides it with some $35,000 a year to spend on legislative campaigns—$70,000 for the two-year period between elections, an average of more than $1,000 for each of the state's 67 legislative districts.

Already the labor leadership in Minnesota is marking up its lists for the 1956 state senate elections. Many of its house members do not need more than a couple hundred dollars for their campaigns, leaving a huge sum to be added to the average for the "tough" districts.

The plan for this session is to get as many bills as possible through the friendly house to embarrass the individuals in the senate and give the labor leaders the material they want for the effort to oust the present senate control.

The 1957 sessions should be an interesting one for every citizen of the state.

Drivers Reminded to Look out for Fatigue

Watch out for driver fatigue, it causes a dangerous slow-down of brake reaction time. This was the warning issued by the Minnesota Highway Department after thousands of tests were made at the recent Upper Midwest Automobile show in Minneapolis.

Department driver examiners checked the time needed to remove the foot form the accelerator to the brake pedal by several hundred exhibitors at the beginning of the day. Many of these exhibitors were retested at the end of the day after they had spent eight to ten hours on the show floor.

The rechecks showed a loss in efficiency ranging from 50 to 100 per cent due to fatigue — tired legs just couldn't move as fast after a day's work.

Average time on the Aetna reactometer was three-eights of a second, equivalent to three-fourths of a second of perception time—that time needed to recognize danger, plus reaction time needed to apply the brakes. At a speed of 60 miles an hour this meant that the driver's automobile traveled 66 feet BEFORE the brakes were applied. For an average pleasure vehicle the braking distance is 300 feet, making a total of 366 feet needed to stop at that speed.

However, the evening time slowed to between one-half and one second as tired muscles and brains moved more slowly. At 60 miles per hour, the vehicle travels 88 feet per second. Adding reaction time to perception time, the average driver tested took one to two seconds to apply the brakes, equivalent to the vehicle traveling 88 to 176 feet, again BEFORE the brakes were applied. The resultant stopping distance was increased from 388 to 476 feet at this high speed.

The warning by the driver examiners to "Slow Down When You're Tired" was appropriate to the January traffic safety program being conducted by the department in cooperation with the National Safety council. This month's theme "Bad Weather Driving" is a reminder that winter weather places an additional burden on the driver. Fewer hours of daylight, rain, snow, sleet spattered windshields, the glare of sun on snow or ice, fog and frequent overcast all serve to reduce the distance a driver can see to a dangerous minimum, they pointed out.

Green Feeding—Walter Olson, farmer near Fergus Falls, has completely revamped a hilly 80 acre farm that was full of quackgrass and thistles and badly eroded when he moved on the place in 1942. Last year, Olson harvested 4,000 bales of alfalfa hay, filled three silos with oats and corn, and pastured 16 topnotch dairy cows on the farm. He uses rotation pastures and also cuts some with the forage chopper and feeds the green material to dairy cows in a feeding lot. He crops only the valleys and hill tops and has stopped erosion, reports Ervin Junkans, soil conservation agent in West Otter Tail county.

Buckwheat Seed Preferred—Many farmers in northern Minnesota would like to aid the native wildlife. Bob Farmes, Game Biologist at Thief River Falls, suggests scattering a few pounds of buckwheat seeds in dry burnouts and on newly cleared land that won't be cropped. He says Sharptail grouse prefer buckwheat seed.

Saves Working Time—Russell Miller used the wheel-track corn planting system on 10 acres of his farm near Le Sueur last summer. That system eliminated all the disking that he normally does to "work up" the field for corn. He planted the corn directly on freshly-plowed soil. His corn yields averaged about 75 bushels per acre on fields planted by the wheel-track method, and the same for fields worked up and planted in the conventional manner. By not disking the 10-acre field, Miller saved a half-day's work.

Wind Erosion Control—Good soil management has converted the "River Beacon Farm" south of St. Paul Park into a highly productive livestock business, reports Clifton Hanley, Washington county soil conservation agent. Gordon Gunderson, manager of the farm, says that wind strip-cropping there has done wonders. Field strips have been established on half of the 750 acres of cropland. Twenty-five thousand trees have been planted in shelter belts.

Governor Orville Freeman receives his Salk vaccine shot from Dr. William E. Prödli of Minneapolis while Mrs. Freeman looks on. Mrs. Freeman was also vaccinated. Governor Freeman is urging that all Minnesotans, adults as well as children, be vaccinated against paralytic polio in time to receive their third shot prior to the polio season next summer.

Governor Orders Stiffer Penalty for Drunk Drivers

Drunk drivers whose drivers licenses are revoked must now wait 30 days before getting their driving privileges reinstated.

Gov. Freeman issued the order Sunday as part of a stepped-up safety program. Previously drivers showing financial responsibility had been able to have their licenses reinstated in a short time.

Freeman also ordered that persons whose licenses are suspended for driving violations must pass the written section of the drivers test before getting the licenses reinstated.

River Valley

Evelyn Prigge accompanied Lloyd Myrum back to Keewatin Sunday where she will visit with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Myrum.

Farmers in soil conservation districts last year converted more than 1.3 million acres of cropland to grass and trees, according to a summary released by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.
